THE HAPPY HOME OF CHILDHOOD
 I am dreaming all the day of that land so far away,
 Where I spent the days of childhood long ago;
 There's no spot so dear to me as the place I long to see,
 'Tis the only home my heart can ever know.
 I can see my mother dear, tolling on from year to year,
 As by faith she made the sweetest blossoms grow;
 Now I sing here this refrain while my heart must still remain
 In the happy home of childhood long ago.

Refrain:
 Then Oh let me go to the dearest spot I know,
 To the place where sweetest fruits and flowers grow,
 By the marble far and wide, near the woods and lakes beside,
 Stands the happy home of childhood long ago.

Oh, some lovely spots I've found, searching this old world around,
 But no matter where my tired feet may roam;
 That one place of all the rest, I shall always love the best,
 For 'twas there I found my childhood's happy home.
 Over on the golden shore, loving friends have gone before,
 We shall join them when our final day appears;
 But while waiting here below it's a pleasant thought to know
 That we loved them in our childhood's happy years.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY.
 That possession which we gain by the sword is not lasting; gratitude for benefits is eternal.—Quintus Curtius Rufus.

Did you enjoy your Christmas?
 And if you are displeased most of the merchants will permit you to exchange your Christmas gifts.

The acid test, as we lamp it, is to eat a cranberry pie into which the thrifty housewife has not put enough sugar.

Hell in Europe, famine in Mexico, indifference in the United States. Funny old world this, says the Donnellson Review.

Christmas has gone and the men are still in the trenches. This is the first time Ford received any advertising that was unfavorable.

The fellow who received several pairs of slippers can exchange a few with the fellow whose stock of the gifts were altogether too numerous.

It is now announced that Champ Clerk will make the speech nominating President Wilson for a second term. Will Colonel Bryan lead the cheering?

A Japanese scientist has invented a seismograph that registers the velocity of earthquakes two-hundred-fold, but it will never be popular in San Francisco.

An eastern judge has ruled that a baby cannot be enjoined from crying, but an old-fashioned man advises that mother take a look for a pain or an attack of colic.

There is manifestly a lack of faith in the administration ability of the party now in control. If full confidence was in evidence the prosperity of this country would be unprecedented.

It remains to be seen whether Secretary Daniels will be able to buy any battleships with the money that Secretary McAdoo has cleverly shifted from one side of the ledger to the other in order to make a financial showing.

Secretary Lane is said to be booked for the seat of Justice Lamar on the bench of the supreme court of the United States. President Wilson does not seem to be enamored of the Taft idea that such places ought to go to a political opponent.

The city circulation of The Gate City increases twenty-nine during the period of a certain contest and the total increase during the life of the contest was approximately 150. Just making a newspaper is the most effective and the most satisfactory way of increasing a subscription list.

J. Fred Helf, author of "Everybody Works but Father," and half a hundred popular songs, is dead. He wrote the airs and ballads that appeal to the public, those ephemeral and simple ones, whistleable tunes that brought joy into the lives of a great many people. Remember Helf's

 The child-labor law in Pennsylvania will go into effect January 1. To meet the requirements, continuation classes will be formed in many of the department stores in Philadelphia. The superintendent of schools announces that nine concerns, employing 1,300 children between the ages of 14 to 16, had notified him that they have arranged to maintain the schools in their own establishments, and would conform with the course of study laid down by the board.

Senator Kenyon has sent to the fourth assistant postmaster general a strong letter of protest regarding the way in which Iowa rural route patrons have been discriminated against. Among other things he said: "From the length of the routes you are establishing in parts of Iowa I would judge that you think we have asphalt pavement through the state. I beg to inform you that we have common dirt roads and there are certain times of the year it will not be possible for rural route carriers to operate daily over the routes you have laid out."

A MESSAGE TO AMERICANS.
 Twice within a few weeks has Rudolph Blankenburg, born in Germany, reborn in the American spirit, delivered a stirring message to his countrymen.

In Philadelphia the president of the United States was among those moved perhaps to tears by his earnest plea for national unity. In New York, Saturday, he told Pennsylvanians, who of all the children of the states most proud of their pedigrees, that "neither British nor German-Americans, nor Irish, Scotch, French, Italian or Russian-Americans" should as such, have weight in our affairs, says the New York World.

The veteran mayor whom Philadelphia, to her cost, is losing, would have us prepare against possible foes, abroad, but more against "the domestic foe who may, unrecognized for years, appeal to our prejudice, our love of riches, our political ambitions and our vanity to upbuild himself on the ruins of a popular government," the partisan politician "to whom party is paramount to conscience."
 Speaking of the day when "selfishness will be supplanted by disinterested service, cowardice by manly courage, indifference by earnest longing to lend a helping hand." Mayor Blankenburg bids us "abolish all distinctions that may lead to ill-feelings, and let us call ourselves, before the whole world, Americans first, last, and all the time."
 Finer words has not been spoken than this message to Americans of a true American citizen.

GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS.
 Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age Gazette, addressing the transportation club of Louisville, Ky., on the subject of "The Government and Business," closed his remarks as follows:

We want government publicity for business methods that are wrong; but we don't want government prying into and espionage of all the details of business. We want enough government control to hinder and punish wrong doing; but we don't want enough to restrict and burden business in everything they do. We want government action that will correct abuses; but we want it to be of a kind which will at the same time stimulate the development of commerce and industry along all legitimate lines. We want government action that will protect every man in his rights; but we don't want government action which will deprive any man, however rich, of the just fruits of his labors, to transfer them to any other man, however poor. We want government regulation that will promote equity in the distribution of wealth; but we don't want government regulation that will interfere with the production of wealth or with the marketing of what is produced in competition with the producers of other countries. In brief, we want government regulation of business, but not government destruction of business.

"MISQUOTED."
 People whose utterances are reported in the newspapers complain daily that they are misquoted, misrepresented; that their words are distorted into sensationalism. The charge is so commonly heard that readers disbelieve whatever they think cannot be true, says the Chicago Tribune.

Of course, newspapers make mistakes. Exigencies of time and space make them unavoidable. Expert reporters occasionally get things hopelessly snarled.
 But the chief cause of misrepresentation in newspapers is the inability of the person interviewed to say what he means. One of the most difficult things a reporter has to deal with is precisely this inarticulateness of almost every person. People misrepresent themselves, in the heat of excitement perhaps, and say things they do not mean. For most of the state or they say so. If a stenographer took down the words in shorthand the result would be the same. These persons simply fail to express themselves clearly.

As a matter of fact most experienced newspaper men do misquote almost daily. They turn ungrammatical sentences into sentences which approximate the rules of speech, and they are inclined to modify rather than sensationalize the words of the victim. For most of these interviewed persons are entirely unpracticed in expressing their opinions for reproduction. They exaggerate and they omit. They make libelous statements, just as any one does in private conversation. And the reporter, because his livelihood depends on his accuracy, is often compelled to write what he thinks the speaker means rather than precisely what he has said. Men who are constantly in the newspapers usually learn how to be interviewed. These men are almost never "misquoted," because they watch each word as it is uttered.

"Owe No Man Anything."
 Fremont Tribune: Someone has conceived the idea of a national pay-up week. This means that during a certain week (February 21-26) everybody under the salary flag will undertake to discharge his financial obligations. It is a great scheme and should be entered into heartily by every patriot who understands the blight of debt. "Owe no man anything" is a Bible injunction. The wisdom of that solemn command is understood only when one imagines the happy condition that would prevail when the world was on a cash basis. It would result in cutting out a lot of coolishness. If we all bought just what we could pay for we would be living within our means and we wouldn't be victims of extravagances that keep us poor and dishonest; for it is downright dishonesty to plunge into debt and let the other fellow carry the burden. We favor a pay-up week, and will instruct the cashier to be on hand early to receive what's coming.

Speaking of Energy.
 Ironquod: Chief: If as much attention was paid to good roads as is paid to politics we would have so many good roads that we wouldn't have a place to put them all.

 Waterloo Courier: Now the anti-suffragists are holding conventions hounding the president. They ought to be at home cooking pies and taking care of the baby.

"WAR IS HELL."

A father looked at the bullet torn corpse of his first born. From the whitened features had gone the blood which made so much for life. Gone were pride, hope, fame, ambition. Gone was the radiant prospect of the ripening years. Gone was all but just the shattered remembrance of what had been a man, the mere representative, the miserable caricature of what had been imbued with the fire of vital and vitalizing humanity. And as he lifted the flag which covered the wasted features and the shell ridden body, the aged man, himself a soldier of two years, without a tear, and that grief is beyond expression which settles tearless on the soul, exclaimed in the transport of that agony which comes but once only in the transitory journey from the cradle to the grave: "To think that this was required of me by England."

And in a far distant land, amid the snows of the Canadian northwest, a mother, with the silver hairs among the gold, read and re-read in the brief army bulletin which told how her son had died at the front, had died with his face to the enemy; had died as he had lived, cleanly and with his eyes toward God; died for a king and a country and she would never see his face again because he was buried in an unknown grave in a foreign land. She thought of the long winter nights when she had charmed the tired eyes to sleep, when outside only the tongue of a mother knows, when she had prayed that the God of the fatherless and the oppressed would spare her boy. And it had all come to this. Just a grave somewhere on a bleak hillside in a land which she had never seen.

Along the banks of the Ganges, in a country which has a civilization older than that of any other country except perhaps that of China, a woman weeps that the man of her choice has perished in the trenches around Ypres. That he perished gloriously for the empire on whose flag the sun never sets, the empire that the sun follows its drumbeat in his majestic march around the world, does not lessen the measure of her grief nor the poignancy of her sense of loss.

ELVASTON, ILL.

Wednesday, as announced, the Hughes-Rehner wedding took place at Peoria. The bride and groom with several of their friends autoed to Peoria from Miss Rehner's home at Casanova, they were driven to the parsonage where the pastor performed the ceremony, using the ring ceremony, Myrtle to Mr. Hughes. The party then motored to the Jefferson hotel where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served in a private dining room. After the breakfast the party went to the depot where Mr. and Mrs. Hughes said farewell and went to Alton, Ill. where they will visit and spend a ten days honeymoon after which Mr. Hughes will spend several months touring the state and giving lectures on Scientific Agriculture at farmers' institutes, under the direction of the State university. Mrs. Hughes has a large acquaintance here, having taught in the higher grades in the local schools for four years, resigning last spring because of her approaching marriage. Mr. Hughes looked after the state experiment work all affairs in general in connection with the various interests in this county relative to agriculture.

The Nauvoo basketball team failed to appear as advertised and so the first team played the second team, the second team defeating the first so badly that the boys are having a merry time explaining how it happened.

J. H. Horney was suddenly taken sick Thursday night while eating supper. He fell forward on the table. Dr. Runyon was called to find that he was suffering a fainting spell.

The two upper rooms of the schools have been reserved for the Christmas party. The instructor, Professor Linebaugh and Miss Trone had arranged a program of games and amusements for the young folks and they gathered early in the evening and had a good time until a late hour. Children's games were played and there was very enthusiastic over the good time they had.

A snow storm that started early Friday morning and continues until the world in general was covered with a blanket of whiteness several inches deep, together with the Christmas programs at the churches and good cheer in general, made an ideal Christmas for young America.

Mrs. Pearl Roseberry has recovered sufficiently from her recent operation to be able to operate the telephone switch board. The many subscribers are glad to hear that she is improving so nicely.

We feel amply repaid for the effort necessary to gather and report news happenings here. Word has been received from a number of ex-Elvaston residents who are now at a distance and who tell us they take The Gate City to get local news and any little item from the old home town is appreciated. We believe that you would appreciate a word from some of you too, so send us a few words about yourselves and we'll forward same with our items.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitcomb, Mrs. Chas. Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Enslow were received into the Baptist church Wednesday night. Those of them not having been baptized were baptized the same evening. This makes fifteen who have joined that church recently and with several others who are to join, the local church will be strengthened considerably.

The local Baptist church are to have a big day December 30. They will on that day ordain Hiram Ingersoll and Joseph McInyer as deacons, and will bestow the honor of the ordination to the ministry upon us. All Baptist churches in the association have been invited to send their pastor and three deacons. Rev. Oliver Reed of First church, Quincy, will preach the ordination sermon in the evening. The service will begin at 2:30 p. m. and a recess will be had at 6 o'clock when a luncheon will be served and the evening services begin at 7 p. m. May we be ever found walking worthy of the honor and calling.

SUFFERED FROM BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE FOR YEARS.

Dear Readers—I wish to tell you that I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for years. I heard of Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets and I tried them. They cured my backache; they do all that is required of them. I hope people that are troubled with backache will give them a good trial. I am sure they will not fail to benefit you.

Yours sincerely,

 Avoca, Iowa.
