VISITORS THAT FRENCHMAN DID NOT INVITE TO CALL

James LaPierre, a Frenchman, 85 years of age, complained to the police last night that he had been robbed of $18 by two negro women.

LaPierre who lives in a cabin on Silver street, between Main and Arizona streets.

According to his story he was standing in the door of his cabin shortly after dark when two negro women approached him. Unbidden they entered his place and by strategy and force relieved him of his purse which contained the money.

FACES HER VICTIM

MRS. MINNIE GRADY LISTENS TO MRS. EMMA PROULX'S STORY.

TOOK TWO DOSES AND A DRINK

Woman Who Charges Misplaced Confidence Is Explaining to Justice Arnold How She Happened to Get Sick.

Mrs. Minnie Grady will soon know whether Justice Arnold considers her guilty of attempting to poison Mrs. Emma Proulx on April 6, as she is being given a preliminary hearing before the justice this afternoon.

The hearing will not be finished today, however, as it was not begun until 2:30 o'clock, and there were many witnesses to give testimony.

The state is being represented by County Attorney Breen and the defendant by John N. Kirk.

Mrs. Proulx was the first witness called.

In giving her testimony she told the story related by her to the chief of police and newspaper reporters after the alleged attempt on her life was made. The principal feature of her story was that she had gone out buggy riding with Mrs. Grady and had swallowed some white powder in a green liquid which was given her for rheumatism.

She said she took two doses, one before leaving Butte and the other in a room at the Silver Bow brewery, at which place they had stopped to take a drink. A few minutes later they resumed the ride, she said, and she became deathly sick. She thought she was dying.

GOING TO DENVER

business will elect officers for the coming year.

There is little doubt but that Dan McDonald will be chosen to succeed himself as president of the central body.

Mr. McDonald has been president of the organization ever since its inception in May, 1898, and it is chiefly owing to his energetic efforts that the body has acquired such flattering proportions. Speaking of the election today, one of the delegates said:

"Labor people know too well what Dan McDonald has done for the Western Labor union, and there will be no question about his re-election. Not only has he won the esteem of the laboring people, but by his wise counsel and conservative methods he has gained the respect and confidence of the business men of the West."

If the Butte delegation can accomplish it, it will bring the convention to this city next year. Butte is one of the strongholds of the organization, and as Denver has had the meeting for three years, it is probable that the Colorado delegation will support the candidacy of this city.

Official Circular.

This morning the following circular was issued to the delegates of the fifth annual council from the official headquarters with relation to the coming convention, signed by President McDonald and Secretary Smith:

"We hereby notify you that arrangements have been made with the railroad companies for a rate of one and one-fifth fare for delegates attending our convention to be held at Denver, commencing Monday, May 26, 1902.

"Delegates from Montana, Idaho and Washington may secure this rate by way of the Oregon Short Line, the Northern Pacific or the Burlington Route. To secure the rate over the Northern Pacific delegates must travel by way of Billings, Montana, and from Billings to Denver over the Burlington route. The Northern Pacific does not give the reduced rate over any other road with which it connects.

"Delegates in Colorado can secure the reduced rate over any road.

"From South Dakota this rate would apply over the Burlington route.

"From California delegates must travel by way of the Southern or Central Pacific to secure the reduced rate.

"Delegates from Wyoming may have the benefit of this rate either over the Union Pacific or the Burlington route.

Points for Delegates.

"In purchasing tickets over any road delegates must take a receipt for the amount paid for their tickets in order to secure the reduced rate. Full fare must be paid going to Denver, and on presentation of this receipt, properly countersigned to the ticket agent at Denver when buying the return ticket, the delegate will be entitled to a one-fifth fare returning. This receipt must be presented to the secretary at the convention, to be countersigned by him. It is absolutely necessary that the delegate secure these receipts in order to receive the benefit of the reduced rate.

"The committee of arrangements at Denver announces that delegates can secure hotel accommodations at the New Markham hotel, corner Seventeenth and Lawrence streets, at the following rates: Back rooms, single, per week, $3.50; back rooms, double, per week, $6.00; front rooms, single, per week, $5.25; front rooms, double, per week, $7.00.

"These rates are made known to the delegates so they can take advantage of them if they wish. There are a number of other hotels in Denver with moderate rates at which delegates can secure accommodations if they do not choose to go to the New Markham. The New Markham is centrally located, directly up the street about four blocks from the depot, and only a few blocks from the convention hall.

"Remember, the convention will meet at Odd Fellows' hall, 1543 Champa street, Denver, Monday, May 26, at 2 o'clock p. m."

FROM ST. VINCENT THEIR MAY BE DEAD

arrival here of the first detachment of the ambulance corps who brought sufferers from Georgetown, caused quite a sensation. This batch consisted of 100 persons, whose charred bodies emitted fetid odors, and whose features made even the hospital attendants shudder.

It is doubtful if one from the whole party will recover.

The death rate among the people in the hospitals is very high in spite of the best medical efforts made in their behalf.

All the neighboring British colonies are evincing sympathy with the sufferers here. Subscription lists have been started and food and clothing are being forwarded to St. Vincent from the British islands.

Thank United States.

While the entire community is thankful for this help and sympathy from British sources, on all sides are heard grateful appreciation of the prompt aid furnished by the United States in sending the Potomac here with provisions and other things for the destitute people from St. Vincent. The report that the volcanic lake which occupied the top of the mountain has disappeared, appears to be confirmed.

A sea of lava emitting sulphurous fumes, now apparently occupies its place, and several new craters have been formed. The last time the volcano showed activity (Tuesday last) the craters, old and new, and numerous fissures in the mountain sides discharging hot vapor, deep subterranean murmurings were heard, the ground trembled at times, and from the center of the volcano huge volumes of steam rose and a dense Cimerian smoke, mingling with the steam issued from a new and active crater, forming an immense pall over the northern hills, lowering into the valleys and then rising and spreading until it enveloped the whole island in a peculiar mist.

Simultaneous action upon the part of the volcanoes of Martinique and Dominica and elsewhere, seems to denote a volcanic connection between these islands and appears to verify the assumption of the volcanic origin of the mountain chains running parallel with the Soufriere in the Windward districts.

As this dispatch is sent it is excessively hot here and the northern hills retain their foggy appearance.

Volcanic Connection.

The sulphuric vapors which still exhale all over the island are increasing the sickness and mortality among the surviving inhabitants and are causing suffering among the new arrivals.

The hospital staffs are giving away to overwork and are with difficulty bearing up.

The stench in the afflicted districts is terrible beyond description.

All the huts left standing are filled with dead bodies.

In some cases disinfectants and the usual means of disposition of the dead are useless, and cremation has been resorted to.

When it is possible the bodies are dragged with ropes to the trenches and are there hastily covered up, quicklime being used when available.

Many of the dead bodies are so covered with dust that they were not discovered until walked upon.

SCHOOL OF MINES FACULTY HAS NOW TWO NEW MEMBERS

At the meeting of the board of trustees of the state school of mines last night the old faculty was re-elected for the coming year and two new members were added to the corps. C. A. Diehl, formerly mining engineer with the Anaconda and M. O. P. companies, was chosen to be assistant professor of chemistry, and E. H. MacDonald of Anaconda, who conducts the field work for the engineering classes during the summer and who was recommended by President Leonard for the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Prof. Knight of the department of mining engineering, was elected to that position.

Prof. MacDonald was in charge of the mining department of the College of Montana at Deer Lodge in 1896 and moving later to Anaconda was appointed city engineer besides engaging in civil and mining engineering.

As now constituted the faculty is as follows:

- Prof. N. R. Leonard, president and instructor in mathematics.
- Prof. E. H. MacDonald, mining engineering.
- Prof. William G. King, chemistry and metallurgy.
- Prof. C. A. Diehl, assistant in chemistry.
- Prof. A. N. Winchell, geology and mineralogy.
- Prof. C. H. Bowman, mechanics and mining engineering.
- L. R. Foote, instructor.

man dovetails with that of Mr. Campbell and others of Butte who not only knew the California capitalist, but one of the brothers that worked in the Connel store and afterwards died in Helena. Mr. Campbell says he never knew that James Finlayson had two brothers or more than the one sister, who lived in Butte. He remembers the death of George and also the fact that the sister was here at the time of his demise.

Mrs. Parker, to whom the man referred, was once a property holder in Butte, but she is either dead or has left the city. She formerly conducted the Clarendon lodging house in Main street. Prior to her advent as a property holder and keeper of a lodging house she peddled apples and knickknacks.

Sister Is Unknown.

With a view of ascertaining whether Rebecca Finlayson died in the county hospital the matron of the institution examined the records there today, but failed to find the name of Finlayson.

"If such a person died here," said the matron, after making the examination, "she must have entered the place under another name or else her death was not recorded by the one who had charge of the farm at that time."

If Rebecca Finlayson is alive it will be to her advantage to make herself known as soon as possible, for she is entitled to a large share of the money left by her California brother.

CLEANS HER CELL AND SINGS RELIGIOUS SONGS

Whatever other faults Ida Moore, the colored woman confined in the city jail, may have, the jail officials say that she is the best housekeeper ever confined in the woman's ward of the toms.

If cleanliness is next to godliness, there will be something coming to Ida Moore. The woman was arrested a week ago on the charge of robbing a man of $27.

She has strongly protested her innocence, and there appears to be many extenuating circumstances in her case. She was fined $50 under one of the city ordinances and is serving out the fine.

Rather than remain in jail the woman wrote to her mother in St. Louis, and the latter sent her $15. This was not enough, but by applying it to the time already served she will probably be released tomorrow.

Despite the fact that she is in jail the woman is happy. She sings religious songs incessantly. She says that she was raised a Methodist and at one time taught a Sunday school class.

She is always scrubbing and cleaning about the woman's ward and has everything shining like the deck of a well-kept ship.

KEATON GOES FREE AND DISAPPOINTS SULLIVAN

Edward Keaton, charged with threatening the life of James Sullivan, formerly police magistrate of the city, was given a hearing before Justice Taylor in South Butte yesterday and released from the accusation. Keaton denied having threatened to kill Sullivan, but Sullivan swore he had made the threats. In discharging Keaton the justice told Keaton to be careful how he conducted himself in the future.

Since Sullivan vacated the office of police magistrate he has been conducting a real estate business. Keaton lived in a house for which Sullivan was collecting the rent. According to the testimony adduced at the hearing, Sullivan asked Keaton to pay the rent in advance of the month, and Keaton refused. The latter did not have the money and the two had some words. Sullivan said that Keaton declared he would kill him like a dog if an attempt was made to evict him from the house, and Keaton said he simply told Sullivan that if he put him out he would regret it the longest day he lived.

ELKS SPECIAL MEETING NEXT SUNDAY EVENING

Elks have been talking of the advantages of owning their own hall, one in which they could have all the comforts of club life, and a meeting place for the members who would like to while away the hours in the gymnasium, the library or the billiard room, and at the last meeting a committee was appointed to look up the matter and submit a report. The question of buying or building is what concerns the committee just now, and a special meeting of the whole body has been called for Sunday night when the committee, composed of the following, will submit its report: J. E. Rickards, C. J. Kelly, George Casey, W. D. Clark, Henry Mueller, T. S. Kilgallon, C. P. Connolly, George Baglin, R. J. Dwyer and E. L. Mayo.

Former Governor Rickards, a chairman of the committee and E. L. Mayo, secretary.

ALLEGED HORSE THIEVES HELD TO DISTRICT COURT

George A. McDonald and Jerry McMahon, charged with grand larceny, the theft of four horses from John Peterson, were given a preliminary hearing in Justice Taylor's court, in South Butte, today, and at the conclusion of the testimony and argument of counsel, were bound over to the district court in the sum of $2,000 each.

Peterson alleges that the horses were taken from Joseph Silver's ranch about the 14th of April. Prior to their disappearance they had been feeding on the range near Divide. After they had faded an investigation was started and it was learned that the animals had been sent to the ranch owned by McMahon near Chinook. Sheriff Furey found them there and brought them to this city. McMahon was then arrested and a few days later McDonald was taken into custody for alleged complicity in the theft.

The defendants told Justice Taylor they could give no required bond.

WANTED—SITUATION AS STENOGRAPHER or assistant bookkeeper. Address 225 South Warren.

Tomorrow night at Elks' hall, North Main street, Mrs. C. C. Catt will speak under the auspices of the Saturday Night club. The public is invited.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE

same, destroying the same, that in addition to the holes that were drilled at the mine, and blasted, a 50-pound box of giant powder was placed at the entrance to said crosscut and exploded in one explosion; that by reason of said explosion the entrance into said stope was completely closed and destroyed; affiant further says that said blasting, in the manner hereinbefore described, could not, and would not, have been done in ordinary mining operations, or for any other purpose than the closing up and destroying of the entrance to said stope, and preventing access thereto.

"Affiant further says, that he was working at said Minnie Healy mine in the latter part of November, 1901, and that, during said time, the 600-foot level was likewise destroyed by blasting; affiant was not present when said blasts were fired off, but affiant has had frequent conversations with working at said mine with men who were employed on the 600-foot level, who blasted said floor, and that from all said conversations and from other knowledge affiant got while working in said mine, he is informed and believes that said 600-foot level was blasted in the latter part of November, 1901, by means of a great quantity of giant powder, the exact amount of which is unknown to affiant.

Holes Ready for Blasting.
"That on the night of May 2, 1902, affiant went into the said Minnie Healy mine through the shaft, and into a drift which is constructed and runs in a northerly direction about 400 feet in length from a crosscut extending south from said Minnie Healy shaft on the 900-foot level of the workings of said Minnie Healy mine, said crosscut and drift being run and constructed from said Minnie Healy shaft. That at the extreme west end of said drift there are extensive stopes made upon ore; that on said May 2, 1902, affiant found in the sides of said drift at a point about 200 feet west of said crosscut and more than 200 feet east of the west end of said drift, and said stopes, a large number of holes drilled in the sides of said drift, being holes such as are usually drilled in mining operations for the purpose of blasting. That it is customary in mining operations, such as are conducted in said Minnie Healy lode claim, to fill the said drift holes with powder and to explode them immediately after they are drilled. That at the point in said drift where said drift holes were left on May 2, 1902, there were no mining operations being conducted and the said drift holes would not have been made for use in ordinary mining operations. That the said drift holes were left in such shape that they could readily be filled with powder and exploded in a short time, and such explosion would blow up and destroy the said drift and cause the said Minnie Healy mine to cave at said point and thus shut off access to the said stopes on the 900-foot level, and the ore bodies therein."

John Gillis Tells Tale.
John Gillis, who was carman on the 800 level of the Minnie Healy, corroborates McHugh. He made affidavit that one night last winter, while he was employed as carman on the 800 level, the miners there "by means of powder, blew up and destroyed a portion of the drift leading to the stopes from the Minnie Healy shaft, and also blew up and destroyed the extensive stopes" on that level.

Among the miners who did the drilling and blasting that blew up and destroyed the stopes was McHugh and a man named McLeod, Gillis says. Gillis swears that the blowing up of the stopes and drifts "destroyed the same and prevented access to the ore bodies."

Gillis makes affidavit that there are "extensive stopes on the 900 level of the Minnie Healy, at the end of a north-west drift from a south crosscut from the shaft, and that he saw numerous drift holes in the drift 200 feet east of the stopes on May 2 and 9, and that the holes were still there on May 12. He swears that he was directed to where the holes were by McHugh.

Gillis says that the holes could be filled with powder in a very short time and exploded, and that "such explosion would destroy said drift and cave said mine and shut off access from said extensive stopes to the westward."

Bulkheaded, Then Blasted.
Little makes affidavit that in November, 1901, the miners in the Minnie Healy bulkheaded the stopes between the fifth and sixth levels 200 feet west from the shaft, and that miners working in the mine told him that soon afterwards the stopes "above and below where the bulkhead was placed were blown and blasted out with powder and destroyed and the mine caused to cave at that point." He says that the stopes were worked just before this, and that they were so near the workings of the Boston & Montana company in the Leonard mine that the Boston & Montana miners could be heard blasting and drilling.

Took Out Ore at Night.
Casey made affidavit that from July 1, 1901, he watched the amount of ore taken from the Minnie Healy mine, and that large quantities of ore were taken from the mine to the smelter of the Montana Ore Purchasing company at Meaderville.

Casey swears that during all of the time since July of last year the parties in possession of the Minnie Healy have been "removing from 50 to 100 tons of ore per night," and that "there were removed from said Minnie Healy mine on the nights of May 13 and 14 eight six-horse loads of said ore, or about 40 or 50 tons."

Wing corroborates Casey and makes affidavit that the amount of ore taken away from the Minnie Healy was varied from 200 to 400 tons per day. He says that during the forenoon of May 14, 1902, "there were taken from the said Minnie Healy mine 20 six-horse team loads of said ore, or about 120 tons."

TEAMSTERS ARE TOLD OF THE RESTRAINING ORDER

At 3 o'clock this afternoon two members of the Teamsters' union received official notification of the injunction issued by the supreme court on the application of Jesse B. Roote, restraining them from interfering with the hauling of lumber by the Western Fuel company.

Ernest Peterson, business manager of the union, and James Murchie received a subpoena this afternoon which Attorney Roote had through from Helena with him, and which summons them to appear in the United States court in Butte before Judge Knowles next Tuesday for the hearing on the return of the writ.

The hearing of the order to show cause to determine whether the injunction shall continue until the action is adjudicated will be heard Tuesday, and the decision will be of vital interest to the labor unions of the state.

M'LAUGHLIN HURT IN A CAVE-IN IN MINNIE HEALY

James McLaughlin, a miner employed at the Minnie Healy mine, is lingering between life and death at St. James' hospital, where he was taken at 3 o'clock this morning.

Mr. McLaughlin was caught in a cave-in in the mine, several large pieces of rock striking him on the head and about the body. He was partially buried beneath the falling earth and rock.

When rescued by his fellow workmen he was unconscious. It took four men to hold him in the cage when he was being brought to the surface, so violent was he in his delirious ravings.

His skull was fractured, necessitating an operation shortly after he was removed to the hospital.

Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Attorney C. F. Kelley is back from an extended visit to New York and other Eastern cities. His many friends welcome him with enthusiasm.
