The English harvest has turned out better than was expected. Fresh outbreaks against the Jews are reported from all parts of Russia.

The European, American, Canadian, Asiatic Cable company, has collapsed.

The total amount of emigrants at Castle Garden, New York, last week was 7,965.

Russia, it is said, is preparing to put in a demand for the whole Balkan peninsula.

Dr. E. Stone Wiggins, of the Canadian finance department, predicts a terrible storm for March next.

The death is announced of Baron Tanderden, under secretary of state for foreign affairs of Great Britain.

In Stratfordshire, Eng., 6,000 miners have given notice of a demand for an advance of ten per cent. in wages.

The rope with which a Kansas murderer was hanged has been woven into book marks and given to the convicting jury as keepsakes.

Prominent Democratic politicians in the state of New York express entire confidence in the election of Mr. Cleveland, the Democratic nominee for governor.

The Hon. James Cox Atkins has been appointed lieutenant governor of Manitoba, in place of Hon. Joseph Edward Conchon, whose term expires Oct. 3.

The English have begun to deal very extensively in Mexican securities, as they have found in the success of the American enterprises in developing that country.

It is proposed to make Montgomery Blair, Mr. Lincoln's first postmaster general, the Democratic candidate for congress in the Sixth Maryland district.

Gen. Hancock the other day, entertained Sir Henry Hallford, of the British rifle team. He took his guest for sail up East river on board the steamer Chester A. Arthur.

The Egyptian question is becoming a serious issue on account of the demands of the continental powers. The better opinion seems to be that the British occupation will become permanent.

The catalogue of the British Museum, now being printed, will fill 500 volumes, and at the present rate it will require 40 years to complete it, by which time there will be new matter enough to begin afresh.

It is expected that Mr. Folger will soon resign the treasury portfolio having become a candidate for governor of New York. The friends of Mr. New express confidence that he will be Mr. Folger's successor.

The Princess of Wales and her children and their suite and the King and Queen of Denmark and their suite have all been living together like one large family party, at Wiesbaden, and have rarely appeared in public there.

King Cetewayo who takes presents back to his wives in Zululand, and the authorities in England made a grant for that purpose; but when it was found that there were twenty-nine wives the original sum was increased to £50.

It is claimed that Brown, the stalwart candidate for governor of Pennsylvania broke his pledged faith, and betrayed Blaine at Chicago in 1880, and prevented his nomination. This revelation is producing great excitement in the old Keystone state.

The board of education of New York City asks in round numbers for an appropriation of four million ($3,993,150) dollars. In this sum is included, says the New York Sun, $1,500 to add to the present large salary of the president of the Normal college, or an increase of 25 per cent.

One of the attendants of the Watkins Glen freethinkers infidel convention said out that he had been persecuted and imprisoned for the cause! This awakened sympathy and caused him to be greatly honored. It was found afterwards that he had been imprisoned for circulating obscene literature!

A curious miser was John Birdsall of Rush, Ind., who brought $600 in gold from California twenty years ago, buried it in an iron pot, and told nobody. His family have of late suffered for food, and when absolute starvation threatened them, he dug up his treasure and went off with it, leaving his wife and four children to the poor master.

Charles R. Ford had spent three years in state prison, but he was regarded as a thoroughly reformed man, and no opposition was made to his admission to the Detroit bar. He has since attempted to pass forged notes, and been so much of a disgrace to his profession that a hundred lawyers of his county have signed a petition to disbar him.

It has been positively asserted that Mr. Gladstone, the English premier, sympathized with the South during our late civil war. This Mr. Gladstone positively denies. Lord Palmerston, who was premier at the time, did sympathize with the South, and but for Prince Albert, England would have formally recognized the Confederacy as a substantial independent government.

England has a blind postmaster general, who fills the post with unprecedented success, and last year a blind man ascended Mont Blanc. What seems almost as remarkable is that, according to the Wolverhampton Chronicle for 1792, "one Briscoe, manager of a small theatrical company, though stone blind, plays all the heroes in his tragedies, and the lovers in all genteel comedies."

Sir Charles Hedges of England died in 1714, and his estate is now valued at $250,000,000. When he died he left one son named Charles, who died in 1730, leaving one son Joseph, who came to this country in 1731, and settled in Maryland. He died in 1732, and his descendants now live in Iowa, Ohio, Missouri, Louisiana and Kentucky. These heirs, it is said, will without doubt all soon receive their shares of this immense fortune and become millionaires.

A few days ago a lady who resides near Chattanooga, Tenn., but across the Georgia line, while at work in her garden, discovered something sparkling in the undergrowth, and on closer examination discovered that it was an English sovereign. She continued her investigation and soon collected forty, which were strewn promiscuously in that locality. They were all dated between 1820 and 1827. How they came there is a mystery.

Some of the officers of the Salveon army were arrested and tried last week at Paterson, N. J., for violating a city ordinance by noisier shouting and singing in the streets. The jury failed to agree, being five for conviction and one for acquittal. In answer to questions by the attorney for the city, they said that they intended to continue their exercises as they thought right, no matter what the police courts of Paterson might decide.

Professor James D. Dana, of Yale college, who has received higher honors from European scientific societies than any geologist now living in the United States, says of the first chapter of Genesis: "Examining it as a geologist, I find it to be in perfect accord with known science; therefore, as a Christian, I assert that the Bible narrative must be inspired."

The Rev. Joseph Cook met with a serious accident on the voyage from Japan to Sydney, being thrown from an upper to a lower deck by a lurch of the ship during a storm. No bones were broken, but some of the muscles and cartilages of the ribs were torn, which necessitated surgical treatment on his arrival at his destination; but he was recovering from his injuries at last accounts.

Alfred Reed and Richard Roberts, while digging a well last week on the premises of Mr. Appleby, in Westfield, Staten Island, N. Y., exhumed a human skeleton supposed to be that of an Indian. A large portion of the town of Westfield the Indians had possession of until early in the seventeenth century, when it was decided by the Duke of York to Christopher Billoppe subsequent to Staten Island being declared as belonging to New York.

Julie Boisvert, a young girl not twenty years old, who was employed as a nurse to an infant child of Mrs. Noel, of Montreal, was found guilty at the Assizes of administering ly to the child with the intent of murdering it, and from the effects of which it died. The trial lasted four days and no motive could be assigned for the act beyond that the prisoner had imbibed a morbid desire for killing some one from reading vile stories in French books.

The Plymouth (Mass.) bell-ringing case has been decided. Last. The plaintiffs had for many years owned and occupied houses near a large woolen mill, on which, some time ago, a large bell was placed. This bell was rung several times every day, to summon and dismiss the operatives. The plaintiffs claimed that it was a nuisance, and injured their property and destroyed their comfort. After a long trial the court has decided that the plaintiffs are fully entitled to an injunction against the ringing of the bell.

The Moravian church was the first in its organized capacity to engage in the work of sending the gospel to heathen lands. Although from the beginning a small band among the hosts of the church, it has sent out more than two thousand missionaries, and the number of its church members gathered from among the heathen is nearly three times the present membership in the home churches of Germany, England and America. This does not look like a failure in the work of foreign missions.

Mr. Frederick Billings, of the Northern Pacific railroad, has just purchased for a handsome sum the library of the late Geo. P. Marsh, the predecessor of Mr. Astor as minister to Italy. The purchase is understood to have been made with the purpose of presenting the library to the University of Vermont, of which Mr. Billings is an alumnus. The late Mr. Marsh once devised his library in that direction, but a change in his worldly fortunes afterwards compelled him to keep it as a personal estate for his heirs.

The will of the late Rev. George W. Musgrave, D. D., of Philadelphia, bequeaths: To the trustees of the College of New Jersey, Princeton, $30,000 in trust, to be invested until the principal and interest shall amount to $50,000, which sum is to be applied towards founding "The Musgrave professorship;" to the Presbyterian hospital in Philadelphia $10,000 in trust, for endowing perpetually two free beds; the sum of $4,000 to the Theological seminary at Princeton, for the establishment of a "Musgrave scholarship;" Princeton seminary is made his residuary legatee.

The Boston Congregationalist mentions the honorable action of the family of Deacon J. C. Whittin, of Whittinsville, Mass., who died last spring. He died on a Saturday, but he had given directions for the drawing up of a will which he was to sign on Monday. Though this instrument had no legal force, his family are carrying out his wishes expressed therein. They have just paid $20,000 to the Massachusetts Home Missionary society and $25,000 to the American board (to be added to its permanent fund). Various other intended legacies have been paid, including $5,000 to the University of New Mexico.

A Northern Pacific Engine Dashes Headlong into a Slough.

[Fergus Falls Daily Telegram, Sept. 24.] Engine No. 15 of the N. P. & B. H. road started down to Breckenridge last evening about 7 o'clock to receive some necessary overhauling. In the cab was the engineer, his son and the fireman. It spun along over the well ballasted road at a good rate of speed till Gutenberg's switch was reached, at Austin's mill, about a mile northeast of this city, and then there was wreck and chaos. Some malicious individual, probably a boy, had opened the switch, and the engine went off the end of the rails, pounded over the ties a second, and then keeled over on her side in two feet of mud and water, in the slough at that point. The occupants of the cab went into the water with the engine, the engineer's son undermost, all extricated themselves successfully, and what is most astonishing, all escaped without the slightest injury. It was a close call for all of them. The engine lies helpless where it took its last plunge. It will cost all of $1,000 to put the machine on the track again in running order.

The officials of the road think they have a clue to the perpetrators of the wicked act, and it is to be hoped that they will soon be brought to justice.

A Match Game Proposed.

[Duluth Tribune.] We'll match the St. Paul Globe—a Democratic whacking sheet that is making a crazy attempt to run Republican politics—against Eli Perkins in a contest at square, round or oblong lying any day.
