RAMSEY COUNTY MAP. The New Publication Being Prepared by

Warner & Foote. For several months past Messrs. Warner & Foote, the well known map publishers, have had a corps of competent engineers, draughtsmen and surveyors at work with the view of publishing a new map of Ramsey county. The combined labors of those employed by the publishers has resulted in the manufacture of a new and complete map, the prospectus of which came to hand yesterday.

The ordinary difficulties attending the careful The ordinary difficulties attending the careful and necessarily painstaking labors of compiling a map have not only been thoroughly mastered by the publishers, but they have incorporated a number of novel and important features in the new map which conspire to make it the most valuable and thoroughly practicable affair of its kind ever attempted. An idea of its size may be obtaized when it is stated that the scale of the new map is 100 rods to the inch, and for ready reference the above feature cannot be overestimated.

Elepantly mounted on muslin, with roller and moulding, the map is a truly magnificent specimen of the engravers' and printers' arts, while the artistic beauty of the coloring has never been exceeded. Among the valuable features of the map, it will clearly define the size and shape of farms, the number of acres, together with the names of the owners, the location of residences, boundary lines, rivers, lakes

Choking his Promised Wife.

A Seventh infantry soldier, from Fort Snelling, named George Smith, was arrested by Officer Dowlan, yesterday, on a warrant sworn out by a young woman named Nellie Clark, residing at 52 Eagle street. The arrest was made on the charge of assault and battery, which consisted in the woman being nearly choked to death by the aforesaid individual.

Entering her residence yesterday afternoon Smith accused the woman of keeping com-pany with another man, to which she replied that she kept company with whom she pleased; whereupon the soldierly gallant threw the woman on a bed and choked her until she was black and blue in the face. The case was called at 3 o'clock, and when Smith teok the stand he said that as Miss Clark was his promised wife he couldn't bear the idea of being deceived.

The court said that it was contrary to Hoyle and all preedents, for a lover to resent a grievance committed by his promised wife, by choking her into a condition of penitential contrition. In accordance with this view of the case, Smith was fined $5 and costs, on payment of which he was dis-

Mr. Rogers thought the assignment might have been made since Breen & Young sued Steele & McIntyre, and he recommended the commission to retain $3,000 (if they allowed the assignment) to protect them against that suit.
