SHARKEY DEFEATS CORBETT.

Ex-Champion Loses Fugilistic Contest on a Foot.

James J. Corbett, erstwhile champion of the heavyweight class, met his second defeat at the Lenox Athletic club, New York. This time it was Thomas Sharkey, the sailor. Corbett's second defeat came about through a technicality during the ninth round, his second, "Con" McVey, rushing into the ring, contrary to the rules and despite the endeavors of Police Inspector McLaughlin. Previous to this time Sharkey had clearly outfigured his famous opponent, Referee "Honest John" Kelly, after awarding the fight to the sailor on the technicality followed his announcement up immediately by another announcement that all bets were off, the act of Corbett's second seeming to him to be clearly premeditated.

LITERARY NOTES.

The poems of childhood of James Whitcomb Riley have at last found an illustrator who can adequately interpret that accurate insight into the spirit and point of view of children which has made them so dear to all of us. In "Child Rhymes," the new book of Mr. Riley's poems just published by the Bowen-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, Mr. Vawter has sent a host of lovable children scampering through the pages. At one place they are looking serious over thoughts of the "gobbleuns." At another they are "going gaily out the road for 'Old Aunt Mary'" and everywhere they are real children, the kind that everyone has known—and has been. The book is one of the most beautiful of the holiday books of the year and promises to be one of the most popular. Two large editions having been sold before the day of publication. For sale by all booksellers.

The special cut paper pattern designs, which have proved to be so popular a feature with the readers of Harper's Bazar during the past year, have been resumed for the autumn season.

Captain Alfred T. Mahan, who is recognized in Europe as well as America as the most distinguished naval critic in the world, will contribute to the New War Series of the Century Magazine. Captain Mahan will write, from the point of view of a student of naval warfare, of the two decisive naval engagements of the war.

Besides "The Adventurers," which Messrs. Harper & Brothers publish in November, Mr. Marriott Watson has finished a story called "The Princess Xenia," which will appear serially in Harper's magazine next year. Its scene is laid in the Grand Duchy of Wesser-Deuburg.

Mr. James Creelman, the intrepid war correspondent, gives a thrilling recital of his adventures before Santiago in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for November.

The first volume of Harper's Round Table, in its new monthly form, which is now completed, contains an unusually excellent collection of serial and short stories, strikingly told and practically illustrated. There are also articles of a practical and instructive character; narrative and descriptive articles; articles on hunting, fishing, and sport of every kind.

In "Johnnie," the new story by Mr. E. O. Laughlin, just published by the Bowen-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, the author has given a most delightful character study. He introduces us to "Johnnie," at the age of six, first starts to the country school, and from then we follow him through school days and vacation, playing through the long summer together, learning the secrets of the woods and fields, until finally he grows to manhood and enters to accept a position in the great city. J. M. Barrie says "Johnnie is a real boy." For sale at all booksellers.

The December number of the Delinquent is called the Christmas number, and is a marvel of completeness in all its departments. The winter fashions in dress and millinery are elaborately illustrated and described. The literary features are of an unusually high order of merit, and the household specialties are of the most seasonal and original character.

McClure's Magazine for November contains a story of boy life by Stephen Crane. This is rather a new departure for Mr. Crane, and it will be interesting to see how he fares in it. The story is said to be one of his best.

"The Real Zangwill," by Theodore Dreiser, is a contribution of striking interest in Ainslie's for November. A profound and penetrating study of his most remarkable author and critic.

The leading article in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for November will be a discussion of the origin of the peoples which originally settled middle America. Prof. E. S. ## FRANCE AND ITALY AGREE.

Conclude an Important Commercial Treaty.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—It was quite unexpectedly announced that a commercial treaty has been concluded between France and Italy, granting mutually favored treatment except for silk goods, which will remain subject to the maximum tax. It is believed that the Fashoda affair was instrumental in inducing France to grant the necessary concessions. The negotiations have been conducted with the utmost secrecy and the exact effect of the concessions involved is not yet known. It is expected that they will have an important political influence for the removal of a long-standing friction between the two countries. The treaty, it is noticed, was concluded during the absence of Emperor William from Germany, and there is much speculation regarding its probable results upon the European alliance.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily News says: "The conclusion of the Franco-Italian treaty came as a thunderclap. Looking to the hitherto strained relations between Paris and Rome, the treaty may be considered the most important international event as regards Italy since the conclusion of the triple alliance."

MORE FIGHTING AT PANAMA.

Five Hundred Shots Exchanged Between Black and White Miners.

PANAMA, Ill., Nov. 18.—Two battles were fought this afternoon between union white miners and negroes in Springside. The first battle was started by an unknown negro firing upon Woolley Pope, a striker, who was in front of Alderman George Craven's residence, conversing with Mr. Craven's wife. Pope was unarmed, but ran to his home and secured a Winchester. Returning, he opened fire on the negro. Pope was reinforced by several union miners, and the negro, after falling twice beneath the rain of bullets, was driven into an adjacent cornfield, where he sought shelter. The negro, Bloomington, turned out immediately with a Gatling gun, but the firing had ceased. The second battle broke out in the same section of the city thirty minutes after the first encounter. The negro driven into the cornfield made his way to the Springside stockades, from whence he later came an array of black, armed with Winchesters. They immediately opened fire upon a body of strikers. Their aim was high, and the strikers, dropping to the ground, began a steady fire upon the negroes, who soon retreated to the stockades. Fully five hundred shots were exchanged, but with what effect could not be ascertained.

PANAMA, Ill., Nov. 19.—Three skirmishes took place during the day and evening. Chief Deputy Sidney Watts was shot while on his way to Springside mines. A bullet tore one of his arms off and he barely escaped with his life. Watts was driving to the colliery to put on an extra force of deputies, fearing an outbreak. As he passed a store in Cedar street a volley of shots was fired. Watts endeavored to return the fire. Rioting continued. The inhabitants are terrorized. Governor Tanner has been appealed to for more troops. Martial law will probably be declared and all arms confiscated.

VIOLATED TREATY.

Turks Refuse Safe Passage to American Missionaries.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—The American commissioners for foreign missions received a cablegram from Harpoot, eastern Turkey, announcing the safe arrival there of a party of missionaries to whom the Turkish government refused passports upon their departure from Constantinople. The journey of 700 miles, nearly 500 of which were overland from the Black sea, was made under special escort and protection of the American and English legations at the port. The treaties between the United States and Turkey are said to be clear upon the point that American citizens be permitted to travel freely and reside anywhere in the empire. The apparent nullification of this privilege at the present juncture is understood to be an open violation of the treaty.

SUFFRAGE DEFEATED.

South Dakota Decides Against Women's Votes.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Nov. 23.—Returns from thirty-seven counties show a total vote in favor of woman suffrage of 13,559 against 16,992 against. The indications are that the present majority of 3,433 against the amendment will be increased rather than diminished by the complete returns. On the proposed amendment for state control of the manufacture and sale of liquors, the vote is very close. These same thirty-seven counties show a vote of 15,948 for the amendment, and of 15,425 against it. The present majority of 523 may be wiped out by fuller returns, or it may be increased. The initiative and referendum has carried by a tremendous majority.

See Britain's Endings.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Rappel, in threatening Great Britain with French hostility in the future, says: "The blunders of Great Britain in the Fashoda expedition have irritated Europe and excited the appetite of the United States. A decade hence Great Britain will be caught between Europe and the United States and that day will be Great Britain's death."

CONSULTING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Inspires Confidence and Hope.

Examination by a male physician is a hard trial to a delicately organized woman. She puts it off as long as she dare, and is only driven to it by fear of cancer, polypus, or some dreadful ailment.

Most frequently such a woman leaves a physician's office where she has undergone a critical examination with an impression, more or less, of discouragement.

This condition of the mind destroys the effect of advice; and she grows worse rather than better. In consulting Mrs. Pinkham no hesitation need be felt, the story is told to a woman and is wholly confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., she offers sick women her advice without charge.

Her intimate knowledge of women's troubles makes her letter of advice a wellspring of hope, and her wide experience and skill point the way to health. "I suffered with ovarian trouble for seven years, and no doctor knew what was the matter with me. I had spells which would last for two days or more. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have taken seven bottles of it, and am entirely cured."—Mrs. JOHN FOREMAN, 26 N. Woodberry Ave., Baltimore, Md.
