

EDWIN F. PEABODY DIED IN HOSPITAL

Resident of Keokuk for the Past Three Years, Succumbs to Heart Trouble After Short Illness.

WAS FROM CENTERVILLE

Lived in Neighboring City for Thirty-Five Years—Was Foreman in the Mines at That Place.

Edwin Franklin Peabody, a resident of Keokuk for the past three years, and for thirty-five years preceding his residence here, one of Iowa's best known and most highly respected men, died at St. Joseph's hospital at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from heart trouble.

Mr. Peabody had been ill for the past two weeks but it was not thought that his condition was serious. He was forced to take to his bed on Tuesday night and on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. he was taken to the hospital. His condition was such, however, that he survived but a few hours.

While in Keokuk, Mr. Peabody was employed at the Purdy Oats plant. In Centerville he was a mine foreman for many years, having worked for one company for twenty years. His many friends here all speak in the highest terms of him and his death has been deeply regretted.

The decedent is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Alzada Gray of this city and Mrs. A. G. Ferris of St. Louis. There are three grandchildren and the following brothers and sisters: George Peabody, Centerville; James Peabody, Oklahoma; Henry Peabody, Mexico; Mrs. Mary Whitehouse, Huntsville, Ia., and Mrs. J. B. Walker, Oklahoma.

Mr. Peabody was sixty-five years old on the thirtieth of last December and he was born in Ohio in 1851. Thirty-five years of his life were spent in Centerville and he had been living here for three years. His wife has been dead for four years.

The body will be taken to Centerville on Friday morning and the funeral services will be held from the train.

PHYSICS CLASS TO TAKE TRIP TO DAM

Ft. Madison Teacher Takes Pupils Through Penitentiary and Will Visit Plant Here Next.

Members of the high school physics class, accompanied by their instructor, J. A. Kempkes, took an inspection trip this afternoon through the penitentiary for the purpose of studying the electric plant of that institution. The trip was one of considerable interest aside from the inspection tour of the power house. The various factories located within the prison walls were gone through and the interesting parts of prison system explained. The entire trip was thoroughly enjoyed by the students.

If the plans of Mr. Kempkes culminate, says the Fort Madison Democrat, members of the class will also take a trip to Keokuk and go over the dam and through the power house. It is planned to take the class down in cars as soon as the weather permits and the roads are in good condition. Class members are eagerly looking forward to the trip.

This morning a number of examinations in the grammar schools were given and conducted by some of the classes. The questions were made out by the students and the papers will be corrected by them.

Burlington Passenger Train Plunges Outside of Rails and Locomotive Turns Over.

MACOMB, Ill., March 29.—Three persons were injured and a score or more slightly bruised in narrow escapes at 5:10 o'clock yesterday morning when the engine, baggage and mail cars of Burlington passenger train No. 3 south bound, plunging through an open switch, left the track a mile and a half east of here.

The injured: Joe McNeil, Colchester, Ill., wounded; S. A. Bessel, mail clerk, Quincy, slightly bruised; New at Macomb; A. G. Henry, Galeburg, Bremen, buried under coal and only slightly bruised.

The other cars, including the sleeper, which remained on the track, were crowded with passengers, only the engine turned over, the cars remaining upright. The train was running at the rate of 35 miles per hour when it left the track. Engineer W. E. Schilly of Quincy stuck to the engine and escaped unharmed. The locomotive turned over sideways. In the scramble the fireman was buried underneath the coal pile.

Then I tried "Geta-It" just once and you ought to have seen that corn come off—just like a banana peel." It's simple, wonderful. It's the new way, painless, applied in two seconds, never hurts healthy flesh or irritates. Nothing to press on the corn. Never fails. Quit the old ways for once anyway and try "Geta-It" tonight. For corns, calluses, warts and bunions.

but succeeded in escaping serious injury. The wrecker was called and is working to clear the track. Meanwhile this city is acting as a transfer station for trains Nos. 7 and 10. It is thought the schedule of No. 3 will be annulled. The cars remaining on the track have been taken to Bardolph and placed on train No. 10, which left Quincy at 6:40 will exchange passengers with train No. 7 and return to Quincy.

The switch was left open by a freight train crew which took siding ahead of the freight train. The list of passengers included some Quincy people. Rudolph Tank was among the passengers. He escaped uninjured. Both Engineer Schilly and Mail Clerk Israel reside in Quincy and are well known there.

The track will probably not be cleared for traffic and repair until afternoon.

DENMARK

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Benbow have word from Rev. and Mrs. Lamb of Chatham, Ohio, telling of the little daughter who came to make her home with them March 11. She is named Elizabeth Bonnar. Mother and child doing well.

March 13 being the thirteenth birthday of Dorothy Florner, she invited Freda and Floyd Fischer and John, Louise and Olive Henn to spend the day with her. Relatives from Burlington and Pleasant Ridge were also there. The dinner was all that a birthday dinner should be, and the cake had its thirteen candles. Mary more happy birthdays for Dorothy is the wish of her friends.

The last number on the lecture course "The Home Talent" will be given April 5. The play is entitled "From Sumpter to Appomattox," a southern war time story, and all are doing their parts remarkably well.

Mrs. Dewey of Sawyer was an over Sunday guest of her daughter, Mrs. R. Murphy, and took grand daughter Doris home with her for a visit.

Advice for Suffragists. Cedar Rapids' Republican: Those who advocate the right of women to vote should base their advocacy entirely upon the inherent rights of the sex to participate in the affairs of the government under which they live, and not on the theory that the men-made laws are against them. The so-called grievance against men is like laws which in the Iowa statute books is there a law that was made by the men against the women?

A QUESTION OF HONOR

[Burlington Hawk-Eye.]

La Rochefoucauld said: "We promise according to our hopes, and perform according to our fears." Too often this is true of communities as well as individuals. But it is destructive of the underlying principle of commercial and industrial progress. Business is based on honor, on truth and the fulfillment of pledges. A bank check is an emblem of faith. It would have no standing in business transactions if it were not the general belief in its real representation of actual value.

We have observed with interest the discussion which has been going on in the newspapers in Lee county lately as to whether the Mississippi River Power company should be taxed upon its dam and power house in the Mississippi river. Apparently in 1904, when the great power project had not been realized for lack of money to make the development, the county and the city authorities on both sides of the river voted to exempt the Water Power company from taxes for twenty years as an inducement to investors to undertake the development.

If we understand the discussion now going on in Lee county there are some who favor the taxing of the Water Power company, for the reason that the resolutions exempting it from taxation were illegal. As the decision of this question one way or the other is of no direct interest to Burlington and Des Moines communities, we feel that we may properly offer a word of unprejudiced advice to the people of Lee county on the subject. It is especially called to mind by the discussion at the Commercial Exchange luncheon last Monday when the suggested exemption of industries was under review. Whatever was thought as to the expediency of that method of holding out inducements for business enterprises to derogate a transformation, which is combined with a growing love for the young artist. When the picture is complete, and the artist and the girl both feel that they have come to love one another at their parting, the mother of the young man steps in and tells the girl that she will make of her son a social outcast if she does not give him up.

The girl sacrifices the man's love, by seeming to have returned to her old life. The artist leaves her, and again and held to her ideals by the memory of the soul of the painted woman, she struggles on to keep herself true to the best that is in her.—Advertisement.

Mary Pickford and Harold Lockwood. A better cast to support Little Mary in "Such a Little Queen," tonight's attraction at the Grand, could not have been chosen than Carlyle Blackwell, Harold Lockwood, Richard Baskett and Archer Flood. The picture, while not a new one, has been shown at the Grand before, but is brought back because it is one of the most charming in which Mary Pickford has appeared. If you saw "Such a Little Queen" when it was here last winter, then it is worth seeing again. If you haven't seen it, then don't miss it tonight.

For sheer charm of story, quaintness and quaintness of the central character, honest sentiment and impressive truths, "Such a Little Queen" is one of the gems of the current era of plays. Mary Pickford, as the little queen, makes one of the best impressions of her brilliant career. There is something indelibly appealing in the personality she portrays; she has dignity and grace, gentleness of manner, charm and wisdom, and she contrasts most effectively the moods identified with a situation in which disappointment and despair must be concealed under a pretense of cheerfulness and courage.

Stage is Ample. Manager Dodge is concerned at reports which are current to the effect that the Grand's stage is not big enough to handle the big "Garden of Allah" production. These reports are untrue, because there are none of the traveling attractions that cannot be effectively handled here. While there are ten big scenes in "The Garden of Allah" and nearly one hundred personnel will be on the stage, there is no doubt of its effective presentation tomorrow night.—Advertisement.

The Garden of Allah. No play in recent years has taken so daringly audacious a theme as "The Garden of Allah," coming to the Grand Friday, for a night showing only. The theme is of such infinite beauty and oriental splendor that it will remain in the hearts and memory of all who see it for many a day to come.

"The Garden of Allah" was dramatized by Robert Hichens, who also wrote the book of the same title, and was assisted by Mary Anderson de Navarro.

The underlying charm of this novel and spectacular drama is the very naturalness of it all—to portray a man and a woman, who, having found such infinite delight in their marriage, can lay aside their worldly happiness, that the man may return to the monastery from which he had fled months before in his wild desire to experience life and passion.

Wm. Jeffrey as "Boris Androvsky," the Trappist monk who finds love but not peace and contentment of soul after fleeing from God, gives to the atmosphere of the role so delicate a charm, that one will find their heartstrings lightening as they gaze heartily at his kindly face, and follow him through his trying moments, endeavoring so earnestly to throw off the awful horror of the enormity of his sin in deserting his God; and Alice Baxter as "Domini Enfield," the woman who also finds love in the great Sahara desert, but who, in her great love for truth and right, gives back this love to one whom it was dedicated years before, whom it was her exacting role a charming personality and a low vibrating speaking voice, a sweetness and reverence that wins the heart.—Advertisement.

AFTER SIX MONTHS

Keokuk Testimony Remains Unshaken. Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Keokuk story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

J. S. Miller, carpenter, 14 1/2 N. Fifth St., Keokuk, says: "I strained my back lifting some four years ago and it affected my kidneys, bringing on kidney disease. When I stooped, a sharp pain often took me in the small of my back and I could hardly straighten up. The action of my kidneys was too frequent. I noticed that the kidney secretions contained sediment like brick-dust. I had dull pains in the back of my head that were very annoying. I used four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they completely cured me." (Statement given March 6, 1915.)

NO TROUBLE SINCE

On September 8, 1915, Mr. Miller said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills made for me has been a lasting one. I have had no return of the trouble." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Miller has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

AUTO INDUSTRY AT "PEN" MAY TERMINATE

Lack of Material is Reason Given From Office of Warden Sanders at Ft. Madison.

Ft. Madison Democrat: Apparently the automobile and truck industry at the prison is going to be forced out of existence because of inability to procure material. One of the largest pressed steel companies in the country from which the prison had been getting some of its most needed and valuable parts had written to Warden Sanders informing him of their inability to further supply his wants. Two paragraphs of the letter are very suggestive of conditions brought about by the war.

"You will fully appreciate our position when we tell you that we have bona fide contracts in force which we are absolutely unable to fulfill complete, owing to the scarcity of steel as well as labor troubles."

And the second paragraph—"We know that you are going to feel grieved at the contents of this letter, but we feel quite sure you are in touch with the general conditions throughout the United States due to a general shortage of materials, and we will have to ask you to kindly excuse us from making any further statements as to caring for your work," etc.

Under conditions which make it almost impossible to procure parts of trucks and it is said to be quite likely the auto truck industry will be abandoned as soon as the last truck of material on hand is finished.
