DUPED BY A DOPE FIEND

Detective Murphy and Sergeant Dawson Run on a Wild-Goose Chase.

Detective Jerry Murphy and Sergeant William Dawson will be more careful in the future before they act on the stories of strange women. They were sitting in the jail office when a woman gave her name as Mrs. Mary Blonstein rushed in and declared her husband had been foully murdered and buried beneath the family residence at No. 336 East Silver street.
The Argus-eyed officers saw visions of a terrible tragedy and hastened with the woman to her home.
She showed them to the cellar and there Detective Murphy armed with a shovel and Sergeant Dawson with a pick worked for two hours. They left not a foot of the cellar untouched and finally in desperation turned to Mrs. Blonstein for a further clue.
The woman by this time was talking and acting in a manner to leave no doubt on the minds of the officers that she was insane.
They saw they had been made the easy dupe of a woman laboring under an hallucination and left the place in disgust.
When they reached the front gate of the home they saw the object of their search standing on the sidewalk quietly smoking.

FALLEN WOMAN SEEKS OBLIVION IN SUICIDE

Annie Driscoll, Weary of Degradation, Ends a Life of Shame With Laudanum.

Annie Driscoll, a white woman, who for a year past had occupied the cabin at No. 10 Wyoming alley with Louis Cooper, the negro dog catcher, died this morning at 9 o'clock from the effects of a two-ounce bottle of laudanum which she drank with suicidal intent last evening at 8 o'clock.
The Driscoll woman was about 30 years of age. For several years past she has been living a life of shame and it is supposed that the strong realization of her degradation in living with a negro drove her to the suicide.
At 8 o'clock yesterday evening Lillie Gallagher, a woman who occupies a hut next to that of the Driscoll woman, heard the latter call for help. She ran into her neighbor's house to see Annie Driscoll apparently dying on the bed.
"I have taken poison," cried the Driscoll woman. "Get a doctor, quick."
Dr. Smetters was hastily summoned. He did everything he could for the woman but he realized, as did also Dr. Sullivan, who came in to help him later, that she lacked the vitality necessary to recover. This morning she grew rapidly worse. Dr. Sullivan was again summoned to her bedside, but she was beyond medical aid and at 9 o'clock died.
Mrs. E. A. Driscoll, mother of the self-murdered woman, sat praying at her daughter's bedside to the last. It was a sad case of a wayward daughter and an aged mother, whose heart went out to her child in forgiveness, even though the good name of the family had been dragged into the mire of shame.
Coroner Johnson will hold an inquest this afternoon at Tschell's undertaking establishment.

LIST FAILS TO PROVIDE

Wife Alleges He Denies Her the Necessities, Although Well Fixed.

Nellie List is suing Alma List for a decree of divorce. In her complaint, filed in the district court today, she says the marriage of Mr. List and herself was solemnized in Idaho Falls, Idaho, on December 7, 1886, and that for more than a year he has failed to provide her with the common necessities of life, although he has the means.

Foulard Silk Sale

Magnificent Bargains for the Present Week

Every woman of fashion knows the value of a rich foulard silk during the summer season. Certainly no silk drapes so gracefully, no silk for the amount invested, is any way as attractive or effective in design and coloring, and no silk retains its pristine beauty for hot weather wear like a foulard. We have an unusually large and handsome stock of these fine goods; too many in fact, and for that reason we make the following offer:

Fine Foulard Silks Our $1.25 and $1.50 Values Only 89c yard Without reserve we offer this choice of all our $1.25 and $1.50 foulard silks for 89c yard.	Fancy Taffeta Silk Regular 75c Quality Only 49c yard Twenty-five pieces of these fancy taffeta silks in a beautiful line of colorings; 75c values for 49c.	Fine Foulard Silks Regular $1.00 Values Only 65c yard A dollar is the popular price for these fine silks. Now we give the choice of our entire line, 65c yard.
