

People who use Peruna

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors, who only relieved me for a little while, I gave up all hope of being cured. I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My health never was better."

FOR INDIGESTION

Mrs. W. R. Whitehead, R. R. 1, Pryor, Oklahoma, writes: "I am happy to tell you that I keep free from my old stomach trouble; feel no catarrhal symptoms at all. I am able to do my work, eat and drink what I want, and rejoice to know that I found a sure cure in your valuable medicine. I think it saved my life. By beginning in time with Peruna I was cured sound and well."

SECOND LECTURE BY MISS BROWN

Development of Homes, Architecture and Decoration of Homes is Topic of Yesterday's Lecture.

WAS AT MRS. BAKER'S

Baker Residence and Power House Are Used as Examples of Good Architecture—Speaker Praises Pictures.

A very interested and appreciative audience heard Miss Brown's second lecture in the club extension course on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eugene S. Baker. They were interested in the lecture and appreciative of the kindness of Mrs. Baker in sharing with them some of the treasures of her beautiful home.

In her talk, Miss Brown said: "When at the end of six days of creation, God pronounced the world as good, He gave it into the hand of man as His steward. Man's faithfulness to that stewardship is recorded in the way they have used the elements in the maintenance of life, in the progress of civilization and in creating the comforts and even the luxuries of life. We are to speak today on the homes, some of the beautiful things which come into them and how those beautiful things may minister to us and enrich our lives.

"It is interesting to trace the sources whence homes came; they at first only ministered to the needs of men to protect them from the elements which surrounded them. The husbandmen lived in huts, the hunters in caves and the Arabs on the desert in tents; where nature provided stone, the first homes were built of stones. In the forests they were made of wood and on the desert where neither wood nor stone was available, the tents were made of the skins of animals."

Fine Architecture Here.

Miss Brown then traced the development of architecture by some of its forms and drew a clear distinction between mechanical arts and fine arts. She explained why America has no distinctive style of architecture, and said: "The three great principles of architecture are stability, utility and beauty. I am told that the builders of the power house here, built with no idea of any particular architectural design, they built for strength and utility, along the line of least resistance and the result is a building of real classic beauty."

She then spoke of the architectural value of the Baker residence and said: "This building is a perfect example of the Italian renaissance. The straight lines of the building and windows in a line, and the balcony all conform to this style. The inlay of brick forming a frieze, and the balustrade on the roof line are added to give grace to what might otherwise have been a severely plain structure, although architecturally correct. Above the entrance the three windows in group with the marble entablature belongs distinctively to the renaissance."

The interior of the house as Miss Brown explained is of the Italian renaissance, blended with some characteristics of the French period of Louis XV. As illustrative of this French touch was cited Mrs. Baker's handsome French parlor, which is done in rose and a soft shade of gray with the gold furniture characteristic of that period. The room is a perfect gem with its satin tapestry and exquisite curtains.

Decorations of Walls.

Miss Brown did not find it possible to pass by the beautiful oriental rugs and carpets and she spoke of some examples which had not been dealt with in her former rug lecture. She spoke of the decoration of walls, how the first homes on the deserts, the tents, were painted by the women, and how the wall coverings in the feudal castles were used to relieve the coldness of the stone walls and finally an artistic sense entered into the idea of wall coverings and frescoes, mosaics and tapestries were developed. The tapestries on the walls of Mrs. Baker's home were discussed and the design particularly of the reception hall tapestry was explained. She talked of the correct placing of pictures on the walls and the part pictures served in beautifying instead of disfiguring as they some times do, a home. Four exquisite water colors were shown and one crayon in colors of a dancing girl.

Pictures by Upp.

She spoke then in detail of the three pictures painted by Mr. George Upp, which are on the walls. One was of a wild turkey which has just been shot and hung on an old barn door, against the door leans a gun. The picture is most realistic, there is no imagination about it, it is the door and the turkey and the gun, and yet it is artistic in the extreme. It shows what Mr. Upp does, he makes art out of plain every day subjects. The other picture is of a boy and four or five little kittens sitting on the floor. There is a rag carpet on the floor, and two or three books lying on the floor. Back of the boy is a table on which rests a coal oil lamp. You feel when you look at it as if you wanted to laugh with the boy, and pet the kittens.

Miss Brown spoke with the greatest appreciation of Mr. Upp. She said: "However one might differ with him on the matter of the subjects he chooses as studies, no one could fail to see that his work is true. There is nothing superficial, it's all true. He follows no school of painting, he has worked out for himself his own ideas and his work will live."

Every woman who attended the lecture, whether she is a frequent or only an occasional visitor at the Baker house, came away richer in appreciation of the beauty of that home and with an understanding of the value of beauty as well as utility in a home.

AVIATOR WAS SENT BACK AGAIN

Escaped From Switzerland After Having Given His Word He Would Stay.

(By United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Sept. 24.—(By mail.)—Gilbert, the famous French aviator, who following his last brilliant exploit was obliged to land in Switzerland where he was interned and from where he later escaped only to be returned by the military authorities of France because he had not succeeded in withdrawing his word of honor in time, is now kept guarded in a barrack at Adermatt.

This is some 350 kilometers from Geneva, and at an altitude of about 4,500 feet. It is only reached by a mostal diligence.

Gilbert is kept under guard in a little room fitted only with a bed, washstand, table and two chairs. He is allowed to go out two hours a day under the escort of a petty officer and to eat at a hotel under the surveillance of a detective. He is not permitted to have over 20 francs at one time.

Gilbert refused, this time, to give his word of honor not to escape. The Swiss, therefore, are taking no chances.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—(By mail.)—Dentists have returned to the defense of "la patrie" 60,000 men who otherwise would have been unable to continue fighting. This number is equivalent to two French army corps.

With the opening of the present war, most of the Parisian dentists offered their services free both to the wounded and to private citizens who because of dental defects could not be accepted as soldiers.

Hundreds of men were unable to masticate army rations. These have been rendered capable of military service, while thousands of others who have come back from the front with their teeth and jaws shot away have been put in trim to return to the ranks.

The Warsaw Gate City

Warsaw, Ill., Oct. 31, 1915.

The Evangelical Ladies' Aid society has changed the date of the social gathering at luncheon from the first Thursday evening in November to the first Thursday evening in December.

Gus Hertzler, division roadmaster of Chicago and Alton railroad, at Booth, Mo., is a home visitor this week. He is an old railroad man who is greatly appreciated by those who are familiar with his ability and experience.

James Crane of Green Bay, Wis., is visiting his brother Chas. B. Crane. Mrs. Robert Fuehlin of Quincy is here visiting relatives. Her husband will arrive Sunday. They were formerly residents of Warsaw.

Mrs. Thomas Edwards and Mrs. Anna Johnston are in St. Louis visiting Mrs. Frank Miller, sister of Mrs. Johnston.

Mr. Fred Gosewisch, the weather man of Keokuk, was calling on Warsaw friends Thursday. Miss Stella Lewis has returned from Chicago.

About twenty Warsaw music lovers went to Keokuk Wednesday evening to hear Fritz Kriester, the great violinist.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schilman and Misses Flora Hamel, Clara Reich and Emma Lohr spent last Sunday in making the trip in the Schilman car.

Irvin Meyer, manager of the Farmers' elevator, says that wheat is full of weevil and urges farmers to take precautionary measures when binning their wheat.

The city scales on Fifth street have been repaired thoroughly and are now in good order and ready for business. Daniel Ernst is city weigher and is a faithful officer.

John Fawcett's masquerade hall was held at Odd Fellows hall Friday night, Oct. 29. There was a large crowd, many from Keokuk, and the best of order prevailed. There were some very handsome costumes and some very comical. Music was by Warsaw orchestra.

Warsaw will probably have her long talked of new "white way" before Christmas. As before stated, it will extend from Second to Seventh street on Main, six 12-foot iron posts to a block, three on each side of the street. Each post will have three lights, two will be switched off at 11 p. m., and one will burn all night. They will have underground wiring.

The poles are to be paid for by private subscription, and the Keokuk Electric company will install the system, including poles, wiring, lamps, etc.

The new moving picture theatre of Mr. Frazer is about ready for the floor and the painters. Handsome electric light fixtures have been ordered. The Mrs. Earl Dennis and little son of New Canton, Ill., are here for a week's visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. Jackson.

The Plymouth, Ill., oil field is growing in output and interest. An auto party consisting of Earl Wallace, Robert Hopkins, John D. Hopkins, Harry Hopkins, Lewis Riley, Marvin Sack and Ross Harding went over there last Sunday. Some of the wells are reported in the Quincy Herald of Friday as greatly increasing in their flow.

Our old friend ex-Congressman James McKinney of Aledo and H. A. J. McDonald of Rock Island were here last Friday, meeting old friends. They were traveling over this congressional district, with a possible view of Mr. McKinney's candidacy for the republican congressional nomination next year. There is no question but that he would poll a big vote and the republicans cannot find a better candidate.

Geo. J. Risto in a Ford auto, and Mr. Geise of Quincy in a heavier car, collided head-on at a sharp turn in the road two miles south of Lima, as Mr. Risto was returning from Quincy. Mr. Geise was at fault as he acknowledged and Mr. Risto's car received the greater damage. The former brought Mr. Risto and his auto to Warsaw. Mr. Geise agreeing to pay for material and parts necessary for repairs, and Mr. Risto paying for labor. Fortunately neither gentleman was hurt.

Mrs. Wm. Hartley of Keokuk visited with Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Hartley Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary Ayers of Carthage visited with her daughter Mrs. Mary Parker the past week.

Walter Dross is home from a business trip to St. Louis. Many strange autos were buzzing around town on Friday. Warsaw has a good many visitors by auto, and would have a good many more if we only had a good river road between Hamilton and Warsaw.

Our people are strong in their desire to have the trolley up town once more. It surely made things lively and more than twice as many Keokuk people, came to see us then, than now. No lack of power now for we have the dam.

Miss Sue Richardson is the guest of Miss Grace Edwards.

Mrs. Frank Bruner of near Ewing, Mo., and Mrs. Anna Snyder of near Palmyra, Mo., are guests of Mrs. Ella Godeertz.
