

FEDERAL BUILDING WORK SOON BEGINS

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT SAYS THE BIDS ARE TO BE OPENED NEXT MONTH.

AMOUNT APPROPRIATED GOES INTO STRUCTURE

None of the Money is to Be Held Out, as is Customary, to Be Applied to Repairs, but All of the $300,000 Will be Expended in the Erection of the Building.

Postmaster George Irvin in his official capacity of custodian of the site for Butte's new federal building, is in receipt of a communication from J. Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury department at Washington, notifying him that bids for the construction of the new building will be opened next month, and that it is the intention of the department to expend the entire amount of $300,000 on the building.

As soon as Mr. Irvin learned of the final amount of the appropriation, and knowing that it is customary for the department to reserve some of the amount for repairs and from a general disposition to be economical, he wrote to Architect J. Knox Taylor, who, in reply, sent him the following letter which was received this morning:

"The receipt of your letter of the 29th ultimo, expressing the hope that the entire sum available for the construction of the United States building to be erected upon the site in your custody be expended, and suggesting that any surplus at the disposal of this office be used in some ornamentation of the perspective—a tower or such other embellishment—is hereby acknowledged.

"In reply, you are advised that it is the expectation of this office that the entire sum appropriated will be required to complete the building in a satisfactory manner.

"It is expected that the work will again be placed on the market some time during the coming month."

Means Large Building.

"While the amount of the appropriation is not as great as that asked by Senator Clark," said Mr. Irvin this morning, "it will give Butte a splendid building and one that will cost $75,000 more than we had at first expected. This will necessitate a new set of plans. In the main I believe that the outline of the building will be the same as before, but the addition in the appropriation will give some opportunity for embellishment and make it more handsome."

"As the site, which is at the northeast corner of Copper and Main streets, has already been purchased, all the money can now be expended on the building. The site was purchased from J. H. Leyson for $1.

When the last bids were asked for by the government, James Welsh was the lowest bidder, having offered to do the work for $270,500, but as this did not include the lighting and heating plants, which would approximate an additional expenditure of about $25,000, and whereas the total appropriation at that time was only $225,000, his bid was rejected.

JAMES DENNISON DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Police Magistrate of Walkerville and a Former Alderman Succumbs—Funeral Tomorrow.

James Dennison, police magistrate in Walkerville, died yesterday afternoon of pulmonary consumption and will be buried tomorrow from the family residence, No. 420 West Daly street, Walkerville. Mr. Dennison was 48 years old and leaves a widow, three daughters and a brother. The oldest daughter is 16 years.

Although Mr. Dennison had been ill some time he had been confined to his bed only a few days. Death was not unexpected, but is regretted by the friends of the family in the Hill city and the balance of Silver Bow county.

James Dennison was a popular man. By occupation he was a miner. For nearly 10 years he was employed as a shift boss in the Green Mountain, but about a year ago his health began to fail and he went to Deming, N. M., to see if a change of climate would prove beneficial. He remained there nearly all winter, returning to Montana about March 1 without having secured the desired relief. He was then an alderman from the Second ward of his town. On his return he assumed his official duties. At the April election he was elected police magistrate on the democratic ticket.

Mr. Dennison assumed the duties of the office May 7. June 7 he made his first report of the business of his department for May. About that time he was compelled to go to the hospital on account of illness and he never arose from it, although to those who called to see him he expressed the belief that he would soon be all right again. The members of his family were all present when the end came.

Mr. Dennison was born in the state of New York, but had been in the west many years. He came from Leadville to Montana about 15 years ago and lived here continuously up to the time of his death.

CREE WIFE LOOKS FOR HER HUSBAND

COMES FROM CANADA, BELIEVING HE IS IN BUTTE AND SHE WILL FIND HIM.

PATHETIC FAITH OF A DESERTED SQUAW

With Her Little Daughter She Wanders the Streets Confident That She Will Eventually Find Peter John Williams and He Will Take Her Back to Their Home and to His Heart.

Sad is the tale of a Cree Indian woman, Alaska Jane Skookum Williams. She has been wandering up and down the streets and alleys of Butte for a week seeking her recalcitrant white husband, Peter John Williams. Peter John deserted Alaska Jane Skookum in the Assiniboine country in Canada two years ago, and from that time to the present she has been searching for him.

With her there is a little girl about eight years old, a half shade whiter than Alaska Jane, and she claims Peter John for her father and wonders in her half savage, half civilized child mind what has become of him. She remembers that her white father was always good to her and she still misses him, although two years is a long time for the memory of a child of eight.

Her Heart is True.

Mrs. Skookum Williams wears a red calico dress, a red striped shawl, and a red handkerchief, the latter all bound round her shapely head and raven hair, but she speaks good English. She calls her husband "Mr. Williams," and she and the latter were married by a priest in the far Canadian land.

She was leaning pensively against an ash barrel in an alley between Park and Broadway when she was asked why Williams, who was a miner and prospector, deserted her, and she said with easy facility:

"Mistah Williams come down here see um pokes."

"Pokes" are evidently Mr. Williams' people, and they live somewhere in Montana, if the red wife was not told a falsehood by the white husband when he left the north aidy assisted by a saddle burro. Alaska Jane, the forsaken Cree, is quite comely, and the girl papoose who is a small prototype of her, is certainly cute. Peter John lacked taste as well as consideration, when he lusted and left the pair behind. What lured him away is entirely unknown. If he was enticed by a white woman, it must have been variety that weighed with his taste. But perhaps he ran away just because he tired of his family burdens and wanted to become a vagabond again.

Faith of a Squaw.

Mrs. A. Jane Skookum has not lost faith in Peter John. She does not believe he has gone for good. She thinks he will return but has been delayed. Thus is the faith of the simple savage illustrated. If she were a white woman she would have secured a divorce long ago, after having the summons published.

Another strange thing is that she believes that she will find Williams in Butte. She has been in hundreds of places during the past year, having waited a year at Howe's camp in Canada, where her home was, but this is the spot in which something tells her Peter John will be found and take her and his little child, Sallie Maria Tobasco, to his heart again.

EXPLOSION INSTANTLY KILLS A RARUS MINER

John E. Moen Strikes With His Pick Giant Powder, Resulting in Head Being Blown Nearly Off.

While shoveling on the site floor of the 1100-foot level of the Rarus mine about 10 o'clock last night, John E. Moen, a miner, was instantly killed by the explosion of a stick of giant powder.

Leslie Hope, another miner who was standing near at the time, was struck by the flying stones. He was injured about the face and head and was removed to the St. James' hospital, where he now lies in a serious condition.

Moen had entered the drift with Mike Shea, Nick Morris, William Weatherhead, miners, and with Claude Nylund and Morris King, shovelers. The men were standing ready to go to work. Moen picked up a shovel and walking around to the opposite end of the tram-car started to loosen the pile of rocks. The pick came in contact with some giant powder that had been thrown beneath some waste and instantly there was a deafening explosion.

Moen's head was almost torn from his body. That all the other men were not killed is due to the fact that their ears stood between them and the spot where Moen was killed.

Deputy Mine Inspector Barry examined the spot where the fatal accident occurred and stated that under the circumstances the accident was unavoidable.

Moen resided at the Central lodging house. He came to Butte about one year ago from Michigan and was unmarried. Coroner Johnson will hold an inquest at Richards' undertaking rooms this evening.

DENVER TO HAVE HEALING SCHOOL

MINISTERS BACK MOVEMENT TO PROVE SCIENTISTS HAVE NOT DIVINE RIGHTS.

WOMAN TEACHES THAT MIND RULES OVER MATTER

Object is to Strip Divine Healers and All Others of Their Claim That They Are Working Through the Deity—Will Charge Only $20 Instead of $50 for Instructions.

"I wonder if the people of Butte have many Christian or Divine Scientists among them? The ministers of Denver have just formed an alliance to wage a campaign on them that will show that everything they do in the way of healing can be done by mental healers without reference to religion," said John H. Forest at the Thornton today.

"I believe it's a new move. The object of the ministers is to strip the Divine and Christian Scientists of the pretense that their cures are effected through Divine Providence. The Denver clergy, headed by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Houghton, take the position that the cures are human and not divine, and are produced through psychic means and not religious power.

Cut Rates in Force.

"Dr. Houghton has started to establish a school of psychic teaching. The school will turn out doctors of mental healing. The pupils will be taught the power of mind over matter, and the course of instruction will cost them only $20 where the Christian and Divine Scientists charge $50.00.

"The ministers have secured a woman to head the school who is equal to any Divine healer in the business. Her power is one of mind over matter and has nothing to do with religion in any way. There is no theology connected with it, no spiritualism, no morals. It is purely a psychical force and operates on the mind of the sick person to cure the body.

"Mind Over Matter."

"This woman will provide people who want a mental cure for their ailments with mental treatment unmingled with a pretense that the power is divine or derived from the Deity. There will be no extraordinary religious ideas mixed with it. It will be mind acting upon matter, pure and simple, and I should think it would go far in that city toward educating people up to a different view of the force that effects the cures the Divine and Christian healers who profess that it springs from religion.

"The ministers of Denver want to counteract what they regard as the tendency to distort and degrade religion through putting it to what in their opinion is a spurious use."

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

Butte, Montana, April 8, 1902. To Thomas L. Porter, or Assigns: You are hereby notified that I have expended during the year 1901 one hundred dollars in labor and improvements upon the Julian Lode claim, situated in Summit Valley mining district, Silver Bow county, Montana, about 4 1/2 miles southeast of Butte City, Montana, of which I am the owner. I have found a record on Page 76 of Book "D" of lode claims, in the office of the recorder of said county of Silver Bow, in order to hold said claim under the laws of the United States concerning annual labor upon mining claims, being the amount required to hold said lode for the year ending on the 31st day of December, 1901. And if within ninety days after publication hereof, you fail to contribute your proportion of said expenditure, as a co-owner by payment to me or to my agents, the J. E. Richards Co., at Butte, Montana, your interest in the claim will become the property of the subscriber, your co-owner, by the provisions of said laws.
