

GLOBELETS.

Philadelphia has nine marriageable female millionaires.

England's blind postmaster general is the most popular gentleman in the realm.

New York has a milk famine, and the wonder is what ails the Croton river aqueduct.

In Berlin, during the first nine days of February, there were ten suicides a day, a large per cent. of which was in the army.

The New York legislature has enacted a law requiring that telegraph and telephone wires shall be placed under ground before March 1, 1885.

It is thought Casey Young, of Tennessee is likely to loom up prominently for the speakership of the next congressional house of representatives.

The general impression seems to be that President Arthur's health is failing rapidly, and that national mourning badges may be in vogue before the present year closes.

A Vermont man bet a neighbor that he couldn't walk half a mile without looking to the right or left, and just as the man started on his walk set two dogs to fighting about half way down the track, and won his money as easily as could be.

Mr. Julian Hawthorne is regarded by the New York Times as the "most interesting American story writer," and by the London Saturday Review as the worst.

This shows how easy it is for two parties to disagree and both be wrong.—Boston Post.

Bismarck thinks that farmers are right in taking advantage of a sunny Sunday to harvest hay or grain, or to do anything in which delay may cause injury.

"I could never bring myself to bind tenants of my farming land not to do such labor."

There is a new so-called funny paper in New York called "Life," and various papers are applying quotations to it, the Philadelphia Times remarking: "Life is real; life is earnest." It is left for some reader to observe: "In the midst of life we are in death."

"No," he said, "I wouldn't accept the position of deacon when it was tendered me. If I had I never could have traded horses without being accused of swindling, and every time I went to the city people would suspect me of going to burlesque shows and raising old Nick."

Inflamed oil-brokers, like the assassin Guiteau, are very much alike the world over. Germany now comes to the front.

Herr Von Wogenheim, counselor of state and minister of worship and schools, has been shot, dead at Goethe by a disappointed seeker for office.

The jail in Grand Isle county, Vermont has been without an inmate for over two years. The Green Mountain boys must be models of virtue and propriety.

Natives of the Green Mountain state resident in St. Paul and Minnesota may well be proud of the land of their nativity.

A pardon was recently granted to a convict in a South Carolina penitentiary. When the document was forwarded to the institution it was found that, six months previous, the prisoner had been released by a power higher than the chief executive of that state. The man was dead.

The once famous Williams and Mary college at Williamsburg, Va., the alma mater of Jefferson, Marshall, Monroe, and Randolph, had only one student last year and is now closed. That one student quit because he couldn't stand the blame for all the devilry committed for miles around.

The question as to whether a husband has a right to exact that his better half shall build the fire is to be settled soon in Indiana. A minister's wife has raised the issue in a suit for divorce.

The jury in the case has a solemn duty to perform. This is a time when married men should stand together.

Gov. Butler, of Massachusetts, has removed from office an official who has held his office for thirty years, and put a Democrat in his place.

Of course the patriots in the Old Bay state who believe in the prescriptive right to hold office forever are raising an immense howl over the action of the hard-headed Old Ben.

George Francis Baker, once the greatest and most valuable talker of the generation, does not speak to any one any more. At one time one of his vagaries was to converse only with children, and commune with adults only by writing, but now his voice is no more heard.

Mental imbecility is his great characteristic. Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney-at-law, adorns a phenomenal shingle hung out in the city of Baltimore.

The said Bonaparte is a grand-nephew of the great Napoleon. He is a descendant of the beautiful Elizabeth Patterson, wife of Jerome Bonaparte, whom the great emperor, for state reasons, caused to be divorced.

The Rev. Dr. Crosby, in a recent lecture on the glory of New York, said: "The Bostonian has to come here to be rid of his provincialism. Until he has been in New York he has no larger circuit of thought than a squirrel in a cage."

This gentleman's faculty for writing himself down an ass is something remarkable, and is remarked by the Boston Post.

Two school teachers of Lynn, Mass., have shown the world how to administer an artistic whipping to a scholar. One of them held him, an eight-year old boy, and the other pounded him "up and down, all around," with a sharp edged ferule, until his body bore a striking resemblance to a barber pole.

For this piece of amusement the young ladies have been invited to seek new worlds to conquer.

The Boston Post, Democratic, says: The Minnesota Tribune goes into a very laborious argument to show that Gov. Butler is likely to be the next presidential candidate of the Democratic party.

We know of no other way by which the Republican party can save the election of 1884, so it is not surprising that Republican papers are very ready with hints and suggestions intended to remove the mountain of Democratic objection standing in the way of any such consummation.

The curious Stebbins, who had "Marching through Georgia" and "Good-bye, My Lover, Good-bye" sung by request at his grave, was once appointed consul to the Philippine islands.

He was informed, however, that it was very hot there and there were numerous and severe earthquakes to give him the "shakes."

He was "wired" at once to Washington: "I like hot climate and I don't care a— for earthquakes." He had hardly set foot on the islands when there was an earthquake which nearly threw him back into the hold of the steamer.

He didn't go ashore again, but returned home on the same steamer.

JAY COOKE'S PALACE.

"Ogontz" to be Used for a Young Ladies' Seminary.

During his first great prosperity Jay Cooke built at Chelton Hills, eight miles from the heart of Philadelphia, one of the finest private residences in the world, extending upon the house and grounds more than a million of dollars.

He was entertained, in princely style, distinguished visitors from his own and from foreign lands, and his magnificent home and hospitality became widely known.

The Ogontz place and the improvements recently made to prepare it for the seminary, are the subject of the Philadelphia papers.

There is a new so-called funny paper in New York called "Life," and various papers are applying quotations to it, the Philadelphia Times remarking: "Life is real; life is earnest."

"No," he said, "I wouldn't accept the position of deacon when it was tendered me. If I had I never could have traded horses without being accused of swindling, and every time I went to the city people would suspect me of going to burlesque shows and raising old Nick."

very expensive and are kept in stock. The costumes in our historical Chinese play brought out in San Francisco last year were imported at an expense of $7,000.

He says that if he decides upon a theater in New York it will be next fall. The company will be brought from San Francisco, and will consist of about a dozen people.

He has seen many English dramatic productions, and, judging from the contemptuous way he shrugged his shoulders when speaking of them, they do not come up to his standard of excellence.

It was with some difficulty that he was given a faint idea of Salvini's polyglot entertainment, and he smiled derisively upon the possibility of his playing with an English-speaking company was suggested.

He had heard something of the "Passion play" in San Francisco, but explained that as the drama in which he took part generally began in the afternoon and ended at midnight he had no opportunity to witness it.
