The May Pole entertainment given by the Band of Hope last Tuesday evening, at Harrison hall, proved so satisfactory that the managers are induced to repeat it this evening, and hope to see a large audience present to aid in the good work in which they are engaged.

The condition of most of the streets in the city is a living disgrace. Spur up the slow coach commissioners to the proper performance of their duties. The commissioner of the Third ward, however, is, to the good fortune of that portion of the city, an exception and is out early and late accomplishing needed repairs.

Yesterday morning R. B. Langdon, Dorius Morrison, Judge E. B. Ames, John Martin, W. W. Eastman, John De Laittre and Thomas Lowry, the newly elected directors of the Syndicate block, held a meeting in Manager Conley's office and elected the following officers: R. B. Langdon, president; W. W. Eastman, vice-president; John De Laittre, secretary and treasurer.

The attention of aldermen of the Second ward is called to the dilapidated Street Commissioner Whittier. The residents claim that there are enough blocks of wood strewn about the streets to keep a good sized family in fuel for the year, to say nothing of the stoves and pit holes which annoy all who have occasion to drive in the ward.

Mr. Fowler has been connected with the dispatcher's office in this city for the last five years. He left on the Sunday evening train to take permanent charge of the office.

Manager Wood's Minneapolis season bids fair to be a brilliant success beyond anticipation. This is said to be owing to the bitter opposition met in the person of the good deacon of the Tribune. Last night the house was again packed. The entertainment was improved over the first two evenings, and the olio was pronounced the best ever witnessed in the city.

Minneapolis has recently had several picture sales, but, however, as a rule the wares so placed on sale have had little merit. We now have a collection on sale at the Syndicate block which are genuine works of art. They were brought here by S. Johnson, of 738 Broadway, New York, and represent the leading artists of the world. The public sale occurs Friday and Saturday.

Officer Gallagher found two bolts of cloth, five pairs of overalls and one pair of boots secreted beneath an old tin roof about a half block distant from the Kelly fire yesterday morning, which had evidently been stolen from Mr. Kelly's store. The officer returned the property to the owner. The above goes to confirm the theory that the store had been burglarized and set on fire for the purpose of plundering.

During the May term of the Hennepin county district court, it has been arranged that Judge Young shall hear the jury cases. It was intended by right of turn, that Judge Koon should hear the court cases, but there were so many on the calendar for the term in which he had been counsel previous to his appointment as judge, it was thought best to have Judge Loehren assist him.

At the last regular meeting of Minnesota Temple No. 1, P. C., the following officers for the ensuing year were installed by J. H. Mahler, of St. Paul, D. S. O. for the State of Minnesota: Counsel, J. E. Boyden; Ven. O. A. C. Peters; O. A. H. Lawrence; V. O. B. E. Stone; Marshal, E. Lucas; R. S. E. Thompson; F. S. L. C. Campbell; Treas., W. C. Wheeler; Guard, M. L. Squires; Sentinel, S. N. Bugbee; 1st Aid, A. D. Arries; 2d Aid, A. N. Wheeler; Chaplain, H. C. Christensen; Chief Captain, J. E. Boyden; Sub. Capt., B. E. Stone.

This evening the ever popular C. D. Hess Acme Opera company will open a season of English opera in the Grand. The personnel includes the prima donna, Miss Abbie Carrington, and Henry Peakes, who is unquestionably one of the greatest bass operatic vocalists on the American stage. The repertoire is "To-night," "Marta," the finest light opera in the language; "Iolanthe," Sullivan's latest success; "Iolanthe," Saturday matinee, the old favorite, "Bohemian Girl," closing in the evening with the grand opera, "Faust," in which Peakes as "Mephisto" is a revelation.

The Miller: "Thus early the matter of having their third annual excursion has suggested itself to our millers, and is being discussed. The feeling is unanimous that the excursion must take place, and its occurrence may be regarded as about an assured fact. The majority seem to favor an earlier date than August or September this year, the first part or middle of June being by most suggested as the best time to hold it, provided the business of the flour trade does not interfere. The millers make a very happy occasion of their excursion last year, but they are confident that the one this year can even be improved, and their friends can set it down that they will make good their promise. Quite a number have suggested that invitations be sent out to millers and prominent men in other cities, and that a few well-timed speeches be made features of the day."

Our register of deeds evidently has little respect for the hard-working newspaper reporter. The frequency of his making secret records "not for publication" are extremely annoying to the newsgatherer. The records are most, certainly public affairs, and should be in every instance open for the inspection of every reporter. The policy of converting a public office into a "secret service" institution does not to the average citizen and tax payer appear expedient nor just the correct thing. Yesterday the Globe reporter incidentally learned of a real estate transaction which most necessarily have been recorded in the office in question, but respecting which our sly register said not a word when questioned for matters and papers filed. The transaction referred to is the sale of lot 11 and three feet of lot 12, block 17 subdivision of grounds between Pine Bay, Main and Second streets in St. Anthony Falls, May 5, 1888, from Richard Chute and Samuel H. Chute to Nettie Connolly for $3,300.

Yesterday Morning's Fire. A two story frame building located on the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Twenty-third avenue south, owned by Gustave Gronf and occupied by F. W. Kelly as a general store, was destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The building was worth $1,000 and that figure was the amount of insurance which had been placed in the Scottish Fire insurance company. Mr. Kelly's loss is estimated at $7,000, upon which there was $4,000 as follows: In the Union of California $2,000; in the Union of Philadelphia and Star $1,000 each. Mr. Judges lost about $400 and Mr. Dolan about $500, and neither had a cent of insurance.

The Flour Interest. The following statement of the flour product of the mills of Minneapolis for the week is taken from the Miller: In point of production there is very little change on the platform to report this week, the output being slightly decreased. Out of the twenty-one mills, there are fifteen in operation at fair productions, against sixteen last week. One of the idle mills (the Palisade) is under reconstruction. The production for the week will average about 18,600 barrels per day against 14,200 barrels a week ago. Although outwardly our millers take rather a gloomy view of the flour markets and anything they may have in store, it is quite apparent that there is an undercurrent of feeling that an improvement will soon take place. However, the extreme bear side combats this theory, arguing that foreign stocks are too large to admit of a favorable change very soon, unless wheat takes a downward turn and leaves flour where it now stands.

MRS. DECKER'S SUICIDE.

Additional Particulars of the Sad Affair—The Letter of the Deceased Giving the Reasons for the Deed. Since the facts as to Mrs. Decker's suicide given yesterday were forwarded it was learned that the deceased had taken the precaution after swallowing the deadly potion—the bottle which had contained the poison being found in a room—to bind a blue silk handkerchief tightly across her mouth. She left an open note on the commode in the room, explaining that she had committed the rash deed because she found life unendurable without her husband, whom she alleged had deserted her, but whose name or whereabouts she carefully avoided stating. This note further explained that she had taken strychnine and morphine to accomplish her fell purpose, and requested that she be buried in her clothes in which she died; and also gave directions for the disposition of her watch, chain, two finger rings and a pair of bracelets of small value left on a bureau in the room. A large envelope evidently containing a document which might go towards clearing away the mystery, was found in the room addressed to Henry Magnusson, 310 Fifth street, north.

Coroner Fairbairn having gone to Washington, and Deputy Coroner Hill being in the country, the case was placed in charge of physician Springer, who went to the hotel, took possession of the sealed package referred to, had it delivered to Magnusson, and took charge of the remains, which are now in Warner's undertaking rooms awaiting an autopsy and coroner's inquest.

Magnussen's house it was learned that the unfortunate woman boarded there two weeks. She was twenty-two years old, and a bride of only three or four months. Her husband, who had formerly served as clerk in various clothing stores in Minneapolis, had gone to Winnipeg in the hope of earning an advanced salary, and better provide for his wife. Since his departure nothing had been heard from him, and she became disconsolate, absolutely refusing to be cheered by her friends, and often gave expression to the belief that he was dead. While brooding over her grief she had on two occasions threatened her life. To Peter Hovson at 308 Fifth street she said that unless she heard from the absentee soon, she would go to join him in heaven. She left Magnusson's house at 6 o'clock Monday afternoon. In the package addressed to Magnusson were sealed letters addressed to C. B. Bralen, 322 Nicollet avenue, Mrs. J. P. Johnson, Thornshalla Station, Sweden, sister of deceased; to Mr. Konsleinan Drecker, father of her husband, and the following addressed to Magnusson:

DEAR FRIEND:—I beg your pardon for writing to you, and I thank you for all the kindness you have bestowed on me. The jewelry that is found on me, please keep for the money due you. My love for my husband is so great it nearly overcomes me. I wish I was bad, so I would soon reach him. Take no trouble with my corpse. The two rings, the little one with the red stone and my husband's photo, I wish to have buried with me. My last prayer is to send the letter that contains the news of my death to my mother. I throw myself into the hands of God. I hope he will forgive me, and that I shall soon reach my husband. God bless you.

Yours, AMELIA DECKER.

On the opposite side, written evidently in a hurry and with a pencil, was the following: DEAR FRIEND: I am afraid that the act I am about to do will be discovered. I will soon take a dose of strychnine and morphine, and go to the land of spirits, and there will meet my loving husband, and there I shall soon reach my husband. You ever meet him, tell him he has my forgiveness, and that all the sufferings of death will be nothing to that I have already endured. One last farewell and your forgiveness. AMELIA DECKER.

The body was found in the woods reclining against a tree. No cause is assigned for the deed, but he had manifested melancholy at times. His name was Dr. Heanault, and a graduate from McGill Medical college. His family resides in Somerset, Canada. He had been at the lake about two months.
