

WILL MAKE THE FIGHT. A LIVELY TIME AT ALBANY THIS WEEK.

Conkling Definitely Determined to Become a Candidate for Re-Election to the U. S. Senate--He and Platt to Sink or Swim Together--Gov. Cornell in Hearty Sympathy with the Determination--Notes of the Coming Struggle.

NEW YORK, May 22.--The Times says the question of the intentions of ex-senators Conkling and Platt, in regard to endeavoring to induce the legislature to return them to their seats in the United States Senate, which they voluntarily relinquished a week ago to-day, is definitely decided. The two gentlemen began an active campaign in Albany to-day for the office and vindication. Conkling was consulting with friends informally until a very late hour yesterday afternoon. It was well towards sunrise when the distinguished ex-senator sought repose, and when he did so his plans for the campaign on which he is about to enter in behalf of himself and Platt were thoroughly matured.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Conkling and Platt entered a carriage and were driven to the residence of Vice President Arthur. Here they were met by the Vice President, Assemblyman Carpenter, Speaker Thorp, of the assembly, Police Commissioner French, Charles Dennison, Arthur B. Johnson, of Utica, F. Smith, of Albany, ex-adjutant General Louis E. Payne of New York, and Columbia counties, and Senator J. P. Jones, of Nevada, and the anxious expected conference was held. This conference was suggested and arranged by the governor. He promised to be present himself and personally urge Conkling to again become a candidate, and he was expected on the 11 o'clock train from Albany, but he failed to appear and the conference proceeded without him. The gentlemen present, however, assured the Times reporter that Gov. Cornell was heartily in favor of the proceedings, and they were taken with the full knowledge that he would endorse them in every particular.

Conkling announced that he would prefer to retire to private life to again enter upon the duties of Senator. He had served his State in the Senate to the best of his ability for many years, and he was ready to step down to allow some other man to take his place, but notwithstanding his personal feelings in the matter, he felt it due his friends to take their advice on a question of so great importance, and he was ready to sacrifice his personal feelings to their demands. He wanted it distinctly understood, however, that in case of his again becoming a candidate for the Senate Mr. Platt must be with him, and he was ready to make any arrangement by which he should be returned to the Senate and Platt be sacrificed. The cause of the younger man was his own and the two must stand or fall together. He would announce in due season his intention to send to Washington his colleague any other man than the man who acted with him in degrading the State should be respected by the President.

In the discussion which followed it was held that to allow another at this juncture to step into Conkling's place would be to endanger the safety of the Republican party in this State, and that would endanger its safety throughout the country. The question of the differences which had arisen between the administration and Conkling was commented on at great length. It was argued it was the President who grabbed at the patronage in the case of the collectorship, and that he removed Collector Merritt against the protest of 7,000 merchants of the city, and for no other reason than to reward a political friend, and it is because Conkling objected to the act and advised the President to resign that he was trying to steal the patronage. The drift of the argument brought the ex-senator to the front for a moment. Pointing to the hat of one of the gentlemen lying on the table, he said, "suppose a man should come in here to attempt to take that hat, and one of you gentlemen should say 'don't do that, the hat is not yours, and a squabble should arise, and then suppose the man who was trying to take it should say to the man who was endeavoring to prevent him of being the thief and assert he was the man who was doing it. That is a parallel case to this of the trouble with the President. I have not tried to steal the collectorship. I have tried to keep it in the hands of the man who has a right to it until his term expires, but I am accused of grabbing for patronage. I have tried to prevent others from succeeding in the grab."

It was the opinion of Vice President Arthur and other gentlemen present, that both Conkling and Platt should go to Albany at once and personally engage in the contest before the legislature. This scheme was somewhat distasteful to Mr. Conkling. He said, of course I am in the hands of my friends now, and I feel bound to defer to their wishes, but I don't like the idea of going to Albany on this mission. However, it shall be as you please.

A very careful canvass of the members of both houses of the legislature was made during the conference, and a unanimous conclusion came to the effect that Conkling and Platt should be elected. That both Conkling and Platt could be elected. Platt announced he had received letters from a great number of members of the legislature, and that he had received assurances from many more, some of whom are claimed to be pledged against him by the half-breeds. It was argued that the administration Republicans cannot afford to bolt a caucus and the election will undoubtedly be turned in the caucus.

The conference ended about 6 o'clock, and Conkling and Platt went directly to the Fifth avenue hotel. Vice President Arthur and John E. Smith went to dinner at the St. James, and the Senator John P. Jones and Speaker Sharp, Assemblyman Carpenter and Marshal Payne started for Albany to begin the campaign for the re-election of ex-Senators Conkling and Platt.

NOT SO NOXY. NEW YORK, May 22.--The Tribune says Senator Conkling, in answer to inquiries of friends, said he was in the hands of his friends, and would do what they thought best. He did not think this State approves the course of men who proved traitors to Gen. Grant at Chicago, and the State would show that its Senators did right in protesting against rewarding them. Notwithstanding the confident talk of the Tribune, it is not clear that they were all willing to admit that a hard fight would have to be made at Albany by the extraordinary precautions they have taken to prevent disclosure of the plans. They admitted that they were not to be of much benefit to him. Previous talk of Conkling resigning to practice law was never so much as referred to. The $50,000 offered was not mentioned. It was not a question any longer as to the candidacy of the Senators, but could they be elected?

A number of administration representatives were about the Fifth avenue hotel last evening, but they were not to be of much benefit to the candidacy of the ex-Senators the anti claim 52 Republicans in the legislature are pledged against the ex-Senators.

BY AND BY THE ADMINISTRATION. CORNELL, N. Y., May 22.--At a Republican meeting last night resolutions were adopted endorsing the course of President Garfield in relation to the nomination of Senator Robertson for collector of New York.

Specimen Transactions of Brady in the Star Route Swindles--Nominations Which Failed for Want of Action--Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, May 22.--The Washington correspondent of the New York Times continues exposures of star route swindles as conducted by the late Assistant Postmaster General Brady. Route No. 38,166, from Georgetown to Kokomo, Cal., a distance of forty-four miles, service seven times per week, from May to November, was awarded to Jas. Stephenson of Omaha for $1,400. Stephenson offered to continue the service during the winter months, but was not allowed the opportunity to do so. Members of the route were charged, and without notice to Stephenson the service was arbitrarily given to James B. Colegrove for $14,740. The route from Ozark to Eureka Springs, Ark., eighty miles, six times per week, was let to John Cross, a friend of Senator Dorsey, without competition, for $14,400 per year. The route was subsequently let by contract to J. N. Miller, of Springfield, Mo., for $4,800. Cross making a bid of $4,910. A number of similar instances is given by the Times correspondent.

CITY GLOBULES.

Work on the Western avenue cistern is progressing rapidly. A bright looking boy was arrested about 9 o'clock last night, charged with insulting two ladies on their way from church. The lad, who is an indolent boy, claims that he was sitting on the sidewalk eating a cocoon, when a passer-by kicked him, which gave rise to some thoughtless expressions.

Sheriff Haggarty of Fargo passed through St. Paul yesterday, having in charge a prisoner who is wanted for manufacturing whiskey in the Black Hills without a permit. The man had just served a two years' sentence on a similar charge, and he was arrested last week at Detroit, Mich., just as he was leaving the penitentiary.

The silver wedding of Adam Finck and his estimable wife, was celebrated last evening at their residence on Pleasant avenue. The occasion was chosen for many testimonials of the esteem in which the couple is held by our citizens generally. There was a large gathering, all of whom testified their approbation of the happy union of their host and hostess in a substantial manner.

The suburbs surrounding St. Paul never appeared to better advantage than on yesterday. The perfect sunshine, pure air and delightful contrasts of nature made a day most rare and beautiful. The lakeside resorts were well patronized, and the liveries did a driving business. A large number of citizens were attracted to the city, and this charming pleasure resort is at present clothed in nature's choicest finery.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning a young man, intelligent looking and well dressed, rushed up Third street, and yelled as if possessed by a host of devils. Officer Cook took him in charge, and it was with great difficulty that he was lodged in the station. He thought he was bleeding to death, and shouted for some one to tie the artery. The unfortunate man gave the name of Louis Carter, and he was laboring with the Jim-jams.

Yesterday morning Drs. Davenport and Wheaton called at the morgue and inspected the remains of George Fletcher with the view of holding an autopsy. The remains were in such a horrible state of decomposition, particularly the face, that it was deemed a task of the most appalling nature. As a cursory examination was out of the question, and as a post mortem could not be held without great expense to the county, they concluded to let the matter rest until today. The inquest will be resumed this morning.

A party of Scandinavians hired the Athenaeum on Saturday evening for a dance. They also employed the Great Western band to furnish the music for the occasion. Having neglected to pay the band at about 11 o'clock in the evening the members struck, and were inconspicuously hustled out of the hall. There were some disorderly scenes, and a few ladies in the neighborhood were damaged by the mob, but no particular harm was done, as the prompt arrival of Sergeant Morgan and Officer Moriarity curbed the exuberance of the spirits of those inclined to be disorderly.

In yesterday's GLOBE an account was given of the unexpected return of ex-Officer Waterhouse from the insane asylum at St. Peter, together with his threatening attitude towards the life of the city. The man, who had escaped, but yesterday he was searched and a written release was found in his pocket. A few days ago Mrs. Waterhouse received a letter from him, in which he threatened to destroy the city. Yesterday he was quiet, stating that it would cost the county a thousand dollars for each moment of his imprisonment. In the light of present information, his premature release looks like an outrage.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning Officer Lowell was approached by the keeper of a boarding house on Fourth street, near Washington, who stated that a colored roomer had brought in a bottle of whiskey, and had been badly under the influence of liquor. The officer visited the place and the colored Lathario and his mistress were put under arrest. They work at a hotel and it is said that they are getting on very well with their designs. They gave the name of John and Maud Anderson, which are both fictitious. They were released on $30 bail.

THE REVISED TESTAMENT. NEW YORK, May 22.--A number of Brooklyn clergymen to-day used the revised testament.

The Simpson M. E. church, Brooklyn, raised $10,000 to-day towards extinguishing a debt of $40,000.

CHICAGO, May 22.--The entire revised New Testament was published here in the Times and Tribune to-day, and to-night Henry Ward Beecher in an interview said that, as far as he was concerned, he was ready to sign the work of the revision; that he agreed substantially with the changes made, in fact had for many years been using many of these changes in his pulpits. He disapproved, however, of the substitution of the word "servant" for "slave," used in King James' version, in the translation of the word "Doulos." He was not of those absolutists who believed that slavery was not recognized in the Scriptures. He thinks the revision will be very generally accepted.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.--In most of the Protestant churches to-day, the clergymen referred to the revised New Testament. Their views in most cases are strongly in favor of it, as a valuable work, which would throw light upon many doubtful matters, and in two instances, the work was condemned.

A Pretended Detective in Trouble. BOSTON, May 22.--James H. Henry, representing himself to be a detective in the West, was arrested on the charge of stealing a bell punch. Henry says he offered a considerable amount of money for one in order to prove its use as an infringement on the patent rights of the Westinghouse. He readily furnished the useful ball.

THE WEATHER TO-DAY. WASHINGTON, May 22, 1 A. M.--For upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys, light rains and partly cloudy weather, winds generally from the east and south, with slight rise in temperature and stationary or slowly falling barometer.

Challenged for Another Race. DENVER, Col., May 22.--Miss Curtis has challenged Miss Finneo to a ten, fifteen or twenty mile race, for $1,000 to $5,000 a side, the time and place to be decided by the challenger.

ALL AROUND THE GLOBE. One man and three boys were pilloried and publicly whipped at New Castle, Del., Saturday.

The Texas harvest has commenced, and the crop is reported better than for twelve years past. Mrs. Amelia, mother of De Young, editor of the Chronicle, San Francisco, died in that city Thursday, aged 72. Hamilton, Meyers and Brown, the outlaws who shot Sheriff Davis at Poplar Bluffs, Mo., Friday, were overtaken Saturday by the pursuing party, and refusing to surrender Hamilton was shot dead, and Brown mortally wounded. Riley Gale, E. E. Sparks and B. J. Brown, justices of the county court of Scotland Co., Mo., were on Saturday, at St. Louis, sentenced by Judge Treat, of the U. S. district court, to three months in jail for contempt in refusing to obey a judgment of the court, requiring the delivery of certain bonds voted by the county in aid of a railroad. P. T. Kavanagh will sell 8 beautiful lots on St. Anthony hill next Saturday, 2 P. M.

AMONG THE HORSES.

To the front it will not be his fault, and as some of your numerous readers may want to know the names of some of the horses formerly mentioned in the GLOBE, but now placed in Mr. Smith's charge, I will mention a few. First, will commence with Belmont Boy, by Belmont, dam equally as well bred, stands by the mare, and is receiving only moderate work while doing stand duty, but will be put in training after July. He is a big horse for an Almont, a good looker, and is quite speedy and a stayer.

The next pet of the stable is owned by B. Beane, the popular wholesale grocery man of your city. This colt is only four years old and has remarkable speed. He has been christened Frank Beane, and stands 15.2 hands; was purchased of Isaac Staples, of Stillwater, at $1,000, and he is by Swiger, Richard's stallion, the sire of many good ones. The dam of Frank Beane is Mollie McGuire, by the Mayhall horse. Frank B. is a natural pacer, and after a little handling he will be a fine horse for a man to ride. He is a natural pacer, and after a little handling he will be a fine horse for a man to ride.

Readers of the GLOBE who have become interested in Mr. N. W. Kitson's extensive stock purchases, through the carefully prepared and detailed reports it has given of his operations, will regret to learn that Hambrino Belle, one of his most valuable purchases, is dangerously ill. Hambrino Belle is one of Mr. Kitson's recent Kentucky purchases, he paying $8,000 for her. She is 7 years old, sired by Hambrino, he by Edward Everett, out of Sallie Neale, and has a record of 2:35 1/2, made last year, and has shown a mile better than 2:30. She colts down cold on her trip here, which has finally developed into an aggravated case of pneumonia, one lung being so badly congested as to be useless. Yesterday Dr. Berkman, who is treating the colt, has been bleeding to death, and heroic treatment was decided upon, and all that skill and care can do for her relief will be done.

The State Fair Stake Races. Our notice last week of the stake races to be given at the State fair this fall, and also of foals of 1879 and 1880, to be trotted in 1882 and 1883, was a little blurred, owing to the fact the secretary in sending his notice, failed to designate the amount of the stake. Mr. Judson has since informed us that the stake would be $25, which would make the terms of entrance to the following: $25 entrance, the society to add $100; first payment $10, to be made August 15, 1881, the balance $15, the night before the race, on or before 9 P. M. The stake will be divided into two parts, the first $10, and the second $15, the amount of stake, etc., applies to all the stake events mentioned last week, so that parties desiring to make nominations, can easily figure out the payments to be made.

The First Foal at Kittsondale. On the morning of May 5, at Commodore Kittson's farm near St. Paul, Minn., the trotting bred mare Emily R., by Peacemaker, dropped a fine colt to Marcus, (son of Rollo, by Alexander's Norman.) He is described as a bay gelding, with a fine looking mane, and plenty of substance. The GLOBE suggests that on account of his fine breeding, etc., the colt should be named Edmund Rice, after the newly elected mayor of St. Paul. Eschaw! Let him be, and let it be a present to the owner, Commodore Kittson.--Turf, Field and Farm.

Eschaw! The colt has not been foaled at Kittsondale that should bear the name of its enterprising owner. The Commodore has just purchased for $10,000, the stallion Von Armin, from his fine breeding, magnificent proportions, beautiful color, good disposition and great speed, claimed by many to be the best trotting stallion of his age, in America. Von Armin is at the head of the Kittsondale stud, where he is serving some of the best trotting mares in the country. The first colt foal of his get at Kittsondale, will be worthy to be dubbed Commodore Kittson's colt. The dam of this colt is the name Edmund Rice, a most promising youngster, but his only connection with the Kittsondale breeding farm is in the fact that he was foaled on the place. The dam, by her name, is the name of the Kittsondale stud, and until a colt is dropped to him it will be premature to give the name "Commodore Kittson," now becoming a household word among the breeders and horsemen of the country. The next is the fine get of Ned H. by Baker's Fearnaught, he by George F. Gault, dam by Orr's Dan, and he by Ned H. This colt is being bred, and shows up well.

The next one we inspected was the bay mare Alberti, 8 years old, standing 15.2 hands, sired by Denmark, etc., etc., and her dam by Denmark's North. This mare is in foal to Almont. She was bred in Kentucky by T. C. Jefferson, and although never trotting in a race until last winter on the ice, which she won handsly, she has shown a very few minutes he will think he is behind a trotter.

MURDER MOST FOUL.

STARLING TRAGEDY AT HUDSON, WISCONSIN. A Well Known Young Man Murdered at a House of Ill-Fame--Followed by a Pimp of the Place and Deliberately Shot Dead--Great Excitement and Talk of Lynching--The Murderer and Several Other Parties Arrested--Further Details in the Mina Muller Murder--Miscellaneous.

HUDSON, May 22.--Frank Garrity, a well known young man of this place, was shot early this morning at a Pool Hook by an attendant of Madame Cooper's house of infamy, answering to the name of Theodore Rounds. The trouble arose over an inmate by the name of Lizzie Wilson, whom it seems Garrity had fallen in with and had persuaded to leave and go over to an adjoining house kept by Tute Martin. Madame Cooper did not like this and sent Rounds out to bring her back. A pal, one Frank Shay, went with him, and as soon as the couple were overtaken Rounds fired on Garrity with a double barreled shot-gun, hitting him in the face and neck, from the effects of which he soon expired. Rounds, Shay and Lizzie Wilson were shortly after arrested, and this evening Madame Cooper and her bar-tender were arrested as accessories. The murder is regarded here as an entirely unprecedented feeling run high. Mr. Lynch was consulted for a time, but to-night all is quiet and the mayor has a special police on guard.

MINA MULLEN'S MURDER. NEW YORK, May 22.--The Herald publishes the following story Sunday: The general belief was when Martin Kroomkowski, alias Kitleff, was captured Thursday last that the sole and only person who had participated in the cruel and bloody murder of Mina Muller was in custody. The prisoner, when spoken to by a reporter immediately after his arrest, hinted at the fact that, although he had accompanied Philip Emden, the New Jersey authority, to the scene of the crime charged against him. His statement was not believed as true, but recent developments tend to support his story. After the prisoner was securely lodged in the Hudson county jail, the search of the officers for the murderer of the girl was not abandoned. Inspector Byrne thought different, however, and on information which he obtained from friends of the prisoner, he deftly detected Herdendorf and Dolan to follow after Emden. As a result of their labors at 3 o'clock this morning, they brought to police quarters a man whom they at present suppose to have been Kroomkowski's accomplice. The prisoner gave his name as Philip Emden, and he was a native of New Jersey. He was unable to give a decided answer. Emden was arrested after a long race, as he was about to enter his apartments in the rear of house No. 12, in the street leading to the police station. The prisoner was taken into custody, Emden said he had been working up evidence against his friend, the Guttenberg murderer, and that he had been ordered to leave that on the day Mina Muller is supposed to have been killed the prisoner informed a saloon keeper that he was going over to Hoboken to visit friends. Emden is 42 years old, a native of New Jersey, and was a member of Kroomkowski's bosom friend. The police openly assert they believe he was a participant in the horrible crime, and it is alleged he was seen in Kroomkowski's company near Appleby's woods on the 2d inst. Most important testimony in the case was furnished against the prisoner by Mrs. Kroomkowski, a person who it is said overheard a conversation between the men before he was arrested. Emden says he was not guilty, but declines to say whether he was on the day the murder is supposed to have taken place. He is a married man, but his wife, it is said by the authorities, deserted him a few weeks after the marriage. The New Jersey authorities were informed by telegraph of the capture of Emden.

NEW YORK, May 22.--The Tribune says: Kroomkowski spent most of the time yesterday in his cell. He partook heartily of the food offered him, and conversed cheerfully with a fellow prisoner named Hines in German. When visitors entered the corridor of the jail, Kroomkowski covered his face with a newspaper. Hines informed Kroomkowski that the police had been searching for him in this city upon suspicion of having helped Kroomkowski kill the woman. The prisoner was much surprised, but his only remark was "He is innocent of the crime as I am."

NEW YORK, May 22.--It was discovered to-day that Lizzie A. Poland, of Newcomerstown, and Mrs. Emma Scanlan, of Cedar Hill, Fairview, and two patients at the Central lunatic asylum, had committed suicide by drowning in a lake upon the asylum grounds. Both patients were considered harmless and were at times allowed to walk about the asylum grounds for exercise. On Thursday evening they were allowed to take their usual walk, but when locking up time came neither could they be found. The search was made as at once instituted, without result, and as a last resort the large lake on the grounds was drained, and the dead bodies of both victims found at the bottom. It is supposed that while walking near the shore the women were seized with a suicidal mania and deliberately committed suicide. Since the bodies were discovered a letter has been found which was written by the women, in which they declare their wariness of life and intention of putting an end to themselves.

CHARGED WITH ABORTION. BOSTON, May 22.--Mary Chandler, aged 19, died yesterday from the effects of an abortion, alleged to have been produced by Dr. B. F. Green. Green was arrested and also Herbert Davis, who took the girl to Green's office. All the parties are respectably connected. The doctor was some years ago a minister of the Methodist conference.
