All the mentioned canines found on the streets to-morrow will be doomed to destruction by two dog exterminators. Monkeys, puppies, whelps, cats and sore-eyed poodles will be slaughtered indiscriminately and owners had better take warning.

Northern Light: Calculating on four and one-half bushels to the barrel, we find that Minneapolis shipped in the first eight months of the season, within about a percent of as much flour as it was able to export to its total receipts of wheat in the same time.

There is a rumor afloat to the effect that among the mammoth structures to be erected here this season is one to be six stories high. Minneapolis will not allow New York to beat her in the height of its buildings and Mr. Burlington who will be the architect states that when the location of this big edifice is announced and the names of its builders known to the public it will cause a genuine surprise.

The special police that was appointed without pay, stationed at the planing mill and foundry on Tenth and Eleventh avenues south, are making it disagreeable for the regular officers in that vicinity by blowing their whistles and hiding when the officers get there. One of the officers that lives near by, got up at 3 o'clock in the morning to answer the signal, but when he got there no one was to be found.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire department was called to No. 34 Seventh street between Hennepin and Nicollet streets, where a barn belonging to Mr. P. Fell was on fire. As it was the upper portion of the barn, filled with hay, was badly burned, causing a loss of about $300, with an insurance of $150.

McDonald with about thirty-five others will represent this city. The organization is only three years old but is growing with amazing rapidity. It bears the same relation to odd fellowship as the Knights Templar do to Freemasonry.

One of the street car horses on the Plymouth and Cedar avenue line was attacked last evening with blind staggers near the Manitoba railroad crossing on Washington avenue. He managed to get detached from the car and in blind fury rushed pell mell against the iron boards in front of the depot near by, breaking the boards into smithereens. Thence he rushed on his wild career along the avenue, but was

What All Believe That it is a long tale that has no turning; that may at random sent, finds some family the archer light, no remedy sold will cure coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all throat and lung troubles so quickly and permanently as Dr. Bigelow's Positive cure; that our druggist, P. J. Dreis is very generous to give trial bottles of this remedy free of charge.

Those Crop Reports. MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 26.—S. H. Seaman, secretary of the Millers' National association, was flooded with telegrams today inquiring if his report on the wheat crop which was made for the benefit of the Millers' association had been correctly sent out by the associated press. Mr. Seaman says the report was meant for members of the association only and not for publication.

He calls attention to the fact that his estimate is based on reports from 21 states only, and says if the crop of the whole country was taken into consideration, the total yield might be 400,000,000 bushels, while his estimate for 21 states is only 373,500,000. The information published yesterday was a recapitulation of a page cut from the printed report, and was correct in every figure and word.

The Bad and Worthless are never initiated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy initiated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprang up and began to steal the notice in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Bitters" was used in any way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Bitters" in their name or in any way connected with them, or their names, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch of cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

A HAGABOND'S VAGABIES.

By One of the Most Pronounced Types, Who Has Been There and Speaks by the Card.

In 1865, the surrender of the army of northern Virginia at Appomattox court house, determined the fate of empires. The soldiers of the confederacy laid down their arms and were paroled, not to engage in active hostilities until properly exchanged. The majority of "weens" were at that time in an embarrassed condition as to financial or other resources. In fact they were bankrupt, hopelessly insolvent in mind, body and estate.

While some, figuratively speaking, were ready to hang their harps on the willows and mingle their tears with the waters of Babylon, as did the daughters of Israel when thinking upon the destruction of Jerusalem, this was not the case with the largest proportion of the forces of "Old Bob." They realized the situation, and that the logic of events had decided adversely to them. With the consciousness of this fact and the further consciousness that it was the only course left them to pursue, they turned their backs upon the battle fields of the east, north and west.

They turned their backs upon the battle fields of the east, north and west, and their comrades slept the sleep of sanctified rest, and bent their way in the direction of home, of parents, of friends, of associations made doubly dear by absence, and in many cases permanent abode. Throughout the land of cotton and palm, of orange groves and groves of the agonia, of brave men, and women as loyal as visions of paradise, desolation had been epidemic, and much that delighted the eye and pleased the senses a brief period before had become as the fabric of a dream, blessings that brightened as they had taken their flight. The cities bore the appearance of banquet halls deserted, while country hamlets and rich plantations displayed scenes of wreck and ruin by no means calculated to encourage one to take up the burden of life with that degree of humility born of the knowledge that he had been done up, left in the vocative, dejected, linked.

In this chaotic condition of affairs there was little to attract and nothing to entice "weens" to exhibitions of moral courage, or deeds of prowess in comparison with which the military glory and white plume of Navarre would fade into insignificance. The present was without interest and the future was hidden behind clouds that were without any living of silver. Many, after visiting their homes, departed to the cities, New Orleans being the objective point of the greatest number, with a view to seek channels of employment adapted to their changed status, from independence to poverty. They readily found places, that in hundreds of instances were created for them in the offices of cotton and sugar brokers, in the banks, wholesale houses and as attaches of established journals. A very few came north, and save in exceedingly rare instances, the latter class of exiles from the homes of their nativity, were variously discharged the trust committed to their care with a fidelity that has borne fruit in the greatly increased respect entertained for them today.

"Sunside" was the name of a cotton estate upon the Father of Waters, wherein a few days' ride from Vicksburg, whereon the writer distinguished himself as an infant. It is an old landmark, known to every pilot who steered his oar through the eddies and currents of the Mississippi and an inheritance that had descended from previous generations. Under the former regime it was a place of beauty indeed, and that it has failed to prove a joy forever, is owing to circumstances entirely beyond the writer's control. This home of a childhood, that has eventuated into a career not altogether uncheerful, was by no means pretentious, but an oasis of comfort and rest. On Friday night, or rather yesterday morning, the youngest child of Officer Ericson was taken suddenly ill. As soon as possible Mr. Ericson sent in for medical assistance. Although not absent over twenty minutes, the little one expired before the father and physician arrived. It may be stated that the child had been suffering from the effects of a severe cold which was not considered at all serious.

Five prisoners were received at the penitentiary yesterday. Emil Wendlandt from Marshall county, is under a sentence of two years for the crime of larceny. The others were all from Hennepin county. Of the number, James Murphy is down for three years for burglary, David Howells one year, Thomas Lambert three years, C. W. Molyman three years. The three last named are charged with larceny.

Yesterday afternoon, a lad about fourteen years of age named Charles Sullivan, was experimenting with a cartridge of some sort. In order to learn if it could be made to explode the little joker was placed on a stone and struck with a hammer. By the explosion which followed a part of the lad's forehead was torn off, a piece of the metal entering his thigh. The services of a physician were required to extract it. In addition to these injuries the boy's face was burned by the powder.
