AN ELEGANT CIGAR STORE
Costly Fittings, Finest Goods, Billiard and Pool Parlor Attached.

Nothing marks the enterprise of Butte merchants and their confidence in the city's stability and in the certainty of its growth than the elegance of the Schilling Cigar company at No. 51 West Park street.

The fittings of the place are rich, handsome and of a style calculated to appeal to man's taste for the beautiful.

In the front on the left is the magnificent long plate-glass cigar case, from which peeps forth in pleasing, tempting plenitude, the numberless brands of sweet smokes always on hand at Schilling's; on the right is a similar case for candies, where the dainty confections, so dear to milady, are invitingly displayed; while directly in the rear of the candy case is one devoted to the exhibition of pipes.

Of course the fine trade of the Schilling store would be satisfied with nothing but the choicest, most select goods and that the customers are catered to in this regard and also that they appreciate the advantage of a concern carrying really high-class merchandise, is testified by the very large trade enjoyed by the store.

An elegant dark-wood partition surmounted with potted palms, just to the rear of the cigar department, divides it from the splendid billiard and pool parlor of three of the newest style and best tables.

Back of the billiard and pool parlor are several nicely furnished card rooms, where many an exciting game of slough has served to pass a pleasant evening.

This model establishment has been opened but a short time, the Shillings having moved there from a few doors west in order to obtain quarters sufficiently large to enable their being fitted in a style commensurate with their rapidly-growing trade that will have the best.

MEIN HERR LOUIE ASKS PROTECTION
SAYS MRS. SIMON PURSUES HIM DAY AND NIGHT WITH EPITHETS AND UNKIND WORDS.

LOUIE CANNOT ESCAPE HER, GO WHERE HE WILL
He Used to Work for Her, but Has Gone Over to a Rival Firm, Whence, So He Says, Arises Her Animosity—Appeals to County Authorities, Who Advise Him to Make Record Run.

Benjamin Louis Wilson, a smooth-faced young man, who is too young to rightfully know what care is, declares that he is pursued by a woman who abuses him and calls him names and is seeking to provoke him to a fight. The name of the woman so pugnacious and aggressive in the estimation of the beardless youth who makes the charge against her is Mrs. Yetta Simon, the wife of Solomon Levy Simon, who runs a store where goods are sold on the installment plan. Bennie Louis made his complaint to Deputy County Attorney Lynch today, against combatative Mrs. Simon.

"What does she do to you?" the official asked.

"She stops for me on the street and calls me down. She is looking for me to do her something so she can have me arrested yet," Bennie Louis, the beardless and intimidated replied.

Has it in for Louie.

"What did you do to her?"

"Nodding. I haf vearked for her, and I sued a friend of hers. She has a crudge against me."

"What has she done?" the attorney asked.

"She stops me on the street and wants to call me a bum and a tramp," the youth replied.

"Well, I suppose you can run away from her," the official said, sententiously.

The young man explained that that was his usual course, but that he was not certain what Mrs. Simon would do next, and therefore desired to have her checked before she adopted some more unpleasant method of attack.

He works for L. Breslin, and his business is to peddle or solicit for the sale of goods for Breslin on the installment plan. Breslin is a competitor of Solomon Levy Simon and his wife, the pugnacious, Wants Him to Work for Her.

"She wants me to veark for her, but Breslin gifts me a better chance," Louie Bennie remarked.

The friend of Mrs. Simon's whom he sued was Sam Shiner. He attached Shiner, and that, coupled to his refusal to work for Mrs. Simon, accounts for her animosity, he thinks. Louie is about 20 years old and of slim build, which should enable him to escape Mrs. Simon easily, since she is probably fat and unable to get much of a move on.

He said that whenever she stops him and begins to make a noise, a crowd flocks up and that is a matter of annoyance and embarrassment to him, from which he escapes by sprinting away.

Told Louie to Persevere.

The deputy county attorney told him to keep up his old tactics, as they are proper in the premises, and to cultivate a quick eye and quicker feet, so that he might apprehend the approach of Mrs. Simon in good season and flee before her with such dispatch that she would be unable to get in one word on him.

Mr. Lynch also told him that if Mrs. Simon did not have done with persecuting him something would be done to her, and he went away much encouraged.

YOUNG SUMMERS SUMMERS BENEATH THE BLUE SKY
Youthful Wanderer Haled to Police Station Bears Up Bravely Under Queries.

Adolph Summers, 13 years old and ragged and hungry, was arrested in South Butte this morning on general principles and taken to the police station to await the consummation of arrangements for sending him to his home in Montpelier, Idaho, from which he strayed about a month ago.

Although in a dilapidated condition the little fellow bore up bravely under the sweating he received at the station and did not say he was sorry for the nomadic disposition he possessed. He told all about himself, saying among other things that he had worked for a dairyman named John Kuntz in Anaconda, but the dairyman had made it so unpleasant for him that he could not stand the pressure.

From one of his pockets Jailer Levy extracted a deck of well-worn playing cards and a package of cigarette paper, showing conclusively that in his leisure moments he had played solitaire and puffed great clouds of smoke into the atmosphere.

Adolph told the jailer he was hungry and the latter provided him with a warm breakfast from the Southern hotel.

HEILBRONNER BUSY DODGING BOUQUETS
LITTLE BOOKLET GOTTEN OUT UPON COLUMBIA GARDENS REFLECTS CREDIT ON DOLPH.

Handsome souvenirs are in increasing demand.

Good Thing to Send Back East to Let the Folks "to Hum" Know What Sort of a Place We Have Out Here to Go to and Ennui of the City's Bustle. When We Are Weary of the Noise.

Dolph Heilbronner, assistant manager and press agent of Columbia Gardens, is meeting with numerous congratulations these days. The bouquets are coming his way, and he hasn't muffed one yet.

It is all because Dolph has succeeded in getting out one of the brightest, breeziest and best booklets that ever graced a tourist's collection of souvenirs of other lands.

Butte people are familiar with the beautiful pleasure resort. They have enjoyed the treat of stealing from the sulphur-laden atmosphere of the city and the twice-breathed air of the office to that little Eden in Horse Canyon, where the fragrance of flowers, the restful emerald of the grass and the ripple of the little brooklet that winds its tortuous way down the gulch, greet the tired senses.

To Give Others an Idea.

But to their friends in the East or the casual visitor in the city, all this is a revelation. They cannot realize that within a few miles of the city, that is to the nature-lover a weary waste of materialism, there is situated a little park that would do justice to one of our beautiful cities of the South.

It was for the purpose of giving others an idea of one of Butte's many paradoxes, that the little book was prepared. With characteristic Butte pride it was gotten up regardless of cost and the result is an artistic and literary gem.

Forty pages of cleverly-written material, entertainment as well as information, are profusely illustrated with half-tone reproductions of views in and around the Gardens. Though it is only a few days from the press, the demand for the book is something wonderful. At the hotels particularly there is a steady call for the little souvenirs. As the price is only nominal, not quite covering the cost of getting them up, the bookstores find a ready sale for them.

"I have been promising to tell the folks back East something of Butte and of our only pleasure resort for some time," said a lady today, "and I dreaded this letter writing, which takes time and does not always give satisfaction. Here's my chance to do what 10 letters could not do. I'll send them a few of these booklets instead."

VIOLETION OF THE FAST DRIVING LAW CHARGED
Mrs. Gertie Quigley and Mother Alleged They Were Run Down and Hurt by a Milkman.

On complaint of Mrs. Gertie Quigley, of No. 711 South Wyoming street, a warrant was issued from the police court today for the arrest of J. Schamberger for violating the ordinance relating to fast driving within the city limits.

Mrs. Quigley stated that while she and her mother, Mrs. James Killen, were crossing Wyoming street early this morning, Schamberger, who is a dairyman, drove his horse towards them so rapidly that in attempting to get out of the way her mother fell and struck her head against the curbstone with such force that she was rendered unconscious. The horse, she said, did not strike the aged lady, but would have done so had she not jumped to one side.

Mrs. Killen lives on a ranch near Parrot and came to the city yesterday to dispose of some vegetables raised on the ranch. At the time of the accident she was on her way to an up-town-barn to get her team preparatory to returning to the ranch. A physician was called to attend her and he gave it as his opinion that she might be injured internally.

VOLSWINKLER HAS ONLY A DIM IDEA
ISLAND CITY, ORE., MAN WRITES TO COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ABOUT CHILD AND DEAD WIFE.

DOES NOT KNOW FOR SURE WHETHER SHE DIED HERE
But, If She Did, He Is Willing to Pay Her Funeral Expenses and Would Gladly Receive Any Information Concerning the Whereabouts of His Daughter—No Record of Such Death.

Oswald Volswinkler of Island City, Oregon, desires to repay the county of Silver Bow for burying his wife some time in the past, but he hopes the bill will be modest, and that her clothes and her "papers" will be forwarded to him and any information that the county commissioners may have of his little daughter be transmitted to him at the same time. The wife of Volswinkler, according to his letter received by the commissioners today, was named Carrie Oswald Volswinkler, and her daughter's name is Geraldine Oswald Volswinkler.

Volswinkler apparently does not know when his wife died, and neither do the commissioners, and evidently he has been out of touch with affairs concerning both wife and child for some time.

An Interesting Epistle.

His letter is an interesting epistle, revealing that Volswinkler is a poor speller of the commonwealth's English and is rather misty in his ideas of what happened to his wife and child. The letter is as follows:

"Island City, July 31, 1902. Mr. County Judge, Dear Sir:

"I would like to ask you for a favor, that is, My wife did in Butte City, I expect to have to pay the County funeral expenses, I hope you will not make it to heavy for me, my wives name was M. Carrie Oswald (Volswinkler) I hope that you will send me all the paper what she had and the Cloths, is the little girl in Butte City her name is Geraldine Oswald (Volswinkler) I herd she is into Sister Schoolhaus, I cand find here nowhere hope soon answer.

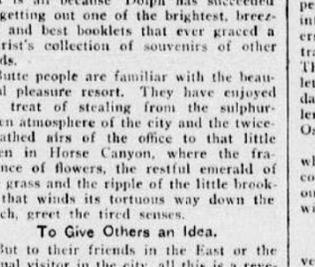

"Respectfully, Oswald Volswinkler Island City, Union County Oregon."

No Record.

There is no record of the death or the burial by the county of Mrs. Volswinkler that the commissioners or the county clerk can find. If she died at the poorhouse her name would be found in the record of the deaths at that institution, but it is not there. It may be that the undertakers of the city, one or another, will remember something about the death of Mrs. Volswinkler or have a record of her burial.

Anybody who knows anything about the matter will oblige the commissioners very greatly by furnishing them with the desired information. The commissioners will be pleased to forward a bill to Volswinkler if they can discover what he owes the county. They will also be pleased to transmit any information concerning his child that may come to them, and the papers and clothes of the deceased lady if these still exist and there are no other claims on them.
