

MINNEAPOLIS

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

Harmonia Hall, Saturday, September 16th, at 12 o'clock noon.

There will be a convention of the Democrats of Hennepin county at Harmonia hall, in the city of Minneapolis, on Saturday, the 16th day of September, 1882, at 12 o'clock noon, to select Democratic candidates for the following offices, viz: County auditor, register of deeds, sheriff, county attorney, county surveyor, county coroner.

One county commissioner for the Fourth commissioner district, composed of the Third ward and the First and Second precincts of the Fourth ward of the city of Minneapolis, and the towns of Crystal Lake and Brooklyn, and the village of Osseo.

One county commissioner for the Fifth commissioner district, composed of the towns of Champlin, Corcoran, Dayton, Eden Prairie, Excelsior, Greenwood, Hassan, Independence, Maple Grove, Medina, Minnetonka, Minnetrista and Plymouth.

Legislative conventions for the Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth legislative districts will be held immediately after the county convention adjourns, for nominating candidates for the following offices:

One senator and six representatives for the Twenty-ninth senatorial district, composed of the Fifth and Sixth wards of the city of Minneapolis, the towns of Minnetonka, Bloomington, Eden Prairie, Richfield, Minnetonka, Excelsior, Minnetrista, Medina, Plymouth and Independence.

One senator and four representatives for the Thirtieth senatorial district, composed of the Third and Fourth wards of the city of Minneapolis, the towns of Hassan, Dayton, Champlin, Greenwood, Corcoran, Maple Grove, Brooklyn, Osseo and Crystal Lake.

The committee recommend that the caucuses be held on the evening of Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The precincts and towns will be entitled to delegates as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Precinct/Town and Delegates. Includes entries for First ward (11), Second ward (11), Third ward (11), Fourth ward (13), Fifth ward (13), Sixth ward (11), and various towns like Bloomington, Brooklyn, Champlin, etc.

CITY OF MINNEAPOLIS.

Delegates. First ward... 11, Second ward... 11, Third ward... 11, Fourth ward... 13, Fifth ward... 13, Sixth ward... 11.

TOWNS.

Table with 2 columns: Town and Delegates. Includes entries for Bloomington (1), Brooklyn (2), Champlin (2), Corcoran (2), Crystal Lake (1), Dayton (1), Eden Prairie (1), Excelsior (1), Greenwood (1), Hassan (2), Independence (1), Maple Grove (1), Medina (1), Minnetonka (3), Minnetrista (1), Osseo (2), Plymouth (1), Richfield (2), St. Anthony (1).

By order of the county committee.

H. C. MOORE, Chairman.

Democratic Caucus Calls.

FIRST WARD. The Democrats of the 1st ward will hold a caucus on Thursday evening, September 14th, at 8 o'clock, to select eleven delegates to attend the county convention to be held on Saturday at 12 o'clock, in Harmonia hall.

Chairman Dem. Ward Com. H. L. LEE.

SECOND WARD.

The Democratic caucus of the Second ward for the purpose of selecting four delegates to the county convention to be held in Harmonia hall, at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, will be held on Friday evening, September 15th, in Cataract engine house at 7:30 o'clock.

SOLON ARMSTRONG, Chairman Dem. Ward Com.

THIRD WARD.

The Democrats of the Third ward will hold a caucus on Thursday evening in Tontonia house, on Plymouth avenue, for the purpose of choosing eleven delegates to attend the county convention to be held in Harmonia hall on Saturday, at noon.

EDMUND EICHORN, Chairman Ward Committee.

FOURTH WARD.

The Democrats of the Fourth ward will hold a caucus in Third street hose house, between Nicollet and Fourteenth avenues, on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting thirteen delegates to attend the county convention to be held in Harmonia hall on Saturday, at noon.

D. M. GILMORE, Chairman Ward Committee.

FIFTH WARD.

The Democrats of the Fifth ward will hold a caucus at the hose house on the corner of Third street and Sixth avenue south, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of selecting thirteen delegates to attend the county convention which will be held in Harmonia hall on Saturday at 12 o'clock noon.

R. P. DENNINGTON, Chairman of Ward Committee.

SIXTH WARD.

The Democratic caucus for the Sixth ward for the purpose of selecting thirteen delegates to attend the county convention to be held in Harrison hall on Saturday at noon, will be held at No. 5 hose house, on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

MATTHEW WALSH, Chairman of Ward Committee.

IT DIDN'T STICK.

Col. King and the Dave Deil—Col. King Discharged.

At nine o'clock yesterday morning the case against Col. W. S. King, impeached with Edward Espanosa, the Mexican dare devil, charged with cruelty to animals, was called in the municipal court before Judge Cooley.

A. N. Merrick appeared for Col. King, while the state's attorney was A. B. Oviatt, the attorney for the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Col. King was charged with owning and controlling the horses of the Espanosa to brutally whip and pound those horses, etc.

A. C. Jordan testified on the part of the prosecution. He saw Espanosa whip his horses unmercifully, first with a whip and then with a cane. The cane was broken to pieces on the horses. He struck them on the head as well as on their sides and flanks. One of the animals, which appeared to be blooded and spirited, seemed crazed by the blows, and whirled around and around upon the track.

Col. King was next sworn for defense. He testified to being president of the association, but claimed that he had no control of the horses. They were in the charge of trainers. He did not even feed them. Did not think they were cruelly treated nor injured in any manner. The court held that inasmuch as it was not shown that Col. King had control of the horses in the charge of trainers, there was no case and consequently discharged Col. King.

The Official Call.

The official call for the Democratic county convention is published at the head of this department this morning. Through a misunderstanding a vexatious delay has been occasioned in its publication, and yesterday at the meeting of the county committee it was first thought best to postpone its holding until next Thursday, but after a thorough discussion it was finally decided to hold it in Harmonia hall on Saturday at noon. There is not an hour to lose, and it is the duty consequently of every Democrat that he sees that the caucuses be fully attended, and that the men tried and true are sent to the county convention. There are a large number of nominations to important offices to be made, and too much care can not be taken in making fit selections. Good men can be elected upon the Democratic ticket, this fall, for several reasons. The county is more evenly divided between the dominant parties than most people suppose. The great trouble has hitherto been in the lack of organization, which has resulted in failing to bring out the popular vote. Hundreds of laboring men who are undaunted Democrats have remained away from the polls on election day for lack of personal interest. The most potent means of exciting a proper interest is by performing a thorough organization, and by nominating honest, popular, working Democrats. Do this, and but this, and there will certainly be a revolution in politics in Hennepin county.

MINNEAPOLIS GLOBULETS.

The Comique was well attended last evening.

Edwardo Espanosa has demanded a jury trial.

Ticket of Leave Man failed to draw a big house last evening.

The Boston restaurant is the place for a square meal, lunch, cigar or beverages. Always open.

Col. McCrory has constructed a side track on First avenue south, in front of the Theatre Comique.

How kowling the Little Journal is respecting Democratic candidates. At most, its impudence is amusing.

Work on the electric light mast is progressing finely, and the whole thing will soon be ready to be elevated.

John McCullough will play Richefeu this evening at the Academy. This is a new role for him in Minneapolis.

Several more car loads of cedar blocks were received by the contractors, and the work will be crowded forward.

County Auditor McDonald is in attendance upon the meeting of the state board of equalization in session in St. Paul.

The Theatre Comique restaurant is the first class restaurant of the city. Tables are spread with everything the market affords.

The Republicans are unquestionably very badly mixed on the sheriff question. They have three hungry candidates struggling for it.

James Green who while intoxicated indecently exposed his person in the presence of some ladies who were passing at the time, was fined $75.

A driver of one of Robinson's wood carts backed over the bank of the river at the dumping grounds, and narrowly escaped going down.

A man by the name of Johnson, a teamster, had his leg broken yesterday while unloading a load of lumber, part of which slipped and fell on his leg.

Mrs. Rieme, the wife of Wm. W. Rieme, the defaulter, has obtained a large number of signatures to the petition which she is circulating for his pardon.

John C. Dudley, who was arrested at the instance of his wife who charged him with the larceny of $38, was discharged in the municipal court yesterday.

Chas. Bebon and John Jurger, got into a fight over a girl, because she declined to hold a lantern for them. Bebon as the principal puglist got fifteen days.

Veronica Kerker has been granted a divorce in the district court from her husband, Dagabard Kerker, upon the ground of drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment.

Coroner Fairbairn will go to Bloomington Prairie to-day to investigate the circumstances attending the sudden death of a man there, of which he was notified yesterday, but not explicitly.

A painful accident happened to the three year old daughter of Peter Nelson, residing on Sixth avenue N. E., who this morning fell on a hot stove burning herself badly on her hands and the right side of her face.

The case of the State vs. Edward McCarthy, charged with stabbing Michael Kennedy with a knife, was called in the municipal court yesterday, but the examination was continued until this morning at 9 o'clock.

August Smith, a butcher, met with a serious accident yesterday. While engaged in sharpening some knives, he allowed one of them to slip, stabbing him on the leg and cutting a gash several inches long, which it appears will lame him for life.

John McCullough in Othello was up to his high standard last evening. The house was well filled, and the audience was filled with sorrow by the jealous ravings of Othello, and with pity by the confiding faithful portrayal of Desdemona by Miss Forsythe.

The Young Men's Prohibition club will discuss "Personal Liberty" at the meeting to be held on Monday evening, and they invite speakers of the other parties to attend and to participate in the discussion. J. A. Temple will be the orator of the evening.

The fair for the benefit of the French church (our Lady of Lourdes) on the East side, closed on Monday night after a very successful week. The net receipts are not yet known as some bills remain to be paid, but they will probably approximate $3,500.

Swan Johnson, a laborer employed on the Syndicate block, fell from the elevator shaft, five stories striking on his head, and completely cutting the flesh from his skull without however breaking it. His nose was broken, however, and he was removed to the College hospital.

There is a big rumper in the Hennepin county Republican camp. The greatest trouble seems to lie in the fact that there are more office seekers than there are spoils to bestow, and there is a general scramble for those which are offered. The caucuses last evening were packed, and excitement ran high.

At the trial of Edwardo Espanosa, the so-called "Mexican dare devil," which takes place to-day at the municipal court before a jury, at 2 o'clock, the equitarians, Misses Belle Cook, Emma Jewett and Myrtle Eckles, have been subpoenaed for the defense. The newspaper editors and reporters for the state.

Edwardo Espanosa will be tried in the municipal court this afternoon on the charge of cruelty to animals, brought by Mr. Oviatt, of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. It is a case which is attracting much attention in newspapers just at present and the court room will doubtless be packed.

Alexander Foss was held up by a brace of foot pads in Oak Grove on Monday night and relieved of $5 in currency. The robbers fortunately failed to find a roll of bills, amounting to $200, which was in an inside pocket. After going through him, the robbers knocked him down and ran. Mr. Foss fired two uneventful shots at the retreating figures.

Municipal Court. [Before Judge Cooley.] James Johnson, drunkenness; paid $7.

Rasmus Olson and Peter Pierson, drunkenness; committed ten days each.

James Green, indecent exposure; paid $75.

John C. Dudley, larceny; dismissed.

Edwardo Espanosa, cruelty to animals, continued until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

William S. King, cruelty to animals; dismissed.

John Crawford, larceny; dismissed.

Charles Jackson, drunkenness; dismissed.

W. M. Barnes, drunkenness; dismissed.

Charles Blanes, assault and battery upon John Jurgen; pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs. The second case brought was dismissed.

John Raus, saloon open on Sunday; continued until this morning at 9 o'clock.

Edward McCarthy, assault with a dangerous weapon upon Michael Kennedy with intent to do great bodily harm; continued until this morning at 9 o'clock.

GEMS FROM EMERSON.

But the people are to be taken in very small doses. If solitude is proud, so is society vulgar.—Society and Solitude.

One of those conceited prigs who value nature only as it feeds and exhibits them is equally a pest with the roisterers.—Chubb.

POETRY is the only verity—the expression of a sound mind speaking after the ideal, and not after the apparent.—Poetry and Imagination.

WHEREVER there is power there is ego. Don't be deceived by dimples and curls. I tell you that babe is a thousand years old.—Old Age.

AND ye shall succeed; and ye shall be blessed to serve; and ye shall be helped who cannot help again; and ye shall be blessed to serve.—Boston Herald.

LIFE is a succession of lessons which must be lived to be understood. All is riddle, and the key to riddle is another riddle. There are as many pillows of illusion as flakes in a snow-storm. We wake from one dream into another dream.—Illusions.

IT never was in the power of any man or any community to call the arts into being. They come to serve his actual wants, never to please his fancy. These arts have their origin always in some enthusiasm—as love, patriotism or religion.—Art.

The world rolls round, mistrust it not—Befalls again what once befell; All things return, both spheres and men, And I shall hear ray life's drum's note, And dream the dream of Anubis dell.—The Japan.

We do not believe there is any force in to-day to rival or recreate that beautiful yesterday. We linger in the ruins of the old tent, where once stood a beautiful shelter, and organs, nor believe that the spirit can feed, cover and nerve us again. We cannot again find aught so dear, so sweet, so graceful. But we sit and weep in vain. The voice of the Almighty saith, "Up and onward forevermore." We cannot stay amid the ruins.—Compensation.

Know'st thou what woe won woodbird's nest Of leaves and feathers from her breast? Or how the bell o'er her neck, Patient with morn each annual eel? Or how the sacred pine-tree adds To her old leaves the new year's green? Such and so grew these holy joys, Which love and terror laid the ties.—The Japan.

Next to the originator of a good sentence is the first mover of it. Many will read the book before one thinks of quoting a passage. As soon as he has done this that line will be quoted East and West. Then there are great ways of borrowing. Genius borrows nobody. When Shakespeare is charged with debts to his authors Lander replies: "Yes he was more original than his originals. He breathed upon dead bodies and brought them to life."—Quotation and Originality.

The law of the table is beauty—a respect to the common soul of all the guests. Everything is unseasonable which is private to two or three or any portion of the company. Tact never violates for a moment this law; never intrudes the orders of the house, the voices of the absent, or a tariff of expenses, or professional privacies; as we say, we never "talk shop" before company. Lovers abstain from caresses, and leaders from insults, whilst they sit in one table with common friends.—Social Aims.

SHALL we then judge a country by the majority or by the minority? By the majority surely. "This pedantry to estimate nations by the census, or by square miles of land, or other than by their importance to the mind of the time. Masses! the calamity is the masses. I do not wish any mass at all, but honest men only, lovely, sweet, accomplished women only, and no shovel-handed, narrow-brained, gin-drinking million stockingers or lazaroni at all. All the feasts which make our civility were the thought of a few good heads."—Considerations by the Way.

Great Men at Play.

United States Senator Edmunds and Justice Harlan were fellow-guests at a seaside hotel. One day the two distinguished gentlemen were wandering aimlessly along the beach under a bright, genial sun, when their attention was arrested by the sight of a small boy intently throwing shells at a small peg driven in the sand and surmounted by a block of wood. The little fellow, unconscious of their presence, continued the practice with skillful precision, and the two spectators for the moment forgot their official gravity and allowed their latent boyish tendencies to control them. "I'd bet you a good cigar," said Mr. Harlan to Mr. Edmunds, "that I can hit that mark before the boy can." The wager was accepted, and the contest began. The Justice was as good as his boast, for the block was knocked down at the third throw. Then the Senator tried to do as well, and the small boy, the great lawyer and the distinguished statesman were soon busy at play, hunting for ammunition, making rash bets, laughing over defeat and applauding victory. The sight was a novel one to a happy one, and the few promenaders on the beach smiled good-naturedly as they passed, to think how one touch of youthfulness could break dignity's back and make old men young again. That evening the Justice smoked with pride some cigars from the Senator's best box, the stakes of their pleasant little competition.

King Coal.

It has been said that coal is the main-spring of modern material civilization. Indeed, Prof. Jarvis has even denied our favorite boast that this is the age of iron, declaring that coal commands this age—the age of coal. In England coal, in truth, stands, not beside, but entirely above all other commodities. It is the material energy of the country. England has grown rich and numerous upon this source of wealth. Over 500,000 of its inhabitants are at the present moment employed under what is called the Coal Mines Regulation act, and the annual product now exceeds 135,000,000 tons, the estimated value of which is $250,000,000.—Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Delights of Hanging.

The late Gen. Martin Burke, says a correspondent who spent some time in Fort Lafayette, had a peculiar idea of agreeable conversation. His custom always of an evening, during the incarceration of one of the Confederates under sentence of death, was to call at the prisoner's cell door and expatiate upon the advantages and delights of the method by which the prisoner was to be executed with those formerly in vogue.

"No shaky trap-doors that you need be afraid of tumbling through," the General would cry, warming with his subject; "no sickening sense of falling and bringing up short, and spinning round—no, nothing of that sort; but you are just standing here, and over there one of my men cuts a little piece of cord and down comes the weight, and up you go, soaring like a bird, sir—soaring like a bird!"

Why the Hair Turns Gray and Why It Falls Out.

A prematurely-bald physician in New York was asked a number of questions about the growth and habits of the hair.

"In the first place," he said, "do you know what hair is, anyway?"

"Only in a general way, perhaps."

"Then let me tell you in a word. It is an elongated epidermic appendage. Its essential structure consists of an assemblage of epidermic cells, at the bottom of a flask-shaped follicle in the substance of the skin, supplied with blood by vessels distributed to its wall."

"Can hair be made to grow on a bald head?"

"Not as a rule. In debilitated persons the hairs sometimes fall out spontaneously, or with slight assistance, and if the bulb alone comes away, and the sheath and germ remain behind, they are capable of reproducing the hair, under proper treatment or favorable circumstances. The short and pointed hairs on the scalps of old people show that new shafts are constantly forming. The nutrition of hair is effected through vessels which are in contact with their tissue, without entering into their structure, so that causes affecting the general health, or affecting the health of the skin, affect also the nutrition of the hair."

"What causes premature baldness?"

"In a great measure the violation of hygienic rules and the excess of mental and physical labor in a climate foreign to the race."

"Is there a greater disposition toward grayness in this country than in others?"

"Well, some well-informed people think that it is about the same in all civilized countries, but if there is any difference it is because of the hurried and unhealthy habits of life and mental exercise among Americans."

"What is the chemical action which produces gray hair?"

"Accurately speaking, that's one of those things that no fellow can find out. The color of the hair depends partly on the presence of pigment granules, and partly on the existence of minute air spaces, which cause it to appear dark by transmitted light. In albinos and gray-haired persons this coloring matter is simply absent."

"Is it the case that hair may, from extreme fright or other very strong emotions, turn white, as is said, in a single night?"

"It is an undoubted fact. Just how the change takes place is a matter for conjecture, but it may perhaps be explained by some chemical action upon the oily coloring matter. This oily matter would be withdrawn from the hair under conditions of cold, debility or insufficient food."

"Does gray hair then become dead?"

"Not by any means. The loss of vitality does not necessarily follow the loss of color, for gray hair often grows vigorously. For that matter, hair will grow after the body's death. One of the causes of premature baldness and grayness is tightly-fitting and unyielding clothes."

"Are any of the thousand and one preparations for restoring the hair of any value?"

"Tonics and stimulating applications are sometimes beneficial. When the hair is thin and falls out easily, shaving the scalp will often produce a thicker, firmer and darker growth."

The Beautiful Roses.

The South has been called the land of the mocking-bird and magnolia, and the land of orange groves. If I might be permitted to rechristen it, I should name it the land of roses. I don't believe there is any region on earth where roses grow in such abundance, variety, beauty and sweetness as they do in this country.

At New Orleans the Marechal Neil roses cause the Northerner to stare in speechless wonder. I saw one of the plants that must have been fifty feet long. I have seen vines of the same roses that long in the North, but they were scraggy and lean looking, and in the florists' greenhouses. At New Orleans they run wild like a mid-summer night's dream. The blossoms grow in gorgeous clusters of half a dozen or more, and the flowers are so large that they would more than cover the top of a large-sized coffee cup. A single one of the pale golden beauties will fill a room with perfume. They are as plenty down here as 'white top' in a Northern meadow. And they sell for $1 a bud up North!

In some of the private citizens' yards in New Orleans there are as many as 100 different kinds of roses all in bloom at once. They do not require protection from cold at any time either. They all stand out doors in the open ground, and many varieties bloom more or less all the winter through.—New Orleans Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.

A CORRESPONDENT from Boston writes us to know what the word Nihilist is derived from. We are surprised that such ignorance should exist in such a town as Boston. The Russian assassins are called Nihilists from the River Nile. They are dirty, like the water of the Nile, and have sudden uprisings. Like the Nile, their sources are unknown. It is not healthy to try and find out. If you do not think this is the right answer you had better hunt up a Nihilist and make him tell you all he knows.—Texas Sittings.

GEMS FROM EMERSON.

But the people are to be taken in very small doses. If solitude is proud, so is society vulgar.—Society and Solitude.

One of those conceited prigs who value nature only as it feeds and exhibits them is equally a pest with the roisterers.—Chubb.

POETRY is the only verity—the expression of a sound mind speaking after the ideal, and not after the apparent.—Poetry and Imagination.

WHEREVER there is power there is ego. Don't be deceived by dimples and curls. I tell you that babe is a thousand years old.—Old Age.

AND ye shall succeed; and ye shall be blessed to serve; and ye shall be helped who cannot help again; and ye shall be blessed to serve.—Boston Herald.

LIFE is a succession of lessons which must be lived to be understood. All is riddle, and the key to riddle is another riddle. There are as many pillows of illusion as flakes in a snow-storm. We wake from one dream into another dream.—Illusions.

IT never was in the power of any man or any community to call the arts into being. They come to serve his actual wants, never to please his fancy. These arts have their origin always in some enthusiasm—as love, patriotism or religion.—Art.

The world rolls round, mistrust it not—Befalls again what once befell; All things return, both spheres and men, And I shall hear ray life's drum's note, And dream the dream of Anubis dell.—The Japan.

We do not believe there is any force in to-day to rival or recreate that beautiful yesterday. We linger in the ruins of the old tent, where once stood a beautiful shelter, and organs, nor believe that the spirit can feed, cover and nerve us again. We cannot again find aught so dear, so sweet, so graceful. But we sit and weep in vain. The voice of the Almighty saith, "Up and onward forevermore." We cannot stay amid the ruins.—Compensation.

Know'st thou what woe won woodbird's nest Of leaves and feathers from her breast? Or how the bell o'er her neck, Patient with morn each annual eel? Or how the sacred pine-tree adds To her old leaves the new year's green? Such and so grew these holy joys, Which love and terror laid the ties.—The Japan.

Next to the originator of a good sentence is the first mover of it. Many will read the book before one thinks of quoting a passage. As soon as he has done this that line will be quoted East and West. Then there are great ways of borrowing. Genius borrows nobody. When Shakespeare is charged with debts to his authors Lander replies: "Yes he was more original than his originals. He breathed upon dead bodies and brought them to life."—Quotation and Originality.

The law of the table is beauty—a respect to the common soul of all the guests. Everything is unseasonable which is private to two or three or any portion of the company. Tact never violates for a moment this law; never intrudes the orders of the house, the voices of the absent, or a tariff of expenses, or professional privacies; as we say, we never "talk shop" before company. Lovers abstain from caresses, and leaders from insults, whilst they sit in one table with common friends.—Social Aims.

SHALL we then judge a country by the majority or by the minority? By the majority surely. "This pedantry to estimate nations by the census, or by square miles of land, or other than by their importance to the mind of the time. Masses! the calamity is the masses. I do not wish any mass at all, but honest men only, lovely, sweet, accomplished women only, and no shovel-handed, narrow-brained, gin-drinking million stockingers or lazaroni at all. All the feasts which make our civility were the thought of a few good heads."—Considerations by the Way.

Great Men at Play.

United States Senator Edmunds and Justice Harlan were fellow-guests at a seaside hotel. One day the two distinguished gentlemen were wandering aimlessly along the beach under a bright, genial sun, when their attention was arrested by the sight of a small boy intently throwing shells at a small peg driven in the sand and surmounted by a block of wood. The little fellow, unconscious of their presence, continued the practice with skillful precision, and the two spectators for the moment forgot their official gravity and allowed their latent boyish tendencies to control them. "I'd bet you a good cigar," said Mr. Harlan to Mr. Edmunds, "that I can hit that mark before the boy can." The wager was accepted, and the contest began. The Justice was as good as his boast, for the block was knocked down at the third throw. Then the Senator tried to do as well, and the small boy, the great lawyer and the distinguished statesman were soon busy at play, hunting for ammunition, making rash bets, laughing over defeat and applauding victory. The sight was a novel one to a happy one, and the few promenaders on the beach smiled good-naturedly as they passed, to think how one touch of youthfulness could break dignity's back and make old men young again. That evening the Justice smoked with pride some cigars from the Senator's best box, the stakes of their pleasant little competition.

King Coal.

It has been said that coal is the main-spring of modern material civilization. Indeed, Prof. Jarvis has even denied our favorite boast that this is the age of iron, declaring that coal commands this age—the age of coal. In England coal, in truth, stands, not beside, but entirely above all other commodities. It is the material energy of the country. England has grown rich and numerous upon this source of wealth. Over 500,000 of its inhabitants are at the present moment employed under what is called the Coal Mines Regulation act, and the annual product now exceeds 135,000,000 tons, the estimated value of which is $250,000,000.—Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Delights of Hanging.

The late Gen. Martin Burke, says a correspondent who spent some time in Fort Lafayette, had a peculiar idea of agreeable conversation. His custom always of an evening, during the incarceration of one of the Confederates under sentence of death, was to call at the prisoner's cell door and expatiate upon the advantages and delights of the method by which the prisoner was to be executed with those formerly in vogue.

"No shaky trap-doors that you need be afraid of tumbling through," the General would cry, warming with his subject; "no sickening sense of falling and bringing up short, and spinning round—no, nothing of that sort; but you are just standing here, and over there one of my men cuts a little piece of cord and down comes the weight, and up you go, soaring like a bird, sir—soaring like a bird!"

How Congressmen Dress.

The Republicans are the best-dressed people in both the Senate and House. They have better-looking beards, sleek faces and better-looking hair than they had from $2 to $5 in change in their vest-pockets. They look as though they think more of public matters than about how to save $2,500 per annum out of $5,000 salary. They wear good coats and polished shoes, and walk with the air of men confident of position, and are above making the matter of personal appearance a subject of study. They leave external matters to good tailors and