Judge Boyle has the case of Harvey Holmes, the colored dictator of the "bad lands," charged with receiving stolen money, under advisement. It is charged that Holmes accepted $250 from Josie Woods which is alleged to have been stolen from Paul Legar sometime ago. James O'Reilly was arrested last night on the charge of petit larceny. He is accused of stealing a bundle of laundry from a wagon on South Main street last evening. O'Reilly will plead tomorrow morning.

SAM NIXON TESTIFIES ABOUT THAT FAMOUS NIXON HOUSE

In the trial of the suit brought by Mrs. Celestia Nixon against S. M. Davidson and others, to recover title to a house and lot at 118 East Granite street, worth about $15,000, Sam L. Nixon testified today that his mother owned the house when he mortgaged it to Davidson and when the latter deeded it to George W. Andrews, who claims to own it.

Sam Nixon Testifies.
Nixon testified that he gave a mortgage to Davidson, though he held the property in his own name only as in trust for his mother, in consideration of a $3,000 loan from Hoge, Brownlee and company, which Davidson secured for him by indorsing his notes.

He testified that Davidson knew that Mrs. Celestia Nixon owned the house.

He said that when Andrews took the mortgage over from Davidson, Andrews also knew that Mrs. Nixon owned the property, because he had taken Andrews to look at it and had introduced him to his mother.

"My mother told him she was willing he should take the Davidson mortgage," he said. "I told him my mother owned the house."

"What did Andrews say about Mrs. Nixon owning the house?" his lawyer asked him.

"It seemed satisfactory to him," was the reply.

Davidson claims that the paper on a mortgage by the Nixons was really a deed, and he deeded the property to Andrews from the title conveyed by it to him.

BOB SHADWELL IS AGAIN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING O'CONNOR

G. R. Shadwell's trial on the charge of murder was resumed in Judge McClernan's court this morning.

The case was taken up last Monday, and after a jury panel had been exhausted, continued till today.

Most of today was consumed in securing the jury.

When the continuance was had there were 11 men in the box and about eight challenges yet to be used.

The new panel this morning consisted of 52 men, and most of them were examined before the jury was accepted.

The defendant waived one challenge. The jury was completed at 2:20 this afternoon. The special panel was thus discharged and the regular panel excused till Tuesday morning next.

Shadwell killed Martin James O'Connor, known as "Red" O'Connor, four years ago. The place of the homicide was in a gambling resort on East Park street.

The victim of the homicide refused to allow Shadwell to take part in a game of cards, and was shot by the latter.

Shadwell has been in state's prison and the county and city jails since the killing.

Today he was attended in court by his grey-haired old mother.

This is Shadwell's third trial. Once he was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. On the second trial he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, being granted new trials.

The jurors selected to try Shadwell this time are as follows: Charles Plumley, John Powers, Charles W. Blakeley, Ed Cunningham, William Goyette, Henry Yed, Thomas Boyman, Norman Charles, Casari Cote, Thomas Manning, James Connelly and C. E. Mink.

In his opening statement Assistant County Attorney Yancey said that O'Connor, Fred Schuborn and George Johnson were playing cards in Kelly's saloon, and that Shadwell sat down and wanted to play. O'Connor declined to let him, taking the cards in his hands. Then Shadwell drew a pistol from under his vest.

O'Connor stepped behind Johnson to shield himself and lifted the table to get under it. At that he was shot in the head and neck and fell upon the floor and died.

The trial will take two or three days, probably.

WANT BODY EXHUMED

kidney complaint was caused by the systematic administering of poison?"

"Yes, such might be the case, as the kidneys drain the whole system."

The statements made by Mrs. Grady with reference to the death of her husband and son, as well as the poisoning and robbery of Mrs. Proulx are at such variance as to discredit all she says, and it is the general opinion of many others besides the members of the police department that the bodies of her husband and son should be exhumed and a thorough investigation made.

Mr. Breen says that it would be a difficult matter to fix the crime even if it was discovered that the man and the boy died as a result of poison.

With that fact established, however, there would be a basis for further investigation and Mrs. Grady might, if guilty, make a full confession.

The police are not yet satisfied that Mrs. Grady did not have a confederate in her plan and its execution in the case of Mrs. Proulx.

It is also reported that Mrs. Grady was married last summer and kept the fact secret for some reason best known to herself. Color is lent to this report by the fact that a young man who lived at her home has shown a great interest in Mrs. Grady since she was arrested.

Tells Many Stories.
Mrs. Minnie Grady has made so many conflicting statements with reference to the charge of poisoning and robbing Mrs. Emma Proulx, that Chief of Police Reynolds is not inclined to pay any attention to the denial the woman is now making that she did not make a confession of her guilt to him before she was turned over to the county authorities.

"Even in the absence of a confession," said Mr. Reynolds, "there is, in my opinion, sufficient proof to convict."

"Mrs. Grady certainly did make a confession to me, and an unqualified one. She admitted that she took Mrs. Proulx out for the buggy ride, and that she gave her the poison that she might rob her while unconscious."

The sheriff and his officers and jailers are not afraid that Mrs. Minnie Grady, the woman charged with robbing Mrs. Emma Proulx of $50 worth of diamonds on the highway, will commit suicide.

"Yes, there was a telephone from the city jail yesterday telling us that bent pins had been found in the cell which the woman occupied at that bastille, but we are not afraid of the pins," Sheriff Furey said today.

"The jailer on shift here in the morning told me about the message, and I told him I thought Mrs. Grady would not hurt herself. I think the pins were some they had left over down there from a fishing expedition," he added jeocularly.

Mrs. Grady occupies a room in the woman's department of the county jail on the first floor of the court house.

"How does she behave herself?" the keepers of Mrs. Grady were asked.

"Oh, she seems very quiet," was the reply.

"Have you got her locked up alone in one cell?"

"No; she has the freedom of the place like the other women."

"How do they all get along?"

"Well, she doesn't seem to associate much with the others. She keeps to herself."

"Have you found any bent pins in the place since her arrival?"

"No, haven't seen any yet," was the reply.

"How about digging Brady and the boy up to examine them for poison?"

"Haven't heard anything about it around here yet. I suppose the county attorney will attend to that if they want it done."

Dr. Talmage Dying.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, April 11.—Rev. T. Dwight Talmage, the noted Presbyterian divine, is slowly dying at his residence in this city. His physicians concede that they can now see no hope for his recovery and that he is steadily growing worse. He has been unconscious for the past 48 hours and the passive congestion of the brain has developed into a very inflamed condition.

KATIE WOULD KILL HERSELF

Woman's rights were emphatically insisted upon by Miss Katherine Lemmon, who is otherwise known as Katherine Wilder, who claims to be a newspaper woman, at police headquarters this afternoon.

She was arrested shortly after lunch today by Policeman Curley, who filed a charge of disturbance against her.

Miss Wilder, or Lemmon, is charged with having created a disturbance at No. 161 West Park street, where she has a real estate office with Mrs. Kate Formel. She and Mrs. Formel quarreled this morning over a real estate deal.

Miss Wilder's hair is cut on the style of a Boston dry goods clerk, and she parts it in the middle. She wears a raglan and has a swagger.

The young woman came to Butte about three months ago and associated herself with Mrs. Formel. She claims that Mrs. Formel was about to close a deal which would have given the firm $750 in commission and that in order to deprive her of her share in the profits Mrs. Formel precipitated a quarrel.

Miss Wilder claims to be a member of a prominent Chicago press club. She says that she formerly wrote special stories for the New York World and was in Honolulu when the Spanish-American war broke out and wrote war stuff for the papers there.

After being taken to police headquarters Miss Wilder became very much excited and when confined in the detention room she threatened to commit suicide if she was not released.

Fearing that she might carry out her threat Jailer Levy, for the sake of precaution, was obliged to take her down stairs, where she could be watched.

STOCK COMPANY AT MAGUIRE'S

Manager Maguire's new enterprise is successful beyond a doubt.

The very fact that he has reduced the prices of his best seats to one-half price is a bold move when it is known that the attraction he offers to the public is worth more than many other companies who have visited here and obtained high prices.

The production of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is evidence of the wisdom of such a movement. The attendance throughout has been good. In the staging of the play, nothing was overlooked and new scenery added its quota to the excellence of the whole performance. Of Bandmann's performance of the dual character of Jekyll and Hyde nothing could be said which could add to the fame of this actor.

This company which hereafter will be known as "The Grand Stock Co." did splendid work and they have been accorded a hearty welcome.

There are a number of attractive plays now in active preparation, notably the "Corsican Brothers," another of Bandmann's great characters which will be given on Wednesday of next week.

SWINDLE WAS ON THE DEAD

Either acting under a misapprehension or because she thinks there is reason to believe that she has been swindled out of $70, Mrs. S. E. Dedrick, a colored woman, living at 267 West Park street called at police headquarters at 3 o'clock this afternoon and demanded that J. H. Moor be arrested forthwith.

Mrs. Dedrick claims that upon misrepresentations she paid Moor $70 to furnish a headstone for her husband's grave in Mt. Moriah cemetery.

The colored woman has Mr. Moor's business card which purports that he is general manager of the United States Marble company of Spokane.

According to the card Moor's Butte address is 114 and 116 Broadway. Mrs. Dedrick says that when Moor came to her he represented that he had been sent there by Richards the undertaker.

"Today I learned," said Mrs. Dedrick, "that Mr. Richards had not sent him to me and that there is no such a company as the United States Marble company of Spokane."

"THE WHITE SLAVE" SUNDAY

Bartley Campbell never wrote a better play than "The White Slave."

Perhaps that is one reason why it plays to crowded houses in the same theaters in the same cities year after year.

The play fits the emotions of the listener as few others succeed in doing. Bartley Campbell wanted to write a play that would rattle everybody, touch a tender chord, and bring a tear to the eye and a smile to the lips, and in "The White Slave" he certainly succeeded.

The spectacular revival given the play this season is by long odds the most elaborate it has ever had. The new scenes have all been built upon a novel plan, and other features will all a new charm to the old play and invest it with a new lease of life. It will be produced at Maguire's Grand Sunday evening and continues Monday and Tuesday. Sale of seats opens tomorrow morning.

GRIFFITH PLAYED IN DEAD EARNEST AND DREW BLOOD

"One of the most remarkable scenes that was ever witnessed on any stage, and one that was not on the bill, was that in which John Griffith who just concluded an engagement of the "King's Rival," took a part in on the boards of my theater seven years ago," said John Maguire this morning.

Griffith was playing the title role in "Richard III." John Purcell, afterwards well-known in Butte, was playing Richmond. In the combat scene in the last act Griffith's sword slipped and touched Purcell rather severely on the arm.

"For some unaccountable reason he took the matter seriously and at the first opportunity returned an equally smart tap to the unsuspecting Richard.

Purcell in Earnest.
"It took Griffith but a moment to see that Purcell was in earnest and in a subdued tone he tried to tell him that his stroke was an accidental one.

"Purcell paid no attention, however, and, at the next opportunity landed a smart crack with the flat of his sword on Griffith's cheek.

"Then the fight was on.
"Griffith saw there was no use in trying to put the matter off lightly and concluded to make a fight of it.

"Both men were excellent swordsmen as actors often are, and they went at it fast and furious.

"Up to this time, the audience was not aware that the men were at all engaged at each other and was applauding what they considered an exceptionally fine piece of acting, but after a few sharp exchanges, the people began to see that this was the real thing and in true Western style they entered into the spirit of the affair.

Sports Make a Book.
"A few sports in the gallery immediately made a book on the result and odds were laid as to the result with every possible wager as to finish.

"Some bet that Griffith would kill his man, while others were content to prophesy that he would simply run him through and leave the sword in the hole.

"In the meantime Griffith and Purcell were both fighting for their lives. Thrust, parry and lunge followed in rapid succession, Purcell at first appearing to have a little the best of it and forcing the fight.

"At length Griffith woke up and the sparks flew thick and fast from the swords of the men who now were fighting as hard and with as much earnestness as Crookback and Tenry Tudor did on Bosworth field four hundred years ago.

"Purcell rushed Griffith almost to the footlights and landed a cut on his ear that made the blood flow.

"Quick as lightning Griffith parried and opened Purcell's forehead and cheek full eight inches, finishing the battle to the horror of the audience and the supreme delight of the other half.

"Purcell spent several weeks in the hospital after having 18 stitches put in the wound and for some time it was not certain whether Griffith would have to answer for manslaughter or not.

Parents' Responsibility Great

It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents, the lawful guardians of that right, the child must look for health, happiness and success. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world?

If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children. Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life, but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches these deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.

Write us about your case, and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will also send you our book on blood and
