

CITY GLOBULES.

THE NELSON ASSAULT.

Suit was begun in the district court yesterday by N. W. Welch against M. Vincent, to recover $710 for alleged services.

In the probate court yesterday, Mr. Wm. Louis Kelly was appointed special administrator of the estate of the late John W. Sheehy.

Auctioneer Kavanagh sold yesterday the property corner of College avenue and Washburn street for $2,700. The purchaser, Esq. worthy assessor, was the purchaser.

A delightful hop was given at the Metropolitan last night, participated in by the guests of the hotel. The attendance was quite large and the light fantastic was tripped until midnight.

An action was commenced in the district court yesterday by the German-American bank against W. K. Murphy and others, to enjoin defendants from making claims to certain lots in Whitney & Smith's addition to St. Paul.

Willie Burdick rose from a stooping position in Bailey's warehouse yesterday, just in time to catch on his forehead the swiftly moving lever of a packing press. It didn't break his skull but it created a magnificent balcony on the front of his head.

Adjutant General VanCleve has received notice of the allowance of claims as follows: Arrears of pay $32.24; two bounty of $75 each on invalid pensions, one of $75.20, and one of $83.21; one widow, $83.41, and one minor child, $42.80.

A rather genteel but sheepish looking fellow named Martin Ford, was at the police court yesterday, charged with bugging up and going to sleep on the sidewalk at Seven Corners. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness, and was sent to the jail for seven days.

Grandpa Kellogg, an old gentleman who is selling his photographs about the city to earn a livelihood, left a false a few days ago at some place where he called and he cannot recall the locality. Whoever he will confer a favor on an old man by sending word to the Globe office, stating where it can be found, it will be a note of value to anyone save the owner.

In response to a telegram, Chief Weber received a message from the proprietor of the Merchants hotel, at Red Wing, yesterday, stating that Michael O'Connell, the man killed by falling from the bluff, had been breaking on a freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, running from Red Wing to Le Centre. When O'Connell left Red Wing he stated that he intended to break on the Hastings & Dakota railroad.

A brutal assault was made in Duval's saloon on Waconata street, near the depot, yesterday afternoon, which almost led to serious consequences. A stone mason named Murphy was called to the saloon and called for a glass of beer, after which a dispute took place concerning the payment. It is claimed that during the talk Duval cracked Murphy on the head with a bottle, making a very ugly wound. Murphy stated his grievance to the police and was arrested to swear out a warrant for Duval's arrest.

About noon yesterday a large company was assembled in front of Allen's drug store, Jackson street, to witness the performances of a couple of mice—little fellows of the common order of wild mice. Sheltered by a pile of papers they were being kept from the street by the crowd from the window with their paws and which they were sitting on their haunches as squirrels eat nuts. The little fellows seemed to feel quite secure and were not at all alarmed by the great eyes staring at them from the outside, but leisurely they ate their meal of fresh grain and then retired to their quarters out of sight.

George Tesch, a colored sport with loud trousers, complained to the police yesterday that he had been robbed of a watch and chain at Morton's saloon on Fourth street. Tesch said that he had dressed in a buttoned up coat and white trousers, had been on a spree, and while Tesch was asleep the latter is supposed to have pinched the "snapper." They came to police headquarters to explain, and were accompanied by half the colored sports in town. Tesch made light of his loss before the gang and exonerated Hall from the theft. The latter is considered a very uncertain sort of person and was ordered to leave town.

Peter Flomm, residing on Rosabel street, was arraigned at the police court yesterday afternoon, charged with disorderly conduct. Yesterday morning word was sent to City Hall that defendant's wife and family were in destitute circumstances and greatly in need of assistance. Officer Patterson went to investigate and found that the suffering of the family was caused by the ill treatment of an improvident and shiftless husband. The neighbors stated that Flomm was in the habit of coming home drunk and beating his family. He was ordered to leave town.

Anna Kauterman was before his honor yesterday, charged with her old weakness of drunkenness. Officer McMahon stated that she was arrested on Walnut street, in company with a disolute fellow from the Sixth Ward. They had a pair of beer, and were proceeding in the direction of the city hall, when she stated that she had not been drunk and that she was permanently employed in Minneapolis. On recommendation of Mr. Murray she was sentenced to sixty days, the same to stand suspended as long as she kept away from St. Paul. She asked leave to come down once a week to see her child, but will not be allowed to visit St. Paul except by special permission.

Thomas Simons was at the police court yesterday morning, charged with raising perdition at a saloon on Jackson street. He went into the saloon and called for a drink of the old stuff. Being thirsty he took an unusually large bowl, and the bartender kicked on the grounds that he was not selling whisky at wholesale. After this there was some chin music, and Simons, who had entered the saloon of a policeman. He stated yesterday that he poured out a swallow of whisky and laid down a quarter in payment thereof. The bartender refused to give him the change, which led to the row. Simons' story was corroborated by one who witnessed the affair, and he was fined $5, sentence being suspended during good behavior.

Mrs. Dollie Stiles visited city hall yesterday and complained against one Nick Klinger, whom she charged with paying her unwelcome attentions. A. H. Andrews & Co. Stiles rented a house on Ninth, near Exchange street, and she took Klinger in as a lodger. The latter was himself obnoxious to Mrs. Stiles, and it is mooted in the neighborhood that the parties have resided together since they entered the city in the role of pimp Klinger has beaten the woman black and blue. Mrs. Stiles came to Chief Weber with her baby, yesterday, and implored protection. She stated that she was unable to sell out and leave the city, and that she wanted nothing to do with Klinger. Officer Vogte was ordered to arrest the latter if he gave her any annoyance.

In point of fine showing, and the immense crowd drawn out, the exhibition drill given by Damascus commandry at Bridge Square last night was a very flattering success. The streets adjoining Bridge Square were lined with admirers, and great interest was manifested in the drill. About 7:30 o'clock, about seventy Sir Knights appeared in line, attired in the full regalia of the order. They were followed by Great Western band, the Minneapolis and St. Paul members of which were out in full force, and a platoon of policemen in charge of Chief Weber. The procession marched down Third street to Jackson, out Jackson to Eighth street, thence east to Waconata, after which they turned and marched to Robert street, thence to Third street and Bridge Square. An exhibition drill was then given under the direction of Eminent Commander Monfort. The maneuvers were executed with great precision, showing the best of discipline and perfect familiarity with the tactics. It was a satisfactory and highly pleasing exhibition.

The Three Men Held to Answer to the Grand Jury.

The case of the State against Joseph Matz, Nicholas Meiers and John Wyack, charged with committing a deadly assault on John Neilson, was resumed at the police court yesterday afternoon. The hearing was commenced on Monday and the day was taken up with the examination of Matz. Yesterday afternoon was occupied with the examination of the defendants Meiers and Wyack. Defendant Meiers was first examined by Judge Howard and testified to having been at a dance, on Fort street, the evening before the fight. After the dance witness and defendant Wyack came down town. The time was between three and four o'clock on the morning of the 20th of June. Witness and Wyack tried the front door of the saloon, which was locked, after which they passed around to the rear door. Shortly after they entered the saloon Matz came out of the room and remarked that during the night he had been annoyed by the visits of Neilson. About this time Neilson came into the house, and passing through the front room, he sat down on the bed where Matz was sleeping. He made a great noise, on hearing which witness and Wyack started for the room, and upon reaching which they saw Matz strike Neilson. The latter fell on his head toward the bed and groaned. Matz then called for the defendants asking them to "put the loafer out." They took hold of Neilson and put him on the porch. After he had been taken to the porch Matz told them to give him a good whipping. In reply to a question witness stated that Matz visited them in jail and offered to employ a lawyer to conduct their cases if they would not state anything about the fight.

Witness had no objection to Matz, Monday evening, why he had sworn to a lie concerning the fight, to which Matz replied that he couldn't help himself. Witness stated that he had a beer faucet but had not used it.

By Mr. Egan—Witness had not seen the beer faucet in the bed room. They did not shove Neilson out but led him out by the hands. Witness got the beer faucet because he thought Neilson was a robber and that he would return after being put out. Witness did not see Meiers have a chair in his hand; the beer faucet was made of brass.

John Wyack, the other defendant, was then sworn and testified to having been at a dance with Matz the night of the fight. They returned from the dance late and on their way home stopped at Matz's, going in the rear way. Between three and four o'clock they heard some noise, and they went around to see what it was. Matz and Neilson stanking, they saw Miss Matz and Neilson during the night. Neilson had visited her room four times. Neilson then went up stairs to Matz's room. Hearing a noise, he went to Matz's room and saw Matz on reaching Matz's room they saw the latter strike Neilson. Matz told them to put the loafer out and they led him to the porch. Meiers had the beer faucet but did not use it.

The defendant was cross-examined and after remarks by counsel with the statement of County Attorney Egan that Neilson was still in danger of losing his life from the effects of the assault, the case of the defendants was held to the grand jury in $1,000 bail each. Matz gave bonds and the others were committed.
