Brooklyn Board of Health Puts Stop to Tuberculosis Experiments.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 22.—Tuberculosis experiments by George B. Barney of Brooklyn, which aroused considerable indignation when he announced recently that he had inoculated a young woman with the disease, was brought to a sudden close by Dr. Robert A. Black, head of the board of health in that borough, who seized the cow on which he had founded his work.

Dr. Barney combats the theory of Dr. Koch, the eminent German medical authority, that consumption could not be communicated from a lower animal to a human being, and with that end in view he inoculated the cow with the disease and kept her in his stable to watch the progress of the disease. The cow had become very sick, and he was preparing soon to hold an autopsy on her when the agents of Dr. Black pounced upon the creature and carried her away to public pound, where it is said she will be destroyed.

COLONEL LYNCH ELECTED.

Nationalist Plurality Greater Than Had Been Expected.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 22.—A London correspondent cables concerning the Galway elections as follows:

A victory for Colonel Lynch was generally anticipated, but the plurality is greater than his supporters expected. At the general election Morris, the union candidate, won the seat from the nationalist, who by a plurality of 127, so that the result means on paper an addition to the nationalist force in parliament. Not much sympathy is expressed for Mr. Plunket, the defeated candidate in this morning's papers. His attitude in Galway was not sufficiently anti-national to secure for him the full nationalist vote.

The government may not have sufficient evidence to show that Colonel Lynch fought for the Boers, so that if he decides to disavow the testimony of his backers he may, after all, be able to act as a member of parliament.

BATTLE ROYAL OVER A COW

THE TUG OF WAR.

Acting Chief Murphy, who is in command of the day work of the force during the absence of Chief Reynolds, hunted all morning for one William Foote today. The latter is charged with taking a cow away from Poundmaster William Mahoney, and almost succeeding in an effort to take the city pound-cow along with the animal.

The trouble occurred when the poundmaster picked up a stray cow in front of Alderman Day's home, 19 North Oklahoma street. Just as the city officer was leading the cow away Foote, the owner, put in an appearance.

Mr. Foote has a family of eight children and has been out of work for some time. The taking away of the cow meant the removal of the bread and butter coming to the children, and that was something the father could not quietly submit to.

Foote remonstrated with Mr. Mahoney, and was told to mind his own business. Then began a struggle for the possession of the animal, which ended in the more powerful Foote dragging the cow by the head to his barn, while the light built poundmaster swung on behind at the tail.

The entire procession moved in the direction of the Foote home, and the only thing that prevented the poundmaster from being locked up with the impressed animal was the fact that he let go of the tail.

Mr. Mahoney asked for a warrant for Foote on the charge of interference with an officer. This was issued, but after a fruitless search for Mr. Foote the latter sent word to the police station that he would appear and apologize to the poundmaster, as he did not know the latter was an officer.

The fact of a large family and the cow as the sole provider at present was also cited, and in view of the coming apologetic salve to the wounded feelings of Poundmaster Mahoney the arrest was not made.

when he entered the room, but almost turned low. The lower sash of the one window in the room was up as far as it would go. The string on the window shade was covered with blood, as if it had been drawn through bloody fingers.

Clothing Stained With Blood.

In concluding his examination in chief, the district attorney put in evidence the undershirt found on the body of Ayres. It was stained with blood. The eight of the garment apparently affected the prisoner more than any preceding incident in the course of the trial.

Mr. Brady was excused, and Policeman Fulton Wolfe was called. He had entered the building with Officer Brady. His testimony was largely corroborative of Brady's.

The pictures of the room, he said, showed a number of articles on the floor, which were not there at the time he had seen no hairpins on the floor.
