BIG ELK PARADE AT COMING MEET

MONSTER PAGEANT AT SALT LAKE TO SURPASS ANYTHING EVER SEEN IN THE WEST.

SCORE OF LODGES TO COMPETE FOR PRIZES

Many Novel Features Are to Be Introduced and All the Famous Bands, Including Former Prize-Winners, Will Be in Line—Western Lodges Will Not Be Behindhand With Exhibits.

Local Elks will be interested in the preparations being made for their entertainment in Salt Lake at the annual powwow, and especially in the street parade, always the feature of the meeting. The attendance is expected to break all records, and as Salt Lake is a great town for the B. P. O. E., it is expected that a rousing good time will be had. Butte will be well represented and the local delegation will make an appropriate figure in the parade.

This great event is to be pulled off the second day of the convention. Competing for prizes will be lodges from all over the United States. They are awarded on the general appearance of the contestants, bearing, beauty and originality, number in line, and the most unique display in the pageant. To win the first prize is the biggest honor possible for a lodge, and in devising a uniform, whether it be unique, grotesque or handsome, neither time nor money is taken into consideration in the designing and making.

As a general thing, the lodges making an earnest competition for the prizes upon the peculiarities or chief industry of their section of the country to furnish them an idea for the costume they wear. Such costumes are not only unique, but instructive as well, for they give one an insight into the characteristics of different parts of the United States, which he would not glean otherwise. And the parade will be interesting because it will be the first of its kind to be seen in the West.

From the Sunny South.
A unique lodge to march will be the Greenville, Mass., No. 148. They will represent the sunny South in its minutest details. The idea was taken from the cotton growing district of Mississippi. In the parade will be negro men, women, boys and girls, as well as the "old parson," who is considered the "peer" of his flock.

In addition to this novel feature they are going to bring a few bales of cotton, that the western people may see the manner the "fleece staple" is prepared for market. Their grips are made in imitation of miniature cotton bales. Besides these features they will display the different products of cotton and cotton seed. Their badge will be made of cotton material, emblematic of the country. This lodge won the first prize last year at Milwaukee.

Cattle Industry Represented.
Cattle is the chief industry of the western part of the south, and it will be represented in the great parade in a most appropriate manner by the Phoenix, Ariz., lodge. This lodge will come to Zion 100 strong, headed by Billy Meyers, known throughout that territory. Those Elks will be uniformed as cowboys, wearing sombreros.

From Oshkosh, Wis., will come a representative delegation, entirely different from either of the above. This contingent will appear as a band of Indians, the exalted ruler of the lodge taking the character of the famous old chief for whom the city has been named. From Sioux Falls, S. D., may come another band of Elks disguised as Sioux, some member of the lodge impersonating old Sitting Bull.

Colorado Fruitgrowers.
Canon City, Colo., will come to the grand lodge meeting dressed as fruit-growers. The uniform will be adorned with clusters of natural fruits, instead of flowers and other usual decorations. While in Salt Lake the delegation will open an exhibition and distribute to all samples of fruits grown in and around that city.

The boys from Philadelphia will be easily distinguished in the column by their Puritan uniform, in which the picture of William Penn takes a prominent place. Another noted individual, whose name is associated indelibly with his state, will be pictured in the parade, General Frederick Funston. He will be honored by the Topeka delegation. The badge worn by that contingent will be a large artificial sunflower, under which will be a likeness of the man who captured the Filipino chief.

The Grand Rapids delegation will join those of Chicago and Milwaukee and journey to Zion together. The delegation will bring with it the noted Furniture City band. Donations have been made by the leading furniture men of the home city to the amount of $1,000, which will be given to the band in case it fails to capture the first prize in the band contest in which it will enter.

WIFE WENT WILFULLY—HUSBAND ASKS DIVORCE

Matthias Flanagan Says His Better-Half Deserted Him Without Perceptible Cause.

Suit for divorce on the ground of desertion was brought in the district court today by Matthias Flanagan against his wife, Margaret Flanagan. An order for the publication of the summons was also filed. Flanagan alleges in his complaint that he and the defendant were married at St. Paul, Minn., October 14, 1899, and that Mrs. Flanagan deserted him in 1892. He says she deserted him wilfully and without cause and lacking his consent. All Flanagan asks for is his freedom. The affidavit accompanying the order for the publication of the summons says that Mrs. Flanagan never lived in Montana, and that her last place of residence was St. Paul.

SLEPT TOO LATE TO COME BEFORE JUDGE

KING OF DARKTOWN, UNDER BOND FOR A HEARING, APOLOGIZES POLITELY FOR DELAY.

CHARGED WITH KEEPING A DISORDERLY HOUSE

Police Hold a Merry Round-up and Corral the Ethiopian Potentate and Eight of His Subjects—Holmes Is Released Upon Personal Recognizance and Is Independent in the Extreme.

Once again the police raided Harvey Holmes' notorious colored club at No. 128 South Arizona street. This time the raid resulted in the gathering in of eight of the colored subjects of the "King of Darktown" and the "King" himself.

The round-up was made about 1 o'clock by Patrolmen Yutz, Ingraham, Roach and Shovelin and, besides Holmes, these were caught in the dragnet: Tex Campbell, Will Jackson, Alonzo Stark, Will Williams, James Majors, Ed Dukes, Cal McKenna and Andrew Gibson.

Holmes was charged with keeping a disorderly house and the others were charged with vagrancy and disturbance. The "King" was released on the personal recognizance of Agent Fred Snyder of the American brewery, Great Falls. The others remained in jail.

Not Guilty, of Course.
This morning all of the men slated as "vags" appeared in court and pleaded not guilty to the charges. Their cases were set for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Holmes did not appear and an investigation showed that there was no bond which could be forfeited. Chief Reynolds having released the "King" on a personal recognizance.

There was much comment over the fact that Holmes again showed his disregard of the city authorities and an order was issued to bring in both Holmes and his bondsmen.

Later Holmes appeared in Judge Boyle's private office with the statement that he had overslept himself.

"What are you going to do about this, Harvey?" said the judge.

"I'm not guilty."

"We'll set the case for tomorrow with the rest of them," said the judge.

Doesn't Own the Place.
"Say now you know, judge, I don't own that place no more," said the "King." "I sold out there place to M. L. Fisher and C. Malone and I don't have no more in it."

"All right," said Judge Boyle. "Issue warrants, Billy, for Fisher and Malone. That place has got to be closed and if they own it we'll arrest them."

"Well, you see, judge, it's this way. I done sold that there place but they ain't paid me my money yet. See? I sold the place but I ain't got my money yet. They sent to Denver for it."

"Well, we'll issue the warrants and see."

"Ef it's jest the same to you, judge, I'll bring 'em into court myself tomorrow without the warrants."

"Get out the warrants," was the court order.

The warrant for Fisher was issued and the colored man was brought into the station by Officer Barney McGillicie to pose before Judge Boyle.

Fisher Pleads Not Guilty.
"Loorhere, Judge," said Fisher, as he came to the front in the private office. "Dis 'ere ting don't go wif me. I done stand nit for dat work. I done stand fer ma rights and I don't own dat place ob Harvey Holmes. We was gon' to buy it today, but we done got our hellynd now, judge. Youah just put me down for inoffensive. I don't own dat place."

Fisher was held to be tried tomorrow with Holmes in order that the ownership of the place can be settled.

"This talk of Harvey Holmes breaking even with anybody," said Mayor Davey, "is all hosh. If he wants to know who ordered his place closed you can say that the arrests would have been made the night before if there had been a crowd in there. The place has got to close, no matter who runs it."

The remark of the executive was called forth by the statement of Holmes to Judge Boyle that the officers had stated they had orders from Chief Reynolds to close the place and the further boast of Holmes that Reynolds denied issuing the orders after the arrests were made.
