BEATEN BY MONTANA ANIMALS

Fred Scott, a Resident of Pittsburg, Has a Lively Experience in the Big Hole Country, Where He Is Treed by a Bull Elk and Hugged by an Ugly Bear.

After being treed by an elk up in the Big Hole country, and later on in a desperate fight with a brown bear, which endeavored to make a meal of him, Fred Scott, a resident of Pittsburg, arrived in Butte last evening, took dinner at one of the hotels, and departed on a late train for St. Paul, where he will spend several days before returning to his home.

"Oh, it's a nice country you have up in that region," remarked Mr. Scott, as he stood in the lobby of the hotel, just before train time. "I'd like to go up there and live, provided I did not care how soon it came my time to die."

"Excuse me, please, but this wild and woolly Northwest of yours is a little too good for yours truly. I can find plenty of excitement in the East, where I will remain hereafter."

Mr. Scott is connected with one of the big machinery manufacturing companies of Pittsburg, and was sent into Montana to look up business. He went into the country about two weeks ago, and says that if he had been forced to remain another two weeks he would have been "brought out in a box."

"An Undesirable Acquaintance." "I was out in the wilderness near Wisdom," said Mr. Scott, in relating his experiences, "when I ran onto a big bull elk. The animals are fairly numerous in that country, and are not half as wild as I wish they were."

"This particular elk of which I speak manifested a desire to become too well acquainted with me, and as I had no rifle I saw there was trouble in store unless I could make my escape before the elk got his hands, or rather his feet, on me."

"I was standing in an open spot in a tract of scrub pine when the brute made his appearance, and it surprised me that he showed no signs of fear. "On the contrary, the coarse black hair on his neck stood on end, and with a snort of rage he came at me."

"To say that I was scared—and badly scared at that—is putting it very mildly. I could feel the cold chills run up and down my spine, and never in my life did I so wish that I was a professional hunter, armed with a rifle that was warranted to kill anything at which it was discharged."

"As the bull charged I fled, the animal close behind me. How far I ran I will not say, but I do know that I ascended the first tree that came in my way."

"I had no time to spare, however, as the elk was close behind, and his horns even touched my clothing as I climbed out of reach. "If the weather had been very cold that animal would have captured me."

sure, for I was not heavily clad, and was without a supply of food with which to withstand a siege.

"His Cry for Help Heard." "My voice is not naturally a loud one, but I fancy I made it heard for a long distance on this occasion, for my calling brought assistance from the camp of several hunters half a mile away, and one of the men fixed Mr. Elk in short order."

"I had been in the tree for perhaps three or four hours, and when I got out I was so cramped I could hardly walk."

Mr. Scott's adventure with the bear was also near Wisdom, and several half-healed wounds on his face and hands show he had a narrow escape. While he and John Alexander, a guide, were going through the woods, the bear was started from a hollow log near a small creek.

"As the animal did not seem to be particularly savage both men thought it would be a fine thing to capture it alive."

"This they tried to do, but in a very short time they were doing their utmost to let the brute go, while the bear was doing its best to put an end to the two men."

"Bruin walked off in a stately manner when we approached," said Mr. Scott, "and we thought it would be an easy matter to capture him."

"We do not think so now, however. Just look at my hands, and also at these wounds on my face. I got those in trying to capture a Montana bear."

"Hugged By the Bear." "Before we had chased the bear 50 feet he turned and made a run at us. The guide wanted to kill him, but I was determined to get him alive, if possible, and I told him not to shoot."

"A moment later I wished I had not spoken. The bear got me in his paws and gave me the closest hugging I ever received in my life."

"For a moment I thought all my ribs were broken. After having squeezed the life half out of me the bear undertook to spoil my beauty by using his claws, and if the guide had not ended the combat with a rifle ball I'm very much afraid I would not be here now."

"Alexander says I fainted when he killed the bear, but as to that I am not a competent witness. Anyway, I felt pretty sore for several days, and am now willing to pass up all your Montana bears, likewise the elk."

"About all I have to show for my experiences is a large lot of wisdom concerning the habits of bears and elk, one bear skin and a varied assortment of scratches, ranging in length from one inch to five inches."

INDIANA MYSTIFIED

DOUBLE MURDER AT EVANSVILLE UNSOLVED.

BODIES THROWN INTO DITCH

Mrs. Georgia Riley and Miss Lena Renner Found Foully Murdered on Outskirts of City—Killed in Similar Manner.

(By Associated Press.) Evansville, Ind., Nov. 12.—The mystery of the two murders near this city remains unsolved.

The fact that both of the victims were women, that both were killed in the same manner and evidently by the same persons, adds to the mystery.

What possible motive existed for either crime no one is able to explain. Neither woman was known to have had an enemy, and nothing is known to link them in any affair likely to furnish an excuse for one man to attack both.

The body of Mrs. Georgia Riley was found near the city beside a public highway. There were finger marks on the throat. The neck was broken.

The supposition is that the woman was choked to death by some one in a buggy and then when she fell out her neck was broken. There were evidences of the body being dragged some distance and thrown into a ditch.

A mile outside the city, but in an opposite direction, the body of Miss Lena Renner was discovered by searchers. Her throat also had finger marks, showing the manner of death to be similar to that of Mrs. Riley.

John Kifer, who was seen with Miss Renner, was arrested, but proved an alibi and was released.

The similarity of these two murders to two others in this city during the last three years forms another strange incident in the case.

In April, 1899, Mrs. Mary Stork went buggy riding with a man, who took her life, and was never discovered. Mrs. Stork was a prominent young woman, and a great sensation followed her death.

In April the following year Miss Nora Kifer of Elberfeld, Ind., while visiting here, suddenly disappeared. Her body was found weighted down in a creek the following month. Joseph D. Keith, a wealthy farmer, will be hanged next Friday for the crime.

Revolt Against Castro.

(By Associated Press.) New York, Nov. 12.—The Port of Spain, Trinidad, correspondent cables: Gen. Juan Pictro has raised another revolt against President Castro's government, the rising at Carabobo. General Pictro has been joined by several distinguished Venezuelans. The resignation of Senor Velutini, the Venezuelan minister of the interior, is anticipated as the result of President Castro's reply to the Pan-American congress in reference to the difficulties between Venezuela and Colombia.

INDIANA MYSTIFIED VISITS MISS STONE

BULGARIAN CLERGYMAN ADVISES CONSUL DICKINSON.

HAS PRESENTIMENT OF EVIL

Ivan Molochoff Reports That Both Captives Are Physically Well—Mental Strain Is Terrific—Danger of Losing Mind.

(By Associated Press.) New York, Nov. 12.—Ivan Molochoff, a Bulgarian clergyman from Uscub, in Macedonia, has just arrived from visiting Miss Stone and is now in consultation with Mr. Dickinson, says a Sofia dispatch.

"Miss Stone," he said, "is in the house of Bekir Bey in the town of Ceres, Macedonia."

"I left her two days ago, coming direct to Mr. Dickinson, to try to arrange for her release. Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka are well, but the strain is terrific and there is danger that Miss Stone may lose her mind."

"To be always in the same surroundings is likely to drive her crazy; constantly looking at the same objects has semi-mesmerized her and she has had a presentiment that evil will befall her."

"The brigand chief informs me that he will now insist upon the full ransom as the length of time Miss Stone has been left on his hands leaves no margins for bargaining."

"The name of the brigand chief is Dervich Youmouise and he is an Albanian. Bekir Bey, in whose house Miss Stone is confined, is hand in glove with the brigand chief. Bekir Bey assisted the brigands by keeping Miss Stone for 30 days in the mountains before taking her to his house."

"There are about 150 Macedonians imprisoned in connection with the Stone affair by the Turkish officials. I want no personal compensation; but I want the Macedonians released."

"If the American, English and French consuls at Salonica insist upon Bekir Bey releasing Miss Stone, it will not be necessary to deal with the brigands and we can get her released without paying ransom."

Large Estate in Probate.

The widow, Mrs. Frances C. Newell, is the sole heir and is named as executrix. It is estimated that the estate will be valued at $1,500,000.

Burlington Route

An Old Story With the Burlington

Fast time is an old story with the Burlington.

For nearly 20 years, the Burlington has been the route of the Government Mail trains between Chicago and the Missouri river. These are the fastest trains in the West—veritable racers, that sweep across the continent at 60 miles an hour.

They carry no passengers. They do carry all the trans-continental mail.

By way of BUTTE, the Burlington is the short line to Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis and everywhere beyond.
