

STOLE TO GET ALL THE NEWS

NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY SAYS HE WANTED TO READ THE PAPERS.

JUDGE BOYLE BLUFFED AT LECTURING THE LAD

How Jessie Thomas Entertained Bartender William French When the Latter Called to Collect a Bill for Twenty-five Cents—News of the Police Court Boiled Down.

It was a pitiable looking array of offenders that faced Judge Boyle in police court this morning. A woman, meagerly clad, with disheveled hair and an indifferent expression, charged with fighting; a boy, homeless, ragged and tanned, and an odd number of men charged with drunk and disturbance.

Nervously fingering his cap, sat a 9-year-old boy, who, when called up by the judge, said his name was Willie Reese.

"Step this way," said Judge Boyle. The little fellow, with a frightened expression on his face and tears in his eyes, pressed forward and faced the court.

"You have been stealing papers in front of residences, have you?" asked the judge.

"Yes, sir. I stole one this morning, as I wanted to see what was new about the walkout."

"Well, my lad," said the judge, trying to assume a harsh look. "I will let you go this time if you promise never to steal again; but if you ever show up here again you will go to the reform school. You may go this time."

Without waiting further, the little fellow scampered out of the courtroom and ran down the alley the nearest way to his home on Wyoming street.

William Grosh admitted that he had been drunk, and his appearance corroborated the statement. He informed the court that there would be no trouble in paying the fine if the court made it reasonable.

"Well, do you think than you can pay $5?" asked the judge.

"In a minute, if you will let me out to get it," said Grosh. An officer accompanied him, and before court adjourned the fine was paid and the man who is fond of brew was discharged.

Jessie Thomas, a woman from the red-light district, was a sorrowful looking sight when arraigned. She and William French, a bartender in a Mercury street saloon, had a fight early this morning. French claimed that he went to her place to collect a bill of 25 cents and the woman assaulted him. Both cases were set for 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

George Hughes, who looked as though he had a bad night, entered a plea of guilty to being drunk and was fined $10. It was also charged against him that he assaulted his mother, who lives at 513 South Wyoming street. To this charge the young man pleaded not guilty. He will be tried tomorrow afternoon.

Frank Hickey and John Burnett, charged with assault and battery, pleaded not guilty and will be given an opportunity to explain at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

CALLAHAN-DRISCOLL WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Anna Driscoll and Cornelius Patrick Callahan, which was solemnized yesterday afternoon at St. Patrick's church, was a brilliant affair.

The church interior looked beautiful in its Easter garb and as the party moved down the aisle to the peal of the organ it was a pretty sight. During the solemnization of the ceremony by Father DeSiere the organ played, "O Promise Me."

The bride was attended by Miss Ella Driscoll. James T. Finlen was best man.

At the conclusion of the service the party assembled at the home of the bride's parents in Walkerville, where an elegant wedding supper was served.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, carnations, asparagus and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Callahan left over the Oregon Short Line for Salt Lake, Denver and Kansas City, and will be absent some weeks.

JERRY WANTED CHICKEN SOUP

Because Jerry Quinlan complained that he had ordered chicken soup and had been given beef soup instead, Samuel Duffy, the cook at the Keystone hotel, at 601 East Park street, became angered and later gave vent to his wrath by firing two shots at the complaining boarder.

Quinlan swore out a warrant for Duffy's arrest yesterday afternoon and the case will be aired before Justice Arnold.

CITY COUNCIL SNOBS MAYOR

BELLIGERENT ALDERMEN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE ABSENCE OF DAVEY SUPPORTERS.

ADOPT RESOLUTION TO PAY POLICEMEN

Acting Mayor Tom Bryant Stands to the Mayor's Guns But His Ruling Is Outvoted—Veto Expected to Kill the Bill—Charges Against Detective Murphy Read and Referred.

Mayor Davey's action in suspending Policeman Emanuel Parini was not approved by the council last night, but was referred to the police committee for investigation. It is likely that the police committee will, before reporting the matter back to the council, call for the specific charges upon which the suspension of the policeman was based and a general investigation had.

A resolution introduced by Alderman Logan providing for the drawing of warrants for the payment of Policemen John Conlon, Michael McGlynn and Emanuel Parini, $200 for services rendered the city during the month of January and February, was adopted by a two-thirds vote after an appeal from the ruling of Acting Mayor Bryant, who declared the resolution out of order, had been taken.

The resolution was adopted in the face of the opinion of the city attorney that the procedure was illegal, irregular and that the council would be acting without authority if it passed it.

Mayor Won't Sign It. There is no likelihood of Acting Mayor Bryant signing the resolution and in the event that Mayor Davey vetoes it, which may be presumed that he will, the friends of the policemen in the council will have to muster up another two-thirds vote. As there were four absentees last night, all friends of the mayor in the matter, there may be some difficulty in adopting the resolution over the veto.

The appeal from the ruling of the chair, the resolution introduced by Alderman Duggan having been declared out of order, was sustained by the following vote:

Ayes—Bryant, Mayo, Manchester, Stebbins—4. Noes—Congdon, Day, Dempsey, Duggan, Evans, Gleason, Kelly, O'Brien—8. The resolution was adopted by the same vote.

Presumably expecting that there would be some discussion upon the charges preferred against Detective J. J. Murphy by M. J. Edward, a large number of citizens were present and there was a general exodus after the clerk had read the charges and the matter was referred to the committee on police without comment.

One Act Is Indorsed. The action of the mayor in appointing T. J. Sullivan as city physician was unanimously indorsed by the council.

Embodied in the report of the committee on judiciary was a suggestion that a resolution be introduced in the council providing that certain restrictions be placed upon the houses of ill repute in the redlight district. In referring to the matter the judiciary committee said:

"We have had under consideration the communication of J. R. Creighton in reference to certain houses of ill fame at the corner of Mercury and Wyoming streets, and recommend that said communication be received and placed on file, and in this connection, we recommend that the city council pass a resolution, which resolution shall set forth and require that, within a reasonable time, what is known as the redlight district shall contain buildings only of such character as to insure that all inmates thereof shall be hidden from public view, and that the boundaries of said district shall not be further extended."

Upon motion of Alderman Duggan the report of the committee was adopted.

Boundaries Are Fixed. At this juncture there was a little dialogue between Alderman Congdon and Chief of Police Reynolds in regard to the houses facing on Wyoming street which resulted in the chief of police and the city attorney being instructed to take steps to drive the women from Wyoming street.

The law requiring that the annual appropriation be passed before the municipal election, the bill passed last night under suspension of rules. The salaries for the various officials for the ensuing year were fixed as before. The appropriations to the various funds are as follows:

Salary fund $42,000, street and alley $50,000, police $70,000, fire and water $70,000, engineering $5,000, emergency $5,000, health $10,000, interest $25,000, public improvement $20,000, light $25,000.

Cronin Gets Assistant. The mayor was empowered to hire a clerk at a salary of $100 a month to assist the employment agent.

The printing bids were referred without reading to the printing committee. A contract for two new sprinklers was awarded to the Beebe Grain company.

The following substitutions in the list of judges of election were made: Fourth ward, A. S. Hauswirth for W. A. Darch; C. D. White for D. P. O'Connor; Seventh ward, Harvey Muldoon for John Doran; First ward, George H. Lewis for William Oliver.

A petition from Conrad Kohrs, W. A. Clark and others, for a rebate of taxes on property in Gold Hill claim was referred to the judiciary committee.

The art department of the Woman's club asked for the use of the Auditorium free of charge for an art exhibit some time this month. The request was granted.

John Cummings was found on the Anaconda road yesterday morning bruised, bloody and unconscious. Who his assailant was is a mystery as Cummings is unable to tell of the affair. He was taken to St. James' hospital, where he lies in a serious condition.

DANGEROUS, NOT DEADLY. Myriads of Microbes That Lurk in Certain Breads.

(New York Tribune.) There was a breathless silence when Dr. Carolyn Geisel, in her lecture at No. 213 West Fifty-ninth street, announced that in a single grain of flour found in the heart of a loaf of salt rising bread there were one hundred million germs, and in a grain of flour found in a loaf of yeast bread one hundred and seven million germs.

The tension was somewhat relieved when she added that the germs were not disease producing, because the stomach has a factory of its own for the production of a germ destroyer. To a frivolous question as to whether she had counted the germs, she explained that that was the work of the microscopist, who estimated from the products of small sections.

Baking powders and soda and cream tartar for raising breads were roundly and soundly condemned. The combination of an alkali as it exists in the common bread, biscuit, gem or muffin raised with soda or cream tartar or with baking powder, and the gastric juice precipitates Rochelle salts, said Dr. Geisel. A teaspoonful of baking powder or soda used to raise two quarts of flour, will precipitate 165 grains of Rochelle salts, which is a larger quantity than is found in Sedlitz powder.

The excessive use of alkali in breads has the same effects upon the system as the excessive use of Rochelle salts, making a deposit in the skin which is known as liver macule, or the familiar "brown liver spots." If carried to very great excess, colorless spots also appear upon the skin. People thus affected may often be cured by a diet of apples, eating as many as possible of the fruit and making one meal of the day entirely of them.

The baking powder discussion led to a tangle of theology and cookery, when one of the audience asked why, if alkalis were not made to eat, they were put here at all. To this the lecturer replied that the question involving the presence of evil in all its suits is for theologians, not physicians. It is certain, she added, that there are a great many things not intended for human consumption that man is foolishly eating. A great part of the nervousness which has given rise in certain foreign quarters to the term of "Americanitis" could be done away with if wives and mothers showed more care in the choice and preparation of the foods that they put upon their tables.

GIRLS STUDY JOURNALISM. College Students Given Newspaper Instruction and Publish Paper. (Columbia, Mo., Cor. St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

A school of journalism for women, believed to be the first school of the kind in the United States, has been established here in connection with Christian college. It purposes teaching newspaper work as a professional field for women.

The originator and instructor in this new Missouri educational institution is Dr. W. T. Moore, who has had experience both as an editor and an educator. He established a class in journalism at Christian college a number of years ago, and from this has grown his school for fitting women for newspaper work.

The newspaper class has 16 members, and Dr. Moore is confident that these will find journalism as much within woman's sphere as anything else they could enter in a professional way. He does not believe there is any department of a great newspaper to which women could not apply much aptitude, for their interests are quite as keen and extend to even as many subjects as do those of men.

Dr. Moore does not seek to throw upon the journalistic world a lot of incompetents, but impresses his pupils with the necessity for winning their own way to success. What he teaches is the manner in which a newspaper is made, the motives governing its management, the field it offers for persons of many different talents and trainings and the stress laid upon the fresh and the new. In the beginning Dr. Moore lectures upon the history of journalism. Then follows a study of the various branches into which modern journalism is divided. Leading dailies, weeklies and monthlies are taken into the classroom and considered in their strong and weak points, and the particulars in which they appeal to different classes of readers. The business side of a newspaper is considered with quite as much attention to detail as is given the editorial and reportorial work.

When the newspaper class has developed sufficiently it is permitted to get up a paper. It is a paper without type, but it is none the less regular in its make-up and in the care with which it is prepared.

The class of the present year named its publication the Rag-Time Gazette, and the Gazette has grown to be an eight-page sheet, all hand-written. The class in journalism has so succeeded since it was established that it is now to be made a regular part of the curriculum of Christian college.
