

Doings of Society.

ADDED to the routine out-door attractions and sports, society now has the daily races, and so has donned its most gladsome raiment and gone forth to see the pretty stride of the high-bred creatures girding in thrilling rivalry around the sweep of the circular track with the gay colors of the athletic and lithe little jockeys marking the relative positions of the flying competitors.

The splendid equine, with his light, graceful limbs, his dilating, sensitive nostrils and his dancing, dainty, light-footed movements, as he eagerly awaits the signal for the start, is indeed a thing of beauty to look upon, and aside from the less picturesque element of commercialism, the race itself is an exhilarating thing to view.

Those who are inclined to chide society for its proneness to attend the races, if they would but read the powerful and thrilling description of the English derby in "Under Two Flags" might find the reason. "Ouida," who is the warm friend of all horses, possesses a power of description and a sympathy for the noble animals that endears her to all lovers of dumb creatures among her readers.

The races are fashionable, and every afternoon the grandstand is gay with the holiday gowns of Butte's elite.

Baseball, too, is not being overlooked. Baseball parties are quite as much in vogue as theater parties, golf parties or pink teas. With three months of glorious summer weather before us, and such a variety of wholesome out-door amusements at hand, we ought not, certainly, to be dull in Butte.

WOODEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Dr. and Mrs. Ignatius Donnelly to Mark Birth Year of Nuptial Bliss.

Dr. and Mrs. Ignatius Donnelly will celebrate their wooden wedding anniversary this evening at the Finlen at a banquet and card party.

Covers will be laid for eight, and there will be novel features appropriate to the celebration. The cards will be of birch bark and some of the courses will be served on wooden plates. The centerpiece of massed roses will rest in a miniature wooden boat. The dinner will be very elaborate.

Whist is to follow and a number of other guests will join the company. Later in the evening light refreshments will be served on wooden plates with wooden spoons.

Mrs. Donnelly's entertainments are always novel and clear and in the celebration of her wooden wedding she will afford her guests a number of pretty surprises.

GIVES A CARNATION WHIST.

Miss Maloney of the Thornton Entertains at Home of Friend.

Miss Maloney, of the Thornton hotel, entertained a number of friends Thursday evening at a carnation whist party, given at the home of her friend, Miss Annie Ward, on North Montana street.

The decorations were in red and green, scarlet carnations and green ribbons being used. The score cards were also in red and green.

Luncheon was served on a polished table strewn with numerous doliies, all in carnation patterns. The guests were: Dr. and Mrs. I. Donnelly, Dr. Hammerstein, Miss Kate Moran, the Misses McDonald, Miss Annie Ward, Miss Mae McCaffrey, Miss Ida Mae Jeffries, Mr. Charles Burke, Dr. V. J. Keenan, Mr. C. Vincent, Mr. Jas. Egan and Mr. Ransom Rice.

Mr. Rice entertained the company with several piano selections during the evening.

The Benefit Ball.

The benefit ball given at Columbia Gardens Tuesday evening was very largely attended. Several dancing parties were arranged for the evening and the balcony seats were filled with fashionable patrons and patronesses of the Boston & Montana band.

Mrs. Jessie Wharton was hostess to a party of eight, the guests being Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, Mrs. W. L. Rennie, Mrs. J. K. Heslet, Mrs. Eugene Carroll, Mrs. J. R. Russell and Mrs. Charles Clark. The ladies were joined later in the evening by a number of gentlemen.

Complimentary Terpsichorean Evening.

Miss Ethel Doffeneyer was complimented by Miss Minnie Denny at a dancing party given in her honor Thursday evening, the company being conveyed to the gardens in a special car. There were about fifty guests, and the affair was a very enjoyable one.

After dancing until near midnight the party returned to town and were served with a collation at Miss Doffeneyer's home, Mrs. Harry Kennedy, Mrs. W. H. Denny and Mrs. George E. Clark assisting the hostess.

Equal Suffrage Club to Meet.

Once more the Equal Suffrage club is to be heard from. It seems that the inspiration of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and its effect was not, despite pessimistic prophecies, of the kind of mushroom growth that dies out as rapidly as it develops. The earnest women (and men) interested in the educational progress of the less stern, but equally determined sex, are to meet at the office of Mrs. Ella Knowles Haskell, in the Silver Bow block, on Tuesday evening, when they will adopt by-laws and effect a permanent organization. Luke Kelly, acting president, will be in the chair. Standing committees will be appointed and the organization made ready to forge ahead.

A Stag Soiree.

One of those innocently jovial, exclusively masculine social gatherings which are popularly known as stag parties, is to "vex with mirth the drowsy car of night" in the neighborhood of the elegant edifice on West Galena street, known as the Clark barn, tonight, Mr. Will Clark, Jr., to be the host.

Last season, upon the completion of Mr.

stables have an ample number of commodious stalls, fitted with halters and hitching ropes. Indisposed guests will have their comfort well seen too.

Ye Scribes Feast Socially.

Manager Heilbronner and Mr. J. R. Wharton extended the hospitality of Columbia Gardens to the scribes of the city Thursday evening at an elaborate banquet. All the newspaper men from the local papers were asked to gather festively around the social board, and during the evening, at such times as the newspaper man may call his own, 'twixt the calls of duty, he was in attendance to the number in all of about thirty.

Though not prone by reason of the demands of duty to flit about to a great extent in society, there are none more ready or more fitted than he, to enjoy those banquets which come his way. Hence the stag affair of Tuesday evening was one of rare enjoyment.

The somewhat smaller contingent of feminine scribes are promised, at the hands of Mr. Wharton, a similar splendid banquet, adopted, however, to the feminine limitations.

Mary MacLane to Travel.

Miss Mary MacLane, Butte's erratic authoress, is to travel through the East. Those who have read her pitiful and absurd little story will be glad to know that the barren limitations of which she so plaintively wrote are to be hers no more and that her really bright, though pitifully warped mentality, is to have wider opportunities. A little travel will doubtless be grateful to her cramped life and eliminate the absurdity and silliness that spoils her otherwise clever and wonderfully analytical literary endeavor.

Miss MacLane leaves on July 1, under the guiding and chaperoning wing of Miss Fannie Corbin.

Jollity at the Gardens.

A jolly party of young folks enjoyed a merry afternoon and evening at the Gardens on Monday. Misses Laura Mills, Lizzie Osenberg, Mae Miller, Allie Kemper, Lulu Prentice and Glays Bowen, chaperoned by Mrs. C. N. Prentice and ing by Miss Nell Lloyd, Miss Alice Lowry, Miss Annie Lowry, Mrs. A. F. Morgan and Mrs. A. D'Acqui.

There were over 60 guests, all prettily and modishly gowned at the gathering about the social kettle, and the pretty sunflower tea was one of the largest and most fashionable of the season.

The Younger Set Dance.

Miss Julia Belle Horgan charmingly entertained at a children's dancing party in honor of Miss Lita Bellinger of Spokane Monday evening from 7 to 11 o'clock. Some 70 little ones took party in the festivity.

The Horgan home was beautifully decorated in pink carnations and ribbon, the color scheme being charmingly carried out in detail, even the bonbons and ice cream being of the same dainty color.

Miss Eleanor Horgan, seated at the piano-forte, provided the measures for the dancing and the gay crowd of juvenies took merry advantage of the music. Miss Julia entertained her large assemblage of guests very gracefully.

When the younger set, in the lapse of quick rolling time, become the personnel of Butte's "grown-up" society, the graceful little hostess of Monday afternoon will assuredly be a society belle.

The guests were: Misses Jessie Wharton, Carrie Wharton, Lillian Vivian, Nan Vivian, Geraldine Forbis, Marjorie Forbis, Carrie Lowry, May Lowry, Georgie Dawson, Josephine Dawson, Frances Russell, Helen Hanson, Tinnie Largey, Mae Duggan, Pet Walker, Margaret Morgan, Margaret Murray, Margaret Leonard, Roberta Smith, Bernice Bachelor, Frances Turner, Agnes Lavell, Florence Tuohy, Helen Smith, Margaret Hennessy, Elizabeth Hodgens, Drea Johnstone, Margaret Weimesary, Wynne Berry, Rita Bellinger, Julia Horgan; Masters John Forbis, George Vivian, George Fair, Whitford Gillis, Patsy Lloyd, Eugene Lavell, William Lavell, Charles Lavell, Wade Forbis, Robert Forbis, Jack Forbis, Harry Lindley, Hal Johnstone, Clarke Johnstone, Edgar Wilder, Frank Leonard, D'Arcy Brophy, John Brophy, P. There were over 60 guests, all prettily and modishly gowned at the gathering about the social kettle, and the pretty sunflower tea was one of the largest and most fashionable of the season.

Graduate of Sacred Heart Academy, Ogden, Carrying Off Musical Honors.

Among the graduates of the Sacred Heart Academy, Ogden, was Miss Edna Smith Cannon of Butte. Miss Cannon, who has been attending the school for the past two years, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Cannon of Butte. She carried off the musical honors at the commencement exercises, as well as the first premium in eight or nine different studies.

Miss Cannon is an accomplished musician and has won unstinted praise while in this city from the press and public for her many renditions of difficult and classical selections.

spended prettily. "Our Teachers" was offered by Mr. Edgar Andrieux.

Mr. William J. MacMahon was quite clever and easy in the role of toastmaster.

The banquet was a success in its entirety and reflected much credit upon the committee on arrangements. The guests were: Mrs. Bernard Noon, Misses Deborah Gibbons, Kathryn Ronan, Evelyn Hoit, Josephine Kellett, Delia Gibbons, Mary Leary, Margaret Leahy, Elenore Driscoll, Helen Dalton, Honora Lyons, Mary MacMahon, Frances Dillon, Anna O'Brien, Rev. Fathers P. De Siere, J. J. Callihan, P. Batens, J. English, C. Harrington and McGlynn, P. J. Ryan, P. J. Ahern, J. Giaccolani, Messrs. Clement Burkard, W. J. MacMahon, J. E. A Sunflower Tea.

A pretty sunflower tea was given in compliment to Miss Florence Simpson of Scranton, Pa., on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, by the Misses Sanders, Miss Simpson, who is the guest of Miss Nell Lloyd, is a graduate of Dana college, and the color scheme so artistically carried out was in accordance with the Dana colors, in compliment to the guest of honor.

The decorations throughout the house were of the pretty yellow flowers and the tea tables were gay with yellow and brown.

The hostesses were assisted in receiving

Kismets' Euchre Club.

Mrs. A. Booth entertained the Kismet club at her home on South Dakota street on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. H. C. Laughlin was the fortunate winner of both the first and lone-hand prizes, a handsome salad bowl and a pretty bisque flower girl statuette.

Mrs. S. Buckles won the second prize, a prettily painted plate.

Mrs. David Dixon was awarded the consolation, an ivory paper knife.

Three substitutes, representing absent members, were Mrs. J. V. Suprenant, Miss Dorothy Suprenant and Mrs. J. D. Prentice. In addition to these were the regular contestants—Mrs. David Dixon, Mrs. H. C. Laughlin, Mrs. S. Buckles, Mrs. Fred Squires, Mrs. T. A. Grigg, Mrs. David Reinhardt, and Mrs. Pat Mullins.

Mrs. Ferrell's Luncheon.

Mrs. C. G. Ferrell was hostess at a party luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Miss J. P. Roe of Missoula. The rooms and luncheon tables were nicely decorated in pink carnations and roses.

Those in attendance were Mrs. Tom Richards, Mrs. George Noble, Mrs. Jessie Holmes, Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. A. Hobert, Miss Glays Bowen and the hostess.

Robert Montagne Sutherland and Miss Esther Martin were united in marriage last Saturday afternoon by Rev. John Hosking in the presence of a few friends. Mr. William Martin was best man and Lizzie Bennetts bridesmaid. The young couple started for Salt Lake to spend a couple of weeks.

He Got Off Easy.

[Chicago News.]

Hix—I played in great luck yesterday.

Hix—How's that?

Hix—Found a pocketbook containing a lot of valuable papers and $1,000 in cash. It belonged to old Groucherly and I returned it to him this morning.

Hix—Got a liberal reward, eh?

Hix—Not a cent.

Hix—Then where did your luck come in?

Hix—Why, he didn't charge me any interest on the money while it was in my possession.

That Was Different.

[Los Angeles Herald.]

Fond Parent—Why in the name of gumption is that kid of Nездore's yelling around our yard?

Fond Parentess—Why, George! I'm surprised at you! That is our own little Gladys singing!

Fond Parent—Oh!

Visitor From Rock Island Who Is Visiting Friends and Relatives in Butte.

Clark's splendid barn, an affair of similar spirit was given as a barn-warming. It was, from the joyous masculine standpoint of those in attendance, a great success.

The affair tonight is to be given in compliment to the Overland Minstrels and not improbably some startling histrionic specialties by the guests of honor will delight the assemblage.

Anxious wives and solicitous families are assured that the guests will be returned early, quite early, to their homes, and in the best of repair. The big laden with lunch baskets, went out early in the afternoon and were joined in the evening by a number of masculine friends, among them being Messrs. Will Larkins, Will Greene, Henry Mills, Worth Olman, Henry Rosenberg and Albert Johnson.

The young folks danced the evening away.

Mrs. Charles' Complimentary Whist.
