THE PRAYER OF A TIRED HEART
I kneel to thee, O Father, here alone,
The words I feign would speak I cannot say,
Dost thou hear when the heart alone dost pray,
And for sins unexpressed dost thou atone?

All day I've striven with the world outside,
And often I did stray so far from thee!
Yet still I heard thy voice speak unto me,
And felt thy hand in mine to lift and guide.

If I forget, O Father, thou dost not!
Still in thy memory folded deep I rest,
So warm and so unworthy to be blest—
This soul of mine with many a sin-sown spot.

But Christ can understand my grief and pain,
For he has known it all and did drink deep
The cup of life's dark woes and still doth keep
Its memory, even in his blessed gain.

And he will tell thee, Father. He will press
Upon thy heart the knowledge of my state;
And thou who art so wise and great
Will understand the pain of earthliness.

"If I forget thee, God, let my right hand forget her cunning," so the psalmist prayed.
And so I pray: And when my lips are stayed,
Father, hear my heart and understand.
—Ethel M. Lightness.

Travel Class Outing.
The Travel class held its annual outing on Saturday with a 1:00 o'clock luncheon at the Lakeview club house, with covers laid for sixteen. The place cards were unique, being a small envelope on the outside of which was printed a conundrum, the answer to which was on a card inside the envelope. Before the members left the table, papers were passed, on which each drew from memory, a map of Mexico, in which country they "traveled" this year. The prize for the best map went to Mrs. George W. Delaplaine, and was a piece of Mexico pottery. The officers for the coming year were elected. President, Mrs. Geo. W. Delaplaine; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Henry W. Huiskamp. Patrons of Hippodrome.
Amusement seekers of Keokuk will be treated to one of the grandest moving picture programs ever presented at the Hippodrome tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Two of the stellar attractions for this day are Francis X. Bushman in "Dear Old Girl" and Mary Pickford in "Wilful Peggy."

"Dear Old Girl" with the world's most popular photo-player Francis X. Bushman, is by far the most thrilling romance ever filmed and critics have proclaimed it to be Bushman's greatest triumph. It is a story that will thrill as long as human emotions control us, and every lady in Keokuk, especially those who are lovers of romance, should make arrangements to attend the showing of this excellent photoplay.

Mary Pickford in "Wilful Peggy" is one of the sweetest stories ever told and is sure to please the most refined tastes of "movie" enthusiasts.

Tonight, Charles Chaplin, the irresistible comedian of the Essanay company, is featured in another great two reel comedy entitled "Caught in a Cabaret."

Can you imagine what Charlie will do when caught in a cabaret? Be sure to see what Charlie will do, as we assure you that you will laugh heartier at this Chaplin comedy than you ever did before.

Besides this grand comedy we will show Vitagraph's latest release entitled, "Pillars of Flame," a gorgeous society drama in two acts, featuring those two favorite idols of the screen, Norma Talmadge and Harry T. Morey.—Advertisement.

Big Opening Tonight at Colonial.

Four big reels of high class pictures will be shown as heretofore only the admission price has been cut to 5c. A regular 10c show at 5c. Bring your friends. Come and spend the evening at the Colonial and enjoy a big 10 cent show at city prices. 5c to all. The program will be changed daily and an excellent line of pictures has been booked. Don't miss the big program. Tonight four high class reels of pictures. The Colonial will cater to a large family trade and will give them the very best show for the money. Convince yourself. Go tonight. Big opening.—Advertisement.

At the Orpheum Theatre.
At the Orpheum tonight one of the best two reel features of the season. A great stunt drama "The Mysterious Contraraw." Thrills? I guess so. Featuring Wm. Clifford and Marie Walcamp. See this if you want to see some entirely new "movie" stunts. The thrilling leap from an automobile as it leaps down a three hundred foot cliff; the aeroplane race, Marie Walcamp as she jumps from an aeroplane, hundreds of feet in the air—Wonderful. Also King Baggot in "Tony," an Italian play, and then not but least, Eddie Lyons who is making them all take notice in his clever comedies. "Eddie's Little Nightmare," Eddie, waiting for his fiancée to dress, has a horrible dream in which he becomes the father of seventeen ugly, squalling, vomiting brats. Discouraged by his nightmare, Eddie breaks his engagement on awakening and sails for the Fiji Islands. Coming tomorrow, "Monday," a play of love's devotion. "The Troubador." Big U. drama, featuring Murdock Macquarrie and Agnes Vernon, a strong play in a great western setting. Murdock Macquarrie in a picturesque Mexican costume and Agnes Vernon being serenaded behind convent walls tell a beautiful love story which you must not miss. See Hobart Henley in the great escape scene. "The Black Pearl." The gripping realism of this powerful, sensational play is startling. There is no camera faking in the big scene. Hobart Henley is actually bound to a heavy wooden bed. His powerful strength alone enables him to effect his own rescue in a strange and novel way. Don't miss this big feature. The interest is intense in every scene. It's the real thing with a punch. At the Orpheum, the home of exclusive Universal pictures.—Advertisement.

Keeping Their Heads.
Los Angeles Times: America is to be congratulated upon the absence, not only of riots, but even of mass meetings during the emergency which has just confronted it. It shows a fine national tone, dignity and sense of security. It is a silent affirmation of this country's confidence in its president, in its citizenship and in the ability of its government to meet any emergency that could possibly arise.
