EDITORIALS.

The political pot for the black politicians of note is boiling hard a great struggle on to become successor to Hon. John C. Dancy's place as Recorder of Deeds at Washington, D. C. Those already mentioned except Mr. Dancy himself are Col. John R. Marshall and Hon. Walter M. Farmer, of Chicago, Ill., Nelson C. Crews, of Kansas City, Dr. M. O. Ricketts, of St. Joseph, Mo., and several others from the New England and Southern states. This leaves the big four place practically without an opposing candidate namely, Vernon as Register of the treasurer; Anderson as Internal Revenue Collector at New York; Ralph Tyler as auditor and Judge Terrell to remain on the federal bench.

President Taft tendered Booker T. Washington's name for one of the members on commissionship to go to Liberia to make investigation with Robert G. Ogden of New York and has decline and suggested his private secretary Emmett J. Scott who was just appointed we congratulate Mr. Scott and believe that his good judgment and well educated mind will made him a valuable member of said commission.

COLORED CHAPLACY.

At present we have only four colored chaplains of the United States and they are all in the Philippine Islands, and two recently retired by virtue of having reached the age of retirement they are Lieutenant Col. Allensworth, of Los Angeles, Cal. and Capt. Theophilus Stewart of Wilberforce, O. The present chaplains are Major Wm. T. Anderson, 10th, cavalry, Captain G. W. Proleau, 9th, cavalry; 1st, Lieut. W. E. Gladden, 24th Infantry and 1st, Lieut. Oscar J. W. Scott, 25th Infantry.

First Negro Federal Judge.

Upon the Hon. Robert H. Terrell, one of the judges of the new Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, has fallen the distinction of being the first colored man ever appointed to the position of Federal judge. Judge Terrell was born in Virginia in 1857. After the Civil War his father moved to Washington, where the son attended public schools then just established for colored children. Later he went to Massachusetts and worked his way through other institutions of learning. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1884 with the degree A. B., Cum Laude, being the first man of his race to attain this distinction, and he was one of the commencement speakers. Subsequently, while a teacher in and principal of, a high school in Washington, he studied law in the Howard University Law School, graduating with first honors. He was in due time admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia Courts and to the bar of the U. S. Supreme Court. He served for four years in the Treasury Department as a division chief and later practiced law as a partner of John R. Lynch, formerly a member of Congress from Mississippi. In 1902 he was appointed by President Roosevelt Justice of the Civil Magistrate's Court of the District of Columbia, and was appointed in 1906.

When Congress created the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, Justice Terrell was made one of the six judges of this body. Judge Terrell's wife is Mary Church Terrell, widely known as the leading clubwoman of her race.—Leslie's Weekly.

WASHINGTON, IOWA, NOTES.

March 30.—Washington was a desolate town last Sunday as quite a number attended the dedication of the A. M. E. church at Fairfield. Those who attended: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hall and family, Mrs. Jas. Redd and daughter, Marie, Mrs. Mary Motts and daughters, Nora and Helen, Mrs. G. W. Black, Mrs. Sarah Davis, G. W. and Theodore Turner, Mrs. A. G. Clark of Okaloosa, Isaac Hall and the Stovall. It was unfortunate for Mrs. Stovall that she got left. The Rev. Stovall is to be commended and complimented for his efforts in the work he has accomplished during his short pastorate at Fairfield. None but a man of such good christian character and sterling qualities as the Rev. Stovall possesses could have done so well, and we hear nothing but words of praise for the services of last Sunday. Bishop Shaffer of this Conference preached the dedicatory sermon at 3 p. m. to a large and appreciative audience. Bishop Shaffer lectured here Monday night in the M. E. church to a large audience on the subject "Voices of the Hour," which was much enjoyed by those who heard it. While in the city the Bishop was the guest of Mr. and Lewis Wallace.

Miss Nora Motts made a flying trip to Moline and Rock Island last week.

Rev. Stovall went to Fairfield Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams visited at the N. L. Black home last Thursday night.

Mrs. A. G. Clark of Okaloosa is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Jas. Redd this week.

Rev. Stovall delivered a very interesting temperance talk to the ladies of the W. C. T. U. at the First U. P. church last Wednesday afternoon on the subject, "The Women can do it."

Mrs. Rev. Phillips is considered in a dangerous condition at this writing with little hope of her recovery.

The Chautauque club held its yearly banquet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jas. Redd. A very interesting program was carried out.

Samuel Hall went to Fairfield Sunday to attend the dedication and is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Henry Sissile.

Mrs. N. L. Black is home from the hospital at Iowa City and a visit at Muscatine somewhat improved.

OBITUARY.

A Good Woman Gone.

Mrs. Lillie Sturgis was born December 25th, 1855, at Eufaula, Ala., and departed this life March 24th 1909 at the age of fifty-two years three months and twenty days.

She embraced religion in her youth and connected with the Baptist church to which she was ever faithful and a devoted member. She was married February 13th, 1878 and was cheerful and devoted companion, and a loving and indulgent mother. Her every care was for her church and family. They were her only jewels.

On leaving the place of her birth and childhood July 1893, she joined her husband in Yankton, So. D., who had preceded her, and was with him, they were received into the church of their choice, where she was faithful and to every charge. Remaining in this city for seven years with still unshaken faith in God, she removed with her family to this city where she spent her last days in the bosom of her relatives and the company of a loving friends. Finding here no church of her choice of her race, she cast her lot with the First Baptist church, and was a loyal contributor to its spiritual and temporal demands. To this church she remained a member until 1898, when at the organization of this Mt. Zion church, she became one of its members and until the Father called her labor of love to rest, she remained one of its brightest jewels.

For three years she suffered much agony, the pangs of the fatal malady that brought her demise. She was a patient sufferer, waiting waiting with resignation and fortitude the change that to her was short duration and in evitable in consequence. She was in constant happy thought that at any moment she would be ushered in the blissful presence of the God, whom she so long delighted most to serve. She leaves to mourn her loss a careful and devoted christian husband, and four children, though as yet aliens from her God, her prayers with that of others in their behalf will serve the end, is the continued prayer of their salvation.

BERT O. CLARK.

Last week we published the death of young Bert O. Clark, who formerly lived with his parents Rev. C. A. Clark pastor of the A. M. E. church, this young man, an ideal young man, the hope of our race and destined to become a power in the world by his sweet cultured, refined and pure disposition. The Editor of the Bystander has known this family for many years and regarded these children as exemplary young people. Below we publish a part of what the Durango Evening Herald (white) says, it is a fine compliment as can be paid to a man.

There are many in Durango who feel that with the passing of Bert O. Clark, the railway mail clerk on the Silverton branch, they have lost a friend. Illness travels fast and most people knew yesterday that Mr. Clark had taken his last run, had passed beyond the terminus we call death into the unknown land whither all must journey some day—soon or later.

The end came painlessly. Our friend had suffered with consumption for many years and on Feb. 27th while about to leave the train at the Durango depot, had a severe hemorrhage. He apparently recovered so that on last Tuesday he was out of doors for a short time. He took a slight cold from this with the result that on Tuesday he was in a dying condition, but rallied and late Saturday night he felt better and was apparently stronger than at any time during his illness. About midnight, after sitting up in bed for a little while he asked to lie down. Just after his request was complied with he began to breathe fainter and fainter and in a few minutes all was over. For some time Mr. Clark had made his home with Mrs. Washington at 848 Second avenue. She was untiring in her efforts for his comfort and was with him when he died. Though none of his own people were here, his last hours were made as easy as possible by these kind friends who loved the young man as if he were their own.

Mr. Clark did not wish his parents who live in Chicago, to be summoned as he did not think it necessary, but Saturday morning as he was suffering so much, Mrs. Washington notified his brother in Denver, without the sick man's knowledge. His brother arrived last night.

His brother said this morning that it was like Bert to refuse to have his mother notified of his illness. All his life he had tried to save her from anxiety and he practiced this unselfishness to the end. The sympathy of the community goes out to the mother and father who have lost such a son and to the brothers and sisters, who have been bereft of such a brother.

To those who do not realize how powerful the influence of good is, even when expressed in so quiet and so retiring a manner, it may be a matter of surprise the death of a railway mail clerk, a colored man, should occasion such widespread sympathy.

We find that everybody liked, and many loved this gentle-mannered man. His associates on the train and in the post office say he was invariably polite, thoughtful and unassuming. He did his own work perfectly and many times did that others left undone, without complaint or comment. He never failed to offer his services when there was a rush of work, he was always ready to help others who needed it without stopping to consider whether he was paid so doing.

Some people when they do a favor announce it with a blare of trumpets. So true a gentleman as Bert Clark would never stoop to any such methods. He never presumed even to take the credit due him, he did whatever his hand found to do with all his might that was all.

"Ah, but he was white!" a man said yesterday, one who has known him intimately, in his work, and so say they all. We do not think we could pay the dead man any higher compliment. For in that statement an individual life that has made for righteousness has triumphed over the prejudice of a race.

This man so lived that his fellows could see behind the veil of flesh the beauty of the spirit and could recognize the whiteness of his soul as it in the eyes of his God.

While we do not know that he expected the summons, we are sure no one was better fitted to go from strength to strength, through the door we call death, to that city where, "There is no sorrow nor sighing, Nor any tears there, nor any dying." But the Redeemer is the Light thereof.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Oshago Tribune, "moderate laxatives, hot foot baths, a free respiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is sure to be contracted, and in many instances pneumonia follows. Is it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cure of colds and can always be depended upon? For sale by all druggists.
