

ing of enjoyment followed, Bergstrom's orchestra furnishing the music.

The hall was handsomely decorated. The ceiling was decorated with flags, which came down the walls nearly to the floor. The orchestra was stationed behind a screen of evergreen trees, and evergreen was used in decorating the hall.

The floor committee was composed of Messrs. H. D. Blair, Ray Smith, W. E. Dufresne, J. A. Poor and B. C. Kerr.

Nearly $200 was cleared, and if the promoters had been more selfish and decorated less lavishly they would have made more; but the effect was charming, and a ball undecorated for a swell dance is a poor thing.

The young ladies who made the affair the success it was: Misses Gertrude Pierce, Agatha Richards, Anna Voss, Kate McLeod, May Barrett, Margie Garcia and Margaret Van DeWalker. H. D. Blair ably assisted them.

All in Their New Uniforms.

A feature of the ball given last Monday evening by the Montana Circle, Women of Woodcraft, was the drill by the guards, dressed in their new uniforms of white. They were made in Greek style, with choix of the colors of the order—red and green—on the breast, and were very becoming.

The guards, composed of Mrs. Leonard Erick, captain; Mesdames Angevine Wright, Molly Moor, Clara Aldred, Mattie Willis, Lottie Bishop, Catherine Morrison, Leparl Womax, Violet Gilbert, Sarah Spencer, Anna Redmond, Helen Carmody, Mary E. Dolan, Ida Haskins, Mary Jane Boyle, Lizzie Pro-to and Miss May Becker, did some beautiful and intricate drilling. After the drill they led the grand march, and during the evening had charge of the lemonade booth. Bergstrom's orchestra furnished the music.

The committees who made it the grand success it was consisted of Mesdames Violet Gilbert, Johanna Grigg, Maggie Geehan and Ada Buckles, printing committee; Mesdames Alice Steele, L. N. A. Erick, R. Morrison and M. J. Boyle, committee on arrangements; Mesdames Edith Owen, Emma Harolds, Henriette Eddy, refreshment committee; Mesdames Lizzie Foster, Jennie Duffy and May Hope.

There was a very large attendance, but all outsiders—only nine of the Women of the World being present. This proves that the members of Montana Circle have established a reputation for being good entertainers.

Children's April Fool Party.

Marys Hawkins celebrated her sixth birthday on Wednesday, April Fool Day, and the little guests who helped her had a merry time. They played "fool games" and other games and had a general good time at the Hawkins' home on First avenue. Then they had a fine birthday supper and carried home slices of the birthday cake in pretty boxes.

The little ones present were: Debe Barotau, Claire Weston, Josie Maynard, Vera Hawkins, Maysie Hawkins, Willie Eaton, Frank McLeod, Robbie McLeod, Horace McWilliams, Bertie Stevens, Fanny Smith and Clyde Smith.

A Charming Easter Morning.

Easter Sunday, at South noon, Miss Gladys Williamson of high noon, Miss Gladys Williamson of high noon, gave a charming breakfast at her home on South Washington street. The decorations were of Easter lilies and tulips in white and yellow. These filled a huge punchbowl in the center of the table, and at each cover was a favor of the flowers. The name cards were Easter eggs, exquisitely painted in water colors. The menu was suited to Easter morning in every detail.

The guests were: Misses Alwyn, Joyce Alwyn, Nettie Howard, Edris Kline, Hettie Payne, Kate Sullivan, Babe Curtin, Nona McLever, Laurel Priest, Mae Marshall and Lucille Hunter.

A. B. C. Whist Club.

The A. B. C. Whist club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. M. Reynolds and delightfully passed several hours. Mrs. Sennen of Marysville substituted for Mrs. Lamb, who is out of the city.

The first prize, a handsome chocolate pot, was won by Mrs. Sennen; the second, a pretty chop plate, went to Mrs. Reynolds, while a pretty chocolate cup and saucer was a consolation to Mrs. Frank Talbott. The usual luncheon was served.

In attendance were: Mesdames Sennen, Stanley Willis, J. H. Gilbert, Ed Wright, N. Moor, Al Corbett, Hopkins, Sam Bishop, Hoey, J. M. Reynolds and Frank Talbott.

A Delightful Geography Party.

Miss Mabel Enwright gave a novel party at her home in Walkerville last Wednesday evening, in celebration of her 17th birthday. Just as many guests were invited as there are letters in the alphabet, 26, and a merry evening they had.

The Enwright home was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies, tulips and narcissus, in yellow and white, intermingled with smilax and ferns. Soon after the guests arrived a cut glass bowl holding 26 eggs was handed to each guest, and in turn all chose one.

On inspection they were found to be hollow and in each one was a letter of the alphabet.

The game was then explained. The girls and boys were seated in a long line and told they were in a class, head and foot. The game was played in rhyme.

For instance the leader with letter A commenced: "The king of Geog. his face in a frown, Set out to search for more renown; And first he went to Cambridge town." The one with the letter C as soon as he hears Cambridge town must have a rhyme ready. The one Wednesday night replied: "At Cambridge he was seen a day And now to Lowell's gone away."

The L holder replied: "At Lowell he was seen a day, But now to Brooklyn's gone away."

Thus it went from letter to letter. If anyone forgot their letter and failed to respond they had to go to the foot and work up again. Thus all moved up a seat and changed letters. No end of fun was created, for many and curious were the rhymes evolved by the juveniles.

Prizes were given for the best rhymes. Miss Myra Fields secured the first prize, a set of two handsome books of travel. George Miles received the second, a book of travels, while the third, a Seaton Thompson book, went to Birdie Hubbard. The consolation, a miniature compass, was awarded to Will Mason.

After the geography game music, both vocal and instrumental, was enjoyed, and at 11 o'clock the guests cakedwalked to the dining room. One long table and a short one made a letter L, and both were handsomely decorated. In the center of each was a floral globe, the waters represented by green moss and the land by red blossoms, the General Grant Geraniums. At each cover was souvenir bouquets of red carnations and smilax. The menu was pleasing and beautiful. It was after midnight when the guests departed.

The Nonpariel Whist Club.

The Nonpariel Whist club met with Mrs. E. C. Hollingsworth at her home, 625 South Montana street, on Thursday. A delightful afternoon was spent. Mrs. W. W. Scott won the first prize, a beautiful sugar and creamer; Mrs. E. C. Hollingsworth, second, a handsome salad dish. Mrs. Hermine Hanson won the booby prize, a dainty little china plate. After the conclusion of the game a tempting lunch was served. Those present were: Mesdames M. E. Williams, E. C. Hollingsworth, K. R. Winscott, May W. Gillett, J. F. Estey, E. Stinson, W. R. Williams, E. E. Hoskins, R. May, H. L. Ayers, W. W. Scott and Herman Hanson. The club will meet with Mrs. F. E. Hoskins next Thursday, 507 South Main street.

Wood Kensington Party.

Mrs. Robert Wood gave a delightful Kensington party at her home in Crystal street on Thursday afternoon, and entertained a dozen or more of her friends in a happy manner, each bringing her work and passing the afternoon in social chat with music interspersed. Tempting refreshments were served during the afternoon. In attendance were: Mrs. Ed. Passmore, Mrs. Charles Passmore, Mrs. Slevors, Miss Wagoner, Mrs. Wood, Miss Wood, Mrs. Charles Paine, Miss Phoebe Vail, Mrs. Clinton Clark, Mrs. Richard Vail, Mrs. Charles Vail, Mrs. Ella Knowles Haskell, Miss Burke and Miss Ryan.

Informal Euchre Party.

Among the many enjoyable informals given during the week was the progressive euchre party given on Thursday evening by Mrs. Rupert Mickalls, at her home in North Excelsior avenue. After the games were finished the prizes were awarded. Mrs. Chas. Vail winning first prize and Miss Vail the lone hand. Dainty refreshments were served on the card tables after the games were finished. The guests were: Mrs. Chas. Vail, Miss Vail, Mrs. D. Dickson, Mrs. Reinhardt, Mrs. Cutting, Miss Fosselman, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Yancey, Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Coffin.

In Purple and White.

A pretty Easter dinner was given last Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Cummings at their new home in Walkerville. The decorations were all in purple and white, or rather white with a few touches of purple, the flowers used being violets and lilies of the valley.

These were massed in the center of the table in star shape, the white outlined with the violets. At each cover was a favor of the violets.

The menu was a truly Easter one. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donnelly, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mason, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Cummings, Miss Edna Thompson and Mr. Edgar.

Easter Dinner for Mrs. John Mitchell.

Mrs. John Mitchell of Great Falls was the guest of honor at an informal dinner given for her Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell at their home on East Park street. The decorations were of the customary

MRS. CORNELIUS PATRICK CALLAHAN.

One of the prettiest and most elaborate weddings ever solemnized in Butte was that of Miss Anna Driscoll and Cornelius Patrick Callahan on Wednesday evening. So large was the list of guests, over four hundred, attending the reception that no list was preserved.

The marriage took place in St. Patrick's church which was charmingly decorated in white and green, Easter lilies and smilax, palms and carnations. The altar was beautiful, the chancel rail curtained with southern smilax and the entire front covered with carnations, smilax and palms.

The bride was attended by Miss Ella Driscoll as maid of honor and her bridesmaids were Miss Mammie Driscoll and Miss Alice Langlois. The ring bearer, John Driscoll, carried the golden circlet upon a white satin cushion ornamented with rare lace and a cluster of lilies of the valley. The groom was attended by James T. Finlen, and the ushers were John Corrette, James White, James Rowe and Max O'Brien.

As the bridal party entered the church the organist softly played the bridal chords from Lohengrin, during the ceremony, "Oh, Promise Me," and when the service was concluded Mendelssohn's wedding march was played.

The bride, who is a stately beauty, wore a gown of white liberty chiffon over white taffeta silk, the skirt was en traine, accented pleated with panels of Irish lace inset lengthwise with ruffles of accordion pleated ruffles, edged with jube ribbons. The bodice was made of the accordion pleated chiffon over taffeta with a bolero of the Irish point lace. Her hair was worn high and covered with a veil of white moeline fastened with a star of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley tied with white satin ribbon and tulle.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were dressed alike in picturesque gowns of sea green crepe de chine fluffed with accordion pleated ruffles of chiffon, with yokes of sea green chiffon hand-embroidered. They wore picture hats of white chiffon with white satin trimmings and all carried bouquets of brides roses. Anything prettier than the three young girls it would be hard to imagine.

yellow and white, spring flowers being used in shower bouquets.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George T. Vasey, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Baker, and Mrs. John Mitchell.

An Informal Affair.

Monday evening Mrs. Darwin Euston of Centerville entertained at dinner informally, the party afterwards attend-

Miss Maggie Driscoll wore a girlish gown of white silk mull trimmed in lace, while Mrs. Driscoll was in black peau de sole and wore a black hat to match at the church.

The officiating priest was Father De Siere. Immediately after the ceremony was over the bridal party returned to the Driscoll home where a wedding dinner was served. In addition to the bridal party present the guests were: Father De Siere, M. Callahan of Anaconda, and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Brophy. The table was artistically decorated. From the electroliter streamers of white tulle fell to the table; one was caught around a silver candelabra in a huge bow, the others falling to the basket of bride roses and spirea which rested in the center of the table upon a green center piece. The electroliters were wreathed in asparagus ferns and smilax. The candelabra at the other end of the table was decorated with green ribbons trailing to the center where they were united with the green tulle satin ribbons which were tied to the handle of the basket centerpiece, with clusters of bride roses.

In the parlors the same decorative scheme was followed out in a profusion of white flowers and clouds of white tulle. Palms were effectively disposed in all the rooms, while the archway between the dining room and parlors was curtained with a veil of tulle over-run with smilax and caught with true lovers' knots. The mantle was surmounted with a cut glass epergne holding white carnations; one side of the mantle was draped with tulle and ferns, the other holding a large flower bowl of flowers. The piano was decorated in a similar manner.

For hours the residence was filled with guests bidden to the reception. The magnificent presents were the center of admiration at times and comprised everything in the way of cut glass, china, silverware, bric-a-brac, pictures and linens.

Mr. and Mrs. Callahan left Thursday morning for the East, where they will remain a month or more. Mrs. Callahan wore a dainty traveling gown of blue hop sacking trimmed with stitched bands of black taffeta. Her hat was of blue, trimmed with velvet and quills.

ing the performance at the Broadway theater.

In the party were: Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Euston and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor.

Kismet's Complimentary Afternoon.

A complimentary was given the Kismet club on Monday afternoon by Miss Dorothy Supernant at her home, No. 17 West Granite street, as she had often substituted for absent members. Miss Supernant will act as substitute for Mrs. Cheely while the latter is away on a visit to the East.

The tally cards were cute little pen and ink sketches done by the clever hand of the hostess—not black alone, but all colors. A guest table was used, Mrs. J. M. Kennedy, Mrs. W. Walsh, Mrs. George Porter and Mrs. C. C. Reuger being the guests.

The prizes were a departure from cut glass and china. The first prize was a beautiful silk pillow, with pink silk ruffles embroidered in orchids of lavender. This was won by Mrs. W. W. Cheely. The second prize was a handsome centerpiece worked in red roses. This went to Mrs. Walsh. The third was a dainty water color, framed in black. Mrs. P. Mullins and Mrs. David Reinhardt cut for this, the former winning. The consolation—a pretty wedgewood plaque—went to Mrs. Pope.

After the game was over refreshments were served, and over these the guests lingered until a late hour.

The club will meet next Monday afternoon with Mrs. P. Mullins, who has lately moved into the Vivian house, corner of West Broadway and Excelsior avenue.

A Handsome Easter Dinner.

Sunday evening a handsome dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Henderson at their home on Colorado street, South Butte.

The decorations were all in white and yellow—white lilies and yellow narcissus. These were massed in a scroll-shaped centerpiece. At each cover was a favor of the flowers. The name-cards were dainty water colors of yellow and white "mums" and spring flowers.

The menu, both elaborate and beautifully served, was enjoyed by Mr. and

LAST Sunday was supposed to usher in the gentle, balmy spring, and really there has been a regular "spring feeling in the air" at intervals during the past week. The dress parade which generally marks the release from restraint known as Easter, was not a marked success, so few saw fit to don the robes of gayety and the hats of Paris. Perhaps that was because it came so much earlier this year; but many were the comments and many the reasons advanced therefor.

It really was funny, even in church, to see the women come in; if they were resplendent in new finery they p-cocked up the aisle pretty well to the front, with a rustle of silk which attracted everyone's eyes. If they had on their winter hats, or worse yet, one of last year's vintage, they side-stepped in with a meek and lowly air quite in keeping with the edifice, but sadly out of place on Easter day with the average woman. At any rate Easter has come, the prayer rugs can be dusted and put away until next Lent comes around. And what a consolation it will be to the hatless now when later on they bloom forth like the spring, tra la la, and view with complacency the erstwhile gorgeous trappings of the Easter-glad, weather-beaten and marked with the smoke and wind storms of joyous Butte.

Linens for Dust and Smoke.

Speaking of the dust and smoke heartfelt are the rejoicings of the Butte women that fashion has decreed that linen, not white, but linen and pongee and kindred materials shall be more fashionable than the white muslins, piques and other materials which are simply eyesores in Butte after once wearing. It won't come any cheaper, for the lavish use of hand embroidered and appliques will cost more than the frequent laundries, but the favored fabrics "won't show dirt."

The talked-of tenuous jingle of wedding bells has not materialized to any great extent and after this week they will not be "Easter brides," just common everyday brides, unless they wait to be June brides.

The usual question of whether to leave Butte or stay here during the summer has already commenced to agitate people. Some contend that the summer is the time to stay in Butte as it is the pleasantest time of the year—and there will be the racing meet. But the large majority declare that in winter it is bestly anywhere as far as weather goes and that no where on earth is there more social gayety going on than in Butte in the winter. But in summer, they know that there are green hills and meadows, flowers, birds and all that makes life beautiful, obtainable without going to the expensive South. Right in Montana are some of the garden spots of the earth—and they want to garden a bit. So that next month will see an exodus, in fact it will commence this month. In the meantime society is getting ready to have a gay time.

Spicy Gossip Goes the Rounds.

This week has been rather quiet for Easter week, but next week promises another awakening. Speaking of awakenings—the awakening of the fiancée of a certain young man here and the consequent rending of Cupid's once slicked bonds is proving a spicy bit of gossip.

And now there is a chance for the other one—and by the way, by whose hand was the anonymous letter penned? Someone who had a deep interest in the game of love, surely. If haste is made the pretty tressour can still be utilized.

For Mr. and Mrs. Root.

F. A. Heinze contributed to the charming social affairs of the week by giving at his apartments a handsome dinner Wednesday evening, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Root, who are guests in the city. The beautifully-appointed table was adorned with a massive arrangement of American Beauty roses, which held a central place upon the table. It goes without saying that the menu was perfect and charmingly served. At the table were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Root, Miss Mabel Cotter, Miss Grace Cullen, Miss Hattie Young, Mr. Robinson of New York, George Clark, Harry Cotter, H. O. Wilson and Mr. Heinze.

Haviland Theater Party and Supper.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Haviland gave a delightful theater party Monday evening at the Broadway, occupying a box, where they enjoyed the play, "When Reuben Comes to Town." After the play an elegant supper was served at the Haviland home. The table was beautifully trimmed with scarlet carnations, while the silver candlesticks were covered with scarlet shades. Large satin bows of the same shade completed the decorations. A sumptuous supper was served. The guests were: Dr. and Mrs. Hansen, Miss Hansen and Arthur Mueller.

The Wilson Luncheon Monday.

Mrs. H. I. Wilson gave a beautiful dinner at the Butte Tuesday evening. Covers were laid for 10. A low basket was filled with snowy spirea and mingled with foliage, which was placed in the center of the table. An elaborate menu was served. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George H. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Cotter, Mr. Heinze, Miss Marks, George Clark, E. L. Whitmore, and Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Wilson.

Hamilton Ping-Pong Party.

W. B. Hamilton gave a very merry ping-pong party Wednesday evening at her charming home on the West Side in honor of Miss Helen McKechnie, who will leave soon for her home in Toronto.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and carnations, while a veritable forest of palms were arranged about the rooms with artistic effect. In the basement, which was converted into a bower of greenery, the ping-pong table was fitted out, and here the players found untold amusement in trying to master the game. After some time was spent in the game a delicious hot supper was served in the dining room and full justice granted. In attendance were: Miss McKechnie, Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook, Dr. and Mrs. Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. Crimmon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Root, Mr. and Mrs. William Mellon, Mr. and Mrs. Cotter, Misses Hattie and Cora Sanders, Madge Marks, Eleanor Horgan, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Wilson, Messrs. Will and Ed Horgan, Mrs. Laurence Harris, Percy Bell, Mr. Mangam, Dr. Hall and A. K. Ervin.

For Mrs. Chapman.

Wednesday Mrs. B. C. Hastings entertained very delightfully at an afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. Chapman, who will leave in a few days for the coast. The afternoon was spent in music by Mrs. Henry and Miss Wakeman, and as each lady took her fancy work, a general social time was enjoyed. A delicious supper was served. There were present Mesdames Chapman, Livingston, A. H. Henry, Wakeman, Skinner, M. P. Sipple, J. D. Slemmons and Miss Wakeman.

Ervin Theater Party and Supper.

Monday evening, at the Broadway, A. K. Ervin gave an enjoyable theater party. Afterwards the party enjoyed a supper at the Thornton. The guests were: Dr. and Mrs. Crimmon, Dr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, and Miss Helen McKechnie.

Hosts of Pretty Girls Danced.

All the pretty stenographers of Butte and their "bestest" attended the ball given by the stenographers at Renshaw hall Wednesday night. Some handsome evening gowns were worn. The hall was crowded at an early hour, and an even-
