Baseball Magnates Are Out of the Trenches at Last

Federal O. B. War is Now Thing of the Past

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 23.—The boys are out of the trenches. Not only that, but the erstwhile warring magnates have shaken hands all around and gone home. The baseball war is over.

Magnates, scouts, job-hunting players and managers today engaged in the wildest scaramoche in the history of the game. Gumshoe agents buttonholed desirable players and offered them teams while other scouts scurried around for the cream of the Federal league's playing timber. The redistribution of players was expected to bump a horde of ball players off the payroll and even a number of managers were scanning the "help wanted" columns of employment.

Roger Bresnahan leaned toward Toledo in the American association, according to gossip. Branch Rickey's next job was a choice of several openings, but with the amalgamation of the St. Louis Browns and Browns under ownership of Phil Ball who will buy the Brownies, Fielder Jones was certain to get the helm.

Two major league clubs, the Cubs of Chicago, and the St. Louis Browns will change hands, according to the announcement of the peace meeting here. Chas. Weeghman, the Chicago sandwich king, will buy the Cubs from Chas. P. Taft and retain Joe Tinker as manager.

Flopping players who leaped from the majors to the Federals were granted amnesty in blanket form by the agreement. The Federals as a league assume responsibility for all contracts made by clubs in the outlaw circuit.

Brooklyn Matter Settled.

Only a brief paragraph in the official communique dealt with the Ward controversy in Brooklyn. The Wards spent $400,000 boosting the Silver League. The statement said Brooklynites would be reimbursed. It was learned, however, that the American and National leagues will take the burden by paying the Wards the four hundred thousand. Payments are to be at the rate of $20,000 a year.

The Federals organized baseball, being little playmates together, are going to quit slinging mud and do their best to repair the damage they did while the fight was on, the announcement said in stating all suits filed during the war would be withdrawn.

Though the meeting smoothed out the major troubles there remains an international league howl to be hushed. Jack Dunn, exiled from Baltimore with his International League troupe by the Federals' invasion, stood up in class and roared for his place in Maryland. Terms will be considered again at the national commission meeting here January 3.

Jerry Harrington and the First Real Indian Ball Player

Old Keokukians will read with interest the following story concerning the late Jerry Harrington, who formerly played baseball in Keokuk.

Sovalex was not the first Indian to play professional baseball, but as he was nicknamed, was the first Indian to make the majors, and his wonderful batting, while a member of the Cleveland Nationals back in the '90s, is a matter of baseball history.

Back in 1888, Jerry Harrington, the ex-Cincinnati catcher, was temporary manager for the Decatur, Ill. team, and he was tickled to death that he was temporary manager, for, according to his story, the team was the funniest bunch of ball players he ever met. There were just about four real players on the lineup, the rest were greasers, and it was a mystery to Jerry how they ever got on the payroll.

He dashed for third when he noticed the wild throw and was well headed for it when the Indian shot the real ball right at third base in plenty of time to get the runner had the third baseman been watching. But he wasn't. He was watching the manager chasing the potato and the real ball hit him square in the eye and knocked him flat or his back. The trick was all right and would have gone through only the tricky aborigine forgot to take the third baseman into his confidence.

Just such foolish tricks drove this Indian out of the game, for he was a fine batsman and a pretty good fielder, and the only honor or glory this son of the tall and neat got out of the game was the fact that he was the first real Indian who was signed as a player in organized baseball.

Bennie Kauff May Sign with Giants

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Bennie Kauff, the Ty Cobb of the Federals, may gambol in a Giant make up, next year, if his present negotiations bear fruit. Kauff is said to be dickering with the Giants for reinstatement with the club at the salary named in the contract he signed last year when he hurried from the Brookfeds. Should the Giants agree to his contract, Kauff would become their property under the rules of organized baseball with the declaration of peace.

Kauff's net is for three years at $5,000 with a bonus of $4,000. The bonus is the basis of a suit, brought by the outfielder against the Giants.

Chocolate King and Artist Row. HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 23.—City council is expected to accept the Dance of Eternal Youth, the granite-and-bronze fountain sculptured by Giuseppe Donato of Philadelphia, which was offered to the city last week by M. S. Hershey, chocolate king. Hershey ordered the fountain for his mansion at Hershey, refused to accept the one Donato presented, saying it was not art and was last week ordered by a jury to pay the sculptor his $25,000 for it. He paid it, but at once offered the statue to Harrisburg "to get rid of it."

When Lincoln "Backed Down." Springfield, Mass., Republican: Every time the Mason and Silldell affair is mentioned nowadays, people say how wise President Lincoln was to "back down." Yet there were plenty of people at the time Lincoln backed down who said he was a weakling and a coward.

Special Program Grand Tonight. Paramount Newspictures this week are especially interesting, containing events of importance over the world, in commerce, science, the war and something of the new styles in women's wear from the fashion centers. With the weekly today and tomorrow is shown one of Paramount's best subjects, "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," an elaborate picture made from E. Phillip Oppenheim's thrilling and well-read novel of the same name.

To doubt the quality of a Lasky-Paramount production is to waste your time, but tonight's subject almost exceeds the customary excellence, so finished is it, handled with such perfection of acting, photography and all the essentials that go to make up a great picture.

"Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo," is a tale of European diplomacy, with a dash of love, a princess and a young American in it, the picture even more entertaining than the book.

There is a remarkable timeliness about the play which lends additional interest. Several diplomats meet in Monte Carlo, as if by chance, to arrange an international pact, and draw a new map of the world. The action revolves around the efforts of an English secret service operator to learn the details of the meeting, and a young American who falls in love with the daughter of the grand duke of Russia. Many thrilling episodes occur on land and sea, until the energy and ingenuity of the American wins him a beautiful bride and the undying gratitude of his English friend.

It is an unusually good picture and should be seen by all lovers of the best in screen drama.—Advertisement.

Orpheum Tonight.

Neal of the Navy (Episode No. 9—"The Yellow Peril")—Two parts—Panama films.—After being rescued from a frightful death at the hands of the sun worshippers by American sailors from the cruiser "Albatross," which Neal Hardin is a gunner. Anette rejoices over the recovery of the map of her inheritance, "Lost Isle."

The Hardin party, in their trip southward, land at Tortuga, a mosquito ridden island, where the ship's doctor finds a couple of cases of malignant yellow fever. The American party are immediately quarantined in their hotel and an attempt made to cure the sufferers and check the advance of the disease. Annette and Mrs. Hardin volunteer as nurses, and the first step made is to warn the ignorant natives against the disease carrying mosquitoes. Annette, as nurse, comes to be known as the "little white angel," so tenderly and sympathetically does she go from cabin to cabin to help the native sufferers.

Hernandez, Ponto and the brute, following the Hardin party since in the mosquito pestilence a chance to rid themselves forever of Annette and Neal. Annette and Neal are lured to Hernandez' hut by a lying native, begging their assistance for his sick child. There, after a tremendous night, they are made captives, and let out to a dismal swamp, where, with the coming of night the voracious mosquitoes will make short work of them. How they fare during the long, formidable jungle night is subject for this, the most thrilling episode yet shown in this remarkable series.

The next episode will be called "The Rolling Terror."—Advertisement.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Keokuk Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Keokuk citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Thos. Young, 1518 Bank St., Keokuk, says: "My back was very sensitive and stooping or lifting was painful. I was nervous, didn't rest well nights and mornings, felt languid and depressed. My ordinary household work required an effort. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Wilkinson & Co.'s Drug Store, and the results were perfectly satisfactory. I am now quite free from all trouble." (Statement given May 4, 1910.)

On September 7, 1915, Mrs. Young said: "I gladly confirm the statement I gave endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills before. They proved to be a medicine of merit in my case."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Young has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
