

at dinner on Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Clark, who left this week for their new home. Covers were laid for 14.

A beautiful grouping of pink carnations and ferns adorned the center of the table, while the candles were shaded in harmonizing hues.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark, Dr. and Mrs. W. Leonard Renick, Mrs. M. L. Cunningham, Miss Florence Tuttle, George Casey and Judge Clark.

Wilcox Dinner Thursday.

Mrs. Harry W. Wilcox gave a dinner on Thursday evening, which was a very smart affair in every way. The table was charmingly decked with the reddest of carnations and Meteor roses, in the form of an oblong mound. The name cards were in red, cards in water colors, well worth framing.

The dinner was given for Mrs. Charles M. Goode of Seattle, a sister of the hostess. After dinner the guests remained to listen to musical selections and enjoy conversation.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Goode, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Green, Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan.

M. M. Club Played Hearts.

On Monday afternoon the M. M. club met with Mrs. Jerry Scoby, at her home in South Butte, it being a complimentary. Mrs. Scoby is not a member of the club, but has often acted as a substitute. Not being a member, she was not bound by the rules, so her rooms were charmingly decorated, and her menu an elaborate one.

The double parlors and hall were showered with gorgeous red "mums," a new variety sent from Seattle, with a simply unspellable name, and almost unpro-nounceable. The mantels were banked with them, and the huge mandarin Chinese jars were filled with them. They seem different from the usual mum in that they droop gracefully instead of standing stiffly erect.

The dining room was in red mums also, with a few ferns. The center of the table was filled with a bank of moss, lovely velvety green moss, starred with white narcissus and outlined with maidenhair ferns. Take it all in all, the decorations, all done by the hostess, were about the prettiest seen at a home function this year. At each cover was laid one magnificent mum, and to it was tied the dainty name card of Japanese rice straw with Geisha girls outlined in gay colors.

The menu was charmingly served, two little maids, Miss Dorothy Martin and Miss Vivian Little, acting as waitresses. They were gowned in picturesque robes of Japan, and snap shots were taken of them, but owing to the poor light were failures—"The light that failed." Bouillon in cups, oysters on the half shell, headed the menu, and on to dessert. Really an Oriental luncheon.

The first prize, a half dozen hand-painted fish plates, was won by Mrs. Sam Ulmer, a guest; the second prize, a handsome hand-painted toast plate, was, to the delight of the club, won by the hostess herself. The consolation, a fine box of bon-bons, was by unanimous vote given to the little waitresses as a tip.

In addition to the regular members there were present as guests Mrs. Jerry Scoby, Mrs. Samuel Ulmer, Mrs. Henry Martin, Mrs. David Rawson, Miss Dorothy Martin and Miss Vivian Little.

Miss Newton's Musicals.

Her musical friends were more than delighted to welcome Miss Honora Newton back to Butte, and to celebrate her return she gave one of her delightful musicals at her home on Thursday evening. As usual, encores were demanded, and accepted. The program as made out was as follows:

Violin Solo—"Timbre Danse" (Charlton), Harold M. Jessup.

Contralto Solo—"Sunshine" (Carrie Jacobs-Bond), Miss Prentice.

Mandolin duo—"Twinkling Feet" (Farley), Misses Kate and Maudie Sullivan.

Recitation—"The Dream Maiden," Frederick Selkirk.
Soprano Solo—"Hesitation" (Albert Kussner), Clay Jessup.
Contralto Solo—"The Workers" (Gounod), Miss Carol Stayne.
Soprano Solo—"Knowest Thou" (Helmann), Miss Newton.

When the program and encores were finished the company settled down to an animated discussion on musical topics, during which a dainty buffet luncheon was served.

Old Clothes Party.

A novelty in the way of evening parties was given by Miss Gertrude Evans on last evening. It was an old clothes party, and was provocative of great merriment.

At an early hour the young boys and girls arrived in such old clothes one was minded of the rhyme, "Some in rags, and some in tags," only not one of these wore velvet gowns. Old, faded bodices and skirts, many of them ragged, were worn by the girls, while the boys wore every and any old thing, down to overalls. A prize was given for the most dejected looking girl and one for the most forlorn boy.

The evening was devoted to games and guessing contests, after which a splendid supper was served. Among those present were Misses Joy Weaver, Katherine Maloney, Norah McNally, Ollie Wade, Hettie Bryant, Cordie McConnell, Lizzie Sullivan, Bridget Caskey, Nona Moore, Katie O'Leary, Messrs. Tom Caskey, James Maloney, Jack Bryant, Tim Bryant, Peter Moore, Ned Thring, Will Clark, Bob Evans, Harry Wright and Robert Fitzgerald.

Her Fourth Natal Day.

Dainty Baby Laurel Small was four years old Tuesday and she had such a happy day at the home of her parents on South Main street. First she received, oh so many gifts, dolls, doll cradles, doll carriages and rockers for dollies and her wee self, and such a pretty chain and locket and a ring set with turquoise and pearls.

She invited several little friends in to help eat the birthday cake, and play games and revel in bon-bons, all of which they did with a will. The feast was served in the prettily decorated dining room.

Her guests were: Bebe Baroteau, Flossie Llewellyn, Nona McGregor, Katie McLellan, Baby Rogers, Cate Cunningham, Lucy McConnell, Bertie West, Harry Tate, Willard Tenny, Dicky West and Arthur Holabird. Not one being over four years of age.

The Kismet Club Played Euchre.

A second meeting of the newly formed euchre card club proved just as delightful as the first, the club meeting last Monday with Mrs. Sol Buckles, 837 West Broadway, at 2 o'clock. To insure punctuality the club voted the first meeting to fine every dilatory member 10 cents. One member was late on Monday and paid her little dime with good grace.

A name had to be chosen and the club debated long and earnestly as there are so many card clubs in Butte the peculiarly applicable names have all been employed. Finally a man, just an ordinary everyday man, who was in the house and was magnanimously allowed to remain, not to play, oh dear no, just to go from table to table and punch tallies—suggested the name "Kismet." His suggestion was eagerly adopted and Kismet it is and a happy fate indeed to be a member.

It seemed a curious coincidence the way the prizes were won. Mrs. J. W. Gunn won the first prize, a handsome cut glass olive dish; and she won the first prize last time. At the last meeting Mrs. Reinhardt and Mrs. Buckles were tied for second prize and in cutting, the hostess, Mrs. Reinhardt, won it. At this week's meeting the two ladies tied again for second and on cutting, the hostess Mrs. Buckles won. So honors are easy. It was a dainty pale green olive dish, painted with pale pink blossoms.

After the games were finished the tables were covered with exquisitely embroidered dollies and refreshments were served. Those present were: Mesdames D. J. Reinhardt, D. A. Dickson, P. Mullins, C. V. Fulton, Ignatius Donnelly, Arthur H. White, Frederick Squires, Sol Buckles, T. A. Grigg, Hugh C. Laugh-

Mrs. A. T. Morgan, who left Sunday for California to remain two months.

THE giddy manner in which people are plunging into the social vortex this week will certainly bring the inevitable aftermath of headaches and bromo-seltzer next week, or perhaps Dame Nature will be kind and wait until after the 12th to repair the ravages of over-play.

A number of novel parties have been given this week, as well as the usual stereotyped dance, dinner and luncheon affairs. And really the West Side will have to look to its laurels for the South, East and North Sides are forging ahead with all manner of gay, novel functions.

Already society is looking forward to devising all manner of nice, quiet little affairs at home, just with their families, and they are not going to give just quiet little teas and dinners. In the East they are going to go in for crystal gazing, such a nice, soulful, quiet way of doing time. It is a nice game, but a la solitaire.

First, you catch your hare, or in other words, purchase your crystal balls, and none are absolutely safe but the ones you get from the psychical research people. Then, one by one, people go into a room alone; you sit down with your back to the light and place the ball of fate on a dark cloth in your lap, or even a dark dress will do. You must exclude reflections—even the one that you are making a fool of yourself—then you think hard of any old thing and stare at the ball, not less than five minutes. If you are psychic you will see things—if not, you'll probably say things.

It is claimed you will see pictures of real persons and things, and real scenes will be reproduced. Things happening miles away. Here is a chance to find out the real status of the copper market. At any rate, several people claimed to be its aid. And great scientific people have been able to corner several things really believe wonderful things by its aid. And great scientific people really believe wonderful things of the crystal, a spherical ball of solid glass two inches in diameter.

It is said that from now on until the 12th, Ash Wednesday, society will do nothing but frivol and frolic, and a number of brilliant functions are already scheduled, several for the same night, and also for the same day, but what will you? There is only a week and a half left.

Mrs. C. W. Clark's Dance.

Mrs. Charles Walker Clark complimented the members of the O. W. L. S. club on Monday night by giving at her home on West Broadway a charming dancing party.

American Beauty roses were used in the decorative scheme exclusively, being placed in hugh vases throughout the receiving rooms. Bergstrom's orchestra furnished the music for the merry dances. An elaborate buffet supper was served at midnight.

lin, J. W. Gunn and Miss May Reinhardt. The club will meet with Mrs. Ignatius Donnelly next Monday, provided the plumbers have by that time completed their task of mending the leaking pipes which they started last Monday. If they have not the club will meet with Mrs. D. A. Dickson; the hostesses being selected by means of alphabetical rotation.

A Gay Surprise Party.
A gay surprise party visited Miss Gusie Knapp on Monday evening at her home in Meaderville, an old-fashioned surprise with no particular motive in view but a good time. The crowd met at the home of Miss Hope Earnest on East Park street and proceeded via the cars to the Knapp home.

While totally unexpected all were made heartily welcome. Several of the surprisers took with them guitars, banjos and mandolins, so that some most acceptable musical selections were given, afterwards the players taking turns in furnishing two-steps and waltzes for the others to dance by. The impromptu dancing was enjoyed.

Games were also played, travel and guessing games principally. Then at a late hour the good things to eat were taken from the baskets and hugh pots of hot coffee added, the dining room presenting a lively scene. They stayed, enjoying the dainties for a long time, just leaving in time to catch the last car.

In the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Dent Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eggert, Misses Kate Sullivan, Daisy Varst, Jessie White, Emma Twombly, Hattie Riggs, Laura Elvers, Florence Payne; Messrs. Will White, Frank Sullivan, Jed Prentice, Norman Orcutt, Varvey Grant, Archibald Baintree, P. L. O'Connell, James Caskey, Ned Tuarney, Larry Warren and Fisk Smith.

Reached His Majority.

It was a memorable day for Charles M. Dickson yesterday, for he not only reached his majority in time to vote at a lightful party in the evening by his parents and sisters. He was inveigled away from home to visit friends in the afternoon, and kept there by a clever pretext. In his absence the parlor was charmingly decorated in red, the sitting room the next election, but was given a delectable pink and the dining room in red and green. When he returned home at 8 o'clock he found a merry bevy of young folks waiting to welcome him. He was the pleased recipient of many gifts, one from his father of a bank book showing a substantial deposit made for him; from his mother diamond sleeve links and pin; from his sister Mercy, a sole leather dress suit case, and from his sister Rosabelle a complete set of ebony toilet articles with his monogram in silver.

The evening was devoted to games, music and a general happy time. At 11 o'clock adjourned to the dining room, where the long tables awaited them. At each corner was a name card, bearing the sign of the Zodiac, belonging to that person. The date of birth of each one had been ascertained in advance. Each one had to explain all in his or she could of their sign, and if it had in any way affected their lives as it should according to Zodiacal lore.

The menu was elaborate and perfectly served. The health of the son of the house was given as a toast by Miss Ennis, and the response was as appropriate as the toast. A number of toasts were given and responded to, Miss Ennis acting as toastmaster most acceptably. It was late before the jolly troop disbanded. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dickson, Captain and Mrs. Gun-nison Dickson, Misses Mercy, Rosabelle and Dimple Dickson, Charles M. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harwood, Misses Ennis, Hamden, Jessie McNeivins, Tessa Peters, Claire Baroteau, Maud and Edith Milner, Ella Smith, Lulu Oliver, Sanders, Kennie Slade, Messrs. Archie Hamden, Rod Lund, Jack McKenna, Teddie Parker, Ralph Geiger, John Wright, George Bennett, Roach, Kerr, Reid and A. W. Jones.

Delightful Charade Party.

One of the most charming and successful affairs of the week was the charade party given on Tuesday evening by the Y. L. I. at their hall. Mirth and jollity reigned supreme, and the charades were simply "out of sight," as many remarked. Much of the success was due to Mrs. Ignatius Donnelly, who is in her element when planning new and novel entertainments, and then carrying them through to successful completion.

Two fine prizes were given for the best guessers, for ladies a handsome lace handkerchief, and for gentlemen a pretty yellow silk laundry bag for soiled hankies.

Among the most difficult to guess was when a girl came on the stage holding a small infant, walking up and down with anxious countenance. Then another woman came in with a lighted candle and closely inspected the baby, holding the candle right in its (rag) face. The answer to this was "Light infantry."

"Incumbent" was carried out by a bevy of girls, who came in all bent over, incum-bent. Another was seven girls right after this one, all very erect. This was "Seven Up." Hennessy's firm was represented in two acts. First an old woman telling about her setting hen—Henn. The second showed a girl with defective eyesight conferring with an oculist and exclaiming, "I see"—Henn-I-see. Lutey's was represented by a girl who was called Lou, and in the second scene by a tea-drinking scene—Lou-ta.

"Bedress" was another good one. A slovenly dressed young lady came on the stage, and it soon developed from her mother's chidings that she was about to wed Count Heine. Finally, she was ashamed and left the stage, returning redressed in gorgeous up-to-date garb. And so the evening passed quickly, guessing the charades, until all were guessed and the prizes won. Then dancing was commenced and enjoyed.

The parties of the Y. L. I. are all enjoyable, and on the 11th they will bid farewell to the mundane pleasures with a basket social, which will be about the best thing they have yet given.

A Schlitz Schnapps Party.

An enjoyable party was given on Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Webber at their home on the Wallerville road. The evening was devoted to music, zither and guitar and piano selections. Herr Errol Schmidt of San Francisco gave several selections from Heine and Goethe in fine style, and Miss Metta Schmidt also recited, singing and reciting all being in the German tongue.

At a late hour a bountiful supper was served, consisting of weiner wursts, sauerkraut and many other German delicacies. The collection of handsome steins, owned by the host and hostess, were also of excellent service. It was long after midnight when the health of

Mrs. F. E. Haskins, Past Noble Grand Degree of Honor.
