Over one hundred people are on the stage during every performance, making it the mightiest play on the planet. There is but one company presenting this masterpiece and only a limited number of cities will be visited. The entire production requires and has a special train for its transportation. Lyman H. Howe's Travelogue. Did you ever hear the call of the mountains and long to be free from the strenuous life in a region where you could wander for untold miles amid scenes of surpassing grandeur and without a trace of a factory or market place--a land as rugged and fresh and unspoiled as it was at the dawn of creation and as serene as the sunset? Did you ever see such a land mirrored in limpid lakes so clearly that you could not tell the reflection from the reality, or ramble through deep forests abounding with foaming cascades and turbulent torrents? Congress thought you should have this privilege and so about five years ago it set aside 1,500 square miles in northwestern Montana and called it Glacier National Park. Here your wish may be realized in a measure surpassing your fondest expectations. But since such few Americans have found the time or means to journey to this common heritage of all, Lyman H. Howe will present it in all its native splendor at the Grand Wednesday, March 29, matinee and night. In these scenes you will see the real west--wild but never "woolly"--in all its wondrous charm.--Advertisement.

"Tennessee's Pardner" at the Grand. The photo-dramatic version of the famous story, "Tennessee's Pardner," which will be at the Grand Sunday and Monday, with Fannie Ward, the beautiful Lasky star, in the title role, was adapted for the screen by the celebrated dramatist, Marion Fairfax. When this story was first written it attracted world-wide interest on account of its graphic pictures of the early gold rush in California and the wonderful influence of a small child over a large number of rough men. In the photo-dramatic version the types and atmosphere of those early days are transferred to the film. Months were spent in preparation for this production; in looking up authorities and securing the necessary equipment for its accurate presentation.--Advertisement.

Mary Pickford in "Such a Little Queen." For sheer charm of story, quaintness and daintiness of the central character, honest sentiment and impressive truths, "Such a Little Queen" is one of the gems of the current era of plays. Mary Pickford, as the little queen, makes one of the best impressions of her brilliant career. There is something indescribably appealing in the personality she portrays; she has dignity and grace, gentleness of manner, charm and winsomeness, and she contrasts most effectively the moods identified with the situation in which disappointment and despair must be concealed under a pretense of cheerfulness and courage. At the Grand next Thursday.--Advertisement.

The Garden of Allah. The Garden of Allah, which will be the attraction at the Grand Friday, March 31, will be a wonderful example of scenic ingenuity. Colorful stage pictures, bizarre, fantastic and picturesque, will breathe the life of atmosphere into this great story of desert life in the far east, and it will be a weirdly wonderful drama of the soul. The Garden of Allah takes first rank with the notable plays of recent years, for the desert and its environs furnish the builders with wide possibilities in the construction of the unusual, the new and the novel, the mystic and the bizarre, in wood and cloth stage views. You are put in tone and harmony with the sentiment of the drama by the very first view, a sunrise in the desert. Across the blooded rays creeping slowly into the heavens, moves a caravan of chattering Arabs, with their swaying camels, their plodding donkeys and bleating goats. Quickly the action of the play then takes you past a view of the desert from a distance, to a crowded street teeming with life and activity, then to the interior of a dance hall where emotions and passions are flung loose in wild abandon. Then your eyes are allowed to feast on a wonderful garden, a refreshing oasis in this whirl of picturesque action. Then the choking thickness of a sand storm in the heart of the desert produces the inclination to cover your face to protect it from the biting particles of sand. Then comes the same scene with the storm over, and the sky filled with blinking stars, is shown in the stillness of fading light. Then you leave the drama at the gate of the monastery, where the stillness is only broken by the melancholy cooing of the doves.--Advertisement.

MANY TROUBLES DUE TO WEAK KIDNEYS "It is no use advertising a medicine unless the medicine itself is good enough to back up the claims you make for it." said Wilkinson & Co., the popular druggists, to a Gate City man. "On the other hand it is a pleasure to sell a medicine when our customers come in afterward and tell us how much good it has done them. And that is why we like to sell and recommend Solvax, the great kidney remedy. Ever since we first introduced Solvax in Keokuk our clerks have been so busy selling it that we have a hard time keeping a sufficient stock on hand. We have so much faith in this article that we are going to guarantee it in the future and will return the money to any purchaser of Solvax whom it does not help. This may seem rash but our customers have said so many good words in its favor that we do not expect to have many packages returned." This shows great faith in Solvax. It really is a most unusual medicine because it overcomes the worst cases of kidney complaint by removing the cause. It goes straight to the seat of the trouble. It soaks right in and cleans out the kidneys and makes them pass off all the uric acid and poisonous waste matter that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatic pains; soothes and heals the bladder and quickly ends all such troubles. Nothing is more uncomfortable or hurts a person's perfect enjoyment of life more than troublesome kidneys and their attending evils. Use Solvax and get your full measure of benefit out of life. -Advertise in The Gate City and get results.
