ATHLETIC MEETS

GAMES OF TWO COLLEGIATE ASSOCIATION IN CHICAGO.

THE RESULT OF DISSENTION

Brawn and Muscle Will Struggle on Marshall Field and at Ravenswood—Rivalry for Patronage Intense—One a Triangular Affair—Winners Will Compete at Pan-American.

(By Associated Press.) Chicago, June 1.—The eyes of the western college world will be turned toward Chicago today. Upon the arena of two athletic fields the pick and flower of Mississippi valley athletes will strive with every effort to win glory and fame and the plaudits of the multitude. Never before in the history of western athletics has an event of such magnitude been held.

For the first time since the colleges came together in athletic rivalry, there is a division in the ranks. At Marshall field ten colleges will watch their athletes. Up at Ravenswood ten other colleges will cheer their heroes to victory. The history of the great secession is well known to all followers of college athletics.

Several hundred college men poured into the city on every train yesterday and last night.

The meets are the largest ever arranged to be in one city at one time in the history of the west. Both sides are confident of gathering the larger crowd.

On Marshall field teams from Wisconsin, Michigan, Chicago, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa and Beloit will contest for supremacy in the "Big Nine" association. In some respects the meet will justify the appellation of "triangular," as the real struggle will lie between Michigan, Wisconsin and Chicago. The Wolverines have been generally picked as the winners.

At Ravenswood teams from Grinnell, Knox, Notre Dame, Drake, Lake Forest, Carleton, Lawrence, Illinois college, Yankton, S. D., and the University of South Dakota will contest. The battle will probably be fought out by Notre Dame and Grinnell.

The winners will be asked to participate in sports at the Pan-American exposition this summer.

Last night Coach Stagg of the Chicago team received a communication inviting the winners to the exposition.

THE INDEPENDENCE WILL SAIL

Thomas W. Lawson Said to Have Agreed to Terms of New York Yacht Club.

(By Associated Press.) New York, June 1.—It was unofficially stated yesterday that the New York Yacht club, through Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard, has received a letter from Thomas W. Lawson, the owner of the Independence, in which the Boston yachtsman agrees to comply with all the requirements of the organization as to the conditions to govern the entrance of his yacht in the trial races.

As a result, it is said by one who claims to know, the Independence will be transferred to a member of the New York Yacht club, and the Boston 90-footer will be made eligible to compete in not only the contests to select a boat to defend the America's cup against Shamrock II, but will be allowed to participate in the majority of the New York Yacht club fixtures in which the Columbia and the Constitution will take part.

THEY SAY MARCO MEDIN IS PROUD.

Differences of opinion make horse races, and horse races often makes differences among friends. A case in point, is a race that came off at the Butte track Tuesday, between two men who were such close friends that they at one time were partners in business.

Marco Medin and James T. Finlen are the former partners. It is not thought that their friendship has been changed to enmity, but it is feared that it may be just a little strained. At any rate it is said that another race will be required before entire entente cordiale is restored. Medin recently bought Black Tom, a horse with an enviable record and Finlen paid a high price for a good looking and a fine stepper that had not yet earned a mark. Rivalry between the quantum partners as to the merits of their respective horses, finally resulted in the race at the park Tuesday.

Each drove his own horse. It was the first time that either had driven in a sulky. Finlen got into the seat as if he were a veteran on the track, while Me-din, who is a bit of a heavyweight, hesitated and only mounted the seat after several friends had refused to drive for him.

Fully one hundred and fifty friends of the contestants, witnessed the race. It was a single mile heat. Black Tom easily took the lead and held it pretty steadily. It was only on the last quarter that Tuttle, Finlen's unknown, began to show mettle, and to gain on the leader. There was no little excitement as Tuttle neared Black Tom, but Medin put his horse to his best, and came in a full length and a half ahead of Tuttle. And all of this amidst great hurrahs from the Medin faction, and some disgruntled growling of the Finlenites.

Marco Medin was jubilant, and let out a shout of joy that was heard on top of Big Butte. He is not a little prone now to Josh his erstwhile partner about the latter's paying a fancy price for a horse that was distanced by an old one that did not cost half as much. The fact that a quarter mile after the mile race, resulted in a dead heat, has not put a damper on Marco Medin's glee.

While Finlen seems to feel disappointment at the work of his high priced horse and appears to be a bit shy of another race, the friends of Medin are eager for another go. They say they are willing to back Black Tom with money. They claim the Finlenites resort to excess, and declare that Tuttle has not had sufficient training. It is noticed, however, that while there is Medin money in the air, one does not hear of any Finlen cash being where "takers" can reach it.

Finlen himself does not do much talking. The other side declares he has no talk coming. Medin is a bit jubilant, but he is too considerate to rub it into Finlen to a greater extent than by a satisfied smile, as the old partners meet. It is the Medin meters who do the "flashing."

The story above illustrates the story of the race as it is said to be modestly related by Medin.

THE SPORTS WERE TAKEN IN ON THE McGOVERN-HERRERA FIGHT.

It Now Looks as Though the "Bakersfield Wonder" Had Been "Piped" for a Fake—How the Match Was Boosted—Effect of Fake Bout on the Public.

They are a blazing mad set of sports out there in Frisco, and perhaps they have not license to be. They are sore for fair, and all because of the McGovern-Herrera fight, which so beautifully took them in Wednesday night. The things they say about the fight management, and particularly about Sam Harris, would not look well in print. Then, too, a certain few sporting writers of the coast come in for a share of the roast. The sports argue that the scribes were either in on the deal or showed a woeful lack of fight knowledge.

Aside from everything else, the sporting fraternity is satisfied that it has again been duped, and after its avowal to never again be caught napping. Not only have the sports been duped, but by the very man who handled them, the hot one in Chicago not long ago, when McGovern got that rather queer decision over Joe Gans, or, to be more accurate, scored that rather peculiar knock-out. It is no wonder the sports are sore.

It is useless to say much about the Frisco fight Wednesday night. Herrera had been boomed as a wonder. He was not. The sporting fraternity believed what was handed out, and went down on the Bakersfield boy with their coin. There was plenty of McGovern money to cover the bets. Three and a half to one against Herrera was considered good money, and when the McGovern contingent offered even money Herrera would not stay six rounds, it looked like a cinch, judging from the published reports sent out from Frisco. That was part of the game, and the game worked well as the amount of money invested will show.

Then came the fight and with it the awakening. And what a rude awakening it was. The sports saw a mere novice, as who had been "piped" as a good thing and a wonder, go up against a man who simply played with him. The sports were mad for keeps and particularly so when they saw that something had evidently been fixed. There was Terry toying with Herrera as a cat would with a mouse and apparently prolonging a battle that he could have ended in the second round at least had he seen fit.

But that was not the programme, the sports now say. They argue that as Herrera had been "plugged" it was incumbent on the management to let him make a showing no matter whether it was fixed or not. The management had to make good on its bluff. When the howl went up from the ring side everybody concerned took a tumble and the finish of Herrera followed in quick order.

Now the fight is over and the sports have again declared that never again will they be taken in. That remains to be seen however. Still there is one thing certain, that prizefighting got an awful black eye in Frisco and it is safe to say the game has been again seriously hurt universally. As Freddy Bogan expressed it last night:

"They are just killing the sport and all for the sake of a few dollars that could as easily be earned if the game was on the level. The sports will now be more leary than ever of Sam Harris and worse yet, those who have long admired and backed Terry McGovern will lose confidence in the little fellow. No wonder the public is crying against prizefighting when such affairs as that of Wednesday night are perpetrated."

DESIGNER WATSON INDIGNANT

Says Adverse Criticisms of Shamrock Are Unjust—Claims Challenger Is Fastest He Has Built.

(By Associated Press.) New York, June 1.—A dispatch from Glasgow says: Designer Watson is greatly worried by criticisms passed on his workmanship on the challenger. He told Sir Thomas Lipton he did not place any value on the result of the trial races on the European side. He built the yacht with an eye to American sailing conditions, he said, and nothing has happened to alter his judgment that she will prove the fastest challenger he ever sent across.

Captain Sycamore expresses entire agreement with this view. He says if he and Watson had been allowed their way, the challenger would have been taken across the Atlantic when she was launched, to be tuned up there, but Lipton did not want this, as his only chance of getting the king as his guest was to have the Solent trials.

They were accordingly arranged. Watson disapproved of them from the first. He blames the hurry with which the boat was fitted in order to bring them off. The accident and indifferent performances will cost Lipton another $35,000 to send Shamrock I to Sandy Hook, but expense never deterred him doing anything to assist in enabling him to lift the cup.

Won By Jimmy Michael.

(By Associated Press.) Baltimore, June 1.—A 20-mile motor-paced race was won last night by Jimmy Michael from Watson Coleman and O. V. Babcock. Time, 33:15 1-5. Coleman and Babcock rode in five-mile relays.
