WHEN I GROW OLD.

When I grow old God grant that every child Will feel the youthful texture of my soul

And will not turn away from me As from a shade or shrunken vine, When I grow old.

When I grow old God grant that I may have some task Which must be done, or some one else must do—

That in some corner of the earth Some one will need my hand, When I grow old.

—Harper's Magazine.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

Higher than the question of our duration is the question of our enduring. Immortality will come to such as are fit for it, and he who would be a great soul in the future, must be a great soul now.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

If it keeps raining, Iowa never will to dry.

Salt Lake City authorities turned down all bids for $300,000 of city bonds because the best bid offered, with commissions deducted, ran the price below par.

Hick Colgan, the famous wolf catcher, who lives near Atchison, Kans., has captured a total of 729 wolves.

He receives a bounty of $5 for gray wolves and $1 for coyotes. Since the first of this year he has captured thirty-nine.

J. H. Allen of Pocahontas, Iowa, is sending out official notification to the press of the state that he has decided to submit his candidacy for the nomination for the office of governor to the republican voters at the coming primary.

Some of the critics of Mr. Harding seem to forget that his merits as a candidate have been twice submitted to the republicans at a primary and twice to the whole electorate at an election and that in all instances the Sioux City candidate came through with handsome pluralities, says the Journal.

In view of the record does not criticism of Mr. Harding imply criticism of the judgment of a majority of the voters of Iowa as expressed no longer ago than November, 1914?

The Burlington Hawk-Eye has entered upon its seventy-seventh year. It has had a long and useful career, which we trust will not close for many, many years to come.
