

HAD ITS ORIGIN IN EMERALD ISLE

Leap Year Proposal Said to Have Been Established by Good St. Bridget in Years Long Gone By.

ST. PATRICK REFUSED

But Woman Was Entitled to Kiss and a Silk Dress—This Custom Long Since Discarded, However.

To learn the origin of the leap year custom of women proposing marriage to men you must go back to Ireland.

There the legend still is told of the good St. Patrick going to the good St. Patrick in tears. The inmates of her nunnery, prototypes of the modern suffragette, by the way, had risen in anger because they were denied the privilege of popping the question, then solely appropriated by the men as has been the vote in modern times.

St. Patrick, says the legend, thought a while and proposed to allow the women every seventh year. But St. Bridget, throwing her arms around the neck of Ireland's patron saint, begged for every fourth year, to quiet her charges.

And it is recorded that St. Patrick not only yielded, but said he would give the women the longest year in the calendar, leap year. St. Bridget was so delighted that she proposed to St. Patrick on the spot, but as he had vowed celibacy, he was obliged to decline, and in lieu of a husband St. Bridget received a kiss and a silken gown.

Designing Women Win.

So for centuries the custom thus established continued, and the woman who proposed and was rejected was entitled to a kiss and a silk dress, unless the man already was engaged to marry another. As far as history shows, it was not until the prerogative was abused and designing women set out to replenish their wardrobes by proposing to one man after another, that the custom fell into disuse.

Down-trodden man rebelled at last, and with the custom went woman's emancipation for one year in four. But this leap year custom was by no means confined to Ireland. There actually was a law passed in Scotland in the thirteenth century which gave women the right to propose marriage in leap year and provided that the man who was free to marry but rejected such a proposal should pay to the woman a certain amount of money in proportion to his wealth.

The law must have been popular, for in France one like it was enacted after it had been tried out in Scotland, and the king promulgated it in a royal decree.

The cities of Genoa and Florence in Italy passed similar laws later, and in the fifteenth century, it is said, they were still in vogue. Columbus himself is said to have received proposals from several women, but as he had already selected the woman who was to be his wife, he escaped.

Custom is Only Joke.

There is no record that England every dealt legally with the custom, but in the time of Henry VIII it was an unwritten law that woman had the right to propose in leap year and that the man who rejected a woman's proposal had to provide her with a kiss and a silk dress. As late as the eighteenth century homely men paraded English streets, wailing: "No lady will propose to us."

In America leap year has been kept only in jest, and the right conferred upon woman to propose every fourth year is regarded largely as a joke, but every bisextile year sees leap year parties of all sorts and leap year has come to be synonymous with feminine proposals, although the kiss and the silken gown have long since been forgotten.

CONTINENTAL ARMY IS MUSTERED OUT

Senator Chamberlain Turns Them All Loose Before They Are Even Given Caps.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The continental army today appears doomed, and other features of preparedness are so confused that any plan which gets by the house and senate is likely to be the result of many compromises.

Within a day or two, friends of Chamberlain of the senate military affairs committee expect him to announce his flat opposition to the continental army plan. He already has indicated this attitude. When this happens, the situation will be: Secretary Garrison favoring the continental army.

Army officers insisting on a large standing force and reserve. House Chairman Hay advocating building up the national guard.

Senate Chairman Chamberlain favoring universal service under the Australian system.

And these are only the differences among the leaders having the program in charge. There are a half dozen other plans of individual members and the opposition of all pacifists.

One outcome suggested today was that Secretary Garrison might abandon his continental army.

Chamberlain today said he would favor the Garrison national defense plan only as a second choice.

"Like General Wood," he said, "I favor compulsory service under a short term and a provision allowing a soldier his discharge into the reserve when an authorize defector pronounces him efficient. That should be a wonderful stimulant to ambitious young men."

"The continental army is unsatisfactory. It lacks effectiveness. But possibly it has one political advantage which other plans lack—the president favors it. For me, if I can't get pie, I'll take pudding."

MAIL CARRIER HURT BY FALL ON STEPS

James Brerton Was Coming Out of Postoffice When He Fell on Badly Worn Steps.

James F. Brerton, one of the mail carriers at the local postoffice, slipped this morning on the steps at the rear of the building and struck his back. The injury was painful enough to keep Mr. Brerton from making his regular trip.

The two stone steps at the bottom of the flight of iron stairs leading to the rear entrance of the postoffice are badly worn, and treacherous in this season of the year, when ice and snow gather in the depressions and make a bad footing.

MOTHER JONES AS PEACE MAKER

Put an End to Fight Among Miners' Delegates at the Union Convention.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 20.—"Mother" Mary Jones today stamped the convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Following an address in which her unpollished oratory raised the 1,500 miner delegates to a fury of enthusiasm, she forced Duncan McDonald of Illinois, to come up to the platform and shake hands with President John P. White. It ended one of the bitterest struggles that has threatened the miners' organization for years.

The convention, whose resolutions Rudolf Germer, whose resolutions caused the trouble, to meet White on the platform, and when "Mother Jones" joined in the call, Germer clasped hands with White.

With Germer and McDonald won over, "Mother" Jones demanded a vote on Germer's resolution, which called for a committee of three to probe the expenditures of the administration.

There was a tremendous volume of voices to sanction the action of the committee in killing Germer's resolution.

Germer and McDonald had charged on the floor that President White and the other international officers had been guilty of lavish expenditure of miners' money and the debate which had lasted for six and a half hours had carried fraud charges.

At the close of a speech by McDonald, in which he denied charges made by White, "Mother" Jones took the platform. She was "kidded" by Vice President Hayes who said she was not a delegate.

"I'm a delegate to every miners' convention," she retorted.

Then, during her Scotch brogue full play, she began an account of the days when the organization was weak. The little plump figure was rigid and her kindly face was set in hard lines.

The militant little mother of the miners told them they ought to be ashamed of themselves for allowing division to come now when the organization was strong and on the verge of a desperate fight with the operators.

"Boys, listen to mother; let mother talk to you. You don't realize what this administration has been up against."

"Boys, put a stop to it, vote now and end this fight."

The petticoated Billy Sunday then called for McDonald.

"Duncan McDonald," she raised her hand for order. "You come right up here on the platform and shake hands with John White and bury the hatchet."

Miners jumped to their feet, yelling: "Come on. Come on. McDonald, hit the trail," and others yelled, "Good boy. Good boy."

PLOT TO BLOW UP MEXICAN LABORERS

Dynamite Planted in Grain Sacks Near Camp of Santa Fe Men Opposite Quincy.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] QUINCY, Ill., Jan. 20.—With the finding of a large quantity of dynamite concealed among grain sacks in a camp of Mexican laborers of the Santa Fe railroad, authorities of Hart, Mo., just across the river from here, believe they have unearthed a plot to avenge the eighteen Americans massacred in Mexico.

A party burned fuse shows how close the plotters came to success. Special railway detectives and Macon county, Missouri, authorities chased the alleged conspirators through the hills all night. They captured Fred Hilton, a backwoods farmer. He was placed in jail at Macon, Mo., where he maintains that he purchased a large amount of dynamite recently to blow stumps. Other arrests are expected hourly.

Eminent Physicians Failed in Kidney Trouble

I wish to inform you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Swamp-Root. I had been a sufferer for more than three years from Kidney and Liver trouble and was almost constantly treated by the most eminent physicians, who could only give me temporary relief. I could hardly get from one room to the other without help, and had been in bed a few days when I began the use of Swamp-Root. Inside of twenty-four hours I could see some benefit. I continued to use Swamp-Root until I had used two bottles when I really felt that my old trouble was completely cured; and I am positive that any person suffering with kidney or liver trouble can be cured by the use of Swamp-Root. I am 50 years of age and in good health. It has been fourteen years since I had this trouble and I do not know now to express myself as strongly as I desire in favor of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I am sure that it saved my life, and that my health is due to this remedy. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer of kidney trouble.

Yours truly, S. E. TAYLOR, Gainesville, Ga. State of Georgia, Hall County. Personally came S. E. Taylor, to me personally known and who on oath says the facts stated on the opposite page are true. Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23rd day of January, 1915. C. E. SMITH, Notary Public, Hall Co., Ga.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
