FEDERAL BUILDING CREDIT TO BUTTE

INCREASE IN APPROPRIATION MEANS MUCH IN THE ARRANGEMENT OF OFFICES AND ROOMS.

POSTMASTER IRVIN NOW EXPLAINS ITS FEATURES

Shows How the Structure Will Be Arranged and Says Uncle Sam Will Be Proud of His New Home—Completion Is Not Looked for by Him Within Three Years or More.

"There is hardly any doubt now but that Butte will get $350,000 for the federal building," said Postmaster George W. Irvin this morning. "I learn that Senator Clark has been successful in bringing the committee from the house to see that the old appropriation was altogether too small. "This will mean several changes in the present plan of the building, for when J. Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury department, prepared the present plans he was figuring on the original appropriation of $225,000. "There will not be much change in the general plan on account of the increased appropriation, but the exterior will be much more graceful and the appointments more elegant. This federal building will be a big one. Arrangement of Rooms. On the first or main floor there will be 12,000 square feet devoted to the post-offices and lobby. On the second floor will be situated the United States circuit and district court room, reaching upward through the third story to the roof. On this floor will also be the judges' chambers, two rooms each for the clerk of the court and the United States marshal, one each for the United States commissioner and master-in-chancery, one grand jury room and three petit jury rooms. "On the third floor there will be three rooms for the stamp division and clerks for the United States postoffice, two rooms for the United States postoffice inspectors, one room for the local board of civil examiners and a dormitory for 50 railway postal clerks. To Be a Fine Building. "In the basement there will be three swing rooms for carriers, railroad postal clerks and postoffice clerks; rooms for the janitor and watchman, an engine room, three storage rooms, a boiler room and convenient toilet rooms. "I understand that the government will begin the work as soon as the appropriation passes both houses in due form, and it is said it will be at least two years before it is completed. I am of the opinion that it will be nearer three years, but at any rate, when it is completed, with all the embellishments that the increased appropriation will give us, Uncle Sam will have a home in Butte that will be fully in keeping with the dignity of the old gentleman."

EXCELS MR. NOAH AS A TAMER OF WILD ANIMALS

German Gulch Miner Thinks He Is the Local Manager of a Menagerie and Is in Jail.

L. M. Nelson, a German Gulch placer miner, in his mind, is followed about by a whole menagerie of wild animals. He has Noah put away back in the shade as a beast tamer. Occasionally he thinks the animals have attacked him, and then he flails the air with his arms, and puts up a fight that beats Sullivan at his best. Nelson has a number of other delusions. One is that his clothing belongs to the state and the United States. When this illusion gets hold of his mind he strips naked and casts the clothes through his cell door bars, spruning them as government property. He will be examined for dementia in a few days. He was placed in the county jail last night.

MORRISON DEVILISH AS EVER

Production Is Up to the MacLane Standard in Every Way.

Miss Mary MacLane herself could have found no fault with the Devil in Sutton's Broadway theater last night. He was fascinating and he had all the fire that would "burn, scourge, smother" her with love. Lewis Morrison, notwithstanding the years that he has played Satan in "Faust" has lost none of his art. He is just as intense, just as interesting, just as honest and just as conscientious in his work today as he was years and years ago. If anything, the production of "Faust" today is better than ever before. As "Margarite" Miss Rosabel Morrison was strong. Her work was delicate and characteristic. Mr. Morrison has a fairly strong company. The men's quartet was good and the solo by one young woman, whose identity, unfortunately, is hidden in the mass of names on the program, was unusually good and it earned the applause and encore it got. Well staged is "Faust" with fine electric and pyrotechnic effects. Its last production in town will be tonight.

DENVER GIRLS IN STRONG BOYCOTT

AID THE MEN IN A BITTER FIGHT ON RESTAURANT THAT EMPLOYS NON-UNION HELP.

DAN M'DONALD ATTEMPTS TO END A BIG STRIKE

Called to Denver in an Effort to Effect a Settlement With the Building Interests—Traveling Man Says Butte Is the Favorite in Race for Labor Conventions Next Year.

"You don't have women pickets in Butte, do you?" asked a Denver traveling man at one of the hotels this morning, as he pointed to a man who was carrying a big sign which proclaimed that a certain establishment was unfair. "For the first time in my experience, I saw women packing those signs the other day in Denver. They were restaurant employes and were on a strike for an increase of wages. The regular picket appointed by the union had paraded in front of the place for some time and at length a number of the girls from the restaurant employes union arrived. They had made up their mind that they would boycott the place. It was a cafe known as the Auditorium and the proprietors, two sisters, had decided to put up a bitter fight. "From what I could learn the boycotters were quite successful and judging from the energetic way they attacked a few men that attempted to go in while I was there they will make the restaurant close up or put up. Dan McDonald's Job. "By the way," said the Denver man, "Dan McDonald is taking a hand in the big lumber strike down there and through his efforts the trouble promises to come to a satisfactory termination. They have been having trouble something like this of yours in Denver and it had been a disastrous affair. The woodworkers at the yards made the first demand and carpenters all over the city were thrown out of work. If Mr. McDonald's attempt to settle the matter is not successful, the building interests of the city will receive a severe blow. "Mr. McDonald's wise and conservative manner of dealing with affairs of this kind have made him friends galore in Denver and there is no question about his re-election. Rarely have I seen a man who has won the approval of employers and men to the extent that the present president of the Western Labor union has done. Are All for Butte. "This morning the two conventions will open in the Coliseum and Wednesday the Western Labor union will meet in joint session with the Western Federation of Miners. "Denver has become quite a union town in the last few years and you could hear nothing but convention wherever you went. "I made some inquiries about the place of meeting for next year and found that the Federation would vote almost solid for Butte, which of course, means that the Western Labor Union will also vote for Butte as they must meet in the same town in order to hold their joint session. "Eugene Debs will draw a big house Wednesday night at his lecture as it is the first time he has been in active labor work for some time."
