

SUBSIDING.

THE WATER AND THE EXCITEMENT BOTH FALLING.

A Favorable Change in the Stage of Water - West St. Paul Habitués Less Alarmed than Heretofore - The Work of Recovering Goods Still in Progress - Another Man Missing - A Few Incidents of the Day - The People Well Provided For.

The flood in West St. Paul yesterday showed but little change from its condition at midnight. The water was about at the same stage as on the previous evening, but it was a little too high to please the majority of the inhabitants.

THE MORNING BROKE

upon a sea of water as broad as the expanse of land between bluff and bluff would admit of, and as there were no evidences of an immediate rise the people on that side of the river did not feel called upon to exert themselves except as they were called upon to rescue stock and furniture. The major part of the furniture had been taken out the day before, and there was little except the least valuable portion of the household goods to look after. These consisted of the lightest and most portable goods, that had been placed in the upper stories of the houses, and these were removed with but little difficulty up to the time the wind, that came down upon the flat about 11:30, rendered navigation exceedingly perilous. No accidents occurred up to that time, but, without warning, a perfect gale came down upon the devoted inhabitants and tossed their houses hither and thither in the most indiscriminate fashion. Houses that had withstood the wash of the waters for days tumbled over from their foundations and exposed additional surface to the current, but fortunately none of them were overcome so far as to work destruction. The principal part of the furniture belonging to the inhabitants had been rescued, and there was little left to save except the chamber sets, which were of little value.

THE GUST OF WIND

that struck the flat about 11 o'clock created much apprehension but little damage. It twisted a few houses out of shape, but that was all, save that a few boats that happened to be on the flat below Bridge street were capsized and gave their occupants a good ducking, but there was fortunately no casualties worthy of mention. Three or four persons lost small quantities of household goods, but the losses were not great.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Shortly before noon—and about the time the first squall struck the flat, Willie, the son of Sergeant Walsh, was sitting in a skiff at the bluff near A street, preparatory to starting out to save the goods of a family a short distance off. The squall struck the boat and swept it out into the current. Willie had nothing but a paddle, but he battled bravely against the swift currents, and eventually succeeded in getting the boat firmly moored against a house. His father, Sergeant Walsh, set out in a boat, and succeeded in bringing him ashore. The boy had prepared for emergencies by stripping ready for a swim. On the way back to shore the Sergeant succeeded in taking aboard a quantity of household goods belonging to a neighbor. The report that Willie had been drowned created general circulation, but happily it proved to be without foundation.

CAPT. STARKEY'S FLAT-BOAT

was abroad in the water at an early hour, and under command of John Leyde succeeded in reaching the Mintzer place. By 2 o'clock seven horses and four cows had been taken safely to land. The boat returned at once, and loaded all the remaining stock that could be reached, but the wind was so high that it was deemed dangerous to attempt a landing. This was effected, however, towards 5 o'clock, and all of Mintzer's stock save three cows were successfully landed. About eight head of cattle, aside from those belonging to Dr. Mintzer, were rescued and brought to shore by the barge and her crew, and many more would have been rescued but for the high wind, that rendered navigation exceedingly perilous, and prevented the barge from making as many trips as were necessary.

DURING THE FORENOON

the houses of Mrs. Sexton, Mrs. Hennessy, and Thomas Brady, that had been undermined by the current, left their foundations and toppled over into the water. None of them were washed away, however, but were fixed against the low lands not more than fifty feet from the original locations, and if the river continues to fall will move no further down the stream.

THE FALL OF THE RIVER

occasioned a great deal of satisfaction to people generally on the flat. They had been fearful that the Mississippi would rise and send a mass of logs and debris down. As the afternoon wore off and the water gauge showed no rise, but rather a recession of the waters, the people began to feel easier, and those who had previously allowed their goods to remain in their houses decided to allow them to stay there, and towards evening almost everybody was convinced that the worst was over, and that nothing could be gained by efforts to save what little remained beyond the confines of Bridge street.

ANOTHER MAN MISSING.

A blind man, whose name could not be ascertained, disappeared from the landing at the bluff near A street early yesterday morning. His wife, who is totally blind, as well as an infant child, were safely housed yesterday morning. The husband, who has a partial gift of sight, endeavored to row a skiff to his residence a short distance from Fifth street but was not seen afterwards. It is feared that he was carried down the river.

NOT HEARD FROM.

Denot Authier, who disappeared on Friday morning, after having gone over the flat to rescue goods, had not been heard from up to a late hour last evening. His wife had made a tour of the camps, but found no one who had seen him after leaving the landing. It is probable that he floated down the stream, and may have landed at some point remote from communication with the city.

ANCHORING HOUSES.

Quite a number of persons went out for the purpose of anchoring their dwellings. They encircled them with ropes and fastened them to trees that would probably resist every strain upon them. Mr. Denney succeeded in releasing his family of six persons from his house on Third street above the bridge after the greatest difficulty. He took only such bedding as was absolutely necessary to protect the people from the dampness of the earth. He returned yesterday and succeeded in securing his house by means of ropes to a couple of neighboring friendly trees. Mr. Muloney took two or three shift loads of limestone out to his residence, and planted it on the interior, convinced that it would hold the building against a foot more of water. Mr. O'Brien followed Ned Muloney's example, and up to midnight there were no evidences that either of the houses had moved an inch.

THE BARRACKS.

About a dozen families expelled from the flats found refuge yesterday in the barracks, making in all fifty-six families that had secured protection there. The Humboldt school and the old town hall as well as the tents erected at the foot of A street afforded protection to about twenty families besides, and though at nightfall there were some half a dozen families that persisted in sticking to their houses, though they were surrounded on all sides by water, there were none who were left unprotected. Furthermore all were provided with an abundance to eat. Billy Bircher kept open house, and so did Jerry McCarthy, while Col. Allen sent upon a plentiful supply of the substantial. There were many other generous souls who contributed liberally of their means to prevent suffering.

HELPFUL HANDS.

Mr. Hickey, of the Merritt House, deserves credit for his open-hearted hospitality. He threw his house open to all comers until it was filled to its utmost capacity, and then exerted himself among his neighbors to secure house room for others. People were packed into all of his rooms as closely as they could lie, and all vacant space was filled by furniture brought from the flat. Mrs. Lambert came to visit Mr. McCarthy's family, arriving just as the flood came down. She did not wait for a request, but went to work cooking food and preparing beds for the people driven from their homes. She scarcely slept night or day, but persisted in working hard for all in need of assistance, without regard to her condition. She deserved the many blessings she received.

THE POLICE FORCE

was vigilant during the day and evening, and worked faithfully both on the water and the land. They were subjected to many annoyances, but bore them as well as could be expected. A sample of the character of the calls made upon them was the following: About 3 o'clock a man came in appearing agitated to the police boats, and, wringing his hands, said a dog had broken open the door of his house, and the water was destroying his goods. A boat was manned and went out, and after the lapse of half an hour returned, bringing a Shanghai rooster and an old clothes horse, the only things of value found about the premises.

THRESHERS IN DANGER.

Capt. John Leyde had ten threshing machines of his own invention upon his premises—five in his yard and five in a shed. Yesterday afternoon they were all nearly covered with water, and were in danger of being swept away, as they were directly in the track of one of the strongest currents on the flat. The Captain took the situation philosophically, however, and professed his ability to build a dozen more as soon as the materials could be brought to hand. He anchored the machines as securely as possible, and was willing to abide by the outcome, whatever it might be.

A DANGER BRIDGED.

In the course of the afternoon it became evident that there was danger of the washing out of the bridge street causeway by reason of the setting in of the current under the sidewalk fronting Jerry McCarthy's store, and, moreover, in the vicinity of the GLOBE. Teams were called into requisition and large quantities of stone rip-rapping thrown into the course of the current, and it was decided about 5 o'clock that all danger was past, as the water in that part of the flat was evidently receding and the current losing much of its velocity. All the causeways were thought to be firm when the GLOBE reporter left the scene at sundown.

Generous Contributions for Relief.

With his characteristic energy where his sympathies are stirred, Hon. Geo. Benz, yesterday morning, started out to raise a thousand dollars for assistance of those of the sufferers by the overflow in St. Paul, who are in need of help. During the day he collected about $775 and, intending to renew his tour to-morrow, he expects to have over a thousand to report to the relief committee before Monday night. A friend who was permitted to look at Mr. Benz's list noticed among the largest gifts the following: Geo. Benz & Co., $100; Edmund Rice $65; M. Auerbach, $25; E. S. Edgerton, $25; C. B. Thurston, $20; W. Griggs, $20; Herman Grote, $15—and $1 to $10, each according to his means, absolutely no name to be named, but showing how ready and common is the sympathy felt throughout the community for our afflicted fellow townsmen. Mr. Benz undertook the work of collecting the subscriptions on his own motion, but has been greatly encouraged in it by the hearty co-operation of all to whom he has applied for contributions.

The Gauge.

During yesterday afternoon there was a very perceptible decrease from the high stage of water previously reported. At 6 o'clock last evening it stood 19 feet and 5 inches; at 11 o'clock last night the gauge showed 19 feet and 2 inches, a falling off of 3 inches, and at 1:15 o'clock this morning it was down to 19 feet.

At Midnight.

When the GLOBE reporter made his rounds at 1 o'clock this morning he found that the velocity of the waters had greatly subsided. Few families—not more than four or five—had remained in their houses, but as it was evident that the waters were receding quite a number of watchers went out during the night. They were mostly stalwart men, able to cope with whatever might be in store, and left the dry land with a full knowledge of the responsibility they undertook. The general impression was that the worst had been passed, and there was a decided feeling of relief.

A Roll of Honor.

Some will be so uncharitable as to say that the police force did nothing more than their duty in assisting those who happened to be in

SOCIETY RECORD.

Of Events of the Last Week and Those Coming, With Personal and Other Pleasant Mention.

The social boom, which was galvanized into spasmodic activity the week succeeding Easter, has gotten over its intermitent, and again collapsed. More correctly speaking it has gone into its normal condition of unmitigated stupidity. The belles and beaux who came to the front in such grandiose style after Easter have dwindled away from the fairy tale of fashion and languish in seclusion. While this is considered au fait, it is insufferably tough on the divinity that roosts on the society perch of this sanctum, awaiting an opportunity to inspire its big licks.

There are several matches on hand, as the result of last season's late work, but it would be better to give the affairs away. A faint rumor of proposed development created a slight ruffle on the placid surface of social staidness last week, but the young man moved to reconsider and the motion was laid on the table. In short society has been as listlessly idle as a painted ship on a canal. Here and there some interesting jottings were collared, which are given below:

Miss Mary Ensign, of Duluth, is visiting Mrs. McLeod on College avenue.

Hon. J. D. Ensign, of Duluth, spent a day or two with friends in St. Paul during the past week.

The Raquet club, composed of the confederates of St. Paul, gave a delightful party last night at Turner hall.

The Plasterers' union gave a grand ball at Pfeiffer's hall last Wednesday evening. Those present had a huge time.

The Union club gave a social hop at Armory hall last Thursday evening, and, as usual, the affair was very entertaining.

The Traveling Men's association are arranging for their annual picnic excursion, to take place early in July at Lake Minnetonka.

Miss Jennie Miner entertained quite a number of her friends at the house of her parents on Goodrich avenue last Friday evening.

Great preparations are in progress for the May festival by the St. Andrew's society, to be given at Pfeiffer's hall on the 17th inst. The Great Union orchestra will furnish the music.

Mr. Jno. Caulfield, secretary of the water company, repudiates the insinuation in connection with his Stillwater trip, and maintains that the job was put up by the boys as a joke.

Shepard Stone, son of Dr. Stone, gave a "german" at the residence of his parents on Jackson street, Thursday night, at which he beautifully entertained a large number of his friends.

The ball given by Excelsior lodge I. O. O. F. at Sherman hall last Tuesday evening was well attended, and a pleasant time was had by all present. Prof. Stein's orchestra furnished the music.

A very enjoyable concert was given by the Germania singing society at the Athenaeum last Monday evening, closing with a grand ball. The Great Western band orchestra was in attendance.

The annual ball of Humboldt lodge A. O. U. W. was given at the Athenaeum last evening. The attendance was large and a good time was had by all who were fortunate enough to join in the festivities.

The wedding of Mr. George J. Mitsch, the popular young druggist of St. Peter street, and Miss Clementina Sonnen will take place at Assumption church on the 17th of May, the Rev. Valentine Stimmler officiating.

Mrs. L. E. Hart and daughter, Miss Rose, took the Wednesday evening train for Chicago and Clinton, Iowa, where Miss Rose will visit her grandfather for a few weeks. Mrs. Hart is expected to return some time during the week.

Mrs. W. H. Morse, whose husband was killed on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, is visiting Mrs. South Johnson, in Austin. She possesses a beautiful contralto voice, which will probably be heard in St. Paul the ensuing fall.

Mr. Henry C. G. Stahlman, Mrs. F. H. Schade, Miss B. Engel and Mrs. J. H. Schierman of this city, and Mr. P. Raue, Mr. Knoblauch and Mr. Bishop, of the Free Press, of Minneapolis, leave this evening for Europe. Mr. Stahlman and Mrs. Schade will remain about three months. We wish them all a pleasant journey.

Arrangements are being made on a liberal scale for the annual musical festival by the Great Western Paper, to be held on the 15th inst. Messrs Grote and Hinkel, proprietors of this beautiful resort are putting things in readiness for the occasion and a rare entertainment may be expected.

Mrs. Platto and Miss Graham, of the St. Paul Kensington Art school, will leave for Hastings on Monday, May 2d, to remain a few days, until their art rooms on Washburn street, leave this evening for Europe. Mr. Stahlman and Mrs. Schade will remain about three months. We wish them all a pleasant journey.

Next Friday the Druids of St. Paul will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of their order at Market hall. They will assemble at 2 o'clock P. M., and, in procession, march through the city headed by the Great Western band. In the evening a grand entertainment and ball will be given, for which elaborate preparations have been made. The management of the day will be Chief Weber and A. B. Kiefer.

On Thursday evening last a charming entertainment was given at Sherman hall, for the benefit of the organ fund of St. John the Evangelist church. The artistic character of the programme, and the great success of the affair have been chronicled in previous issues of the GLOBE. The programme, which represented a most artistic ability in St. Paul, was as follows:

Trío—Violin, Violin Cello and Piano. Fesic. Prof. Otto Schmidt, Saroni and Manner.

Duetto—Marias. Flozow. Messrs. Geo. W. Draper and W. L. Anderson.

Ballad—"Once Again." Sullivan. Mr. Harve Mingay.

Aria—"Vivo suo veder." Gounod. Miss May Thurston.

Solo, Violin—"Concerto." De Beriof. Prof. Otto Schmidt.

Tenor Solo—"Be thou faithful unto Death." Mendelsohn—Mr. George W. Draper.

Bass Solo—"The Monk." Meyerbeer. Dr. W. W. Fahnestock.

Reading—"John Burns' of Gettysburg." Bret Hart-Lieut. Edward Maguire.

Duetto—"Ebben per mia memora." Rossini Misses May and Nellie N. Thurston.

Ballad—Selected. Mr. Geo. W. Draper.

Trío—Violin, Violin Cello and Piano. Fesic. Prof. Schmidt, Saroni and Manner.

Ballad—"When the Leaves begin to Turn." Malloy.

Ballad—"London Bridge." Mr. W. L. Anderson.

Quartette—"Spring is Coming." Goldbeck Misses May and Nellie Thurston, W. J. Draper and W. W. Fahnestock.

Accompianet. Prof. Frank Wood.

Going to Europe.

G. Bischoff, the well-known musician, was tendered a banquet at Turner hall last evening by his friends. Mr. Bischoff leaves for Europe this evening with Mr. Peter Rosen and Willie Knoblauch, the young violinist, who will enter one of the musical schools at Dresden. Mr. Bischoff was presented, during the evening, with an elegant toilet set by his comrades.

THE STEAMBOATS.

Annual Record of First Arrivals of the Season—Arrival of the Mary Morton—A New Line Boat Coming Tuesday—Through Bills and Low Rates to England—The Mary Barnes for Mankato This Morning.

The solemn realities of a great flood, unprecedented at this time of the year, carrying in its wake distress and devastation to many hundred families going to make up the body corporate of the city of St. Paul—the head of navigation on the upper Mississippi river—has served to distract attention from that usually bestowed upon the arrival of the first boat from below, and so it happened that the Mary Morton, of the Diamond Jo line, steamed into port at 12 M. yesterday, and tied up to the bank just above the steamboat washhouse—the floors of which were well submerged—without creating a ripple of excitement.

The Mary Morton left St. Louis a week ago Friday at 4 P. M., with 400 tons of freight, of which about 150 tons were for St. Paul, but owing to lying reports that Lake Pepin was still closed by ice, no effort was made for a quick run. Reaching the foot of Lake Pepin Capt. Killcoen was surprised to see before him a broad expanse of water, with not a particle of ice in sight. In fact the ice left the lake Monday last, April 25. The following table shows the date of arrival of the first boat and officer commanding, since 1844:

Table with columns: Year, Steamer, Captain, Date. Lists arrivals from 1844 to 1880.

Minnesota Navigation.

Owing to the unexpectedly large offerings of freight for upper Minnesota points the Mary Barnes did not get away at 4 o'clock P. M. yesterday as advertised. The passengers last night was 10 A. M. sharp, and shortly after that hour the boat will be "tied loose" from the shore and started on her way to Mankato, which point is expected to be reached early Monday morning. To old steamboat men these are, or should be, pleasant recollections, as the sailing of the Mary Barnes to-day marks the twenty-third mile post in the history of Capt. Reaney on the Minnesota river. Twenty-three years ago to-day Capt. Reaney took his first trip up the Minnesota river, as a steamboat pilot, acting then as second clerk. The boat was the Jeannette Roberts, owned by Louis Robert, well known to all old settlers, and commanded by Captain Nelson Robert, also dead, Fred Oliver being first clerk. In those days—long before a railroad had been run up the Minnesota valley—steamboating was lively, but of late years it has been somewhat demoralized. The present unprecedented flood has operated to demoralize the railroads somewhat, and now, for a time at least, Captain Reaney will try and revive the steamboat glories of twenty-three years ago.

Navigation Notes.

The Grand Pacific, one of the new boats to compose the St. Paul & St. Louis packet company, left La Crosse for St. Louis Thursday evening. The Grand Pacific is a stern wheel, 300 feet in length, and of 900 tons capacity. She has been built with special reference to speed as well as carrying capacity on shallow water, and is provided with a large and roomy cabin, richly furnished.

THROUGH TO LONDON.

Capt. John H. Reaney, general agent at St. Paul for the St. Paul and St. Louis packet company—and the first upper Mississippi river agent empowered to give through bills of lading from St. Paul to London, is ready to receive consignments from shippers. One of the ocean steamers, running in connection with the Mississippi river barge line, will leave New Orleans for London about May 15. The barge line to connect with this particular ocean steamer will leave St. Paul about May 8th. Under the schedule of rates adopted, Capt. Reaney is prepared to give through bills of lading from St. Paul to London, guaranteeing prompt delivery for flour at $1.21 per barrel, seventeen cents below the rail and lake system of rates, advertised as the "fighting rates" of that system as antagonistic to the Mississippi river barge system. Shippers desirous of receiving the benefits of these low freights should correspond with Capt. Reaney at once.

The Democrats Made it Gilt Edged.

[Pioneer Press, April 24.] That the credit of St. Paul is gilt edged is shown by the ready sale of its bonds yesterday at three per cent. premium and accrued interest.

Geo. W. Lamson—House to Rent.

The residents of Lower Town will be pleased to learn that Mr. E. H. Milham, proprietor of the Seventh Street Bookstore, between Wacouta and Rosabel streets, has established a first-class circulating library for their convenience. Such authors as Holmes, Jules F. Smith, Marion and Bertha, Clay, E. A. Poe, Alcott, Eggleston, Oliver Optic, etc., will be found on his shelves, and new books will be added as soon as published. Mr. Milham has greatly enlarged his store and established "Ladies Book Counter," where will be found every work on "Fashions," both Foreign and Domestic. He has a store full of new and beautiful Stationery and Fancy goods of every description. All the Daily and Pictorial Papers, and he will supply you at your homes. He will frame your pictures with beautiful frames, furnish your children with School Books, Toy Books and Toys. You will find everything there that is kept in a first-class bookstore. Remember, The Seventh Street Bookstore.

Geo. W. Lamson—Fire Insurance.

To Those Building. J. C. Johnston, formerly with Prendergast Bros., has opened a Plumbing and Gas Fitting shop at No. 10 East Sixth street, Sherman block, and is prepared to do work in all parts of the city and State. Estimates given on application. Special attention paid to ventilating and preventing sewer gas. Jobbing promptly attended to. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Geo. W. Lamson—House to Rent.

Men's and Boys' Clothing. Just opened, another new and full line of men's and boys' clothing. Fashionable Spring goods, at The Seven Corners Clothing House of Max Strouse.

Geo. W. Lamson—Lots for Sale.

The great reputation of the Rev. Geo. W. Pepper as a brilliant and eloquent orator, and the general interest felt in the subject he will discuss—"Ireland and the Irish,"—make it safe to say that the Opera House will be filled on the occasion of his lecture next Tuesday evening. It is understood that a large number of the leading clergymen of all denominations, and prominent citizens of St. Paul, will occupy seats on the stage. Five hundred more tickets had to be printed last week.

Geo. W. Lamson—House for Sale.

Mr. A. J. Dean, in the office of the St. Paul Harvester Works, had the misfortune to lose a fine shoddy gun returning from a hunt the other day, either on the Fort Snelling or Bloomington road. He will pay liberally for its recovery.

Geo. W. Lamson—Fire Insurance.

A new Spring overcoat covers a multitude of old clothes—and sins—now-a-days. Call at 67 East Third street.

"EGAN THE CLOTHIER."

Special Bargains In Parasols at Strouse's, 25 East Third street. Job Lot Ladies' Hose. Lindeke, Ladd and Co. will open on Monday a nice job lot of ladies' hose at 40 cents a pair, worth 75 cents. Don't fail to see them.

Brown's Satin Finish for Dressing Ladies' and Children's Shoes. Just arrived at Schlick & Co's.

CITY GLOBULES.

Pay your taxes and avoid the crowd.

The board of public works will hold a special meeting to-morrow evening. Notes of issue for fifteen cases for the May term were filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday. Adam and Mary Worley have filed objections in the district court to the assessment for extending Iglehart street. Officer Zirkelbach arrested a cranky expressman in West St. Paul last night, who was imposing on one of the sufferers.

The Tenny Property.

During the wind storm yesterday a portion of the wall on the east wing of the capitol ruins fell inward with a deafening crash. The case of Thos. Daly and others, charged with assaulting a girl named Miss Webb, was called yesterday and continued until Monday. The Plymouth church choir will render some choice selections this evening, and hereafter will make the service of same in the evening of special attractiveness.

The Tenny Property, No. 73 West Tenth street, sold at auction yesterday by P. T. Kavanaugh, for benefit of the creditors of the late Z. B. Tenny, was bought by George Presley for $3,235 cash.

An infirm wretch named James Gallagher was arraigned at the police court yesterday charged with disorderly conduct. He was lame and sick and promised to leave town. Sentences was suspended.

Mr. J. C. Horigan, the enterprising grocer of Mississippi street, is out with a new delivery wagon, a very handsome structure from the shop of T. G. Duggan & Bros., corner of Fifth and Minnesota streets.

To-night at Plymouth church Rev. Dr. Dana makes the closing appeal to the citizens of St. Paul in behalf of the new High school building. All interested for or against the measure will be eager to hear these last words from one who has been most untiring in his efforts in its behalf.

Catherine Ryder commenced action in the district court yesterday against her husband, James J. Ryder, on the grounds of habitual drunkenness and cruel treatment. The plaintiff in this action seeks only to bring forward the evidence of police officers and the charges made can be substantiated.

A lawless fellow named Law, whose vows are false as dice's oaths, was before hizzoner yesterday morning for tampering with trigology. He was up on the same charge last Friday, and, on promising not to get drunk any more, he was discharged. The same night he was run in beastly full. A fire by five sentences was imposed and he raised the coin.

The City Scavenger company, No. 97 West Third street, offers a great convenience to housekeepers in proposing to remove ashes, garbage, etc., for $1 a month for each house. But the offer will necessarily be withdrawn unless enough householders accept it to guarantee a sufficient income to pay the expenses of the company in maintaining its service for this purpose.

Last evening Mr. James Dillon found an ancient plug drawing a crazy wagon along Robert street and thinking that the animal had been turned loose to die took possession. He was about to take the rig to a livery when a big Swede rushed up, nearly upset the wagon, and assaulted Mr. Dillon for his impudent action. The Swede was arrested for assault.

A man with peaked nose and base ball brinses named Rontag was before hizzoner yesterday charged with assaulting Mrs. Thomas Madden. The defendant, who was intoxicated, approached the Madden man and pushed Mrs. Madden off the steps. He might have been knocked dead had it not been for the rescue. He was paralyzed with a sentence of $50 or thirty days, and went over.

Mike Harney is the wayfarer who laid down on Canopy street Friday night with only the blue canvas for a covering and the uncertain flicker of the street lamp to keep him steady. He was dead drunk and didn't care whether the old progenitor of lawyers continued to rise or not. He slept on the street for a week, and was tapped him on the shins. Jeff's shins were somewhat bruised and he was only fined five dollars.

The sweet singer of the police court was bleating in low numbers the stanza, "when the spring time comes, gentle Annie; when the flowers are scattered o'er the lea," as he made out a commitment yesterday morning, when his partner rode at the head of Jackson street, and the trouble was caused by a most charming matinee. Last Friday Mrs. Turner and another lady engaged in a quarrel; Jeff interfered and Mrs. Turner called him a pimp; he knocked her down and the treasurer was disturbed by Officer Bahr, who walked him to the lower. Yesterday he looked sad and lonesome, as he went into his pants for $5. On promising to leave town sentence was suspended.

A gem men of color named Jeff Hudson was before the court yesterday on complaint of a stable hand named Henrietta Turner. Her partner rode at the head of Jackson street, and the trouble was caused by a most charming matinee. Last Friday Mrs. Turner and another lady engaged in a quarrel; Jeff interfered and Mrs. Turner called him a pimp; he knocked her down and the treasurer was disturbed by Officer Bahr, who walked him to the lower. Yesterday he looked sad and lonesome, as he went into his pants for $5. On promising to leave town sentence was suspended.
