ITALIAN GAMBLERS RAIDED BY POLICE

NICE QUIET LITTLE GAME OF ANTE BROKEN UP BY ABRUPT ENTRANCE OF OFFICERS.

MEADERVILLE IS SCENE OF SUCCESSFUL FORAY

Wild Excitement Prevailed When Coup Was Made, as Interesting Jack-Pot Was About to Be Opened—Men Are Lodged in Jail and Will Await Trial Indulging in a Game of Chance.

Constables Cosgrove and Shea are making a reputation for themselves in the raiding of gamblers. Not content with bagging Chinamen, they have undertaken to corral the Italians of Meaderville. Last night they raided a quiet little place at the smoky suburb of Butte and arrested three Italians, who are charged with the heinous offense of playing poker with cards, chips and money, against the statute made and provided.

The names of the gentlemen who were landed in the scow net of the constables are Saultito Fernando Toloski, Rinaldo Faro and Tomaso Gardoni. Shea and Cosgrove relate that they took the defendants flagrante delicto in an absorbing game of poker, the American national pastime with cards.

No Two-Bit Affair.

When the constables raided a Chinese gambling den night before last and arrested five chinks for playing Chinese fan-tan, they secured $133 in money. Last night the Italians yielded the neat little sum of $116.40, showing that the game they were playing was no two-bit ante, petty larceny affair, but a respectable sort of battle of the wits for dollars.

The Italians were captured in a quiet little resort, with a back room and a few lights. They were enjoying themselves right, and there was a jackpot which had been on the boards four times round when the raiders interrupted by the raid. The excitement was growing intense, and the raid proved a great disappointment, one of the players having just drawn two kings to open, and was sure he was going to get another, while another had three jacks and an ace and was sure to fill.

The sports were too engrossed with the play which was opening to realize their arrest till the constables had ratched in the money and the cards and chips. There was a napkin full of these charming toys, which were turned over to Under Sheriff McGuigan with the money and locked in the sheriff's safe.

Registered a Kick.

When the Italians realized what had happened and how the jackpot was spoiled, there was a time of wild excitement for a while, and only the coolness and composure of the brave arms of the law saved a riot with desperate results.

"Sapristi! Colombo! Sacramento!" yelled the man with the two kings.

"Death to the constab. Diablo keel a heem. Makhadio. Seva meclion devils!" howled the holder of the jacks.

And the rest of the party frothed at the mouth and shed spaghetti from every pore. But they were brought to the jail and a charge of gambling placed against them.

Constables Cosgrove and Shea seem to have inaugurated a war against the gamblers, and some Russian Finns will probably be the next victims of their strong arms.

DEATH WAS DUE TO ACCIDENT

Coroner Renders Verdict in Case of Victim at the Bell Mine.

Coroner Johnson and a jury last evening investigated the circumstances of the death of John P. Gleason, who was killed Tuesday by a fall of rock in the Bell mine. A verdict of accidental death was returned. The witnesses were John J. Barry, deputy inspector of mines; John Higgins, superintendent of the Bell; James Murphy, one of the shift bosses at the property, and Michael O'Connor, Peter Shea, Jerry O'Neil, James Tracey, Charles Hamner and George Burns, miners. The testimony showed conclusively that the accident was unavoidable.

The funeral of the dead man took place from his late residence, No. 613 1/2 North Wyoming street, at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and was largely attended by those who had known Mr. Gleason during his life. The body was taken to St. Patrick's church, where mass was celebrated, after which it was consigned to a grave in the Catholic cemetery. There were many handsome floral tributes.

BIER IS COVERED BY FRESH ROSES

JOSEPH GALLOWAY'S CASKET, LYING EXPOSED AT UNDERTAKER'S, VISITED BY FRIENDS.

MADE MANY IN TWENTY YEARS HE TOILED HERE

The $31,000 the Old Man Saved in the Course of His Two Decades of Hard Work and Abstemious Living, Will Go to Relatives in California, Unless a Will is Found—Relatives Claim Body.

Although Joseph Galloway had no relatives in this city, he was not entirely forgotten by his old friends when he was laid out dead on a cold slab at the rooms of the Montana Undertaking company. After the body had been embalmed for shipment to California it was placed in a neat casket and exposed to the view of those who had known Galloway so well during the 20 years he had spent in this city. The casket was covered with flowers and they were not arranged in ordinary designs. There was one bunch of sweet peas that nearly obscured the top. Then there were roses and pinks woven into appropriate tributes. Among those who sent flowers were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lavell, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. McDonald and the employees of the Lavell livery barn, with whom Galloway had associated for years.

The body was shipped to California yesterday and was accompanied by George Howson, a relative, who came from the coast a few weeks ago to visit Galloway. There is about $34,000 in cash in Clark & Bro.'s bank in the name of the dead man. It is money he saved from his wages while working as a transfer man for Thomas Lavell. It took him 20 years to save it.

Just Twenty Years Ago.

He entered the employ of Mr. Lavell in April of 1882 and up to the time he became ill about six weeks ago never lost a day. It was his business to convey the trunks of passengers back and forth from the depots. His duties compelled him to do a great deal of lifting. So accustomed had he become to handling trunks that he could shoulder one weighing 30 pounds and pack it up three or four flights of stairs without an effort, notwithstanding the fact that at the time of his death he was 53 years old. He practically lifted himself into the grave, but he would not let go, even though advised to do so many times. Shouldering heavy trunks was the larger part of his daily existence and had he been deprived of the pleasure before he was taken sick, the chances are the old man would have collapsed sooner than he did.

He leaves relatives in California and the money on deposit to his credit will go to them, provided there is no will. It is believed he died intestate.

COMMISSIONERS REJECT CLAIM CITY HAS ON THEM FOR BACK FINES AND THE FUR WILL FLY.

DISREGARD OPINION OF THE COUNTY ATTORNEY

Base Their Claim Upon Opinion of Former Attorney General Nolan and Use Reasons of Legal Weight to Back Up Their Position—Present Bill to City for Joint Maintenance of Pest House.

Litigation between the city of Butte and Silver Bow county may be the next thing on the program. The county commissioners yesterday rejected the bill presented against the county of Silver Bow for $5,630.53 by the city, upon the claim made against the county for back penalties, forfeitures and fines.

The bill was presented quite a while ago, and not long since the commissioners returned it to the city with an account for about $1,000, which the county claimed to have expended for the use and benefit of the city in maintaining the pest house for their joint benefit.

It was thought that if the city would allow the bill for the money expended by the county in maintaining the pest house, the county would pay back the money claimed by the city for fines, penalties and forfeitures, but the commissioners finally decided to reject the bill of the city.

A short time ago the commissioners received an opinion from County Attorney Breen to the effect that the claim of the city was good, and that he advised its payment. But the commissioners go back to opinions rendered upon the same matter by Attorney General Nolan and the state examiner in 1897, in which the latter take the position that the city's claim is invalid.

Disregard Breen's Opinion.

The commissioners rest their rejection of the claim upon the opinions named, and disregard Mr. Breen's views in the premises.

The city's claim is for its alleged share of forfeitures, fines and penalties collected by the county upon taxes in the years from 1890 to 1901, inclusive, amounting to the sum named.

The county collected the fines and so forth on the city's share of the taxes, as well as the county's share, and the money was placed in the county general fund.

The city claims that the fines and so forth collected on the city's shares of the taxes should have been paid over to the city.

Attorney General Nolan and the state examiner who had office in 1897, both take the position that the law commands that all forfeitures, fines and penalties collected by the county shall be placed in the general fund of the county. The attorney general quotes Section 4015 of the political code as authority for his opinion.

The commissioners give the following reasons for rejecting the city's bill, and are prepared to resist a suit in the courts:

Commissioner's Reasons.

"This bill is disallowed for the following reasons:

"First—In accordance with the opinion of Attorney General Nolan, dated Helena, Montana, April 3, 1897, stating in effect that all fines, forfeitures and penalties incurred by a violation of Section 4015 of the political code, should be paid into the general fund of the county for the use of the county.

"Secondly—In accordance with the letter from the state examiner, dated Helena, Montana, May 12, 1887, notifying all county treasurers that all fines, forfeitures and penalties incurred in violation of Section 4015 should be credited to the general fund of the county for the use of the county.

"Thirdly—For the reason that the bill, as presented, is wrong, because the percentage figured is far beyond what is right."

CAMPAIGN TEXT BOOK ON PARTY

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE ISSUES VOLUME OF MATTER TO BE USED ON STUMP.

ATTITUDE OF TWO GREAT PARTIES ON ALL ISSUES

Credit is Given to the G. O. P. for the Isthmian Canal and for Policy Which Saved China From Dismemberment—Quotations From Speeches of Roosevelt and McKinley on Important Topics

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, August 7.—The republican text-book for the campaign of 1902 has been issued by the republican congressional committee. The book, which is in pamphlet form, containing 380 pages, makes liberal quotations from the speeches of both McKinley and Roosevelt, and also extracts from their messages to congress in support of the republican doctrine, and reviews the record of the republican party from its beginning to the present time. Under the heading "Protection and Prosperity," 81 pages are devoted to the big commercial combinations now under universal discussion, and in opening the discussion the book thus describes the positions of the two parties:

"The attitude of the two great parties on the trust question is clearly defined. That the democratic party looks to constant agitation, with no restrictive legislation; that of the republican party to such restrictions as will prevent arbitrary advance in prices or reduction in wages through exclusive control, but not the destruction of legitimate enterprise, through the great manufacturing systems, by which production is cheapened, prices of manufacture reduced and permanency of employment assured."

Record of the Party.

Following this is the record of the republican party on the trust question, mention of the Sherman anti-trust law, McKinley's recommendations proposed legislation by the republicans, and a quotation from Roosevelt's message to the Fifty-seventh congress, which is described as "conservative and fearless." The assertion is made that the share of trusts in business is comparatively small. The book says:

"The trusts have not occupied a significant place in the manufacturing industries as they have in public discussion."

Further along it is asserted:

"The republican administrations of President McKinley and President Roosevelt have made a good record in their efforts to execute the anti-trust law. There has been no shirking of duty because of the powerful financial influence behind the trusts. These two republican presidents have recognized no man or corporation as above the law. The assertion also is made that "free trade England is the home of trusts."

Policy as to Islands.

Ninety-five pages of the publication are devoted to the Philippines and the republican insular policy, which includes the early stages of the acquisition, the conduct of the army, declarations from prominent people that the Philippines are not ready for independence, and a large portion of Admiral Dewey's testimony before the senate Philippines commission, in which he gave his opinion of Aguinaldo. President Roosevelt's Declaration day address, so far as it refers to the conduct of the soldiers in the Philippines, is quoted entire. There is also some discussion of trade with the insular possessions.

More than 20 pages are given to the discussion of the gold standard, and an outline of the republican party's record on financial questions.

A chapter is given to diplomacy in the Orient, and a declaration is made that "President McKinley's policy saved China from a dismemberment."

The declaration by the late Amos J. Cummings, "When I refuse to protect the lives of American soldiers, I hope I shall be paralyzed," heads a chapter which declares that the "democrats oppose army appropriations."

Reference is made to the repeal of the war taxes.

Credit is given the republican party for the Isthmian canal.

Considerable space is given to Cuba, and it is asserted "that the ground work of a republican form of government was laid by the United States under a republican policy."

From McKinley's Speech.

Liberal quotations are made from President McKinley's speech at Buffalo. Reference is made to republican efforts to revive the American merchant marine. The Fifty-seventh congress is referred to as "a distinctively business congress," and the principal acts of that congress are mentioned, especial reference being made to the new policy in aid of reclaiming the arid lands of the West. The republican party is asserted to be the friend of the old soldiers, and the pension laws it has enacted are enumerated. The claim is made that rural free delivery is due to republican legislation and administration.

In the closing pages of the book is a chapter entitled "Democratic Harmony." Reference is made to the Tilden club dinner, there being a quotation from ex-President Cleveland's speech and the comments of William J. Bryan and Henry Watterson upon it.

The book is intended for the use of campaign orators, and is designed as an exposition of republican policies generally.

National Organizer is Recipient of Testimonial in Shape of Gold Watch.

James J. Gorman, national organizer for the Knights of Columbus, a branch of which was recently established in Butte, has been signally honored by his many friends in the city.

Mr. Gorman is carrying a very handsome gold watch, the gift of the boys of the Butte council. Ever since Mr. Gorman has been in town his friends have been bent on giving him a good "time."

Robert E. Dove, the 18-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Doyle, living near the big butte northwest of the city, died today. The funeral will take place tomorrow.
