LAKE MICHIGAN STEAMER WRECKED. DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28 .- A dispatch from Grand Haven, Michigan, just received, states the steamer Amazon, of the Northwestern transportation company's line, for that port from Milwaukee, with about fifty passengers and a heavy load of wheat and other freight, struck the sand bar in the entrance to the harbor there, while entering, at 8 A. M. She succeeded in backing off, returned a few miles in-to the lake, and again attempted to enter, struck the bar and was drawn around the end of the south pier and ashore by the strong northwest wind, and now lies within a hundred feet of the pier, broadside to the sca, with the spray dashing over her. The passengers are being taken ashore by the life saving corps. The crew are throwing the cargo overboard.

The steamer is evidently going to pieces.

The steamship Amazon, which foundered off Grand Haven this morning, was one of the largest and staunchest passenger vessels on the lakes. She is valued at about $60,000, and rated at fourteen hundred and six tons, carried four masts, had double decks, and is a double screw propeller. Her cargo consisted of 7,486 barrels of flour, 263 barrels of peas, 200 bags of barley, 93 barrels of pork, 30 boxes meat, 2,960 pounds of tobacco, 36 rolls of leather, 330 boxes of cheese, 60 kegs of beer and 300 packages of sundries. This property is covered by a general insurance policy issued by the Detroit & Milwaukee raitroad company. The Amazon was insured for $30,000, as follows. Orient and Buffalo, $5,000 each; Ætna and Phoenix. $10,000 each.

By half past 11 all the passengers, numbering thirty-four, and officers and crew, numbering thirty, had been safely removed to the shore by means of the life-saving car, Captain Frazier being the last to leave the ship. At noon it seemed as though the ship must soon go to pieces, as the sea was tremendous. The upper wirks on the side towards the sea were entirely torn away and the whole vessel very badly wrenched and twisted by force of the waves, but it still held together. Later in the afternoont he wind and sea subsided somewhat, and it now seems probable a considerable portion of the cargo in the hold may be saved in a damaged condition. Much of the deck load thrown overboard to lighten the steamer has floated ashore. The passengers' baggage, which was in the porter's room on the leeward side, was but slightly injured and was taken from the wreck by one of the steamer's boats after the sea commenced to go down. The total loss on the steamer and cargo will be about $150, 000. The steamer was valued at $60,000; insured $30,000. Loss on cargo coveredby a genand it now seems propable a considerable porsured $30,000. Loss on cargo covered by a general insurance policy issued by the Detroit & Milwaukee reilway company.

SUNK BY A COLLISION. DETROIT, Oct. 28.—The schooner Porter, grain laden, from Chicago, collided with the tow of the tug Morrick, at the head of Detroit river, last night, and sunk in deep water off Belle isle. The large steam barge J. H. Rutter is ashore on Lake St. Clair shoals. Advices from Saugatuck, Mich., state that the schooner Gamecock is ashore south of the pier at that place, and full of water.

MILWAUKEE, Oct 28.—The schooner Porter which collided with the schooner Niagara and finest vessels on the lake. She had 56,000 bushels of barley on board shipped by Borchert & Sons and C. J. Kershaw & Co., this city. The cargo was insured for $50,000 as follows: N, Y.. $13,000; Great Western, N. $10,000; Rochester German and Buffalo German, $5.000 each; Fancuil Hall, $17,000. Insurance on the vessel: Northwestern National, Phoenix and Buffalo, $5,000 each; and Ætna

THE DEAD-FALL.

A Countryman Beaten Out of His Wealth by a Couple of Sharpers-Too Much Whisky and too Little Sense Responsible for the Accident.

He was a stranger from Mendota and they took him in. Living so near St. Paul he ought to have known better, but he didn't, and has to suffer the consequences. He was a wellseasoned individual of about 45 summers, with flowing iron gray hair, and his rame was O'Leary. He came to the city well heeled yesterday morning. The first cocktail tasted well and he repeated. Then whisky straight was good enough for him, and he whooped it up. Towards evening he fell in with a couple of voung m would be a good thing to take a drink. They all took "the same" several times, when O'Leary, in the same several times, when O'Leary, in the fullness of his heart, proposed supper. Montgomery's was visited, where the score was settled by the countryman, who, so full of budge as to be almost oblivious to all else, displayed a tempting roll of bills. Almost unconscious from the effects of his frequent liba-tions he was steered by his companions to a "dead-fall" gambling house kept by one Gray, near the corner of Sixth and Jackson streets. Here they stayed for a time and afterwards passed to other places of like character. passed to other places of like character. The result was that when O'Leary, somewhat be-fuddled, sought the repose offered by a Jackson street hotel, he found himself without funds. He was refused accommodations, and at once reported the occurrences of the evening, as far as he could remember them, to Officer De Corsey. Search was at once instituted for the companions of his jollity, but they could not be found, though every gambling house in the city was thoroughly inspected. Mr. O'Leary estithoroughly inspected. Mr. O'Leary esti-mates his less at from $48 to $52—he is not exactly certain which—but fearing that he which be swindled out of the clothes he wore officer De Corsey conducted him to the police station, where he slumbered during what little remained of the night.

THE INDIAN OUESTION. Secretary Schurz's Scheme.

Secretary Schurz expresses the greatest concern as to the movements which will andoubtedly be made in Congress the coming session in relation to the Indian ques tion. He is convinced that strong combinations will be formed to break the treaties which exist between the government and several of the Indian tribes, with the avowed intent of opening to settlement large tracts of habitable mining and sgricultural lands. Secretary Schurz has expressed the fear that the government will not be strong enough to resist the march of empire, and he will recommend to Congress, as he has already advised the Indians, the passage of laws dividing the Indian lands in severalty among them and securing individual titles. Sec retary Schurz, since his trip to the Indian country, is more than ever convinced of the danger and unwisdom of the pastoral system, under which no individual could ever acquire title to a homestead or be protected in individual rights. Secretary Schurz fears that in the future the Indians will suffer great loss and injustice, unless they divide their lands equitably among themselves and secure an impregnable title. It appears that one reason why the chiefs, who are more intelligent and better informed of the progress of civilization, object to the plan for dividing the lands in severalty, is that such a movement would result in the overthrow of the tribal system, and would deprive the chiefs themselves of their great influence and prestige. Secretary Schurz will recom mend to Congress the passage of a general law which with enable every head of an Indian family in the Indian Territory to locate 160 or 320 acres of land upon his reservation, to be secured to him or to his children by patent after a continuous residence there of twenty-five years, during which period it will not be lawful to mortgage or sell the land. Mr. Schurz believes that such a measure will preserve the present pastoral system and afford sufficient time for the Indians, under a wise administration, to learn the ways of civilization and become fully able to maintain and defend themselves, and that such a plan will also prove an effectual obstacle to the encroachments of the whites in violation of treaty rights, inasmuch as the Indian would have a valid title, and he would be sustained by the courts and protected by all the power of the government. Secretary Schurz also proposes to sell the surplus lands of the Indians, and to invest the proceeds for the benefit of the respective tribes, but he does not contemplate opening the Territory to white settlements. Mr Schurz proposes not to open the Indian Territory to immigration, but to enable the Indians to prepare for immigration, when in the course of events it will certainly come.

THE UTE MASSACRE.

Safe Arrival of the Captive Women and Ch ldren at Chief Ouray's House--Narrow Escape of Merritt's Command From An nihilation.

THE CAPTIVE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Los Pinos, Col., Oct. 24, via Del Norte, Col., Oct. 28.—A runner just arrived from the In dian camp on the plateau reports the Meeker women and children safe at Chief Ouray's house, nine miles below. They stood the journey well, and Mrs. Meeker has improved in. health every day since we started. We left on the morning of the 22nd. The Indians seemed unwilling for us to leave till they learned what success Gen. Adams had in stopping the further advance of Merritt's command. The Meeker papers are burned, and what money Mrs. Meeker had was taken away from her by Douglas. The intentions were to kill the women and children, as the windows of the room in which they first took refuge were riddled with bullets the instant they had left it for a more secure place in Milk river. Mrs. Meeker thinks secure place in Milk river. Mrs. Meeker thinks Susan, squaw wife of Chief Johnson, sister of Ouray, did more than all others to save their lives. She was as kind to them as a mother, and their parting was very touching. Jack's band fought the troops and Douglas' men killed the agent and the employes. Agent Meeker was killed by Antelope and Waupattid. Mrs. Meeker was shot at while running from the house attempting to hide in the sage brush. A ball passed through her dress and made a slight flesh wound in the thigh about four inches long. Details for the fight for Merritt's command were most complete; 20 Arrapahoes had joined Jack with many others from neighboring tribes, and had it not been for the timely arrival of Chief Ouray's order to cease fighting, the name of Merritt and his command would have passed into history by the side of Custer with the same epitaph, "Annihilated by the Indians." The into history by the side of Custer with the same epitaph, "Annihilated by the Indians." The outbreak may be attributed to four things, viz: Repeated changes and lessening the amount of rations issued to the Indians; no head chief the same as Ouray is here; a Ute Indian for interpreter, unfriendly to Meeker, and plenty of bad whisky furnished by ranchmen. Major Pollock is here desired limited. men. Major Pollock is here doing all in his power to make the ladies comfortable and looking after the interests of the department in AT ALAMOSA.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 28 .- A special to the Pribune from Alamosa, 300 miles south of Denver, and the terminus of the Rio Grande railway, says the women and children, recent cap-tures among the Utes, arrived there at 4 P. M., where they will remain for a few days before proceeding to Denver. They were surrendered to Special Agent Adams after a parley of five hours at the camp on a tributary of Grand river, on the 21st, and on the morning of the 22nd started homeward proceeding through the 22nd started homeward, proceeding through the 22nd started homeward, proceeding through the Indian country in care of the employes of the Los Pinos agency to Ouray's house and agency, arriving at the latter place on the morning of the 25th, and started immediately homeward, arriving at Alamosa as above. The captives report that the morey and research. report that the money and papers which were represented to be safe were destroyed by the Utes. Miss Meeker's life was threatened by Chief Douglas, who placed a gur to her head but she did not flinch, and told Douglas she neither feared Indians or death, and he skulk-ed away. The women agree they owe their safety to one woman, Susan, wife of Johnson and sister of Ouray, who protected them at all times, even going into council, an unprece-dented move for a woman among Indians, and raising her voice for release of the prisoners. DELINQUENT COUNTY TREASURERS.

Two of Them Suspended by the Governor Yesterday.

that State Examiner Kzox had been compelled to report some half dozen county treasurers to the Governor for irregularities in the discharge The fact has been mentioned in the GLOBE of the duties of their offices. The cases of these two officials present many things in common. Both possessed the respect and confidence of their constituencies in a large decree, and both owe their fall to the same cause, viz: the practice—very common among county treasurers as is shown by the examinations of the public examiner-of not keeping their private and public accounts sep Mr. Hackett, in addition to being county reasurer, had a losing mercantile busin a losing farm on his hands. He kept his accounts of receipts from the three sources separate, but when it come to depositing funds in bank all went in to his private credit, and bills payable, either on behalf of the county or his private account, were drawn out indiscrimi ately. The consequence was that when the public examiner called and made an examination of his office, Mr. Hackett was found to be delinquent, the funds of the county having been used to make good his losses in his private business. This examination was made in September last. Mr. Hackett professed great surprise and sorrow at the showing, and prom-ised to make speedy reparation. For this pur-pose he left for Vermont, his old home, the 25th of September last, to get the money, as he said, to make his shortage good, but up to this data he has failed to return date he has failed to return.

The case of Mr. Ring, while his fall is due to the same practice as that in the case of Mr. Hackett, differs from that gentleman's in the manner in which he met his trouble, and in the way in which the people of his county have sustained him. Mr. Ring's troubles, through the practice of mixing his private and public Fourth Ward-First productions. accounts, and also in reporting taxes paid to accounts, and also in reporting taxes paid to accommodate friends, said friends afterwards refusing to pay, culminated in 1877, when he proved to be delinquent about $8,000. At the time he took such measures as he could to reimburse the county, and resigned his office. At the next election he was re-elected treasurer, and since about $5,000 of his deficiency has been made good, leaving $3,400 to $4,000, as is alleged, due the county. But Mr. Ring has shown his honesty of intention by remaining as pastor of the First Methodist church, was at his post of duty, and such is the confidence honored with a delightful recention last evenfelt in his integrity by his constituency in the political party with which he associates, that he is nominated for re-election this fall.

A New Military Post Proposed, The commanding general of this department, Dakota, has in contemplation the establish-Dakota, has in contemplation the establishment of a new military post, or fort, at Wolf Point, on the Missouri river. To this end Gen. Terry has recommended the location of the fort, and the same has been urged upon the war department by Gen. Sheridan. It is believed that if the new post is established it will put an end to all future raids from Sitting Bull's Canadian Indians, as it will occupy a way adone to contribute to the pleasure of the social amenicies, while the hospitality shown by the host and his charming wife made every visitor feel at home. Refreshments were served at intervals throughout the evening, and everything imaginable adone to contribute to the pleasure of the Bull's Canadian Indians, as it will occupy a point near the Poplar Creek or Yanktonnais Indian agency for the purpose of observing those semi-hostiles and preventing intercourse with Sitting Bull's band; and is at a favorite Indian crossing of the river. Besides, with Fort Assinniboine, the new post will complete Fort Assinniboine, the new post will complete the cordon of forts along, or near, the British frontier, in supporting distance. The necessity of the new post, from a strategic standpoint, will be fully represented to the war department. In case the Washington authorities adopt the suggestion of Generals Terry and Sheridan, work on the new post will be undertaken next summer, or, rather, early in the spring, with Gen. J. W. Davidson, colonel of the Second cavalry, likely in command. of the Second cavalry, likely in command.

The cranberry crop in the vicinity of Sauk Rapids was a failure this year, caused by too much water in the marshes.

UNION SERVICE.

An Address by Rev. M. D. Edwards. The second service of the revival series, last night, showed an improved attendance. The singing was excellent, and the selections appropriate. The meeting was opened by chapain Rev. Smith, reading from Luke xxI v. Rev. Mr. Edwards preached from xxiv. Luke, 15, 16: "And it came to pass that while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus himcommuned together and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near and went with them, but their eyes were holden that they should not know him." It will be noticed, said the speaker, First—That in times of greatest need, is the time of Ohrist's appearing. His disciples were discouraged and disheartened, by the death of Christ, and in the moment of despair and despondency he appeared to them, he appeared thus to the woman of Tyre and Sidon, and to the woman of Samaria, also to Simon Peter after the trial of this disciple.

To-day as then, human extremity is Christ's

To-day as then, human extremity is Christ's opportunity. The sinfulness of man is the opportunity of the Gospel. We may not always be aware of the nearness of the Savior until trial or trouble awakes us to the fact. Many trial or trouble awakes us to the fact. Many object to religious meetings at this season because of religous apathy. As well might one sick postpone the visit of his physician until he be well enough to entertain him.

Now is the time for religious meetings, because the need for them is so apparent. We feel as if we must look to God for help, for the help of meetings to the help of meetings. the help of man is so feeble. If there is a blessing in store for us it must come from Christians should not judge by appearances, but live in faith and hope. Oftentimes in times of greatest spiritual apathy the most wonderful outpourings of the spirit appear.

Again, we are not always aware of Christ's presence with us for our eyes are holden; he may be with us in a special manner and yet we know it not—to the speaker's knowledge sevmay be with us in a special manner and yet we know it not—to the speaker's knowledge several even at this early day are looking for and have found their savior. What we need is an anticipatory faith and earnest prayer. The desert of Sahara is not dry because of absence of moisture above, but for other physical causes. So the blessings of free salvation are always above us, but our souls are not watered because for want of faith.

Mr. Breed made the closing prayer, after which he announced that Major Whittle would be in the city and hold the services this evening at the House of Hope, commencing at 7:30. He will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Grannahan. The party will stop at the Windsor hotel, where they can be seen.

AN UNNECESSARY DENIAL.

Based Upon the Reportorial Lie of a Stupid Old Newspaper.

It will be remembered that a day after the GLOBE published the official receipts, which passed between Detective Llewellyn and Lieut. Burns at Fort Sisseton, in the matter of the $200 reward for the capture of Nolan and Johnson, the Pioneer-Press "heard a rumor" to that effect, and took up the reward question. A report of a conversation with Llewellyn was published, in which Llewellyn was attributed with saying that the officers at Fort Sisseton wouldn't turn over Nolan and Johnson until the $200 reward was Bennett, endorsed by Lieutenant Burns and Dr. Ferguson, all say that Llewellyn profered the reward; that the prisoners were th nention of the reward was made. The reward the half-breed courier from the agency sent forward to give intelligence gof Nolan and Johnson's approach, is included in the distribution of the award. However, as there seems to be a controversy about the re-ward, Capt. Bennett has bulked the $200. and ward, Capte Definer has builted the $200 distance asks Gen. Terry for instructions regarding it.

All this would be well enough if there was one word of truth in the P. P.'s interview with Liewellyn. The GLOBE gave, the day before, all there was to be said on this question, and all that Liewellyn ever said, and there was no such intimation as conveyed in the day after alleged coversation. It was, after all, a bit of vivid imagination, intensified by the reporter's gaunt hungering after his usual ration of "opld vittles" from some generous butcher

THE REGISTRIES.

Only 4,766 on the Poll Lists When Registration Closed.

At 9 o'clock last night the time for registration of voters closed. The result shows that but little interest is felt in the election, only 750 new names being put on the lists. The total registration is but 4,766, while last year it was 5,209. If we were to have a full vote the egistration should run at least 1,000 more than last year. The following is the registration was done to contribute to the pleasure of the visitors.

Receiving the New Pastor. The Rev. Samuel G. Smith, recently installed honored with a delightful reception last evening at the residence of Mr. Pascal Smith, No. 34 Dayton avenue. The reception was getten up by the congregation of the First Methodist church, and the happy affair was entirely free from sectarian bias, inasmuch as there quite a number of citizens present who are identified with other denominations.

Among these in attendance were the follow ing well known citizens: Judge Palmer and wife, Rev. John Stafford, Dr. Brooks and family, Rev. Mr. Jennings, Dr. Murphy and wife, Judge Brill and wife, J. Ross Nicols and family, J. Ham Davidson, H. The special committee, to whom was referred the matter of adjusting the right of way for the North Pacific railroad company, both as to right to run trains, etc., reported an ordinance to license said road to run its trains, locate shops and the right of way over the following district: Commencing at a point in the centre of Pine street in Kittson's addition to St. Paul, where the south line of Fourth street intersects the same, thence southerly along the centre of Pine street to a point where a line drawn through the centre of Prince street intersects the same; thence eastwardly along the centre of Prince street to the west line of the right of way of the Saint Paul, Minne-& Manitoba railroad; thence east by the west line of the right of way of the said railroad from the centre of Prince street to the point where said line intersects the southerly line of Seventh street, thence along the southerly line of Seventh street to the centre of Brook street, thence southerly along the centre of Brook street to the northerly line of East Seventh street, thence southwesterly diagonally across East Fourth street to the southerly line of East Fourth street at the point where said line intersects the westerly line of Kittson street, thence along the southerly line of East Fourth street to the said centre line of Pine street and place of beginning. This embraces ten acres. Motions in the way of amendments were proposed by Ald. Dowlan looking to giving the city the full centrol of Pine street, instead of half of it, as provided in the ordinance, and by Ald. Bell, to make the grant to the Northern Pacific company, "but not to its successors and assigns." Both these amendments were voted down and the ordinance, as reported, was passed. Adjourned.

Janauschek.

It is to be regretted that the engagements of Madame Janauschek prevent her from favoring our city with more than two entertainments. Without doubt Janauschek is the greatest of living tragediennes, and is incom-parable in the roles which she assumes. She will appear at the Opera House on Saturday afternoon and evening, playing "Mary Stuart" at the matinee and "Deborah, the Forsaken Jewess," in the evening. In both characters she outranks all rivals. Indeed, she may be said to have created the roles. Her abilities are well known and appreciated here, and she is already assured of a full house.

On a recent morning Mrs. Bridget Dunn, of Nininger, lost her house and nearly all its contents by fire. Cause of the fire un-
