

TALES OF THE STRENUOUS WAY FOR INTER MOUNTAIN SPORTS

WHAT THE WHEEL SHOWS TO THE STAFF WRITERS

Things Said and Done in the Brawny World of Athletics--Baseball Chaff.

There will be at least one game of baseball tomorrow and probably two which the league team will play with the local nines.

As now arranged the school of mines team will play tomorrow afternoon and the plan is to have the high school team play in the morning.

Sunday will be the big game between a picked nine and the league team in which a Copper King battery will play with the Independents.

Sunday will be an eventful day for the baseball fans as it will be the first game in which any sort of a line will be given on the form of "Honest John's" aggregation.

A big attendance is expected notwithstanding the fact that the old grandstand and old grounds will be used.

The sluggers of McCloskey's aggregation are working every afternoon on the old grounds and are keeping up the practice notwithstanding the chilly atmosphere.

The new bats were distributed this morning and as an indorsement of Manager McCloskey's judgment not one kick was registered on the size, heft or swing of the new sticks.

Treat Him Kindly.

Deck Smith, who was appointed the home umpire by President Lucas, will make his first appearance on the diamond this season next Sunday when he will call balls and strikes in the exhibition game.

In view of his youth and the duties which confine him to a basement the local umpire is not supposed to be in training and Manager McCloskey prefers the request that the fans deal lightly with him until he has had a chance to work out.

Umpire Smith is straddling his wave of prosperity by offering a season ticket for baths and shaves to the player making the first home run.

It's a sure thing that those sluggers of McCloskey's will bring down that ticket the first game played in the league series.

It's Another Guess.

Helena did well yesterday at Walla Walla. The league team is training there and is playing a short series with the Walla Walla team. The score came in as 5 to 1 in favor of Helena, all of which is good for the league team until they get into fast company.

Betting by contrast the defeats of the Butte and Helena opponents on the tryouts would mean that neither will win the opening games.

But you can't tell about those stick artists of Butte.

Winn Won One.

Here's one of those stories that sound somewhat fishy but which this time, if never before, is actually true.

The other day several of the smaller poolrooms were invaded by the police and the proprietors were arrested on charges of conducting poolrooms without a license.

One of the men arrested was the irrepressible Freddie Bogan who does many sorts of stunts and who has graduated from a prizefight promoter without any fights to promote to a "journalist" and later to a poolroom conductor.

Bogan was among those arrested for failing to pay a license.

When City Attorney Lamb looked over the cases he decided that there wasn't any conclusive evidence against Bogan and he requested W. F. Winn, clerk of the police court, to go out and buy a pool in Bogan's room.

Wille is one of those accommodating boys and especially where there is any betting to be done.

He went over to the Bogan layout and told Freddie that he was there to make a bet in order to secure evidence with which to convict him.

Freddie was game to the extent that he picked a horse in the maiden race for Winn and which was a 10 to 1 shot. Winn played the dollar and went back with the ticket as evidence.

Bogan and his backers got to thinking about the matter and decided that it was time to pay so went to the city treasurer with a roll of $150 which they paid down as license money.

After the races closed Winn happened to be passing the poolroom and dropped in to see what was being done.

To his surprise he found that the maiden he had bet on was encircled with a ring and he had won the $10. When the affable clerk went up to cash there were sore looks directed at him.

Hildebrand a Find.

The Brooklyn Eagle believes that Ned Hanson has made the discovery of the season in George Hildebrand. According to this paper the young Californian is a fixture in center field. The Eagle says:

Of the new men Hildebrand is easily a fixture. Considerable has already been said of his batting and fielding in these dispatches. Yesterday he added more to his qualifications in the shape of throwing and base running.

He has a good arm and knows how to use it. While he did some fast running, he is not much over five feet tall, though stockily built, and the fans will consider his nickname of "Dumpling" appropriate.

Hildebrand made one error, due to a throw home that went wrong, owing to the bad field. On a grass diamond it would have gone straight as a die.

Black Demon Kicks.

Joseph Nathaniel Walcott did not go to Larkspur yesterday, as was reported, but stayed over and will go today, says the San Francisco Bulletin. Mr. and Mrs. Walcott are stopping with Al Brooks on Townsend street, and there isn't a man within a mile of the place who can put it onto Joe playing "mum pool." He arrived early yesterday morning, and when seen at 5 p. m. was still there with his front up against the pool table. He looks the same except that he has two new "gold tusks" in front. He was clad in a new military cut suit and had a vest you could fry eggs on. Last night he went to see Williams and Walker at the California, and this morning he will hit for Larkspur. When asked how he lost his teeth, Joe replied: "Well, dat big fellow Russell did dat. He fought me wif his head instead of his hands and butted me all through the six rounds. How do I like O'Brien? Oh, he's a cleavah big man, but mercy, ah nevah had none de worst o' dat go. Why, if dat was in New York, away from his home ah'd got the decision, but all his frens in Philadelphia say he had a shade on me. Did Ferns say he knocked seven of mah teeth out? Say, he got one, but ah had him dead from de first roun' to the last. He tried to lose on a foul de waist way dat night. Gee, he hit low and butted and tried hard, but in the fif roun' is where he got his needles. Ah got even den and banded him all over de ring.

"Dere's jus' one more feller ah wants to get even on and dat's Jim Kennedy. Dat man ga' me two second class tickets to come West on and ah had to take the money out of my own pocket and get de first class ones. Ah nevah traveled second class since ah been in de business and ain't goin' to start now. I guess he thought cuz ah niggah he could hand it to me, but ah'll play yuh a game o' pool. Yep, ah kin go a little bit wid a cue. Ah beat McCoy and all dem fellers East, but ah want to make my rep a national one. Yep, I'll stay awhile if ah beat Gardner. Den ah'll sen for mah son Joseph Nathaniel Francis and mah three daughters.

What the Wires Are Tipping Off In the Sporting World.

Five Men Out.

Omaha, April 25.—Five men dropped out of the tournament of the Nebraska State Sportsmen association yesterday, but there were left 5 of the best shots of the country. Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Iowa, carried off the high score again. He missed but five out of a possible 170, and his record for the tournament thus far is 15 misses out of 510 targets. Crosby was second with 168; Spencer third with 162, and Henry McDonald of this city, Riehl and George Carter are tied for fourth place with 159 each. A dozen others have scored better than 150.

Saratoga Track Good.

New York, April 25.—W. C. Whitney, president of the Saratoga Racing association, has made an official inspection of the work in progress at the track. He says everything is progressing in an excellent manner, and that the race course soon will be the handsomest and most complete in the world.

Walthour Gets Two Heats.

Atlanta, Ga., April 25.—Four thousand people at the Coliseum last night saw Bobby Walthour of this city defeat Howard Freeman of Portland, Ore., in two successive five-mile heats of a motor paced race. Walthour gained two laps over Freeman in each of the two heats, winning the first heat in 8:02 3-5 and the second in 8:06 3-5.

Bright Wins Prix Dauphin.

Paris, April 25.—W. K. Vanderbilt's Bright, Buchanan up, won the Prix Dauphin, the chief event of the Maisson Lafitte races yesterday. Mr. Vanderbilt's Nettle was not placed in the race for the Prix Mondaine.

Palo Alto Shipment.

Stanford University, Cal., April 25.—From the Palo Alto stock farm next Monday the annual shipment of horses will be sent to the blue ribbon sale in Cleveland, Ohio. Among the best breed and most promising are Princess Elden, sister of Elester, 2:08 1/2; Grover, half brother to Ned Thorn, 2:11 1/4; Luce, sister to Lucratina, 2:13 1/4, and Registrata, half brother to Rowellan, 2:15 1/4. Thirty-six head will make up the shipment.

Too Hot in July.

New York, April 25.—Probably the date of the Amateur National Golf championship may be changed. The objection to July is based on the usually severe heat during that month. Strong opposition is developing against the action of the executive committee of the United States Golf association in passing upon many questions which many golfers understood were to be left to a popular vote at a special meeting of the association.

Wins His First Race.

New York, April 25.—Jimmy Michael, the former cyclist, has won his first race as jockey at Maisson Lafitte, says a Paris dispatch. He rode Charron's Promesse in the selling race, distance one mile and three-eighths.

The betting was 14 to 1, and there were 12 starters. Michael won by a head.

To Jolly Kaiser.

Chicago, April 25.—With a view to interesting Emperor William in the Olympic games to be held in Chicago, three of the officials—H. J. Furber, Jr., La Verne W. Noyes and Judge J. B. Payne—will sail for Hamburg July 1. It was stated yesterday that Germany would be the first of the European countries to be approached in the interest of the games. It is expected that the German emperor will be invited to send a yacht to compete with Shamrock III should Sir Thomas Lipton decide to send her here for an international yacht race during the summer of 1904.

Annual Collegiate Chess Match.

New York, April 25.—Everything is in readiness for the fourth annual chess match between Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton and Oxford and Cambridge, which will be played today and Saturday, says a Boston special.

The British collegians had the better of it in the three matches so far contested, for the Isaac L. Rice trophy. The match of 1899 was won by Oxford and Cambridge by the score of 3 1/2 games to 2 1/2. In 1900 the Americans fared worse, the score being 4 1/2 games to 1 1/2 in favor of England, and last year the result was a drawn battle, each side winning three games.

The representatives of the American universities will contest their side of the games in the new rooms of the Boston Athletic association. The Oxford and Cambridge players will be at the British Chess club, London. Six men represent each side in the match. The revised list of the players follows:

United States—Claude T. Rice, Harvard; Howard Keeler and Frank Sewell, Columbia; James F. Sawin and E. B. Adams, Yale, and J. B. Hunt, Princeton.

England—Harold Grady, H. F. Davidson and H. H. Roome, Oxford; F. W. Clarke, B. Golding Brown and H. A. Webb, Cambridge; H. Taylor, Oxford, and H. Bateman, Cambridge, substitutes.

The trophy was presented to the universities of the two countries in 1889 by Isaac L. Rice of New York. It is a shield of silver mounted on mahogany.

BENNY YANGER WINS DECISION OVER GAME LITTLE ABE ATTILL

(By Associated Press.)

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—The fight last night at the West End club, between Bonnie Yanger of Chicago and Abe Attell of San Francisco, was stopped by the police in the 19th round, the officers of the law figuring that Attell was on the point of being knocked out.

Referee George Siler gave the decision to Yanger, although Attell was still full of fight. The affair was scheduled to go 15 rounds, with the privilege of the referee of extending it five more rounds in case he was not satisfied that either man had a distinct advantage at the close of the 15th round. When the battle had progressed to the full limit, the men were on even terms and the referee called upon them to go the additional five rounds.

Yanger's aggressiveness and the terrific hitting power he possessed, won him the decision, the California boy succumbing to a storm of blows in the last four rounds. Attell exhibited remarkable courage and fought with desperation to the very last.

In the first seven rounds, Attell made Yanger look like a fourth-rate fighter. Try as he might, Yanger could not land an effective blow. Attell slipped or blocked his punches, all the time landing a shower of left jabs on Yanger's face.

These blows angered Yanger and he became wild in his delivery, several times going to the floor from the sheer force of his endeavors to land. Yanger began to reach Attell's wind in the eighth and from then on to the 15th round he made gains that placed him on a par with his adversary.

Attell gashed Yanger's face in the 15th round, the blood flowing profusely. In the 14th Attell brought Yanger to the canvas, with a right flush to the jaw, but Yanger came up full of pluck and in the 16th round tried to put Attell away in short order.

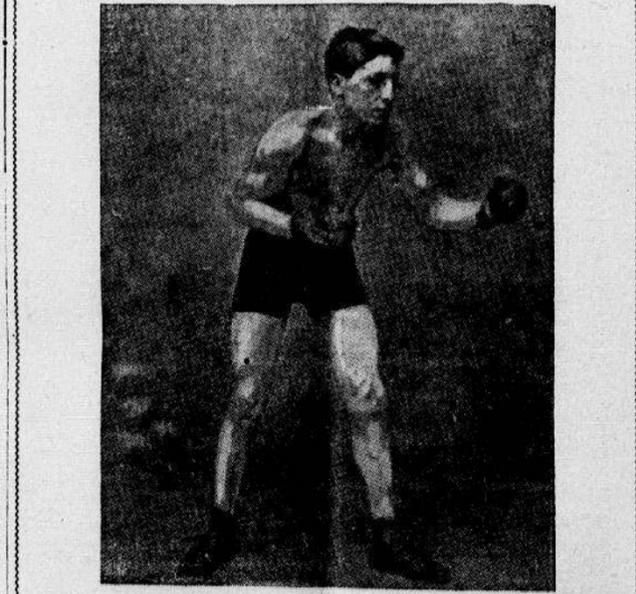

In this round and the three succeeding ones he had everything his own way. He weakened Attell with heavy punches and danced him all over the ring.

In the 18th, he put Attell to the floor for the count five times, and the bell found Attell on his knees and almost out.

In the 19th Yanger rushed Attell to the ropes in a neutral corner and up-percut him with right and left swings. Attell seemed on the point of collapse, but to the surprise of the spectators he regained his lost vitality. He met Yanger in the center of the ring, backed him into a corner and belabored him with a shower of blows, almost knocking him over the ropes.

At this point the police interfered, and Referee Siler gave the decision to Yanger. Attell begged to be allowed to continue the battle, but it is probable his last effort was a dying one and that Yanger would have finished him in the next round.

The men fought at 122 pounds, the featherweight limit, and it was announced before the men went into the ring that this fight would decide the real featherweight championship of the world. It was also announced that Yanger would be matched with Terry McGovern some time in June.
