

INDIANS WIN GAME AND SECOND PLACE

Tribe Takes Eagles to the Cleaners in Hot Battle Staged on Muscatine's Home Grounds.

ERROR IS RESPONSIBLE

Tribe Makes Winning Run in the Fifth Frame on Muff—Cooper Wild, But Holds Hits Scattered.

[Special to The Gate City.] MUSCATINE, Iowa, Aug. 25.—By trimming the Muskies yesterday afternoon in a close game by a three to two score, Keokuk took second place away from Muscatine, who had held the position since the opening of the season.

An error in the fifth gave Keokuk the winning run. Wagner was punched for eleven blows by the tribe, but he held them so widely scattered that only two runs were counted from the whole bunch.

Cooper was wild yesterday, but was also fortunate in keeping the hits of Muskies well scattered, six being garnered off his delivery.

The Indians had a big inning in the first frame. Wagner was unable to hold the tribesmen and two were counted for the visitors before three outs could be made.

After this disastrous frame, Wagner rallied and pitched fine ball for the rest of the game. Muscatine tallied first in the fourth inning. Keokuk made this up in the fifth when an error let in the third and last of Keokuk's runs.

The Muskies came back in the sixth and touched Cooper's delivery for another run and for the following three innings tried desperately to tie up the score.

There was an exceptionally large crowd at the game, the knowledge that the two teams were fighting for second place being the drawing card.

Score by innings: Keokuk 200 010 000—3 11 11 Muscatine 000 101 000—2 6 1 Batteries: Cooper and Brown; Wagner and Huska.

The Warsaw Gate City

Warsaw, Ill., Aug. 25, 1915.

Miss Hannah Goehring of Chicago arrived home Tuesday last, to spend her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Goehring.

Miss Agatha Hoffman returned Sunday from a visit to her niece Mrs. Herbert Ferguson (nee Hilda Hoffman), at Lynn, Mass. Young Ferguson, nineteen months old, is a lively boy and weighs thirty pounds.

Four new enterprises located in Warsaw in one month; small ones, but big needed, nevertheless.

A fine string of black bass, crappie, perch and salmon—over a dozen fish in all—were caught at the Fourth street bridge Tuesday morning by one of our early risers.

County Advisor Wilson at Rochelle, August 12 and 13, Messrs. Joe Fry, Walter Van Pappelendam, C. H. Conrad and myself made a trip to Rochelle, Ill., to study sweet clover on the farm of Willard Graham. About six miles south of Rochelle we saw a field of sweet clover that was in full bloom. Inquiry was made at the next house as to whom the field belonged. We found that it belonged to a large cattle feeder. His story was something like this. He had watched sweet clover as grown by Graham at Rochelle and made up his mind to try some of it. Sowed a field and found that it made splendid cattle pasture and two to three times as much of it as anything else would. Then when his cattle could not keep it down he cut a hay crop from it, that made about two tons per acre. The cattle liked this hay and did better on it than any other hay that he had fed. Then he invited us to go to the barn to see his sweet clover hay. He said that the sweet clover was cut and that it rained on it for seventeen days and then he got a chance to put it up. From the appearance of the hay it was hard to believe that it had lain out in that much rain but people there told us that he was a reliable man. We know this much because we saw it. The horses were eating the sweet clover hay with as much relish as I ever saw hay eaten by horses. The horses were in good shape and showed that they were kept at hard work. The barn was full of sweet clover hay and no other hay was in sight.

There were forty acres of sweet clover on this farm. Land was valued at about $200 per acre. He sowed it

APPRAISER'S JURY NAMED BY COUNCIL

Board of Three Citizens Who Will Value Land Which is to be Used in Bridge Approach Selected.

WILL REPORT ON VALUE

These Appraisers Will State Amount Which They Believe Will be a Fair Figure to Pay for the Land.

The city council has appointed a committee of three appraisers to estimate and assess damages resulting from the condemnation of the land necessary to extend the new bridge approach through to Second street to come out at the rear of the Bloom-Coller building. This committee will be composed of A. J. Hardin, Asaph Buck and A. H. Evans.

The proposed new street that will lead to the approach to the upper level of the bridge when the reconstruction is completed, will be extended from its outlet on First street diagonally through block 12, just above 1/2 Main street. A resolution condemning the property over which the street is to run was passed by the city council July 28, and appraisement of the property ordered.

The property condemned for the new street is in lots 10, 11 and 12, of block 12. These lots constitute the southeast quarter of the block which is bounded by Main, First, Blondeau and Second streets. The street will run diagonally through these lots from the middle of the block on the block on the Main street side.

The purpose of the construction of the street is to provide an easy grade for vehicles passing between the bridge and the top of the Main street hill. The upper end of the new street will come out on Main, 100 feet below Second street, affording a maximum grade of two per cent from the bridge level to this point. This will eliminate a grade of over 10 per cent from First street to the point on Main where the new street will connect with Main.

The property condemned is owned by Mary McCarty and A. J. Dimond. The street will be fifty feet wide through these three lots and the property condemned amounts to 79,100 acres. There is but one building on the property, a brick residence which can be moved back on the lot when the street is put through.

The city council has appointed a committee of three appraisers to estimate and assess damages resulting from the condemnation of the land necessary to extend the new bridge approach through to Second street to come out at the rear of the Bloom-Coller building. This committee will be composed of A. J. Hardin, Asaph Buck and A. H. Evans.

AMUSEMENTS.

Elele Janis at the Grand Tonight. One of the best casts yet to be shown in motion pictures, appears tonight and tomorrow in The Caprices of Kitty, at the Grand. The story is the work of Elsie Janis, a delightful Broadway star who is climbing rapidly to the top in comedy parts, and who heads the cast of the picture. There also appears Myrtle Stedman, leading woman of "Wild Olive," a recent Paramount picture shown at the Grand, and of "Hypocrites," and Courtenay Foote, who was the leading man in "Hypocrites."

The Caprices of Kitty gives Elsie Janis, a very young leading lady, the chance to play the kind of character for which she is justly famous—a romping miss who can climb a tree and then into a window in a way to make a small boy jealous. The opening episode is set at a school for girls and the heroine is not to be found. A note tells that she is out with her new automobile. A tire bursts and she has a time wondering how late she is, she can hardly lift it for it is a big one—is to be placed on the rim. The school girl's name is Kit. Kit soon has an offer of assistance made by a dashing young man (Courtenay Foote) who quite fills her mental picture of a hero as set forth in a book "Love at First Sight." To get back to the school building without the teachers knowing how late she is, she climbs a tree and then clambers in through a window to her room. The next time she goes out, she is accompanied by a chaperone whom she contrives to leave by the roadside for a time. Circumstances bring it about that the man is needed to take both her and the teacher back to the school in his automobile and from this comes an engagement. But her guardian makes her sign an agreement not to see her new fiancee for six months. She disregards it and manages to see him several times in disguise through which he himself doesn't always see. It turns out that by her father's will, she would have lost her fortune otherwise since it would have shown that she preferred the money to the lover. She has proved that she does not and so her guardian turns over to her the fortune left by her father.—Advertisement.

Worth Weight in Gold.

Abingdon, Va.—Mrs. Jennie McCall of this place, says, "I had been troubled with female complaints for over ten years. I could not walk or stand on my feet, and had been almost confined to the house for a long time. I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk anywhere I want to go. Cardui is worth its weight in gold." This is a high estimate on a plain, herb medicine, yet there are thousands of women who would gladly pay this price for a remedy to relieve their suffering. Cardui has helped others. Why not you? Try it. Your druggist sells it, in $1 bottles.—Adv.

In case the Arabic was torpedoed without warning, except regret that American citizens happened to be drowned—all this opened up the possibility of unsatisfactory conclusions. But it was also recognized that a good deal of water had flown under the mill since the week of the Lusitania. Beyond all else, the reasoning tania. Beyond all else, the reasoning market was this morning that the German government is taking what would in any case, be the first step toward safer disavowal.
