ST. PAUL, THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1881.

THE House yesterday, for the first time during the session, refused to create a new office-that of State mineralogist, one of the greatest needed in the State. The conversion to an economical policy took place pretty late in the session.

THE croakers who opposed the building of a new market house, and especially those who thought it would be a fatal defect to have it two stories high, with a hall on the upper floor, should call a convention (meeting somewhere out doors) and resolve that they were idiots. The public have already adopted a similar resolution-by a large majority.

THE capitol fire had one good effect. The House yesterday reconsidered the vote by which it had refused to pass the bill for the creation of a capitol fund from the sale of the Kandiyohi capitol lands, and passed it by an almost unanimous vote. The necessity for funds with which to rebuild and repair the State house was more apparent yesterday than it was the day before.

Who was the Erostratus that fired this Ephesian dome, is at present a mystery,-Pio-Erostratus sounds well if a man escapes the lockjaw in pronouncing it, but the right name of the darkey who raised the flag for one dollar a day, was Jefferson Davis Hudson. Furthermore, he was drunk, and had been for six hours when the fire broke out. It is cruel to ruin this poor drunken darkey's reputation forever, by calling him Erostratus.

To-DAY will close the session of the twenty-second legislature of Minnesota. The day will be one of the busiest and one of the most important in the history of the State. There are over a hundred bills on the files of the House awaiting final action, many of them being of an exceedingly important nature, involving interests that concern people in all sections of the State. It is not possible that these bills at their present stage can receive the consideration they deserve, and nearly all of them will be rushed through at high pressure. Some will no doubt fail, but the experience of the past leads to the fear that these will not be the worst on file. The careful scrutiny of the governor, however, will probably correct some of the evils of the day's haste.

THE House yesterday concurred in the Serate bill submitting a constitutional amendment relative to the disposition of the driver, testified as follows: Have been the State swamp lands to the people. driver in the employ of Dr. Hand for nine The bill proposes to devote one-half of the proceeds of the lands when sold, to a permanent fund for the support of common schools, and the other half for the support of educational and charitable institutions. It would have been more sensible if the whole amount had been given to the common schools. As it is, the State university and Normal schools will receive the benefit of half of the proceeds. If the bill is approved by the governor, and the amendment is adopted by the people, it will put a stop to the scramble of railroad companies to secure possession of these lands, which has engrossed so much of the time of the legislature of late years.

REBUILDING THE CAPITOL.

Gov. Pillsbury has given another evidence of his practical business qualifications in the message he sent to the legislature last evening relative to rebuilding the capitol. He promptly secured the services of an architect who supplies a careful, detailed estimate of the cost of rebuilding upon the present site. This estimate shows that the building can be replaced for a sum not greater than the cost of an extra session. Contrary to the general expectation on the night of the fire, the walls are found to be still serviceable. The vaults, the sewer work, pipes, etc., are practically uninjured. If it were feasible, a permanent and expensive building would be preferable, but the State is scarcely prepared to begin such a building as she will ultimately require. The proposed rebuilding will not involve the increase of the tax levy, and will scarcely be felt by the people

It is possible, too, that when the State is able and prepared to expend one or two millions on a capitol building, a site may be desired where there are more ample grounds, and a sightly position, like that on Wabashaw hill, may be chosen. This very fact should lead the city to secure ample grounds, without delay to be tendered to the State at the proper time. As the constitution locates the capitol at St. Paul, and forbids any change save by vote of the people, the location is already permanent, but the exact site in the city may be varied according to the judgment of the legislature and Ald. Allen nave acted wisely and in accordance with the wishes of our people in promptly placing the new market

Mayor Dawson, City Attorney Murray

house at the disposal of the State authorities. Under the circumstances the accommodation will be excellent, and ample time can be given for the rebuilding. The bill appropriating $25,000 for rental of offices can be withdrawn and the sum applied to building purposes, as the city

gives the use of the market house "without money and without price."

The Senate having met at the ruins of the capitol, and adjourned to meet at the St. Paul Market house at 11 o'clock, at that hour business was commenced and prosecuted during three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening, with the alacrity incident to the closing hours of the session. Two or three additional clerks were employed at the secretary's desk, and the making of laws was greatly facilitated thereby. A noisy crowd in the lobby considerably interfered with deliberations, and the mob was no sooner quieted or dispersed, than it was replaced by another. Notwithstanding the haste, bills appeared to be acted upon understandingly.

At 10 o'clock the Senate met at the ruins of Money lent for 60 days on United States bonds at 6 per cent., and on choice railroad stocks for six months at 6 per cent. Very little mercantile paper moving. The amount of lawful money which the United States treasury has taken into its vaults from the bank reserve since a week ago Saturday is now over $17,000,000. The amount paid out for bonds bought on invitation to sell $35,000,000 to the treasury is less than $6,000,000, so that bank reserves here and throughout the country have been depleted to the amount of something over $11,000,000 since the raid on the banks began. The future of the money market, at least unwhich the sub-treasury has taken in to-day for the withdrawal of bank note circulation is $43,000. Many rumors are current here to the effect that several millions of lawfu noney are held here to be turned into the treasury for account out of town banks, if word comes that the refunding bill has been passed by Congress. We have been unable to ascertain what foundation for these rumors there is. The stringency didn't last long enough to spread to other cities, and there, as here, legitimate dealings were largely nereased in the exchanges at every city ex-ept one. The largeness of the increase at Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and some other nties, and the fact that the exchanges result from dealings at a considerably lower range of prices than was seen at this time last year, indicate that the expansion of the quantities of products exchanged has been great. As announced yesterday, owing to certain rumors concerning the manner in which the lad Henry Schmidling came to his death, and with the view of adducing all the information

possible from what new testimony might be
