AT MINING SCHOOL

NIGHT CLASS WILL BEGIN WORK THIS EVENING.

FORTY-FIVE PUPILS ASSURED

Mathematics, Chemistry and Mineralogy to be Taught Six Nights in the Week—Much Interest Shown in Work.

The night classes recently established at the Butte School of Mines will begin work tonight. The sessions will be held every week night and there will be three classes. The study nights and the instructors are as follows: Mathematics: Professors C. H. Bowman, Monday and Thursdays. Chemistry: Professor W. G. King, Tuesdays and Saturdays. Mineralogy: Professor A. N. Winchell, Wednesdays and Fridays. It was intended at first to have four classes, but the necessary pupils could not be obtained. There were only nine applicants for the mining course, and the minimum number of scholars necessary to start a class being 10, this course was not started. There were only five applicants for algebra and four for calculus, and those studies were given up also.

How the Students Will Study. The three studies to be given are, as will be seen above, chemistry, mathematics and mineralogy, and there are 45 scholars enrolled in the classes. Twenty-seven pupils will take chemistry. It will take mineralogy, 15 will take mathematics, seven will take mathematics and chemistry, one will take mathematics and mineralogy, and seven will take chemistry and mineralogy.

The classes will open each evening at 8 o'clock, and the tutoring will be by lectures and quizzes, one evening being given up to lectures and the next to quizzes. The day and night semester will end on June 6.

The day semester opened two weeks ago, with 60 scholars, 10 more than last term. The night school opens with very gratifying prospects and the interest taken in the night classes by the public is very pleasing to the president, faculty and trustees of the school.

These Are the Pupils. The pupils and the studies they will pursue are as follows:

- Mathematics: D. L. Twomey, Z. B. Robbins, C. F. Joslyn, James R. Spencer, Garfield B. Perier, N. A. Hewitt, James Persons, Carl Engelbach, Neil McLeod, Harry Krogh, A. B. Clark, Walter G. Kelley, E. N. Grenier, A. F. Woods, C. M. Hesse—15.
- Chemistry: C. M. Trask, C. P. Joslyn, E. C. Vigeon, Gerald Roman, Clarence Bien, John Logan, James Gillie, Arthur Richie, Albert Cousins, N. A. Hewitt, William C. Fenlon, E. A. McPherson, E. S. Shields, E. R. Edgerton, James Persons, W. V. Brothers, H. R. Stevens, C. V. Robbins, D. L. Twomey, H. N. Merwin, Neil McLeod, Lloyd G. Gage, E. M. Grenier, Frank Malsland, L. H. Burgess, James Barker, C. M. Hesse—27.
- Mineralogy: E. C. Trask, E. C. Vigeon, James Spencer, C. A. McPherson, J. D. Tolman, A. K. McDaniels, C. F. Longley, H. R. Stevens, H. J. Williams, V. C. Cooney, H. A. Gibbs, Garfield B. Perier, Marvin Poindexter, Lloyd G. Gage, L. H. Burgess, James Barker, J. F. Davies—17.

Two Causes for Two Attempts at Suicide by Women.

Because Sadie Bryant had quarreled with her sweetheart she tried to commit suicide Saturday night. Because May Smith's lover had died she also tried the morphine route. Both women will recover.

The Bryant woman used carbolic acid, but the stuff burned so she didn't take enough to kill her. May Smith had so much whisky in her when she took morphine that the effects of the drug were counteracted and gave the doctors an opportunity to work successfully. Sadie Bryant swallowed the acid in room 36 in the Williams' block, No. 116 West Galena street. May Smith absorbed the morphine at No. 12 East Mercury street.

The Obedient Man.

(Los Angeles Herald.) The Eminent Oculist shook his head. "It is too complicated and too serious for me," he said. "The Eye is Twisted and Strained beyond all Hope of Repair. How did you get it into such dreadful shape?" "Well," responded the Suffering Citizen, "I always try to Obey every bit of good Advice I get. I was coming down town when I saw a sign that advised me to keep my Eye on Steenth street. I tried it, but the car turned so often and I came so far that I am afraid the Strain has been too much."

One of the Two Was Truthful.

(Los Angeles Herald.) The clerk had filled down about seventeen bales of dress goods for the deliberate looker-on, and when she said she really must hurry home as soon as she could buy some hair ribbon for her little girl, as she didn't have time to look at any more dress goods, there was a trace of irony in the voice of the wearied salesman as he said: "No trouble to show goods." "Why, no," responded the good lady, sympathetically, "I haven't minded it a bit."

Constipation

When your food does not digest properly, the bowels become clogged and the liver inactive. The poisons and impurities that should be carried off are thus allowed to accumulate, causing nausea, sick headache, indigestion, dyspepsia and biliousness. The best medicine to cure constipation and prevent these diseases is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Try a bottle and be convinced.

MAX SARGENT OF BUTTE CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

TAKEN BACK TO BOISE SUNDAY

Charged With Misappropriating the Money of Boise Transfer Company—Declares He Was a Member of the Firm.

A former well known Butte resident named R. Max Sargent is charged with embezzling $500 in Boise, Idaho, and Under Sheriff Robinson of that place took him through Butte yesterday on the way back from Boise to Missoula, where he was arrested. Sargent is charged with appropriating the money from the Boise Transfer company.

Sargent lived in Butte about five years ago. He declared that he cannot be convicted of the charge against him. But he does not deny that he took a large sum of money. His ground for the belief that he cannot be convicted is that he was a partner in the transfer firm and committed no crime in using the proceeds of the business.

Was Unable to Raise Money.

Sargent was connected with the Pacific Express company in this city and he had a first class reputation while here. His story of the Boise trouble is that he used some of the funds of the transfer concern that he had collected, and that he paid most of it back and promised to pay back the rest if given time. He set out to do that, but a demand was made upon him that he pay the $500 within five days and he was threatened with prosecution if he did not do so.

It was impossible for him to meet the demand, so he departed from Boise secretly. He was found at Missoula after the authorities had made a search for him. He went back to Boise willingly. He insists that if he had been given a reasonable opportunity he would have paid back every cent due the firm.

It is said that Sargent spent money recklessly at Boise and lived a fast life.

FEW PLEAD GUILTY

JUDGE BOYLE HAS ARRAY OF INNOCENTS BEFORE HIM.

ASSAULTS, ROBBERIES, DRUNKS

They Make Up the Monday Morning Melange of Police Court Cases Which Earn Policemen's Salaries.

"I'll tell you how 'twas" said Jim Burns to Judge Boyle this morning as he pleaded not guilty of fighting and disturbance. "You see I—"

"You can tell us about it tomorrow," interrupted the Judge. "I'll set your trial for that date."

Burns was arrested by Officer McNally yesterday after being accused by John Thompson of robbing the latter of a meal ticket, pocket knife and about $8 in cash in a South Main street saloon. Just as Johnson was telling his troubles to the policeman, Burns came up and assaulted him in the presence of the officer.

After Burns had gone back and sat down he reconsidered his plea of not guilty and asked the court to change it to guilty, which was done and a $10 fine imposed.

Threatened His Wife.

A. J. Nash, who was arrested yesterday at room 11 Dakota block on a charge of disturbance referred by his wife, pleaded not guilty and will be tried tomorrow. Nash is accused of being boisterous and threatening to do things to his wife in the pugilistic line.

Al Davis, an undersized lad, was arraigned before Judge Boyle on a charge of having thrown bricks at a Chinaman named Lie Quin. The boy said he never did it, but will have a chance to prove his innocence tomorrow afternoon.

Albert McDonald and Kate Cussie were the star drunks of the morning session. Both pleaded guilty and got the usual $5 fine.

Gertrude Williams managed to finish her toilet down stairs in the jail and put the final steps in on a fancy dance she was executing in time to get into court and plead not guilty to the charge preferred against her and Annie Larue of stealing $95 from a railroad man who gave the name of "John Doe" so that his wife wouldn't know the company he kept. They pleaded not guilty as Judge Boyle sternly gazed in their direction.

"Thought you said you couldn't get your hand in a gunny sack, Annie," remarked the Judge to the Rarue woman who had recently talked herself out of jail.

"Why I can't, fudge. Dat feller didn't have no money."

"All right, Annie, well send you back to jail until Friday unless you can give bonds."

Nancy Hanks was feeling indisposed this morning and sent word to the Judge that she would like to be excused from attending the morning session where so many men would be. Nancy is in this time on a charge of robbing Joseph McCabe of a watch valued at $50. She was given 24 hours in which to enter a plea.

Jack Ayers was up again for vagrancy and pleaded not guilty to living off the earnings of a woman. He will be tried tomorrow afternoon.

Burt Lehr, who made such a strong fight against the charge of vagrancy and association with bad women, notified the Judge this morning that he wouldn't take an appeal. Lehr surrendered himself and had the bond withdrawn. He was turned over to Jailer Levy to serve out the $35 fine imposed.

The Printers' Ball happens Tuesday, February 11. Don't forget it. At Renshaw hall.

BY A FALLING WALL

TWO MINERS ALMOST INSTANTLY KILLED.

CONROY AND WILLIAMS VICTIMS

Mass of Earth and Rock Completely Buried Williams and Conroy—Die Ten Minutes After Being Rescued.

Jeremiah J. Conroy and Richard Williams were almost instantly killed yesterday in the Diamond mine by being crushed under a mass of falling earth and rock, which composed a sidewalk on the thirteenth floor of the 1700-foot level. Michael D. O'Connor and Jno. J. Lowney, who were on the floor above, had narrow escapes.

Williams was completely buried by the mass, while Conroy was thrown to one side and rendered unconscious by a piece of rock striking his head. Conroy was dug out within the space of a few minutes, but died 19 minutes later. Williams was so completely buried that it took six men several hours to dig out his body. Conroy lived in Centerville and Williams in Walkerville. The remains of both were removed to Duggan's undertaking rooms. Neither man was married.

Coroner Johnson viewed the remains and then set the inquest for 7 o'clock this evening at Duggan's.

Conroy's brother has been notified, and if permission can be secured from the coroner the funeral will take place this afternoon. If not, services will be held tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

The body of Williams will be shipped to Brockton, Colo., for burial. Deputy Mine Inspector Barry visited the mine and will make a report to the coroner tonight.

TRICKS OF TRADE

BUTTER AND EGG PEDDLERS ARE GROWING RICH.

THEIR PROFIT IS VERY GOOD

Buy Store Butter, Work It Over and Sell It as the Ranch Product at an Increased Price.

"There are tricks in all trades," said a well-known rancher today; "but the butter and egg trick in Butte at present is taking the cake."

"What do I mean? Simply this: That people in Butte are paying 50 cents a dozen for what they think are ranch eggs and are getting store eggs, which cost only 25 and 30 cents per dozen; they are paying 40 cents per pound for what they suppose is ranch butter fresh from the churn, and can buy the same butter in the stores for 25 and 30 cents."

"I have 60 leghorn chickens at my ranch, and for years up to the recent cold snap I had been getting about two dozen eggs every day from them, but since the cold weather set in I have not been getting more than half a dozen per day."

"Leghorns are the best layers in the chicken family, too. I receive 50 cents per dozen for all of my eggs, and have no trouble in selling all I can get."

"There are others, however, who sell 'ranch' eggs, and they do not seem to have any trouble in supplying their customers with the fresh brand."

Buy From the Stores.

"That is easy. They simply buy their eggs at some store and make a profit of from 20 to 25 cents per dozen. I sell all of my eggs at first-class restaurants, and the proprietors of those places know a fresh egg from one that has been in cold storage a few months. Many sellers of bogus eggs dispose of their goods at saloons, where they are used in making decoctions."

"After they are bought at the stores they are submitted to what is called the 'candle process'; that is, each one is held before the light of a candle, and if it is bad, its contents has a dark color. At this season of the year there are not many bad ones, but there are many that are not fresh."

"As to the butter business, there are ranchers in this vicinity who sell hundreds of pounds per week in Butte, and they do not make enough of the real brand to supply their own table. Some of them have only one cow and some have none at all, but they live on ranches in order to give their trade a more respectable appearance. They go to the city stores, buy the butter for 25 and 30 cents a pound, take it to their ranches and work it over, moulding it into cakes of different shape and then adding their brand to it."

"If a city customer tells one of them his butter does not taste right he squares himself by saying the hired man used hot water in the churn in order to make the butter form quicker."

"Some of those who are working the butter and egg game are acquiring wealth rapidly at the expense of a trusting public."

NEW YORK CLAIMS MAN WHO MADE LOUISIANA PURCHASE.

WAS ROBERT R. LIVINGSTON

Says That Thomas Jefferson Was Opposed to the Deal, Claiming That It Could Not Be Consummated.

(By Associated Press.)

St. Louis, Feb. 10.—In the house of representatives the other day the members were discussing the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The frequent references to the great work of President Jefferson in making the Louisiana purchase finally roused Representative D. S. Alexander of New York to make a protest against placing this fine piece of diplomatic engineering to the credit of the Virginian. It belonged to New York, he said, and he intended to see that his state got the credit of it.

He predicted that before the exposition was over there would be so much discussion of this matter that history would place the credit where it belonged, and give it to New York.

Livingston Did It.

"This exposition," declared the New York congressman, "will bring into view the magnificent work of a magnificent New Yorker, Robert R. Livingston, the ambassador to Paris at the time the purchase was made."

"The proposition was made by Napoleon or his minister to Mr. Livingston, who at once grasped at the chance of making the purchase. When he reported it to Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Jefferson replied that we had no constitutional authority to make that purchase."

"Mr. Livingston, however, completed it, and then, while President Jefferson was sending out words to his friends in the United States that it was beyond our constitutional power to make the purchase and that they should look askance upon the proposition, Robert R. Livingston sent a confidential note to the president stating that unless the purchase was ratified at once Napoleon would change his mind."

Man Behind the Throne.

"And then, President Jefferson wrote to his many friends in the senate saying, 'Say nothing about the constitutionality of the purchase, but confirm the treaty.' That is the story that will be brought out in golden letters, from the Golden Gate to Maine, that this country may see that the man behind the throne, the man with the nerve and the power to make that purchase, was not Thomas Jefferson, the strict constructionist of the Constitution, but that it was Robert Livingston, one of the greatest and most noted of New York's famous statesmen." Mr. Alexander added that he did not wish to take from Jefferson's laurels, "but," he said, "I believe that the time has come when all America should recognize the fact that the man to whom we owe the honor and the debt and the gratitude of making that purchase was Robert R.
