SUPREME COURT DEVOTES THE DAY TO EULOGY OF JUDGE DE WITT

(Special to Inter Mountain.)
Helena, Feb. 18.—This was the day set apart by the supreme court to hear resolutions concerning the death of Judge W. H. DeWitt. There were two sets of resolutions offered. For the Montana Bar association, Judge Henry C. Smith of the district court read the following:

William Hedges DeWitt died at his home, in the city of Butte, on the 18th day of January, 1902.

The members of the Montana State Bar association join with all other citizens in the general sorrow caused by his death. Judge DeWitt was an associate justice of the supreme court for the first seven years of Montana's statehood.

His life and labors are a part of the history of the state. He left behind him the respect and esteem of all with whom he had been associated during his residence here of 22 years. He was a just, learned and patient judge, and no court ever had a member whose judicial career was purer than that of Judge DeWitt.

His opinions in legal questions were always received with the greatest respect and consideration by his brethren of the profession of the law. He had firmness and courage, and in the discharge of his judicial duties he was absolutely fearless of consequences.

At the bar his demeanor towards his brother lawyers was so uniformly kind, courteous and considerate that he was regarded with affection by all who knew him there. His conduct in the trial of causes was a model for all young lawyers to copy. It endeared him to his associates and brought him success in his chosen profession.

His private life was singularly pure. He had a pure mind. He hated deceit and fraud in whatever station of life or whatever grade discovered. His whole career was honorable, and his son has an imperishable inheritance in the good name his father has left. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Montana State Bar association tenders to Judge DeWitt's widow and son the most sincere and heartfelt sympathy of its members in the great sorrow that has come into their lives, and as a mark thereof a copy of these resolutions shall be sent to them.

And, Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the supreme court of the state of Montana with a request that the same may be spread upon the minutes of the court.

Judge Henry N. Blake, as chairman of the committee appointed by the court, then read the following memorial:

William Hedges DeWitt was born March 16, 1853, in the state of New York. He was graduated at Hamilton college in 1875, and at the law school of Columbia university in 1878.

He was admitted to the bar for the territory of Montana in 1871 and opened a law office in Butte in 1881.

He was appointed in March, 1883, United States attorney for the district of Montana, and discharged the duties of the office for the period of two years. He was elected in 1884 county attorney of the county of Silver Bow and re-elected in 1888.

He was elected by the people in 1889 an associate justice of this court, and served from the 8th day of November, 1899, until the 4th day of January, 1897, when he retired voluntarily from his judicial trust and resumed the practice of his profession.

Resolved, That on the death of William Hedges DeWitt, the state has lost an upright and patriotic citizen, who labored zealously for her interests, an erudite scholar who reflected high honor upon the college of which he was a pupil, and the members of this bar have been deprived of a learned and eminent brother, who practiced law without fear or reproach.

Resolved, That William Hedges DeWitt, as an official representative of the territory of Montana and the United States, was faithful, diligent and indefatigable in the performance of his public tasks; his opinions delivered in this forum, as the organ of this tribunal, were characterized by a luminous style and a profound knowledge of legal principles and a determination to protect the rights of all; his views in discussing perplexing problems concerning the mining laws of the United States were maintained with great ability and are followed as precedents by courts and text writers; and his demeanor as an official lawyer to all who were associated with him in their manifold relations upon every occasion were marked by respect, courtesy and forbearance.

Resolved, That with the assurance that we mourn with those who mourn, the clerk of the court be directed to transcribe a copy of this memorial and these resolutions to the family of the deceased.

REPORT CLAIM ADVERSELY.

Finance Committee Turns Down Salary Bill of Suspended Policemen.

The finance committee of the city council met yesterday afternoon and passed on the city bills.

One of the bunch of claims presented was the joint request of Michael McGlynn, John Conlon and Emanuel Parini for salaries as policemen for the month of January.

The report of the committee is to the effect that the claims be not allowed. It is expected that the reading of the report in the council meeting tomorrow night will be the signal for another discussion by the aldermanic supporters of the suspended policemen.

MOST COMPLETE.

In the World Is This New Hospital in the Metropolis. (Harper's Weekly.)

The new lying-in hospital, in the midst of a crowded city, is almost half of glass; it is full of sunlight and all the health-bearing qualities of the sun. It is run entirely by electricity generated by its own plant.

The air that enters the building is first sterilized of germs and then forced into the rooms, while the air already used is extracted by other forced draughts. No electric light in the building can shine in a patient's eyes. It is thrown upward on the ceilings, which diffuse it by means of a white, luminous paint. There is not a corner in the building where dust may gather or germ find resting place, for all angles are rounded.

The beds, the baths, the chairs, are all of iron or glass; the floors are of lignolith—a composition of concrete and sawdust—that, while clean and hard, deadens the sound of footsteps. The septic, or contagious ward, is isolated, so that no one can leave it from another part of the building without passing out of doors.

On the top of the hospital is a sun parlor with glass walls and roof, with palms and plants, where a recovering patient may go on a winter day without moving from her bed if necessary, and lie in the sunlight among trees as if she were in the open country of Florida.

There are porcelain bath tubs on wheels. The simple white iron beds may be moved anywhere in the building. The electric ambulance is a small hospital in itself. In fact, it would be impossible to give any idea of the details. But the great importance of its practical usefulness, is the epoch which it marks in hospital construction and the lesson it gives to all the cities of this country.

If Chicago or San Francisco, New Orleans or St. Paul, contains a man or a society that purposes building another hospital, the best and the most modern model is at hand in New York City.

No European structure compares with it, for they have all been studied by the doctors and architects, and the best ideas they could offer have been adopted.

Wed Her Mother's Former Husband.

(Chicago Inter Ocean.)
A strange romance in the lives of James H. Nichols and his wife Amanda has just been made known. Thirty-five years ago the two were married. After living together three years his wife left Nichols because of his alleged mistreatment of her. Being discouraged, and feeling that reconciliation with her was impossible, Nichols went West and located in the mining regions of California to begin life anew. Several years later his wife saw his name in a list of killed in a mining accident in California.

Believing Nichols dead, and having met another man with whom she fell in love, she was again married. Her second husband was Richard Vancouver, a wealthy manufacturer. A daughter was born to them. Twenty-five years passed away and this daughter had grown to womanhood. Mr. Vancouver had a brother living in Los Angeles, Cal., and having some important business to attend to there he went to Los Angeles, his daughter accompanying him. After looking into his business interests Vancouver returned, leaving his daughter Sarah to visit with her uncle during the winter.

Just before Christmas Sarah became acquainted with James H. Nichols, her mother's former husband, who had become a wealthy mine owner. The two fell in love and were married, neither knowing of the peculiar circumstances attached to the wedding until a few years later.

When Mrs. Nichols' parents went to visit at their daughter's home the girl's mother and her husband recognized each other.

BARON DECONSTANT'S PLANS.

He Thinks Frenchmen Should Get Here The Finishing Touches of Their Education.

(New York Tribune.)

The Baron d'Estourmelles de Constant of France, one of the delegates to the international peace conference at The Hague, who reached New York on Tuesday, leaves tomorrow for Washington, where he hopes to be able to pay his respects to the president. After his Washington trip he will go to Chicago, where he has been invited to deliver an address on Washington's birthday. He will then return to New York, and may give an address here on the results and meaning of The Hague conference, which, he says, was an epoch-making event. The baron has brought his son, 18 years old, with him.

"I have brought my son with me," the baron said at the Waldorf last night, "because I think that the time has come when no Frenchman's education is complete until he has made a trip to America."

"There was a time when you sent your young men to Europe, to France, for a finishing touch to their education. I hope that you will still do so. But the time has surely arrived when all Frenchmen need to come to this country for their finishing touches. I would like to see a lot of young people from America come each year, not to Paris alone, but to every part of France, to learn new ideas. And I also want to see large numbers of the young men of my land, and older men, too, spend three or four years in America."

"I want them to return to France with new and keener ideas, to tell their countrymen how much behind the times they are in some things. I am not one of those who are pessimistic about the future of France, but there is much that she can learn from America."

"I shall, when I have returned, organize some movement looking toward sending bright men to this country who can return to France and tell in stirring language what they have seen. Moreover, such an interchange of young men would be the best possible way to create better feeling and understanding between the two great nations. I shall speak of this matter at Chicago."

Coal Mine On Fire.

Brazil, Ind., Feb. 18.—Miners have been forced to leave the Tenant companies' mines at Turner, two miles west of here, on account of the intense heat caused by the burning coal more than a hundred feet underneath the ground. It is reported that the mine will have to be flooded and abandoned.

TEAMSTERS' UNION

WAR BETWEEN HELENA LAUNDRIES AND DRIVERS.

REFUSE TO DELIVER COAL

Seems to Be Quite a Difference of Opinion But the Laundries Are Not Getting Any Fuel Just the Same.

(Special to Inter Mountain.)

Helena, Feb. 18.—A war is on between the Helena laundries and the teamsters' union, as a result of which the union held a meeting and declared that none of its members could hereafter haul coal to either of the laundries.

The cause for this action, as alleged in the union meeting, is that the proprietors of the two laundries refused to allow their drivers to join the teamsters' union, and threatened to discharge any and all of their employees who joined a laundry employees' union.

I. S. Moulthrop, proprietor of the Broadway Steam laundry, and Mr. Beck, proprietor of a similar institution on Rodney street, both flatly deny that they have taken any such stand. They declare they have no objection to their employees joining the unions if they want to. "They wanted me to pay their initiation fees and dues, and this I refused to do," said Mr. Moulthrop; "and I insist that they shall do what I tell them to do, and not what the union says."

Mr. Beck declares that he is paying better than union wages, but that he does not propose to have any one tell him how to run his business.

The coal dealers were yesterday notified of the action of the union, and they informed Messrs. Beck and Moulthrop that they would sell them all the coal they wanted, but could not deliver it.

THE MARKETS.

WALL STREET MARKET.

Several Large Transactions and Considerable Profit Taking.

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Feb. 18.—The opening tendency of the market was slightly irregular, but the majority of prominent stocks showed some small gains.

Large buying orders appeared in Sugar and some of the Southern stocks, which continued to advance the general market. There were some large transactions in Southern Pacific, advancing it to 67 1/2 and inducing purchases of other stocks. Amalgamated Copper recovered to yesterday's close and yielded again. Metropolitan was also under pressure.

Many stocks seldom active were bid up strongly, affording a chance for profit-taking in the leaders. Of the latter Sugar was most affected, and yielded 1/4 after advancing a point. Towards noon there were some improvements in the active stocks, under the leadership of the Readings, which were heavily bought.

The notable advance included 21 points in Consolidated Coal of Maryland, 6 1/2 in American Shift and 6 in Lackawanna. A drop to below 70 in Amalgamated Copper unsettled the market before noon. The decline in Amalgamated Copper reached 1 1/2 and carried Sugar and Metropolitan Street Railway to the lowest.

A rise of a point in Chicago & Alton and Rock Island had very little effect on the market.

Music—Or the Fatal Mistake.

(Brooklyn Times.)
Two young ladies passionately fond of music in its varied forms met on the street and got to talking on the favorite subject.
"How is it," says one, "that musicians are all so homely? I saw Kubelik the other night, and, while he may be a genius with the violin, he is certainly homely of visage. Men of talent, especially in music, allow their hair to grow long like a woman's and usually wear a ruff, a wig, or a pompadour about their faces. Can you account for it?"
"No, I cannot," was the response, and after a few seconds' pause the following unintentional sockdolager:
"Oh, by the way, how are you getting on with your musical study; some day I expect to see your name in large type on the bills and to hear that you have become a great artist!"
She is still wondering why her friend went off in such a huff.

No Gnashing for Her.

(Argonaut.)
After preaching a sermon on the fate of the wicked, an English clergyman met an old woman, well known for her gossiping propensities, and he said:
"I hope my sermon has borne fruit. You heard what I said about the place where there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth?"
"Well, as to that," answered the dame, "I 'as anythink to say, it be this: 'Let them gnash teeth as has 'em—I ain't!"

He Wanted Their Photographs.

(New York Tribune.)
Cornell university has its fair quota of barum-scarum youths, who, after pyrotechnic careers, suddenly disappear from the university's ken. A wasteful genius was recently hauled before the faculty to answer charges of such violent fractures of discipline that even in his most optimistic moments he had not hoped to explain or disprove them satisfactorily. However, he faced the music, and even stood with a considerable degree of composure while proof after proof of misconduct was presented. Finally when the evidence was all in and the hush fell on the assembly that precedes sentence, the prodigal raised his downcast eyes, and, in a voice of emotion, said:
"I have only one last request to make."
"And what is that?" asked the presiding officer.
"That you will all give me your photographs to remember you by."
