INTERNAL Revenue Commissioner Raum says that in politics he goes with the tide. That is what is the matter with Tyner, Brady and Dorsey.

REPRESENTATIVE Hicks evidently desires to be regarded as the bully of the House. He may give the lie once too often if he keeps on.

It looks very much as though St. Paul would not have a delegate at the St. Louis River Convention on the 26th. This is very poor enterprise.

CONFEDERATE bonds have advanced to $3.50. Some of the holders of the paper are holding it at $10. It will be back to 10 cents before ever it gets up to $10.

Assessment No. 1 for the present campaign has been made by the New York Republican Committee. The office-holders don't want to ante-up, but are afraid to refuse.

TYNER is said to have raised more money for Republican campaign fundthan any other one man. He will ve wish he had put some of it in his pocket. He will need lots of it for lawvers' fees.

THE Windom gang were catching their breath between smiles yesterday over the narrow chance they had run. They were profuse with explanations of how it happened but decidedly glad that it didn't happen any closer. There was not sufficient margin for shrinkage.

Ir is said Mr. James wished to have George H. Spencer appointed to succeed Tyner as First Assistant Postmaster General. If this report is true there are two ways of accounting for it: first, by the supposition that Mr. James' professed desire to reform the service is insincere; or, second, that he thinks the best way to catch a thief is to engage a thief as detective.

OTHER states besides Minnesota will vote upon the adoption of constitutional amendments this fall. Colorado will determine the permanent location of its capital; Nebraska whether or not the elective franchise shall be conferred on women; Wisconsin for or against biennial elections and sessions of the legislature, and Maryland will change or refuse to change the time of electing judges.

CHICAGO being the greatest American porkpacking center is much agitated over the exclusion of American pork from France. The United States consul at Havre, who has been watching the French inspectors, says only an infinitissimal part of the meat rejected is affected with trichena. The exclusion of American pork makes the article very high in France, but it seems to be the policy of the French government to "protect" home grown pork. The poor people, who form the great body of the consumers, of course have to foot the extra cost. The consul writes to the state department at Washington suggesting reprisal on the part of the United States as the only remedy. He says, for example, that a law. rigidly enforced, forbidding the importation of French wines would exclude about nine-tenths of the stuff that is brought here under that label

THE cabinet speculations which filter in profusion from Washington all point to a decided stalwart policy by President Arthur. It is undoubtedly correct that if Conkling does not occupy a place in the cabinet it will be because he refuses to take it. It is noticeable that the indignation which found voice during Garfield's struggle for life, towards Conkling has greatly modified. He is now regarded as the power behind the throne, at least, if not the throne itself, and Americans are so practical that they adapt themselves to the situation without hesitation. Party newspapers and office-holders make a great deal of noise and their utterances go a great ways in shaping public sentiment. When they thought Garfield would recover they could not too strongly denonnce Conkling. There was some little show of leniency for Guiteau by assuming that he was a crazy tool, but for Conkling there was no mercy. Now the same men are discussing, without a hint of animosity, the question of a Cabinet position for Conkling. The murdered President is forgotten. The living one controls the post offices.

BOILER MAKERS STRIKE.

Police Called for in Anticipation of

The boiler makers' strike at the St. Paul & Manitoba railway shops is assuming a rather ugly look. Upon a report being circulated vesterday that several of the strikers intended to resume work, some twenty or more of those who had gone out gathered in close proximity to the shops and indulged in abusive language and threatening demonstrations. Upon these facts being reported to police head-quarters two of the force were detailed for duty at the shops. At 6 o'clock last evening the master mechanic reported at police headquarters in person, and at his request a relief of two policemen was sent over for the might watch, and this morning this force will be doubled, threats having been made, it is asserted, against any one who shall attempt to go to work. One of the strikers, however, informs a GLOBE reporter that no such threats have been made, and that there is no intention of resorting to force in their efforts to carry and threatening demonstrations. to five years at Stillwater. This is a very unhealthy district for horse thieves.

There is a great deal of complaint made here against the management of the Hastings & Dakota railway company for withdrawing the passenger train which has heretofore went east from Glencoe in the morning, and returning west in the afternoon. The present arrangement of only one train a morning, and returning west in the afternoon. The present arrangement of only one train a day (going west in the forenoon and returning in the afternoon), deprives all west of here in the county of coming to the county seat and returning the same day, or going to Shakopee or any point east of the Minneapolis ent off at Benton except in the afternoon. THE SENATE.

Contrary to the expectation of its friends consideration of the bond bill in general orders was not completed yesterday, owing to the anxiety of some members for an early adjournment to enable them to get home. Senator Castle spoke briefly, but ably, in advocacy of the measure, and in contravention of the main legal propositions advanced by Senator Buck, of Blue Earth, in his argument Thursday against the constitutionality oi the proposed action, to which Senator Buck replied very briefly, when the debate upon an understanding that the measure should be takeu up Monday evening, and pushed through, its opponents agreeing to adopt no dilatory tactics With this understanding an adjournment was

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE . On motion of Senator Pillsbury, the senate resolved itself into committee of the whole, with Senator Macdonald in the chair. The bond bill was taken up, the pending notion being the recommendation that the action being the recommendation that the bill do pass. Senator Castle had thought to let the bill pass without saying a word. The proposi-tions it contained were fully considered, and passed upon last winter, and the points were therefore well understood. But he did, however, desire to answer some of the arguments of the senator from Blue Earth. The question had been much simplified he said since the action of nuch simplified, he said, since the action of last winter by the decision of the supreme court. He had voted for the measure with the supposition that the very action which has been had would be taken. The court distinctly asserts the power and right of the legislature to provide for the settlement of that debt, without the question being referred to debt, without the question being referred to the people. This court is the court of last resort, and its decision is binding upon every citizen of the State.

The senator from Blue Earth conceded that the bonds might be paid by taxation, but denied the legislative authority to issue new bonds for the settlement of the debt.

This statement Senator Castle controverted. The legislature of a state, he said, represented the people, except where there are constitu-tional limitations. That was a universally accepted proposition of law.

Another legal proposition by the senator of Blue Earth was, that the legislature is inhibited from creating a greater debt than $250, 000, and it is assumed it is proposed here to create a new debt. This susposition is not sustained by the facts. It is not proposed to create a new debt, but simply to liquidate one long standing, by paying a certain sum agreed upon as satisfactory to the bondholders. The state could, if it should elect, issue new bonds for the full face value of the old debt. The legislature possesses that power, and can if it chooses make provision for the payment of the bonds by taxation, or any other means it might decide to be wise.

There were, the Senator said, two classes of people who opposed the peyment of these bonds; one class who were inherently dishon est, and another class who honestly believe the debt was dishonestly contracted, and who had the idea so firmly planted in their minds had the idea so firmly planted in their minds they would listen to nothing else.

The senator then briefly reviewed the issuance of the bonds, in which he paid a high compliment to the patriotism and integrity of Gen. H. H. Sto ley, the then governor of the state. There was, he said, no question of the validity of the bonds. The bondholders had showed their faith in their validity by offering to put was, he said, he question of the bonds. The bondholders had showed their faith in their validity by offering to put up two million of the bonds, to stand the decision of any judicial tribunal selected by the state authorities, the bonds to be destroyed if the decision should be against them.

The senator closed with a fervent tribute to state. There was one dark spot, he said, upon its escutcheon, a spot this legislature had the power to resenator D. Buck thought when the senator senator D. Buck thought when the senator commenced his discussion he was to give us a legal argument, but finding himself in deep water, he slid off into a general discussion, winding up with a kind of Fourth of July oratio. He had spoken of the voice of the people being the voice of God, then why not obey that voice, a majority of 20,000 of whom had voted against any settlement of these bonds at this time. onds at this time.

Senator Buck then took up and answered some of the legal points advanced by the senator from Washington, in which he went some of the legal points advanced by the senator from Washington, in which he went over a portion of the ground in his argument Thursday.

He then argued that by the term the "bonds the penitentiary for ninety-nine years.

shall be considered as presently due and payable," the legal and binding obligation of the debt, and that by the payment of fifty cents on the dollar, the legality of the whole debt is acknowledged and the balance can be collected. By it the state acknowledges to the charge of repudiation.

At this point the committee rose.

Senator Wheat moved to reconsider the vote by which the senate decided when it adjourned it be to Tuesday next Passed, yeas 20, nsys 14

HOUSE. The house transacted but little business yesday. The day was almost entirely consume discussion on the resolutions offered or Wednesday by Judge Wilson, of Winona, re quiring the appointment of a joint committee of five for the purpose of investigating the terms upon which Selah Chamberlain pro cured his bonds against the state-whether or not he was liable for the payment of the inter est on the bonds. The judiciary committee reported the resolutions recommending their indefinite postponement, but two dissentien votes being recorded, those of Judge Wilson and Mr. McCracken. The report of the ma jority of the committee was opposed by Judge Wilson, and in the course of the day the whole question was debated at length by Messrs. Hicks, Smith, Comstock, Norrish Mott and Sanborn in favor of the payment of the bonds, and by Messrs. Wilson and McCracken against their payment, while Mr. Redding was an anxious seeker after informa tion. The report of the majority of the commit tee was finally adopted by a vote of fifty-five to thirty-two. This vote is considered a test of the strength of the two factions in the House on this question. The bond-payers will cer tainly be recruited by five votes from mem bers who were absent yesterday, and possibly can count on several more. There seems t be no doubt but the bill for the settlement of the bonds will pass the House by a substantial majority. As the arguments advanced on both sides were substantially the same as those heretofore adduced, and fully reported, the GLOBE has not deemed it necessary to devote great amount of space to the debate.

The committee on the governor's message through Col. Hicks, the chairman, reported the Senate bill for the settlement of the rail. road bonds, with a few amendments, the only material ones being that the rates of interes on the new bonds to be issued in lieu of the old is fixed at four instead of five per cent. The bill has already been published in full in the GLOBE.

A Series of Misrepresentations Corrected. ST. Louis, Oct. 21 .- Several days ago, Capt. James B. Eads addressed a communica tion to the merchants exchange, drawing attention to the fact that several foreign newspapers recently published statements to the effect that the jetty system at the mouth of the Mississippi river is not a success, and asking the exchange to appoint a committee composed of four leading members of the ex-change who have made a report. They ex-press the opinion that the accounts in foreign papers were based upon misrepresentations made by the Cincinnati Commercial and Memphis Avalanche, and quote from official reports of government officers and other relia ble authorities, to show that the required depth of water has been obtained, and is maintained; that the largest ocean-going vessels pass in and out without detention; that the government has regularly paid Capt. Eads for two years past the quarter diem installments due for the maintenance of this channel and report the following resolutions which have been adopted as the expression of the exchange: Resolved, That statement published by the Cincinnati Commercial and Memphis Avalanche to the eff ct that the channel through the Jettiers at the mouth of the Missouri river has been deficient and that the work is a fail-ure, are wholly unfounded; in fact, that the nvestigation of the facts has shown a channe of 200 feet in width and twenty-six feet in depth. Required by law to be and to have been fully maintained, that said channel is a permanent one and is broad and deep enough to accommodate the largest class of mer-
