[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 .- To-day has been a quiet one on 'change. There was neither any sharp advance nor great breaks to crebears. Wheat business was transacted in the corn pit. Then the market was quite ship active, but at the close was a shade easier than on yesterday, except for the deliveries most sought for, November and January, which were firmer. Dealers generally are afraid of selling short on this month's corn. Wheat again lost strength and off, another notch, and pork down again, however, being close to bed-rock,improved a trifle instead of following pork. On the board it was active and unsettled, and at the close cash was 1/4c higher than it closed at 1 o'clock yesterday, month about 1/2c lower, year 1/2c lower, January 1/4c higherand May unchanged. The market was rather weaker at the opening, and November fell %c under the closing figures yesterday, and year fell %c, then reached and sold about %c, again weakened, then fire-

The immediate future of corn depending problematic, entirely on the receipts and the result of an attempted manipulation. An attempt will be made to bull this market next week, but if the receipts are large this will fail, and a drop will result. It is reported that the errand of Jno. B. Lyon in New York is to engineer that end of the present operations in this market. The announcement should be warning enough to all persons not within Lyon's circle to steer clear of this grain until the wily operator gets through with it. For a good many years he has been recognized as a very clever manipulator of corn in this market. He does not engineer corners like Armour or Handy or he run a wheat corner and failed, but since to his memory were a favorite tactics are to give out the impression that a great 'deal' is being run, boom the property and then unload on the crowd, which has been made bullish by his false reports of a corner. There are always a few innocents lucky enough Union. It was reported yesterday, and to make money out of Armour's or Handy's or McGeoch's speculations. It a little clique who ever made any money out of J. B. Lyon's scalp. It is said the present corn operations have been placed may not have an interest in them. It is not an unusual thing here when a number of houses are acting on the same side of the corn market, for them to pool their Michigan Central and Canada Southern issues and give over the entire control of their speculation into the hands of this operator. Three years ago Rumsey Bros., J. K. Fesler & Co., Smith & Lightner, all clined on reports that the Grand Trunk of whom were largely long of corn, met and invited Lyon to take charge of their property, to boom it for them if he could.

He insisted upon being granted a share in to affect prices. The reserve shows a dethe deal, and this was conceded. He advanced the grain 32 to 40, and unloaded not only all the corn there was in the elevators, but options on almost 10,000,000 bushels. Very soon after the load was shifted into the crowd, and prices dropped back again to where they were started from. The feeling is bullish here on November corn, and about everybody expects, too, that the year option will be some advanced. But while the majority of traders think that there will be no new contract corn to deliver this month, a majority on the other hand, believe that there will be plenty of No. 2 to deliver in Becember and on year contracts. Of all the new crop yet sent into this market none has inspected as No. 2 grade, and the boys are anxious to find out if this is going to continue indefinitely. The only car loads that inspected up to grade were several car loads consigned to Geo.

Regular wheat to-day was quiet and weaker, but ruled tolerably steady at the prices current. But few outside orders local account. The receipts were fair, and shipments larger than yesterday, that the Mutual Union people, wishing to while the market advices from other avoid litigation and scandal, were waiting points were without any special change. Prices fluctuated within a range of about 1/2c, and closed 3/26 lower than yesterday. The visible supply of wheat shows an increase over that of last week of nearly two million bushels, and receipts are continuing larger each day. Spring and winter are both dull and easy. Flour also ruled dull. Shippers held but few orders, and were indifferent about purchasing. Prices were quotably unchanged. Oats were steady and showed no material change. Barley dull and I hear that lower prices would nominally easier, and rye quiet at former not displease some of the insiders."

During the week just closed there has been a fairly active business transacted both on speculative account and shipping account. While prices have declined the shrinkage was not large, and the market because of country is causing a great deal of comment among pork dealers of the produce exchange. Mr. J. D. There was a demand for stocks and at the close last evening they were pressed for sale.

The drive was made at Western Union on the ground that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was negotiating for the Mutual Union, and the Elevated railroad adjustment business had fallen through, and was credited to Mr. Gould. who, it is said, became disgusted with Mr. Kneeland's visit to Mr. Vanderbilt to assist him in his fight with Mr. Gould, who wished to depress the market in consequence. It is pretty certain that Gould brokers have supplied stock. A Vanderbilt house is said to have been a large seller, but the chances are that the Twenty-third street party has been the principal selling force. The story that the stock would be depressed to 80 to permit London buying at that figure, was revived early in the day. The fact that were received, and trading was chiefly on Mutual Union has gone up as Western Union has declined, is suggestive. Rumor said an opportunity to sell out to the highest bidder, and that the Western Union was ready to purchase. No verification could be obtained on either side.

"I expect an all-round attack on Omaha common." said a Vanderbilt broker this afternoon. "There will be no loss of the property to the Northwestern, and the ommon stock is, therefore, too high.
