

WOULD-BE SUICIDE HAS LOST MEMORY

FRED SNYDER, WHO CUT HIS THROAT IN JAIL, LOSES ALL RECOLLECTION OF PAST.

RASH ACT WAS CAUSED BY EXCESSIVE DRINK

It is believed that he would make another attempt at self-destruction and he is kept manacled—has been in Montana about two years, he thinks—formerly Coloradan.

Very painful was the condition in which Fred Snyder, the insane man who cut his throat in the county jail yesterday, found himself this morning. There is not much likelihood of the wound proving fatal, but at present he is living with his hands manacled to his sides and he cannot move his head to the right or the left.

Snyder was up, walking around this morning, and able to eat a little. His mind seemed to be rational, but his memory was blurred.

He was captured at Crystal Springs day before yesterday, but he did not know that he had ever been there.

"Where were you when you lost track of yourself?" he was asked.

He studied for a long time, and replied that he thought he was drinking around on the flat some place. He did not know where.

"Did you drink much?" "Well, I guess I drank quite a little," he replied.

Has Lost His Memory.

He did not know what made him cut his throat, or where he was or where he got the razor. He had an impression of the place where he committed the act, however, and it was not in the jail. He said that there were long bars and tables in the room, and little children were playing around them, and that he came tumbling into the room with his throat cut.

"They said I came tumbling into the room with my throat cut and fell to the floor," he kept repeating to himself.

Snyder used to live at Colorado Springs with a sister, now dead. He had also an aunt. He was in the hardware business at Cheyenne once. For two years he had been in this state, he thought, and had kept himself alive washing dishes and tending bar.

It may be that Snyder is suffering from temporary dementia on account of excessive drinking, but in all probability he will be examined for insanity. The manacles are kept on his wrists to prevent him from tearing the bandages off his throat and doing himself further injury.

FRIENDS BELIEVE HE IS MENTALLY UNSOUND

James O'Toole Mysteriously Disappears From Home, Leaving Wife and Child Behind.

Worn with waiting in vain for her husband, who mysteriously disappeared from home the first day of May last, Mrs. James O'Toole calls every day at the office of the International Detective agency to inquire if anything has been learned of the whereabouts of her lost partner for week or weeks.

The agency detectives have worked night and day to discover some clue that would lead up to the finding of James O'Toole, but all traces of him seem to be totally obliterated.

For a long while O'Toole worked as a pumpman on the 600-foot level of the Rarus mine. He lived happily with his wife and one child, a little girl, at No. 302 South Gaylord street, until the last day of May, when he disappeared.

No cause for his sudden departure can be assigned.

"We have sent descriptions of O'Toole throughout the West," said Manager Wainick of the International Detective agency, "but his disappearance seems to be shrouded in deepest mystery. I am sure there was no foul play, and, on the other hand, I am just as confident that O'Toole did not mean to desert his family. The only theory I can advance is that he was mentally unbalanced at the time of his departure, and this theory seems to be most acceptable to his friends.

Mrs. O'Toole is heartbroken over the strange absence of her husband, and the little girl cries all day for "papa."

The detective agency has offered a reward for any information that will lead to the discovery of O'Toole's whereabouts. The missing man owned some oil fields thought to be very valuable, in the north-western part of the state, but communications from there are to the effect that he has not been seen in those parts. He formerly worked in Seattle, and the police of that city are on the lookout for him.

O'Toole is described as being 6 feet 1 1/2 inches tall, weight 175 pounds and 30 years of age. He has black hair parted on the left, blue eyes, good teeth, long neck and a large nose. He is a large, well-built man. O'Toole's old mother lives at Watertown, Minn., and she is said to be prostrated over the news of her son's disappearance.

MARTIN GLAD THAT PERRY IS NO MORE

CYNICAL PRISONER AT COUNTY JAIL EXULTS BECAUSE DEATH CLAIMED ITS PREY.

DID TIME IN DUNGEON FOR CURSING COUNTY JAILER

"Scotty" Perry, a Malicious Joker, Whose Chaffing Left a Sting—A Scotchman Canny but Unkind—Delight in Villainy His Chief Characteristic—Cursed Jailer and Played Pranks.

William Perry, known to his familiars as "Scotty" Perry, the man who committed suicide in the state prison yesterday rather than face a 30-year sentence in that institution, left a reputation for hardness of character and cynical wickedness rarely equalled.

"Scotty," though he killed himself, was seldom without a smile when addressed by visitors to the jail. But his smile was not one of kindly feeling. On the contrary, it was the essence of cynical, witty, malicious good-humor.

When "Scotty" spoke it was usually with pleasantry so far as his manner was concerned, but his views could not have been harsher. He was a Scotchman, and instead of belonging to the God-fearing, canny, sober-spoken class, he was cynical and atheistical to the bone. He was regarded by the police and the sheriff's office as an incorrigible in the matter of malicious wickedness.

JAMES MARTIN.

He is Glad William Perry, Who Played Malicious Trick, is Dead.

Malice His Forte.

He never was so delighted as when rejoicing in some piece of villainy successfully consummated. His jokes were always given point by a vein of malice, and while he was usually amenable to discipline, sometimes the evil that was under the joking exterior and the crafty smile, broke out and led him into indiscretions that brought his feet to the dark cell underneath the jail. He was there not long ago in company with James Martin, the man who is charged with the murder of Fireman Williams at Silver Bow, for cursing the jailer. While in the dungeon he played tricks on Martin.

Martin himself is the most extraordinary man in one respect who has been confined in the county jail on a charge of murder for years. His nerve and his devil-may-care indifference to his situation are astonishing.

In the jail this morning he asked a visitor: "Is Perry dead?" "Yes," was the reply.

"He is?" "Yes."

Rejoices at Misfortune.

"I'm glad of it," he said with a smile and tossed his head and walked away from the bars as if something inspiring and pleasant had happened.

Then he added irrelevantly: "He has my best wishes." His smile continued, and it was evident that the death of his recent jail comrade passed as lightly over him as a cat's paw of wind sweeps over a field of corn.

At the state prison Perry is believed to have taken the morphine that killed one in the corridor in which he was removed from there to the prison. A prisoner in the corridor in which he was held captive said this morning that Perry was not far from dead in his opinion when he left the jail.

There are so many visitors to the county jail, and so many prisoners coming and going that it is impossible to prevent the inmates from getting morphine. A quantity was found in Perry's possession and taken away from him a short time ago.

CHAIRMAN BRAY OF PARADE COMMITTEE SAYS MARDI GRAS WILL BE OBTAINED

BUTTE STREETS TO BE THROGGED BY VISITORS

Believed That 100,000 People Will Witness Parade—Money is Coming in Slowly, but Committees are Working Hard—All Secret Societies are Invited to Participate, as are Merchants.

"We are getting all kinds of money for the Fourth of July celebration, but we can't find people to collect it," said Chairman A. F. Bray of the executive committee this morning.

"Industrious members of the ward committees are taking in the money fast enough, but the industrious ones are very few. Everybody seems to be glad enough to contribute and when we get a few more collectors in the field we will have a comfortable sum."

Dr. J. E. Coperthwaite, treasurer for the fund from the Goddess of Liberty contest, also is kept busy taking in money and votes for the favorites, who are now strung out on the homestretch, four in a bunch.

Miss Mabel Zinn is leading by a length, having 838 votes; Miss Laura Kilgallon and Miss Carrie Bowman are running neck and neck for second place, Miss Kilgallon having 783 and Miss Bowman 769, while Miss Mabel Zinn is still in the running and is coming with 534.

All Secret Societies Invited.

"We have issued invitations to the secretaries of all secret societies to take part in the parade," said Dr. Coperthwaite. "In some cases we have not been able to obtain addresses, so we would like to make the official announcement in the newspapers that all secret societies, unions and military organizations are invited to participate. Later, Captain D'Gay Stivers, who will be marshal of the day, will announce the order of the parade. We are anxious to receive notification from the societies so that the marshal can arrange in advance for the order of march.

Merchants and mercantile establishments are also invited to take part and send floats, if possible. We are much pleased at the decision of the Miners' union to send a float, which promises to be one of the attractive features of the parade.

"We have already been notified of the intention of a number of delegations from outside towns to come to the celebration, and it is safe to predict that there will be 100,000 people in Butte on the Fourth, notwithstanding the fact that many will go to Helena to witness the inauguration of the capitol building and to attend the Woodmen meeting."

The Battalion of Horribles.

Phil Gillis is not saying much these days about his battalion of horrors, but he is making a steady hunt for all the fantastic and grotesque costumes that can be found in the stores or devised by the brain of imaginative modistes.

No festival of the Middle Ages, no Mardi Gras or Doneybrook fair ever presented such an aggregation of freakish make-ups as that which the Butte public will witness under the command of Brigadier General Philip Bizarre Gillis on the glorious Fourth of July.

LEE LITTLE AND WIFE ON IMPERILED PORTLAND

Former Prominent Butte Miner on Steamer Now Being Hurried Into Arctic by Ice.

One of a hundred imperiled passengers on the ill-fated steamer Portland, caught in the ice floes on her way to France from Seattle, and when last seen being hurried into the Arctic ocean by the relentless elements, is Lee Little, for many years a resident of Butte and prominent in mining circles here. Mr. Little is accompanied by his wife. They took passage on the Portland April 26, for a trip to Alaska, partly of business, partly of pleasure. It is thought improbable that either the steamer or her human cargo will ever be heard of again.

The Portland was last sighted June 3, near the Behring straits, by the steamer Nome City, which also had a close call and escaped the floes only by taking refuge behind an island. The Nome City officers say that the Portland was hopelessly fast in the ice and drifting northward at a rapid rate. The revenue cutter Thetis was dispatched to her aid, but it is not believed that that vessel can come up with the Portland in time. The steamer is stoutly built, but her iron sides would prove egg-shells in a collision of floes.

Butteites will learn with anxiety the precarious condition of Mr. and Mrs. Little, who were well known and popular here. Mr. Little is famous as the first mining expert to give news to Butte of the gold fields at Nome. He was one of the earliest prospectors in that region and returned, as soon as convinced of the value of the fields, with the accounts of the new Eldorado. With his wife he left Butte several years ago and has since resided either upon the coast or in Nome.

When Buying Clothes for Yourself

FIRST: The Connell store sells clothes made by two makers only—Stein-Bloch Co. and Hart, Schaffner & Marx. These two makers are well known as the best in the United States. No matter which you choose.

You Can't Make a Mistake

You take better care of your clothes when they fit well. Clothes wear better when they fit correctly.

Open Saturday Nights Until 10

"Cheap" clothes are nearly always the dearest. You can buy them in scores of stores. If you judge by price alone when you buy clothes, you'll always be poorly dressed in ill fitting baggy garments. To keep up appearances you must buy two or three such suits, instead of one first-class suit. From now until July Fourth we will sell

All Wool Cheviot Suits at $10.00

While these suits are not the best, they are cut and finished quite as well—such suits would be called "best" in many stores—but you know we have a standard, and that standard always counts for the customer.

OLD PEOPLE

Do not always receive the sympathy and attention which they deserve. Their ailments are regarded as purely imaginary, or natural and unavoidable at their time of life. Disease and infirmity should not always be associated with old age. The eye of the gray haired grandsire may be as bright and the complexion as fair as any of his younger and more vigorous companions.

Good Blood is the secret of healthy old age for it regulates and controls every part of the body, strengthens the muscles elastic and supple, the bones strong and the flesh firm; but when this fluid is polluted or poisoned and loses its nutritive, health sustaining elements, then there is a rapid decline of the vital powers, resulting in premature old age and disease. Any derangement of the blood quickly shows itself in some kind of ulcer, sore, wart, tumor or some other troublesome growth upon the body, and rheumatic and neuralgic pains become almost constant, accompanied with poor digestion and cold extremities.

S. S. S. being purely vegetable, is the safest and best blood purifier for old people. It does not shock or hurt the system like the strong mineral remedies, but gently and thoroughly cleanses the blood and stimulates the debilitated organs, when all bodily ailments disappear.

S. S. S. is just such a tonic as old people need to improve a weak digestion and tone up the stomach. If there is any hereditary taint, or the remains of some disease contracted in early life, S. S. S. will search it out and remove every vestige of it from the system.

Write us fully about your case and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will mail free our book on blood and skin diseases.
