THE WEEKLY GLOBE.

The Weekly Globe is a mammoth sheet, exactly double the size of the Daily. It is just the paper for the fireside, containing in addition to all the current news, choice miscellary, agricultural matter, market reports, etc. It is furnished to single subscribers at $1, with 15 cents added for pre-payment of postage. Subscribers should remit $1.15.

ST. PAUL, WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1881.

THE city council last night appropriated $3,000 to aid the New Ulm sufferers. This was very proper action. The whole city should contribute upon the occasion of such a calamity, and in no other way can it be done.

MR. VILLARD did a generous act in telegraphing $1,500 for the aid of the cessation of hostilities for a short time. New Ulm sufferers while enroute to New | War will be renewed as soon as the Pres-York. In view of the fact that his railroad interests have no connection with ried on with all the old bitterness. It is the stricken region, the donation of such an amount with such promptness is especially noteworthy.

Ex-Senator Howe excuses his desertion of his place in the Paris monetary conference by saying that his associates told throughout the Union. him his services could be spared. His services could have been spared in the Senate years ago when he was creating a vacancy in the representation of Wisconsin at Washington. In fact there is no man in the union whose services can better be dispensed with.

A FEW grasshoppers having been seen in several parts of the State, unreliable correspondents have attempted to create a sensation by predicting a general invasion of these pests. There is not the advices, covering the entire area of the State, show that no appreciable damage has been done by the insects thus far, and there is no probability that they will create any havoc the present season.

MR. TUTHILL is a good Republican, and it may be presumed is informed as to the character of his associates in the New York legislature. His picture of them on Monday was certainly not a flatshame to their cheeks if they are not past all shame. "Sneaks," "bribers," "corruptionists," "gamblers" "lobbyists" and "tran (m-prying pimps" are some of the choice epithets applied to them, and they are all well-deserved

THE death of Dean Stanley will deprive the world of a book that would have possessed unusual interest. About a year ago the dean spent several months in this country, and being a close observer, he made copious notes of what he saw. It was his intention to embody his American observations in book form, but his illness and death have prevented such a consummation. The fact is to be regretted, for the dean expressed himself most favorably as to the manners of the American people. A SMALL BUSINESS.

Calico Charley, or, as he is officially known, Gov. Foster, of Ohio, sought to make political capital out of the attempted assassination of President Garfield. Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri, first proposed a day of thanksgiving and rejoicing when the President should be considered out of danger, and sent the proposal to the governors of all the Southern States. Gov. Blackburn of Kentucky also made a similar suggestion. Two days after these Governors had moved in the matter Calico Charley issued his pronunciamento, secured its transmission by the Associated Press and impudently took the responsiity of naming a committee of Governors to appoint a day of thanksgiving. He evidently supposed could political prestige by gain some forestalling a movement already in progress.

It would have been much more graceful to have allowed such a movement to start from some other State than Ohio. That is Garfield's home and where he would naturally be held in high esteem. To have had the movement come from States which did not give him their electoral votes would have been a display of rising above party, and an act lowed as the last will and testament of Henry Weber, deceased. This decision gives the of magnanimity which the entire country would have appreciated, Calico Charley has not sufficient breadth of beam to understand this.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY NOT

UNITED After Guiteau had fired his pistol shot at the President he announced it as his purpose to unite the Republican party. Some Republican newspapers, in view of the defeat of the stalwart candidates at Albany, affect to believe that the purpose has been accomplished-that the assault upon the life of the President has resulted in cementing the party in bonds more lasting than any that have heretofore bound it. They are inclined to be grateful for the assault because of this fact, and allude to it with great glee. A party that can rejoice at assassination as a means of overawing opposition is too despicable to command respect. No benefit, however great, can atone for a deed of such atrocity, and the man who alludes to the effects as a justification or even as a result of the assault is as bad as

But the unity in the Republican party that some people fondly assume to have been wrought by the assault of Guiteau on the President is more fancied than real. It is possible that the precarious condition of the President exercised some influence upon a few members of the New York the assault exist now, and at the next election will make themselves fully manifest, whether Garfield shall live or die. There is a universal sympathy for the President not only among Republicans but among Democrats. All are fervent in their wishes for his recovery. But this sympathy, going out to an individual, does not argue the union of all elements upon political subjects. A person can express sympathy for the President in his personal affliction without pledging himself to the party with which he is asso ciated.

It will be found that the wounds created in the Republican party during the past four mouths have not been healed. They may have been forgotten or ignored for a few weeks during the suspense attending the great tragedy that has so lately taken place. But they will break out again as violently as ever as soon as that suspense is removed. Conkling will not submit to be driven from public life, nor will his faithful adherents be content to take back seats while their old antagonists are enjoying the fat of the land. They will make a desperate struggle to regain their old position, and fight the present victors to the death. The Republican party has not been united by the assault upon the President. There has simply been an armistice-a ident is out of danger, and will be carnonsensical to presume that all the animosities engendered could have been dissipated in a day or in a week. They will continue to rankle, and will have no unimportant influence upon future elections, both in the State of New York and

Letter from Mrs. Garfield.

To the Editor of the Globe. I hand you for publication a letter received yesterday from Mrs. Garfield, by a family now residing in St. Paul, but formerly residents of Ohio, living near Gen. Garfield and family, and warm and intimate personal friends. They addressed Mrs. Garfield a letter of sympathy on the great sorrow that has overwhelmed her and received the following reply, which, touchingly exhibits her warm apprecia-tion of personal good will and kindness, slightest cause for alarm. The GLOBE's as well as of the national sympathy which is so ungrudgingly and kindly poured out upon her and her suffering husband in this hour of sore trial:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 16, 1881.—My Dear Mrs. ——: Your letter and your daughter's are just received, and I hasten to express to you my gratitude for all your words of tender sympathy and kind regard. Gen. Garfield is yet too weak to be told even, of the great wealth of loving kindness that is overflowing from the heart of this great nation; but tering one, and should bring the blush of all is being treasured up for eye and ear, so soon as he is able to bear it, and from no friends will it give him more pleasure to hear than from his old friend Mr. ----, or from his family. We now hope that the general is on the high road to recovery.

With a heart full of thankfulness, I remain Your sincere friend, LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

Lawn Festival Last Night.

The festival at "Merriam's Park" last evening proved in every respect a most pleasing and satisfactory entertainment. The young ladies of the Sodality to the number of fifty presided at the several tables, scattered over the grounds, which were very tastefully and artistically decorated with flowers and evergreens.

The central pieces, band platform, lemonade booth, fruit and candy tables were conspicuous and ornamental inventions. All the young ladies, particularly Misses Wise, Brown, Dowlan, Mullery, Gill, Lynch, Dougher, Touhey, Dion and McDonough, are deserving of special credit for their untiring efforts and attention to please the throngs of people who gathered to the grounds throughout the evening.

Board of Equalization. The board of equalization met at 10 a. m. yesterday, Mayor Rice, ex-officio president, in the chair. The entire board was present, except Ald. Several notations were made, but no final action or changes were made, the board unanimously pass ing a resolution that no publication of changes should be made until the whole list was gone through. The Grasshoppers Up North.

A gentleman from the vicinity of Fergus Falls, in the city yesterday, stated that a very large number of grasshoppers made a temporary halt in that section, Sunday night. The alarming feature connected with the appearance of hop-pers at this time, as explained by the gen-tleman in question, is that it is now the eason for the insects to deposit their season for the insects to deposit their eggs, which they do when flying over the country, lighting in some favored locality for this purpose, and them continuing their journey. It is from the products of these eggs, and not from the flying battalions which have been reported from versious points the rest week the from various points the past week, that damage is to be apprehended. So far as learned the lighting of the insects as above, and also at other points reported, has been simply for feeding, the period for egg depositing apparently not having been quite reached. The presence of the 'hoppers in quite large numbers is, of course, cause for much uneasiness; but, so far as can be judged from the re-ports received from parties who have closely watched the movements of the insect, there is no cause for alarm as yet.

[St. Vincent Herald.] We understand that Gen. R. W. Johnson, of St. Paul, is talked of as the probable Democratic candidate for gubernatorial honors at the fall election. The Democrats could do a great deal worse than to make such nomination. In fact, we do not know how they could do any better. The general is a man of excellent judgment, liberal and cultured education, a broad-gauge gentleman of the old school, who, no doubt, would make a much better governor than many of the aspiring Republican donkeys who are seeking the position and claiming it as theirs by divine right.

The Philadelphia Enquirer of December 20 refers to the case of Major T. A. Hillier, No. 2,235 Master street, that city, who suffered so terribly with rheumatism that he was confined to his bed for weeks

These absentees are in favor of an opposing proposition to give $200,000 to the Manitoba South-western company. Persons purchasing tickets to points farther west than Chicago, do not find it an easy matter to get a reduction cn old prices. There seems to be no war of prices within this State, the greatest reduction being on tickets to Chicago. Many persons are taking advantage of the war and are spending their vacations in Western cities. Scalpers have no idea as to when the war will cease. They are all advertising selling tickets cheaper than any other person in New York. Some persons claim they have bought tickets to Chicago to-day for $7.75.

Republican of Sunday mentions the departure of the Bright Light in the follow parture of the Bright Light in the following terms: "The new Bright Light backed out at 4 p. m. yesterday on her first trip to St. Paul, full of passengers and with a big freight list."

The St. Louis Republican of Monday has the following very complimentary notice of the Gem City and her officers:

"The great electric light steamer, Gem City, the queen and pride of the upper Mississippi, will arrive here from St. Paul this evening and will start on her return trip at noon Tuesday from the St. Louis and St. Paul Packet Co.'s wharf boat, foot of Locust street. This charmwhat boat, foot of Locust street. This charming steamer continues to grow in popularity each trip she makes, and it is almost the invariable rule now that all her cabin is engaged before she reaches port. Part of this popularity is of course due to the fact that besides being one of the most elegantly appointed steamers affoat she is without doubt the fastest ever seen above St. Louis, but it can be in a large seen above St. Louis, but it can be in a large measure attributed to the excellent corps of officers manning her, every one of whom has been especially selected for the position he fills. From the commander down, her officers are all gentlemen of large experience, capable, polite and attentive; the very rousters on her deck seem to assimilate somewhat the character of their superiors and appear to be of a rather better class than is usually found upon the river. They go shout their duties quietly rather better class than is usually found upon the river. They go about their duties quietly and cheerfully, and none of the profanity too commonly heard at the sack pile or freight heap is indulged in. Each man seems to thoroughly understand what is expected of him and to intelligibly perform his task without being driven and cursed as though he was less than human. Such is the state of the discipline human. Such is the state of the discipline preserved upon the Gem City, rigid and exacting though it may be, it is nevertheless merciful, that to travel upon her is a positive pleasure and that this is appreciated by the traveling public is abundantly evidenced by the rush each week of those anxious to secure passage on her. Pole Hatcher, first clerk of the Gem City, has quite a poetical turn of mind, as witness the following, clipped from the St. Louis Republican of Monday:

Great enthusiasm still pragula et all the towns, the electric ight." still prevails at all the towns, the electric jight shining brightly every evening on the youth and beauty of this section."

James Griffin and Ellen Byrnes Arraigned on Complaint of Mrs. Sarah Griffin on Charge of Fornication .-- A Counter

For some time, Mrs. Sarah Griffin alleges that she has been exceedingly suspicious of the morals of her husband, James Griffin. circle of the family hearthstone. The matter culminated last Saturday night.

She discovered her husband entering, as she believed, in a peculiar manner, a building on Hennepin avenue. She quietly followed him up the stairs. The upper stories of the building were occupied as sleeping rooms. Into one of these rooms Mr. G. entered. After a few moments Mrs. Griffin called upon a lady, Mrs. Smith, whom she knew, and who lived in the same building, and asked her to kindly assist her. A chair was produced and placed at the door through which Mr. Griffin had gone a few moments previously. Mrs. Smith sat the door through which Mr. Griffin had gone a few moments previously. Mrs. Smith sat in the chair while Mrs. Griffin climbed to the back of the chair and looked through the transom over the door. And then Mrs. Smith perched herself upon the chair and took an inspection of the interior of the room. What was transpiring at this critical moment within the four walls of the little bedroom, according to the evidence given upon the witness stand by these two women in the muness stand by these two women in the mu-nicipal court yesterday, was indeed all suf-ficient to arouse the ire and indignation of a filial wife, and to cause the deepest blush of shame and consternation to mantle the face of any virtuous woman.

Mrs. Smith then unsuccessfully attempted so secure the door until a policeman could be called, but Mr. Griffin came out, and a percaned, but Mr. Griffin came out, and a personal tussle ensued between man and wife.

A policeman was summoned, and the altercation, which had by this time culminated between the women, Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Byrnes, was ended.

Yesterday the whole business was ventilated in detail in the police court. The evidence adduced on the part of the State, substantiated

the above facts:
Griffin, being sworn in his defense, denied the criminality above specified in toto. He acknowledged being in the room, but claimed to meet a male friend whose acknowledged being in the room, but claimed to have gone there to meet a male friend whose name he refused to divulge to the Court. At times, under a sharp cross-examination by the county attorney, he appeared badly confused and slightly contradictory as regards fused and slightly contradictory as regards time and events.

Mrs. Byrnes also was sworn in defeuse. She stoutly denied criminality with Griffin. She said she was a widow, did cooking, washing, and odd jobs for a livelihood. In answer to the question for whom she was working on the 16th, the day of the trouble, she declined to answer. The court ruled that it was in order that she answer. She said first that it was at the St. James, and finally acknowledged that it was at Madame Dunn's. She said she was not at all surprised at being called upon at night by Griffin, as her "young man" had told her he was coming there to meet him.

Now, Griffin had sworn that the man he went to this woman's bedroom to meet was a married man. Mrs. Byrnes said he was her young man, and she positively knew him to be unmarried.

The evidence was all taken yesterday afternoon and the ease will be summed up and a verdict rendered this morning at 9 o'clock. As the parties were leaving the court room, as a counter charge, a summons was sworn out by Mrs. Byrnes and served upon Mrs. Griffin to appear at 9 o'clock this morning and answer to a charge of committing an assault upon the person of Mrs. Byrnes.

ENGLISH GRAIN MARKETS. Growing Crops Injured by the Tropical Heat-The Markets Quiet With Prices

London, July 18.—The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the grain trade says: A week of tropical heat has brought on crops rapidly toward harvest. Wheat is very good. The ears are generally short and some insect injuries are beginning to be spoken of. The heat will doubtless prematurely ripen wheat. Barley is certainly in want of rain. In the northern and eastern midland counties the oat crop may be regarded as lost. Deliveries of home wheat during the week have been insignificant, only 824 quarters having reached London during that period. Values unchanged. during that period. Values unchanged. The barley and oat trade is totally unchanged. Foreign breadstuffs in ample supply and trade, despite the weather, has been firm but extremely quiet. Stocks are depleted to an unusual extent, and sellers have an advantage on spot. finest qualities are scarce and imports are diminished. Buyers operate on a small scale. It may be said a forward trade at present scarcely exists. Of twenty-one coast cargoes which have arrived during the week, three were sold. The floating contingent has been decreased 130,000
