

WINS FORTUNE WITH A SILVER DOLLAR

Young Stockman From Down Miles City Way Loses His Money Through the Machinations of a Confidence Man; Then He Borrows a Single Piece of Money and Breaks a Recently Started Craps Game.

Two gamblers who came here from Seattle a few days ago and opened a craps game in the downtown district have been put out of business in a novel way.

They were operating the game such a short time that the police did not even know they were running. When the man who put them out of business began upon the job he made a clean sweep of it.

The man who broke up the game is John Saunders, a young stockman from down Miles City way. When John reached Butte he had safely planted in an inside pocket $250 in nice, pretty bills, with green paint on the back.

Truly 'twas a noble roll for the young stockman, and he must needs pull it from his pocket several times to gaze at it.

By one of those peculiar chances that happened along just then a man who makes a specialty of divorcing fools and their money.

John and this man were soon gazing at the freescoring on the saloon ceilings through glasses, and an hour or two later John could see green suns with pink trimmings sailing through the sky, and the air was full of flying street cars, drawn by huge serpents, each with six millions of red eyes, and driven by a cute little devil clothed in yellow tights and wearing a crimson silk hat.

Great Capacity for Liquor.

But the "con" man did not know Saunders' capacity for the product of the distillery, and his efforts to put the young fellow to sleep were in vain. Finally a brilliant thought struck him and he disappeared.

"Dis is me ladfriend," he said half an hour later, as he led a flashily dressed young woman up to the stockman.

John, foolish man, forgot his Nancy and the lady in a second. Would Lulu—that was the name of the "con" man's "ladfriend"—take a drink?

Why, sure she would; she just doted on sipping wine with nice men like John, and—

But, what's the use—when John woke up his head ached, he was sick and he didn't have a cent. Even the village watch "dad" had given him was gone. What would Nancy and the lady say?

For two days John walked the streets, hungry and miserable. Then he sought shelter at the home of an old friend, a man who was a farmer in North Dakota before he became a resident of Butte.

"What's that?" asked the Butte man, as Saunders whispered a word in his ear. "Lend you a dollar? Why, certainly; glad to do it," and he shoved a cartwheel into the stockman's hands.

In the Hands of a Capper.

But had luck—or good luck, as it turned out—was in store for the young man.

As he reached Park street on his way to a restaurant, he was taken in tow by a "capper" of the craps game.

Poor, deluded farmer!

Well, I guess not. Just wait and hear what John did to the aforesaid craps game before you waste any sympathy on the craps game proprietors.

Saunders is a stockman from way back, and haysed and he are not strangers, but—

Right here the scene shifts to the gambling rooms, John standing at a table on which are many piles of silver, and he has the "bones."

"Roll 'em out, farmer," cried the dealer; "roll 'em out!"

John rolled the bones, and the fact that the dealer, or gamekeeper, placed another silver dollar beside the one the farmer had laid on the table showed that the man from the plains had won.

"An' he shot a natural!" cried the dealer, as John rolled again—and four silver dollars lay in front of the farmer.

"Say, white man, you's feered to shoot it all," remarked the dealer, as John hesitated.

The only answer made by Saunders was to throw out the dice. A six and an ace showed, and with a scowl the dealer placed four more silver dollars on the pile in front of Saunders.

Nancy Not Unhappy.

Poor, deluded farmer!

Oh, yes, very much so, but Nancy and the baby don't think that. Nor do the gamblers.

Then John began to twist the tiger's tail in earnest. Every time he threw the bones, almost, he made a "natural," and when he threw a point he generally made it on the second throw.

Right and left he hit the gamblers on the line; on the 6 and 8; on the come; on the high and low, and, in fact, everywhere.

"Oh, it was terrible, to see such a slaughter."

The proprietor of the house changed dealers, switched his rabbit's foot from one pocket to the other, and did a thousand and one other things, but he could not change the luck of John, who "had 'em coming in hacks."

There were just $27 silver dollars, 'tis said, in front of the poor, foolish, deluded farmer when the dealer announced that "de game's dun gone broke, sah."

With a sigh John stowed the cartwheels away in his clothing, and faded into the street below like snow before a summer sun.

Even as the awe-stricken gamblers sat gazing at each other, wondering "who would care for Willie now," Saunders was giving a near-by restaurant the warmest time it had experienced for many a day.

"Hully gee, the guy must be hollow from his boots up," commented the proprietor of the place, as the stockman laid three silver dollars on the counter and started for a clothing store, followed by large bunches of sunshine.

If Nancy and the baby are not satisfied with what John purchased, they must be hard to suit, for he bought nearly everything the clothing merchant had in stock, and took it to the train with him.

Wise farmer; poor, foolish deluded gamblers!

delightful one. Two of the most interesting features of the afternoon were the exhibition of some rare old books, brought by Mrs. De Witt, over 70 years old, and an old picture of George Washington, by Savage, dated 1793, which was lent by Mrs. Noyes. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. John Noyes, 47 East Granite.

Tuesday evening of this week Mountain View church was the scene of one of the society events of the week, when William Lutey and Miss Louise Williams were married. Mr. Lutey is the junior member of the firm of Lutey Bros., grocers, and his bride is well known among the young people of the city. Joseph Lutey, senior member of the firm of Lutey Bros., acted as best man at the ceremony, and Miss Etta Williams gave the bride away. Rev. Mr. Henry officiated at the ceremony. The ushers were: Dr. Cowperthwaite, Earl Murphy, F. B. Brice and Alexander Penultima. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, 318 West Broadway. A large party of the friends of the bride and groom accompanied them to the depot, where they took the train for Helena. Mr. and Mrs. Lutey will return to Montana cities and return to Butte about the middle of this month.

A jolly crowd of young people surprised Earl Gilbert at his home on Utah avenue, Thursday evening. It was an apron and necktie party, and after they were passed around the fun began. All kinds of games were indulged in and some fine music, both vocal and instrumental, was enjoyed. At a late hour a dainty supper was served. Among the guests were: Misses Rhodes, Farham, Stott, Humphrey, Bowman, Goff, Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tunge, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross, Mrs. Dickey, Mrs. Huggins; Messrs. McCellan, Farham, Forsythe, Earl Gilbert and Rupert A. Gilbert.

A number of friends met at the home of Mrs. H. Weinberg on East Park street Sunday evening and spent a delightful evening. Dancing, card playing and music were enjoyed, after which a most elaborate luncheon was served. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Weinberg, Dr. and Mrs. Bernheim, Mr. and Mrs. Poltrovitch, Mr. and Mrs. Pincus, Miss Eugenia Poltrovitch, Miss Gertrude Poltrovitch; Messrs. Ed Rose, Seigel H. Weinberg, Ben Weinberg, Dr. Rinkel, M. Goldstein, M. Hilbow, Rupert Gilbert and Epstein.

One of the gay Halloween parties was a combination one held at Mr. Robert Wood's home, 108 South Crystal street, where all the games incident to that night were played with much zest and more merriment. The hostesses were: Mesdames J. R. E. Sievers, T. G. Odell, Richard Vail and Miss Ethel Wood. About 30 guests were in attendance.

Miss Anabelle Dolan celebrated Halloween by inviting her near neighbors to spend the evening playing games and having a good time at her home, 416 North Excelsior avenue. After all were tired out, a tempting repast was served. Among those present were: Mrs. Hogan and family, the Comfort boys and girls, the Gilligan family and several others.

The ball given Thursday night by the Young Ladies' institute was well attended. The patronesses were: Mesdames T. Lavell, G. Reynolds, Fred Holbrook, Finn Kelly, P. J. Brophy, J. Kennedy, T. Fletcher, J. Lynch, John W. Cotter, D. J. Hennessy, Frank O'Neill, Louis E. Largey, J. Brennan and F. Ozier.

The swell affair of next week will be the dinner to be given by Mrs. J. K. Clark for Miss Roberts and Dr. Renick on Thursday.

Mrs. W. B. Hamilton will entertain at cards next Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Galena.

Week in Anaconda.

At the Montana hotel Monday evening will occur what promises to be the swiftest event of the society season in Anaconda. It is a ball given to the ladies of the elite set to their gentlemen friends. Near 100 invitations have been issued. The reception committee appointed for the evening consists of Mesdames Cairns, Peckover, Welcome, Norbeck, Montgomery and Dorchester.

During the past week numerous informal afternoon and evenings and with the meetings of various card clubs constitutes the sole events. Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," billed for the Margaret theater soon is awaited with much expectation and will be largely attended by society people.

The Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church met last Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Leece in the Shield's block. Those present were: Mesdames Shoemaker, Black, Renken, Nell, Hill, Morse, Lumbard, Stevens, Jetty, Salisbury, Shepard, Mentrum, Young, Van Ellis, Brown, Fitzpatrick, Ball and Beason. Misses Mable Nell and Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook of Butte spent last Sunday visiting with the Danforths at 609 Locust street.

Mrs. L. G. Smith, after an absence from the city of more than six months, has returned home. She was called East last spring by what ultimately proved to be the fatal illness of her mother.

Mrs. Rene A. Curtin of Granite is visiting in the city this week.

Mrs. David Moorh and two daughters have returned from an extended Eastern trip, during which they visited the Buffalo exposition.

R. E. Worthington of Racine, Wis., was in the city a short time this week.

Mrs. Mary Manley of Boise, Idaho, visited friends in the city during the week.

T. F. Mahoney left Thursday evening for Southern Idaho on a short business trip.

Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Brown have returned from San Francisco where they were attending the Episcopal church convention.

Mrs. I. M. Rockefeller entertained a few friends at her home Thursday evening.

WATER OF CANYON

SUIT TO QUIET TITLE TO IT IS AN ACTION AT LAW.

SO DECIDES JUDGE KNOWLES

The Question Raised Some Time Ago—Further Proceedings in the Minnie Healey Case Stayed in the Federal Court.

In the United States court today Judge Knowles decided the question as to whether the suit brought by the Butte & Boston against the Montana Ore Purchasing company et al., to quiet title to a water right in Park canyon was one of law or equity, holding that it was the former.

This matter having been passed upon, he sustained the motion of the plaintiff to strike out certain portions of the defendant's answer.

Contention Between Counsel.

When the action was first commenced there was some contention between counsel for the respective sides as to whether the case was one of equity or law and it was the subject of an argument before the court.

At that time the judge was not wholly prepared to make a ruling on it, as there were some points raised which he desired to analyze; so he announced that a decision would be rendered later.

In the suit of Miles Finlen vs. John Devlin and others, an action involving a portion of the Minnie Healey mine, the judge sustained a motion to stay all proceedings pertaining to the case in the federal court pending the decision of the state supreme court in the appeal taken by the plaintiff from the action of the state court in the suit entitled Miles Finlen vs. F. A. Heinze and others, which also involves the Minnie Healey.

Taken Under Adversement.

The motion was argued in September and taken under adversement.

In the suit of John Rooney vs. the Oregon Short Line Railroad company, a demurrer to the fourth amended complaint was argued today by Attorney Willis of Dillon for the defendant and Attorney Mackel for the plaintiff, and at the conclusion of the presentation of the matter the judge overruled the demurrer.

The defendant was given 20 days in which to file an answer. The suit is one in which the plaintiff seeks to recover judgment for $25,000 for injuries sustained by her boy at the time the first section of the train bearing the Butte and other Montana soldiers who fought in the Philippine islands rolled into Butte, October 23, 1899.

FUNDS FOR THE MINING CONGRESS.

There ought not to be any hesitancy on the part of the city council to give liberally toward entertaining the Mining Congress next year. Get several thousand visitors here and let them drink Centennial beer, and most of them will want to stay. "A million glasses a day!" Somebody must like it.

SOME REASONS WHY.

That the RIO GRANDE LINES is the most popular route to the EAST is evinced by the fact that the greatest percentage of transcontinental and Pacific Coast travel use it.

WHY?

It is the only transcontinental line passing through Salt Lake City, the Modern Zion.

Its scenic attractions are unsurpassed in the world; no European trip of equal length can compare with it.

Three fast through trains daily between Ogden and Denver.

Pullman Palace and Ordinary Sleepers without charge to Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago.

Personally conducted excursions six days in the week to the east.

Its Dining Car service unequalled.

All connections made in Union depots. And many other reasons.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

At the time appointed for the meeting of the Atlas club yesterday afternoon it was so disagreeable to face the storm that the attendance was lighter than usual. The usual offering of current events was made by the members.

A communication from Mrs. T. W. Buzzo was read, asking the club to get a list of its five best papers for use by the general federation. Very little business was done, but the club decided to change from the Standard dictionary to the Webster International.

A paper by Mrs. Slater was read, "Goethe and Other Tribes Driven Out by the Huns." A discussion followed and Mrs. Gilbert, president of the club, followed in "The Danube, the Battleground of the Nations."

Every member of the auxiliary to the Eastern Star is requested to attend a meeting tonight at the residence of Mrs. J. G. Hammer on West Granite street. The meeting is called for 7 o'clock sharp. It is for the purpose of deciding on the refreshments, etc., to be given at the meeting of the Star next Wednesday.

Dr. F. A. Pillsbury of Boston is in the city for a few days, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Noyes.

One of the most recherche and dainty dinners of the week was given by F. A. Heinze at his apartments on West Broadway, Monday night. The decorations were exquisite, and the guests one and all were enthusiastic in praise of the great chrysanthemums of pure white, intermingled with smilax, which formed the keynote of the decorative scheme. The menu was elaborate and perfectly served. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. McC. White, Mr. and Mrs. John Cotter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Turner, Mrs. H. I. Wilson, Miss L. Beau, Miss Young, Miss Walker, Messrs. Carlos Warfield, Lee Mantle, John MacGinniss and Dr. O'Connor.

A pretty little dinner was given on Thursday evening for Miss Roberts and Dr. Renick by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carroll. The decorations were in white-roses and "mums." The guests were: Miss Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. W. McC. White, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Will A. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. F. Pearce. It was a most enjoyable little affair.

Lee Mantle gave a pleasant dinner last night for his friends and the friends of Miss Evans and M. Berger, who are to be married on the 8th. There was a large number of guests, and the menu and service were most elaborate.

Edwards, Garcia, Polglase, Richards, Laurie and Pierce; Messrs. Willey, Polglase, Calder, Richards, Johnson, McLeod, Trudgeon, Edwards, Angus McLeod and Dr. Hinkle.

One of the most enjoyable of the parties given on Halloween was that given by Floyd Noyes, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Noyes, at the home on Ferrer street, it being his 12th birthday. Games of all kinds were played, all Halloween games save the donkey's tail. In the latter game Miss Lina Cobban received first prize, a handsome hand-painted plate, while Fred Savage received the first prize for boys, a handsome large harmonica.

They danced and enjoyed musical selections. The young boy is a fine violinist and he played several selections, his sister Grace accompanying him. He received some very pretty gifts from his friends. The house was charmingly decorated in white "mums" and smilax.

Those present were: Grace Ashton, Mabel Johnson, Hattie Jones, Lina Cobban, Ada Whitcomb, Annie Williams, Beth Williams, Susie McElvenny, Martha Ashton, Erma Charles, Grace Noyes, Fred Savage, Archie McDonald, Eddie Hankley, Iver Williams, Charlie Scott, Ronald Cobban, Aaron Steadman, Linden McElvenny, Eddie Mahony, Frank Trainor, George Hess, Dolan Harrington, Floyd Noyes.

A unique and delightful party was given Thursday evening by Mrs. J. K. McDonald at her home on the West Side. The decorations were all novel, candlesticks of carrots, jack-o'-lanterns made of pumpkins, and all the odd Halloween conceits, excepting the floral decorations which were of yellow chrysanthemums and smilax.

The table was an exquisite piece of art, the candles of green, and a centerpiece of autumn fruits. A cake filled with charms and lighted with candles gave much enjoyment to the guests. Mrs. McDonald was assisted in receiving by Mrs. George F. Barnes, Mrs. Sam Barker, Mrs. A. T. Morgan and Mrs. O'Connor.

The evening was devoted to "apple bobbing" and many fortune telling schemes. Those present were: Misses Ruth Richards, Leila, Thea and Eliza Russell, Edith Hinkford, Allie and Annie Lowry, Pearl Hanson, Margaret Blackiston, Helen McKechnie; Messrs. Homer Rickards, Putnam John Dixon, Turner Nippen, Holland, Evans, McArthur, Gilie, John Corrette, Campbell, Johnson, Bacorn, T. Bailey Lee.

The Homer club met with Mrs. E. B. Weirick, Monday, and as is customary for the last meeting of the month, a special program was given. Roll call was answered by quotations from Dante and many gems of thought were recited.

For the next half hour current events were discussed, the time seeming all too short in which to tell of the work of the Georgia Federation of clubs, of the treatment of anarchists in South America, of the new process of etching, of the teaching of the Russian language in London, and the possibilities of solid air. There were a number of guests present and the afternoon was a most
