HENRY CLAY DEAN was invited to deliver a political speech in Iowa last week. The day of the meeting the bills announcing his appearance were torn down from the boards all over town.

THE Republican Ku Klux of Mower county will not be able to divert attention from their attempted murder by alleging that some "discharged hired man" or Judge Page himself inflicted the wounds.

REPUBLICAN REPUTATION. There is no use in begging the question, pleading the baby shot; the Republican party of Minnesota is guilty of reputation. It is no defense to say that its leaders have acknowledged the debt binding.

There is no use in begging the question, pleading the baby shot; the Republican party of Minnesota is guilty of reputation. It is no defense to say that its leaders have acknowledged the debt binding.

that not prove that the Republican party of Minnesota is a repudiation? Can it be denied, that there is defunct interest, and therefore repudiated interest for twenty years? Can it be denied, that the Republican party has had absolute control of the State government and both branches of the legislature for twenty years? Can it be denied, that the Republicans have had an overwhelming majority of the popular vote for twenty years? Can it be denied that the most influential and leading Democrats and a majority of the party have been in favor of the settlement of this indebtedness? Then whose fault is it, who is to blame, who is guilty of repudiation in Minnesota—who but the Republican party?

The Republican party has made no provision for the payment either of the principal or interest of the bonds. The party has done nothing, but the stigma remains. Crawfishing and special pleading won't help the matter. The Republican party acknowledges the debt and won't pay it. Is not that repudiation? Why have not the Republicans put a plank into their platform to pay the debt? For the reason given yesterday, the party has been and is now both too cowardly and too dishonest. This is the sum and substance of the whole matter.

THE MURDER AND ITS LESSON. The murder of young Larkin on Sunday evening is greatly to be deplored, yet it may prove a wholesome lesson to a class of our population that has long stood in need of it. The offense of the murdered man was that he and his companions grossly insulted two young girls upon the street, and assailed their escort when he remonstrated with them for their rowdyish conduct.

St. Paul is overrun with a horde of young hoodlums whose chief occupation after nightfall seems to be loaf around the street corners and insult all ladies who pass either by addressing them personally or by making use of some offensive remark in their hearing.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. A letter from Capt. Howgate concerning the vacant place of Chief Signal Officer—Ocean Commerce Convention—Fire Protection—The Removal of Garbage from Residences, etc.

Every citizen of St. Paul who has had occasion to traverse the streets after nightfall is aware of this state of affairs. A gentleman, be he ever so well known, who takes a lady on his arm for an evening stroll, is liable to be greeted at any street corner or in front of many saloons by a ribald jest or a vulgar insinuation directed at the lady in his company.

ANOTHER WASHBURN IN THE FIELD. Elinu B. Washburn is an aspirant for the Republican nomination to Congress from the Third Illinois district, embracing the north division of Chicago and the county of Lake, Mr. Washburn is now in Europe, but, during his absence his existence and his aspirations should be forgotten, he has sent to a friend of his at Chicago a letter in which he says:

I don't want the place, but if the nomination were tendered me I could see no reason why I should not accept it. Some citizen in the district has to discharge that duty, and I can give no reason why I should not. If the nomination were tendered me and I accepted, I should come back immediately and make an active canvass of the district.

THE variety theatre was crowded last evening with an orderly audience, which greatly enjoyed the clean setting of the house and the stage improvements since the varieties were closed for the summer, and especially enjoyed and applauded the performance given by the new company, The Virginia trio, of the "Paul Police Squad" and "Hungry Guards from Hudson," were highly amusing.

THE PROBABILITIES. Elinu B. Washburn is a few months ago, a candidate for President of the United States. While professing to be a particular friend of General Grant, he permitted the use of his name in the convention till his name had been killed off, fondly hoping that when dark horses were mentioned, his name would come up. He was disappointed, and at once set sail for Europe. Now he is a candidate for Congress. He will probably be disappointed again. He will probably be a candidate for the legislature, or for county commissioner, or for pound keeper; but he will never neglect the opportunity of running for office. If he did so he would be disowned by the rest of the tribe, for a Washburn who should refuse to accept an office has no right to the family name.

JOHN GRIFFIN'S DEATH. Horribly Crushed Under a Locomotive—He Never Squealed and He Died Game. John Griffin has been unfavorably known to the reporters, police authorities and saloon keepers of St. Paul for a long time.

SECOND CHAPTER OF THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY. Inquest on the Remains of the Murdered Larkin—Testimony of the Misses Madigan and Stevens as to the Provocation—Wife and Unprovoked Assaults Offered by the Murdered Man—Barton Held for the Murder Without Bail.

When the good people of St. Paul sat down to their coffee and morning paper yesterday a look of horrified amazement spread over many a face as the account was read of the last and most terrible tragedy. The look of astonishment gave way to a sterner expression, which was manifested in no uncertain language, and on every side were to be heard exhortations on the spirit of lawlessness, whose forcible arguments, the knife, the bludgeon and the pistol, have exercised their cruel logic with such an effect on the minds of the people of St. Paul.

Throughout the city yesterday, the brutal murder of young George Larkin by Robert Barton, on Sunday night, was the absorbing theme of conversation. Moreover, the people have stopped to reflect about this thing, and the belief is abroad that now it is high time for someone to see to it that the law and justice which govern the reckless taking of human life in St. Paul, be not only maintained, but that the law should be made more effective.

GRAVEL TRAIN KILLING. Inquest on the Remains of John Connell—Facts as Herebefore Stated in the "Globe." The inquest on the remains of John Connell whose death resulted from injuries received on the St. Paul & Manitoba road, was held at the round house at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon.

At 10 o'clock the coroner, accompanied by a jury, repaired to the residence of the deceased, on St. Peter street, where they viewed the remains. Dr. Murphy was present and testified to the cause of death, which resulted from being crushed across the bowels.
