

EXAMPLES OF A GREAT LIFE.

Remarks of Rev. Dr. Dana on the Anniversary of Washington's Birthday.

The Rev. Dr. Dana preached an eloquent sermon at Plymouth church last night on the anniversary of Washington's birthday, taking as a subject, "The Examples of a Great Life," and basing his remarks on Psalms xxxviii:7.

Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace. The reverend speaker commenced his address with the remark that "proper study of mankind is man," and that there was nothing more interesting or instructive than the study of a noble life.

The speaker said that the achievement of the truly great and noble inspired man to study that which was most enduring in human nature and worthy of reproduction. A really good and great man never passed away, and in this thought was recalled the memory of one of the loftiest American characters. Reference was here made to the birthplace and early career of Washington, in speaking of the patriotic life of whom the speaker said that time is no waste about the place he held in the memory of his grateful countrymen.

To mark the perfect man and behold the upright, was never more needed than now. Nothing more disastrous could occur than to forget the great men of our country, and neglect to pattern after their noble virtues. What was the secret of Washington's power—how came he by the halo of fame which now surrounds him? The answer came in unswerving personal integrity, intense sympathy for his kind, and nobility of character. Now as ever, men sought after honor and fame, but there was a growing reluctance to pay the price. The young man starting in life sought to become speedily rich; he disdains the plodding career of his fathers. Think a moment of the course of true greatness. If the secret of Washington's character were sought for, it would be found in his high personal integrity.

Holding every position from the lowest to the highest, he was unswervingly honest. He with drew his confidence from Jefferson and from Aaron Burr when he saw his low intrigue. It was this moral steadfastness, this lofty virtue, which constituted his greatness—the bed-rock of all nobility and worth of character.

So it came to pass in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, a brood of smart, but not morally great men, had sprung up. So it came to be believed that men holding great trusts of money held them as marketable commodities. It was a great thought that the early days of our country gave us unfeigned patriotism. Ois, Franklin, Henry, were all shining examples of this truth.

Washington lived amid a spirit of party bickering, and he was maligned and traduced to an extent unparalleled in the political history of the country, still he maintained his integrity without a flaw.

Any noble life that illustrated the virtues of unswerving patriotism should be accorded a high place in the rank of worthies whose noble characters have graced the world. In these times men were wont to substitute party for the noble interests of country. A critic had said of Washington's life that not a single line could be written with the peacock feather of vanity, nor could an action be discovered that had in view the paltry need of personal renown.

The reverend speaker here alluded to the administration of Washington, as knowing the highest type of patriotism, and eloquent allusion was made to his farrowed letter. Reference was also made to the patriotism of Payne, which had been sullied by his base calumny of the leader of the Continental army. The teaching of Washington's life was that God's providence illuminated the spirit while it directed the will of man. It held him to the pursuit of glory and not like Napoleon to the selfish aims of a wild ambition.

Into all the lofty lives the religion of Christ had entered as a powerful inspiration. The songs of the French revolution were not to be compared to the hymns that inspired faith and gave fortitude to the covenanters. Washington rested on faith and confident guidance in Almighty God. A great character had an immortality of influence. He who lived wisely and well made his age his benefactor.

Washington had been admitted to the Indian heaven because he was a true friend to the red man. It was not the wise man nor the man whose head was full of philosophy who led the van of civilization, but the man whose integrity of heart and broad love for his fellow enlivened humanity. A merely smart man was soon forgotten, but a Sumner, Lincoln or a Washington were accorded the enduring honors of the ages.

The speaker closed with an eloquent tribute to the high personal integrity and unselfish character of Washington, urging in powerful language a reproduction of his sterling virtues.

Ladies' Underwear. of every description, made of "Fruit of the Loom" cotton and elegantly trimmed, from 50 cents upward, just arrived, at the 99-Cent Store.

An Incipient Blaze. The alarm of fire at 11:15 o'clock, which was caused by the discovery of fire in the dwelling house of Robert Behr, situated on the corner of Fifth and Main streets in the Sixth ward. Number one steamer, the hook and ladder truck and all the hose carts turned out, and owing to the difficulty in procuring water, considerable time was spent in subduing the flames.

The fire originated in a quantity of refuse matter in the basement of the dwelling, and the cause of the blaze is involved in profound doubt. The department did some very effective work, and the fire was wholly confined to the basement. The building is insured in the St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance company, and the loss will not exceed $100.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. At the 99 Cent Store. With the "Novelty Spring" and Slat body, from Sweet & Son, celebrated makers, Buffalo, N. Y. Also, the new Side Fender carriage, prices from $3 to $25. The largest and best assortment in the city.

The Thursty Concert. Miss Emma Thursby is announced for one grand concert at the Opera House on Monday evening next, assisted by Signor Ferranti, M. Timothie Adamowski and Mr. Branson. The following excellent programme has been arranged:

Concert in G minor (Andante and finale) Mendelssohn. Come into the Garden, Maude. Polonaise from "Mignon," Ambrose Thomas. Miss Emma Thursby. Invite Alla Zanza (Invitation to Dance) Traventi. Violin solo in Hungarian Dances, Brahms. Nocturne Chopin, Op. 27, No. 1. My Sweetheart will take you home, Morgan. Variations de Bravoura, Proch. Miss Emma Thursby. Legend, Adamowski. Cavatina from La Cenerentola, Rossini. Sig. Ferranti. "Once Again," Arthur Sullivan. Duetto Buffo from L'Amore, Donizetti. Miss Emma Thursby and Sig. Ferranti.

We can recommend St. Jacobs Oil to our readers, for it is really a good remedy.

CITY GLOBULES.

A brace of drunken disreputables were arrested yesterday afternoon for smashing in the windows of a Como avenue saloon.

The members of the O. P. gang, who took French leave of St. Paul upon the arrest of their chief, Mitchell, may return in safety, since that party's release.

The funeral of Mrs. Theresa Rouleau took place from the Church of St. Louis at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended, and an elegant tribute was paid to the memory of deceased by the Rev. Father Payette.

The sacred concert given by the members of the Great Union band at Pfeiffer's hall yesterday afternoon was a remunerative and artistic success. The attendance was large and the excellent programme was executed with rare skill and enjoyed with marked pleasure.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Officer Murphy observed a genteel and middle-aged party reposing on the soft side of a plank at the corner of Fourth and Minnesota streets. A hack was procured and the heavily intoxicated individual was given a free ride to the station.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in Griggs, Johnson & Rhodes' wood yard, corner of Fourth and Broadway streets. A still alarm was turned in and the incipient blaze was squelched by Assistant Marshall DeLaney and several citizens with a few buckets of water. The loss is only nominal.

During 1879 Margaret Bradley, an inveterate toper, passed 330 days in the county jail on convictions for drunkenness. Her keeping for the period named cost the county $157. During 1879 another criminal named Daniel Hanning Welsh passed 293 days in the cooler for drunkenness, at a cost of $125 to the county. The question arises, would it not be better to export these and other specimens to South America or some place equally remote from here?

On Tuesday last the fifteen year old son of Mr. Louis Wagner, residing at the corner of Third street and Aurora avenue, mysteriously left home, since when nothing has been learned of his whereabouts. On the afternoon of the day named he and another boy were threatened with arrest for snowballing a groom, and he sought that he had left home for fear of punishment. He wore a dark ulster trimmed with red at the shoulders, and a black hat. Information of his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his parents.

Read a Gilt Edge Tonic gives permanent relief in all choleric disorders. Turkish Eggs, splendid article, $1.25 each, at 99 Cent Store. A Foot Race and a Storing Mill. At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the vicinity of Sixth and Washabaw streets was the scene of a novel and impromptu go-as-you-please. The streets at this point are generally crowded at this hour, and, as one of the contestants was a female, a large crowd assembled to enjoy the sport.

The prizes for the affair were Charles Kelley and Millie Clark. It appears that both parties occupy the same apartments, and as Charles did not put in an appearance Saturday night Millie started out to look for him. She caught sight of her truant lover at the corner of Sixth and Minnesota streets, and he immediately started on a brisk run. Seeing that she would have to strike a good gait to catch up, Millie gathered her skirts about her in a style which called for loud applause from the bystanders and started after him. After making two laps around the block bounded by Sixth, Cedar, Fifth and Washabaw streets, during which Charles made several fine spurts owing to the stonishied at him by his partner, he dodged into a saloon, locked the door and escaped by the back way. Millie readjusted her skirts, was cheered by the spectators and departed homeward. Yesterday afternoon Officer Powell arrested the party and took them to the lock-up and they will have a hearing at the municipal court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Elegant Collarets and Kuchings. Full line at the 99 Cent Store. Finest assortment in the city. Selling very cheap.

PERSONAL. George O. Stevens and wife, of Boston, are stopping at the Metropolitan. Charles N. Kent and Mrs. Lucy B. Draper, of New York, are in the city. James H. Spencer, proprietor of the "Chapin Hall" house at Hudson, dined at the International yesterday.

B. F. Brown, of Elkhart, a prominent hotel man of the place, was quartered at the International yesterday.

Mr. Kent, of the firm of Geo. P. Powell & Co., the well known real estate agents of New York, is at the Metropolitan.

Mr. Fred G. Draper was a surprised and particularly happy man yesterday, because of the unexpected arrival of his mother. The first intimation he received of her presence here was by invitation to breakfast with her at the Metropolitan hotel on Saturday morning.

Messrs. R. B. Angus and J. J. Hill, of the St. Paul & Manitoba road, left last evening for Chicago, St. Louis and other points below. They go to look after the contracts made last fall for the construction of other equipment for the extension of the coming season, and will be absent a week or ten days.

Mr. E. F. Warner, of the American Express company, and wife, left on Saturday evening for Boston in pursuance of a telegram announcing the serious illness of Mr. Amos Thompson, the venerable father of Mrs. Warner. Mr. Amos Thompson is the brother of late Horace Thompson, and his illness is supposed to have originated from prostration contracted at the death-bed of his brother at New York.

Mr. Donnelly Will Not be Seated Except for Good Reasons. [Fairbairn Democrat.] What the facts are we are unable to say, but it has been our opinion that there was little or nothing to sustain the charge. If the evidence of such work is clear, the House will simply do its duty by giving Mr. Donnelly the seat; but unless they have such evidence and are ready to produce it, it is a job that will go into history along side the outrage perpetrated upon Benjamin Wood, who was ousted by a Republican House, although elected by 10,000 majority. But we have no fears that the House of Representatives will assume the responsibility of ousting Mr. Washburn and seating Mr. Donnelly unless the claim of the latter is good, and we are content to wait and see what the result is.

Read's Gilt Edge Tonic is a wholesome stimulant and its quality is guaranteed. Folding Rocking Chairs, $1.25 and $1.38, at the 99 Cent Store. The nicest nursery or sewing chair out. On account of the observance of Monday as Washington's birthday, Prof. F. A. Fogg's select school will be closed that day.

Dr. D'Unger, discoverer of the cinchona cure for drunkenness, cures all cases. Room 37, Palmer house, Chicago, Ill. Use Wm. Clarke & Son's Helix Needles. Embracing a thorough treatise, with fifty-six illustrations, on the cause, prevention, treatment and cure of all the most prevalent diseases. Treats over 250; (giving full prescriptions) all cases, 250 copies. It is in use by physicians and medical colleges all over the country. Price $1 by mail.
