A large number of shade trees in the city are sadly in need of trimming. In many places the trees bordering the sidewalks have been neglected so long that the branches hang down so low as to seriously interfere with the "head-gear" of pedestrians. Shade trees are almost indispensable, and one of our greatest city improvements, when properly taken care of; but, if neglected, they can soon become a most unmitigated nui sance. A small evening journal of this city has of late been making considerable complaint about the filthy condition of the streets and gutters, and charges the health inspector with being responsible for the same. And, further, that the aforesaid officer has been neglecting his duty for the purpose of loafing about saloons and other places when he should be attending to other business. Now that sheet is greatly mistaken, and does an injustice to one of our most efficient officers. Probably if the blame had been thrown on the street commissioners it would have come nearer the mark.

City Engineer Rinker has just completed his plans for conveying water from the west side mains across the river. He proposes the following plan: A tunnel will be connuisance.

structed six feet high by four and one-half feet wide, leaving plenty of room about the sixteen inch main which will be used, for any changes or repairs that may be required. A shaft will be sunk through the lime stone rock just in the rear of the west anchorage of the suspension bridge, where the water main now ends. From it the tunnel will extend to the river bank, about 225 feet, just below low water mark. Across the channel the main will be laid in the river bed, with flexible-joint pipe. The tunnel will be extended under the island, a distance of about six hundred feet, to the east channel, which will be crossed with flexible-joint pipe, the same as the main channel. The tunnel on the island will have shafts for mains and hydrants distributed as may be demanded. On the East Side the continuation of the tunnel will extend to the and considerably damaged. east side of Main street. The entire length flexible joint pipe about 1,000 feet. Faribault Republican, July 17: A very heavy rain-storm, accompanied by high wind, visited this section Sunday afternoon, and must have added greatly to the damage al-ready sustained by the growing crops. St. Peter Tribune, July 17: The storm of Sunday lodged the grain badly in this vicinity. We are informed by persons who have passed through this county that what grain was not lodged before the storm of Sunday is now pretty much all down. How much of it is entirely ruined we are unable to say, but it is pretty seriously injured, and at best is so badly tangled as to render the harvest a very laborious one. Thus what would ordinarily have been considered good farming has this year proved very unfortunate, and those who plowed their land in the

New Ulm Review, July 17: The hot weather of Friday and Saturday was followed by a terrific wind and rain storm Sunday afternoon, in fact the worst storm of the season. The storm struck New Ulm from the north, passing in a southerly cirection, the wind blowing a perfect gale, while the rain came down in torrents. The damage to the growing crops is great. Passing through the town of Cottonwood a few hours after the storm a sad sight met our gaze. All species of small grain which had few hours before stood proud and upright, promising an abundance to the tillers of the soil, had been laid low by the storm. The oats, which are very heavy, looked as if a huge roller had been driven over them. The farmers look despondent, and say that some of the grain, especially oats, will not s raighten up enough to admit of cutting while some, with favorable weather, may straighten up enough so that it can be cut one way. We are glad to state that the track of the storm extended only a few miles west of us.

Hastings Union, July 17th: We have been shown several samples of wheat of different varieties, and also been given reliable information by our farmers in regard to the wheat prospect in our county. Several of our farmers have grave apprehensions that the crop will not be by any means what is expected. Samples of Rio Grande and Lost Nation have been exhibited that are utterly ruined by smut. The Tea variety seems to stand the unfavorable weather better than all others. In the first two named varieties, the curculio, or weevil, rust, smut, and a general blight seems prevalent. An appar-ently healthy head when examined closely will be found to contain several cells where there are no signs of grain. It is to be hoped that the samples shown are excep-tions, and the discouraging reports un-founded, but there must be more or less they truth in such rumors. In the towns of Emciful-pire and Rosemount the rust has injured the stock somewnat extensively, and many farmers are afraid our wheat crop will be severely injured before being saved. SPECIAL MARKET BULLETINS Received by the "Globe" During Yesterday.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]
CHICAGO, July 18—10:00 A. M.—Beerbohm firmer. The tone of private cables is quieter and rather easier and the report of crop prospects is rapidly improving. The feeling is strong on Minnesota reports. CHICAGO, July 18-1:00 P. M .- Winter wheat is moving freely. Receipts at Cincinnati to-day seventytwo thousand bushels. New No. 2 spring is being contracted in Iowa on the basis of eighty cents here in August. The clique are still under our market. Aside from gloomy reports from Minnesota the situation appears to be one of growing weakness. Weather cool and delightful here. New York longs are selling out, the general disposition being to sell September and buy August wheat, fearing the clique have the intent to frighten August shorts.
