A GRATIFYING INCREASE IN POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS

Report of Postmaster Irvin Is an Encouraging Index to the Prosperity of Butte—The Stream of Money Passing Through the Office Is Rising Rapidly.

As shown by the reports of Postmaster George W. Irvin for the fiscal year ending June 30, Butte is steadily increasing in population and business. Comparative statements for the two past fiscal years give 1901 must the best of it, and as the business transacted by the local postoffice is probably the best criterion by which to judge the business increase of a city, indications point to a rapidly advance in Butte.

The postal receipts of the Butte postoffice for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, shows a total of $63,148.75, while for the same time during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901, or the year just past, the total runs as high as $73,625.16, or a gain over the preceding year of 16 per cent. The heaviest gain during the year was in the quarter ending December 31, that being the holiday season. A gain over the previous year for that quarter amounted to 22 per cent. This large gain is, of course, an indicator of more money in circulation during the holiday season, and probably a greater prosperity.

The co-operative report of the registry business transacted at the Butte postoffice during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900 and 1901, show a large increase also in the latter year. For the year 1900 there were received for registry 16,491 pieces, while in 1901 a total of 17,663 pieces were taken, a gain of 7 per cent. Registered pieces received at the local office for delivery amounted during the year 1900 to 15,629, while the past year's business in this line reached 16,577 pieces, a gain of 6 per cent. The year 1900 being the year the census was taken, a larger business than usual was done at the Butte postoffice during that period. The supervisor of census was stationed at Butte, and all business connected with his department was transacted through his office. This swelled the business for that year greatly. Hence the increase in this department over the preceding year is not as great as in the other departments, where it ran from 16 to 19 per cent.

An interesting comparative statement of the money order business for the two past fiscal years has been made by Postmaster Irvin. The report shows 30,132 domestic money orders issued during the year 1900, calling for $380,315.53, while for this year 5,831 more orders were made out and delivered by the money order clerk. The increase in money taken in for these orders over last year amounted to $68,059.63. A gain in this business, therefore, amounted to 19 per cent. The fees on the money orders for the year 1900 amounted to $2,843.26, while those for the year just closed reached $3,419.36, or an increase of 16 per cent.

The international money orders issued from the Butte office for 1900 were 9,194, bringing in $185,239.01. The year 1901 saw 10,015 of these orders issued, for $204,567.73, a gain of 14 per cent. The fees on these international orders for 1900 amounted to $2,098.75, and in 1901, $2,321.34 was paid. This is a gain of 10 per cent. Certificates of deposit amounting to $584,779.75 were given during the fiscal year 1901, as against $477,082.26 for the year previous. A gain is noticed here of 20 per cent.

The disbursements of the office are more interesting and probably make as good a showing for the office as the receipts. In comparison with the latter the per cent of gain in the disbursements is much less. Domestic money orders paid in Butte during 1900 amounted to $288,918.95, while for the year just past $281,032.77 was distributed, a gain of 4.5-10 per cent. Domestic money orders repaid during 1900 amounted to $4,411.35, while the past year shows $3,836.80. International orders paid for 1900 called for $14,058.70, and for 1901 the sum of $15,310.23, or a gain of 9 per cent. International money orders repaid for 1900 called for $448.35, and during 1901 the same business amounted to $257.36.

The surplus money remitted to the postoffice department at Washington during the fiscal year 1900 amounted to $759,742.36, while that remitted during the year just past reached $943,026.81, a gain of 24 per cent.

The report shows a general gain in the business of the postoffice of 19 per cent over that done during the previous fiscal year.

DERBY DAY DRAWS BIG CROWD.

The attendance at the track today was large, the women in the majority. The weather was threatening for a few moments, finally cleared off while the track was a trifle slow. Hassolo, owned and driven by Frank Fraser, a rank outsider, carried off the first heat and race. A good start was given the horses in both heats, but at no time did Jim Dixon, owned by James McMurdie and controlled and driven by Dillon, have a show with the Fraser horse. Dixon was under the whip at the stretch, but to no advantage. The heat was paced in 2:19 2-4, and Hassolo took the next heat in 2:19. Irwin C., under the whip, took second place in this heat and divided second money with Jim Dixon. Al Mac, owned by Hayhem & Ream, had little show for place at any time. Driver Trine held the ribbons over Al Mac. In the betting Hassolo sold at 10 to 1 until the second heat, when he dropped to even money and afterwards to 3 to 5. Jim Dixon went at 7 to 10; Irwin C. at 7 to 2 and Al Mac at 5 to 2, and in the second heat the latter slid to 9 to 1.

NEWTON HAS A HARD CASE

Butte Lawyer Finds Difficulty in Erasing Black Marks Against Him—Began Wrong. The case of William Newton, the former Butte lawyer, who is seeking to be reinstated as a practicing attorney before the bar of Montana, gives promise of being a long drawn out contest, said a member of the Butte bar today. "Newton, through his attorney made application to the supreme court to be reinstated, holding that the judgment rendered against him in Silver Bow county, adjudging him guilty of larceny, was illegal and void, in that he had not been present at the time, and that he had not had a jury trial. The court a few days ago referred the subject to Assistant Attorney General Moore for investigation, and that official filed a brief in the case. "Newton was charged before a justice court in Butte with having stolen $3 from the office of the Silver Bow jail while the jailer was not looking. When the time came for his trial he was not on hand, and the justice of the peace, without having a jury summoned, adjudged him guilty, and fined him $50. Soon after his conviction he was barred from practicing his profession. "In the brief filed Mr. Moore holds, regarding Newton's contention that his rights were taken away when he was convicted without being present. Mr. Moore says the courts hold that the right of a defendant to be present in person upon his trial for a misdemeanor is a matter of personal privilege, and cites the decision of the supreme court in the case of state against Evans in support of that contention. "The assistant attorney general admits that the contention of Newton that he was entitled to a trial by jury presents a more difficult proposition. He says that although there is some question as to the power to waive the right of trial by jury in criminal proceedings the modern tendency is to apply in misdemeanor cases the same rule as obtains in civil cases. Especially since there appears to be no distinction in the codes between civil and misdemeanor cases upon that point. If the jury in this particular case had been empaneled and sworn which was not done, Mr. Moore says there is no doubt that the case should have been submitted to them. Courts of other states have held that where a party in a civil case demands a jury he waives the jury when he neglects to appear upon the day set for trial. "The modern tendency, as above stated to apply the same rules in the trial for misdemeanors as those governing in civil actions," says the assistant attorney general. "I believe that by so doing it must be held that the defendant by his failure to appear at the trial waived his former demand for a jury. The law contemplates both parties when the jury is to be selected. It is not incumbent upon the county attorney to see that a jury is properly impaneled in the absence of the defendant. "There is also a question of practice in the case and if the court should hold that the justice of the peace erred in not trying the case with a jury, this would not render the judgment void.

If it had been tried in the district court under such circumstances it would have been a case of reversible error. A void judgment is open to collateral attack, while a voidable one is not. "It must be conceded that the judgment in this case is not void," says Mr. Moore, in conclusion, "the court having jurisdiction to render it. It is, therefore, not subject to collateral attack. But, if erroneous or voidable, must be attacked directly through a proceeding instituted for that purpose. "The proceeding before the court is a collateral attack upon the judgment, and therefore must be sustained. The petitioner, before applying to have the order of disbarment vacated should first have had the judgment upon which it is based set aside by direct proceedings. Until this is done, he is not entitled to the relief he demands. He cannot impeach the judgment by a collateral attack."
