A New Jail in Ruins

(Alexandria (Douglas county) News, Nov. 25. About 12 o'clock Tuesday night, as Mr. L. G. Sims, with a friend, was passing down Seventh avenue, he discovered a light in the new jail building, and thinking that all was not right ran over and found the interior of the northeast room on the second floor on fire. He at once gave the alarm by ringing the Congregational church bell close by, and only a few minutes elapsed quite a large number of citizens were on the ground with pails, extinguishers, etc., but owing to the dense smoke and flames, all attempts to enter the building were futile. The flames rapidly gained headway and in a short space of time the entire structure was consumed. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there were no stoves on the floor where the fire was first discovered, and only one in the building, which was in the basement. Mr. Aiton was to receive $6,500 for the building complete, and he estimates the loss at $4,500. November 2d he placed a carpenter's risk of $3,000 upon the building in the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company.
